The schooner Ann T. Sipper went to pieces on Ocracoke beach. — The editor of the Pull Mail Gazette continued his testimony in the Armstrong abduction case. — A mail panic in Pittsburgh, on account of the sailors strike. — Knights of Labor are on a strike in Galveston, Texas. — In Virginia the Democrats elect their Governor by two-thirds, and have the Legislature by two-thirds; in Connecticut the Democrats gain a number of members of the Legislature. — Mahone charges gross frauds in Virginia.

Mr. Tilden helped Hill to the tune of $2,500.

The French wheat crop of 1885 is not so large as it was in 1884 by some 4,000,000 hectolitres.

At Elizaj, Georgia, there is an alleged witch and there is great excitement among the negroes.

The Marquis of Hartington professes to believe that the Liberals of England will triumph in the election.

De Lesseps proclaims that he is extremely sanguine as to the profits of the Panama Canal. It will cost twice over what it cost to construct the Suez Canal, but it will earn three times as much.

In the notice of the burial services of Mr. Muse an error occurred that needs correcting. For "the last of our late associate," &c., please read, "the body of," &c. There was another error of less importance.

Lord John Manners, Postmaster General, was not allowed to speak at Leicester by the opposition. A free fight followed and many heads are reported broken as well as chairs. We do things better in this country.

The U. S. Minister at St. Petersburg brings charges against E. G. Van Riper, U. S. Consul at Moscow. He has been suspended. He has been caught in some disreputable transactions and his own letters are in proof against him.

Mr. Gladstone has written a letter in which he disclaims any purpose to dis-establish the Church of England. He says it is a question of the future and it is for others to deal with it and not for him. He is about 76 years old or more.

The President is supposed to be a man of great tenacity of will, and having made up his mind to hold it in defiance of all argument and all opposition. But it has leaked out that he has more than once changed his purposes and yielded to clamor. He has been forced more than once to abandon men of his choice to the managers of men. Gen. McClellan was a case in point, as is mentioned in more than one Northern Democratic paper. The Boston Post says: "He was the first man determined on by President Cleveland for a place in his Cabinet. His character and his services, as well as the great injustice which had been done him appealed strongly to Mr. Cleveland, who desired to be the means of righting the wrong by making General McClellan a prominent feature in public life. But the wrangling of New Jersey politicians prevented the appointment and he visited the inauguration at Washington a quiet, modest spectator."

Mrs. Langtry is not what she seems. Her husband was rich and they lived in their Jersey home in great comfort. He had a large income. At last the Duke of Bedford discovered her attractions. He reported the "find" to the Prince of Wales who visited her in her island home. Then trouble began. She appeared in London society under the Prince's favor. The style of living absorbed the means of Mr. Langtry. A financial crash came after awhile and the husband said that they must retire and live on a small income. The spoilt beauty, so-called, refused to go and said she would go on the stage. The husband remonstrated and finally told her that he would never live with her again if she did. Then she ran off to the Continent with Sir George Chetwynd, under assumed names, and travelled and lived together. When she came back the doors of society were closed. When she came to New York they were closed because of the scandal. She openly says she loves Sir George. Such is the account given in a column article by the New York correspondent of Charleston News and Courier.

Our telegrams this morning indicate Democratic gains everywhere. In New York the contest is very close, with the chances, we think, in favor of Governor Hill. Virginia is estimated to have gone Democratic by about 20,000, and the Legislature is Democratic by two-thirds. In Connecticut the Democrats gain a number of members of the Legislature. Altogether the news is very encouraging.

We knew a Methodist to spend two days in the country at a farm house. There was a singular absence of chickens and "chicken fixings." The lady said to him, "You know the old story—that when a Methodist preacher comes to a house the chickens all flee and go to roost." The reply was, "That probably explains why no chicken has appeared on your table in two days."

Help the Poor.

The President of the Ladies' Benevolent Society requests us to state that there is a great deal of poverty and suffering in our midst at present, and that the Society is totally unable to alleviate the distress on account of a lack of the necessary funds—it now owing, within a few dollars, a sum of money doubtless the amount on hand. The Society appeals to our citizens to aid it in the work of helping the poor and needy; and as cold weather is coming on, much suffering must be expected from this cause unless those of our community disposed to "lend to the Lord" are forthcoming in their contributions, which we hope will be very liberal. The Ladies' Benevolent Society has done an untold amount of good in our city in relieving the wants of those in need, and as the members have the best opportunity of aiding out and knowing who are really worthy of help, we think those desirous of contributing to them can best do so through the Society.

TRIBUTES TO DEPARTED WORTH

Charlotte Observer.

We regret to learn, as we do by telegraph from Wilmington, that our old friend and former companion in the Wilmington journalistic field, Mr. Joel H. Muse, local editor of the MORNING STAR, is dead. In his disposition he was very quiet and unobtrusive, and was careful to never needlessly wound the feelings of any one. He was a clever reporter and a most excellent man, and in his death the people of Wilmington, and the readers of the STAR in general, have sustained a loss that will be felt for some time. We sorrow for his departure, and yet we can but feel that he has entered into the land where no troubles harass, where toil is unknown, and where the day never ends.

Raleigh Visitor.

The death of this gentleman, which took place in Wilmington on Friday afternoon last, will cause deep regret among his many friends throughout North Carolina, and especially in Wilmington, where he is so favorably known, both as a journalist and in the private walks of life. At the time of his death he was in the 64th year of his age. A beautiful and touching tribute to his memory appeared in the Wilmington STAR on Saturday last.

Goldsboro Argus.

Oypress festoons the sanctum of the Wilmington STAR, and there's a cry on the door. One of the staff, Mr. Joel Hutchins, sleeps in death. We shall miss his clever style of serving the news, and his many cheerful sketches. A good man and an esteemed journalist has passed away. We sympathize deeply with our contemporaries in its loss. The STAR paid a beautiful and touching tribute to his memory in yesterday's issue.
