VOL. XXXVII.--NO. 50.

WILMINGTON, N. C., FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 20, 1885.

WHOLE NO. 5981

There is a threatened revolt in the 49th Congress. There is a movement to distribute among the various committees of the House of Representatives many of the bills heretofore acted upon by the appropriations committee. The proposed measure s advocated by tariff reformers generally and lovers of liberal appropriations. Other committees think that they should have a voice in naming the sums needed in the interests of which they respectively have charge. Members are arriving already in Washington. The Federal city has a peculiar fascination for

The following may be regarded as choice reading for the times. We clip from a readable column of gossip dished up in the Richmand (Va.) State:

"McBride thinks that after all the requirements of diplomany do not amount to much. He writes to the Cincinnati Enquirer to the effect that ex Goy. Jarvis, of North Carolina, who represents the United states at Brazil, writes from Rio Janeiro that he is taking lessons three times a week in the language of the country. "The class," he says, "is composed of the old waman and myself, and the old woman is all the time at the head of the class, and consequently I am at foot. So I am a schoolboy again. I know you would laugh you could see me reciting my lessons and hear the teacher correcting me. And what makes it worse, the old woman keeps away ahead of me and helps to correct

Charming, absolutely charming!!

Mr. Gladstone has made a third sampaign speech in Scotland. It was at West Calder and the enthusiasm was great. He began by saying:

"I have heard complaints since the pasland the increase in representation in Parliament is inadequate. This is not my fault. The whole Tory party opposed the proposal, but I was still able to secure a resemblance to what in my opinion should be the Scotch proportion. Dealing now with local administration I can say that if the Scotch people in the future make a demand for extended measures for local government the demand will be duly considered.'

Senator Allison, of Iowa, is opposed to absolute suspension of silver, but would not object very much to a "temporary suspension," He

"I doubt if a majority of the House would agree to stop the coinage altogether, or to suspend it indefinitely, so as to require further legislative action before coinage could be resumed. I do not believe that at present we are in danger or losing our gold if the coinage is continued, or that gold will, in the near future be at a premium at the present rate of coinage. In other words, we can use a considerable amount beyond our present coinage without endangering a full gold supply."

- Asheville Citizen: Hon. R. P. Dick, who is an elder in the Presbyterian Church, occupied the pulpit of that church Sunday evening, and delivered not only a learned, but a most interesting and insructive discourse, on the text, "Love thy neighbor as thyself."

- Rockingham Rocket: There are thirty-two brandy distilleries in Stanly county, and yet Stanly is called an unprogressive county. — The sheep killing dogs are still on the rampage. We learn that Mr. Mark Cole's flock was raided on Sunday evening last and several fine sheep

- A young woman and her brother have been arrested and bound over to court for slandering a young lady in Cabarrus. Several letters were dropped about reflecting grossly upon her. Finally a letter was tacked to a tree at Organ church. A hundred men bound themselves to ferret out the matter. There was great excitement says the Concord Times. - New Berne Journal: The Defiance left yesterday evening with a good cargo of cotton and naval stores. — The Jones county poet, Mr. Furniford McDaniel, is dead. - The Shenandoah took out a full cargo of cotton yesterday even-Mosaic legislation declars that the and Beaufort Canal Company was held at he Gaston House in this city yesterday. Marshall Parks, Esq., in the chair and H. W. Page Secretary. It was decided that the canal should be opened for traffic by the 1st of December and no tolls to be charged until the 1st of January, 1886. - Greenville Reflector: A fight occurred in the lot back of the Club House on Saturday evening, in which one man was seriously wounded with an axe. It seems an old feud had for some time existed between two men, R. L Nichols and Bill Faithful, and they met near the Club House Saturday evening and began quarrelling. Faithful picked up an axe from a woodpile and attempted to strike Nichols when Bob Faithful, brother to Bill, ran between them to interfere with the fuss and received the blow on his head that his brother had intended for Nichols.

- Goldsboro Argus; A number of citizens of this Boro' embarked on a hunting expedition on Tuesday last, the 10th inst., and returned on Saturday, the 14th.
The result of their venture, or adventure, whichever you may determine it, was 200 squirrels, 258 partridges, 22 opossums and 1 deer. — The neatest thing we have ever seen in the way of badges are those just re-ceived by the Carolina Music House Band. They are of blue silk, fringed with gold bul-lion and surmounted by a diminutive cornet of plated brass. Upon the silk are the words, in gold letters, "Carolina Music House Cornet Band."

- Shelby Aurora: Mr. T. A. Wadsworth has a perfect curiosity in the shape of a white ground squirrel, which he bought from a citizen of Watauga. The little fellow is nearly two years old, perfectly tame, and as white as white can be. He is an Albino, and his eves are pink. Last week was a sad one in the family of our townsman, Mr. James A. Watt. for within five days the Angel of Death claimed three of its members, including the father of the family. In the latter part of the week before one of the daughters, Harriet Louise, a bright little girl of thirteen years, was taken with diphtheria and died Tuesday morning. In the meantime several other members of the family contracted the disease, and on Thursday night Mattie James, aged six years, died. All this time Mr. Watt himself was lying critically ill with the disease. Anxlety and grief added to the ravages of the disease, and on Saturday morning he breathed his last.

- Concord Times: Mr. A. J. Blackwelder tells us that on last Saturday morning about daybreak he saw in flames the barn of David Hompton, Esq., who lives near Concordia church, in Rowan county, just above Enochville. It is known to be the work of an incendiary, but the perpetrator has not as yet been discovered. The entire contents of the barn, except the stock were destroyed. - On Monday night of this week, the 16th inst., Mrs. 8. Pemberton, of Albemarle, was sitting by a table in her room reading a letter from her husband, who was absent on a trip North, Her three little children were playing around her, when it is supposed one of them accidentally knocked the lamp from the table. It exploded, and in a moment Mrs. Pemberton's clothing caught fire and her screams soon brought to the cene Mr. T. J. Jerome, who was in his room up stairs. Dr. Anderson simply said to him that she was very badly burned. One of the children was burned slightly, and Mr. Jerome's hands quite severely.

- Charlotte Observer: At Mr. C. J. Fox's gun store (formerly Keuster's) yesterday afternoon, William Oxenham, one of the clerks, was accidentally shot in the hand and painfully wounded. He was handling a revolver. - Senator Z. B. Vance arrived in the city yesterday morning, and is at the Central Hotel. He will remain here until Friday, when he will leave for Henderson, where he will be joined by Mrs. Vance. He has an engagement to deliver a lecture at that place on the evening of the 23rd inst. - We understand tha a petition is now being circulated for sighers, asking Gov. Scales to commute the death sentence of the two burglars sentenced to be hanged in this city, to imprisonment for life. The petition was presented to Capt. Strickland—for the burglary of whose residence the negroes are to be hanged—and he very properly refused to sign it — Capt. June Gardner, one of the cleverest railroad men in the State, and a well known conductor on the Carolina Central Railroad, has entered suit against the Monroe Enquirer for damages by reason of the publication of a joke that has caused his ritends to carry pills to present to him when they chance to meet him.

- Raleigh News-Observer: The funeral services of the late Donald Campbell will take place from the First Presbyterian Church at 11 o'clock this morning. Mr. Campbell came to this country in 1832 from Scotland to work on the present capitol building, and is the last of the stone cutters who assisted in erecting that edifice who settled in this section. — The Attorney General of the United States has appointed R. B. Peebles, Esq., of Northampton county, to be Assistant District Attorney for the Eastern District of North Carolina, and the appointment is to be commended in every way. — There has been much talk in these columns, and vigorous talk too, about Wake jail. The County Commissioners, despite all the row the condition of the jail has raised, do nothing. Apparently they do not care. There are thirty-seven prisoners in jail, eight of whom are white. Six weeks ago the prisoners mutinied and being in the corridor refused to go in their cells. Last evening they did the same thing. The prisoners on the lower floor behaved most outrageously. Two of them, John Morgan and Farnsworth, negroes, were apparently ring-leaders. They are both under sentence to the penitentiary. Deputy Sheriff Rogers called on the police for aid to get the men n the cells County Commissioner J. C. S. Lumsden went to the jail at his request. A detail of policemen under charge of Maj.C. D. Heart; was present This was composed of Officers Llewellen, M. Thomson, G. M. Jones, J. D. Thompson and Matt. Moore. Deputy Sheriff James Robers and Jailor Kinion Jones were present. The prisoners refused to go into the cells and close the doors. The levelled barrels of half a dozen pistols and one shot fired made them "take water" and go in. Morgan swore loudly that in two hours and a half (it was then 1.15) they would all break out. The attitude of the officers was most determined. and great trouble was probably averted.

Mr. J. W. Jannett, a former citizen of Wilmington and who it will be remembered spent some months here last winter, looking after several cargoes of guano for which suits were brought by parties from the North, has written a long letter to Secretary Bayard, in which he says he made a contract with Samuel C. Sloan and Samuel K. Schwenk, of New York, and E. Lucien Ritchie, of Philadelphia, to work a mine and ship guano from the island of Roncador, in the Carribean sea, to the United States. On May 23, 1884, having been fitted out with three months' provisions and water, twelve men and a cook sailed with two vessels for the island. The parties mentioned above were to assume all the responsibility. They furnished everything. The laborers were hired for six months from their arrival on the island, but were to be paid in three months. On arriving at Roncador island the men proceeded to get out the guano and load the ships. The ships sailed away and the men kept on with the work, expecting that the vessels would return as soon as they could go to the United States with their cargoes. Three months passed, and the vessels did not return. The provisions were nearly exhausted, and what remained were full of maggots and weavil. The men began to fish and gather a few eggs, but they suffered greatly from want of water The island is a barren and rocky one, without water. By one means and another they finally managed to live for seven months, when Mr. Jannett decided to take a small yawl, the only boat they had, and to sail away to Aspinwall,

The horrors of this trip can be imagined, when it is known that they had no compass or other maritime instruments, and the sail of the yawl was rotten. Two young men volunteered to accompany Mr. Jannett. They sailed on Dec. 20, and on Jan. 1, 1885, they arrived almost dead in Aspinwall. In Aspinwall Mr. Jannett chartered vessel and took food and drink to t destitute men. He found them more dead than alive, but they were nursed and cared for and finally restored. Mr. Jannett then took 'out three cargoes of guano and sent them to Wilmington. E. L. Ritchie & Co., put in a claim for the cargoes. Mr. Jannett arrived here on March 14, and was immediately laid up with rheumatism for four months, from the effects, as he says, of the terrible exposure in the yawl while sailing from Roncador to Aspinwall.

two hundred and fifty-six miles distant.

Several of the men who originally went to Roncador are supposed to be still there if they have not died from exposure and starvation. Mr. Jannett charges Sloan, Schwenk and Ritchie with the crime of marooning, and asks that they be prosecuted for said orime. He also asks that a war vessel be sent to rescue the men. The matter was referred to the Navy Department, and Commodore Walker has ordered the Powhattan, which is stationed at Aspinwall, to go in search of the distressed men. It has also been referred to the Attorney General to decide whether the parties mentioned shall be prosecuted for ma-

The Rice Market.

Both New Berne and Goldsboro claim to be the best market for rice in the State. The Goldsboro Messenger says "we are assured by gentlemen who deal in rice that the Goldsboro market is the best in the State for this commodity. The market price here is from 90 to 95 cents per bushel. This is from 5 to 10 cents higher than the Wilmington market."

In the New Berne market, the Journal of that city says, "for several days rice has sold for as much as $1 06 per bushel, including sacks. We notice the quotations in the STAR range from 80 to 90 cents for upland in Wilmington. Whether the rice sold here is of better quality, or whether our buyers are more anxious for it, we are unable to say."

Wilmington rice dealers are of the opinion that these were probably exceptional lots; that the prices paid in Wilmington are as high as anywhere else, and say that for fancy lots of upland rice even as high as $1 20 per bushel has been paid here. Our revised quotations for uplands are 80 cents to $1 00 per bushel.

Sudden Death. Mr. Wm. Lynch, the well known tailor, died suddenly in his room over his shop on South Front street at an early hour yesterday morning. He had recently experienced great difficulty in breathing at times, and was thought to be suffering from heart disease. Coroner Jacobs, with Dr. Potter, viewed the body, but an inquest was deemed unnecessary. Mr. Lynch was a native of Ireland, but had lived in Wilmington some thirty or forty years. He had no relatives so far as known in this

For this prize there was a tie between Messrs. Boney, Haney. and President Green -each having made the magnificent and unparalleled score of seven goose eggs out of a possible seven. After two rounds, this tie was brought to a close, Mr. Boney and Mr. Haney each making a killing shot, and President Green sticking to his goose eggs with the tenacity of a leech.

The contest being over, President Green presented Mr. Grant with the silver cup, and Richard received it with becoming modesty. Mr. Waliln then presented President Green with the leather medal, which was pinned to the lapel of P. G.'s coat amid the hearty plaudits of the enthusiastic assemblage.

A suggestion that Mr, Grant offer his cup to the worst shot at the next regular match was rejected with seorn by the win-

The Lecture To-night.

Rev. T. M. Ambler, one of the ministers of our city, is to deliver a lecture to-night at the Hall of the Wilmington Library Association, on one of the themes of the times, "Spiritualism." The lecture is given under the auspices of the Library Association, and the proceeds will be partly received by it and partly by the Rev. Mr. Ambler, to aid him in the erection of his proposed new church.

Mr. Ambler for himself deserves to have large audience, and the laudable object for which the lecture is to be delivered but increases the reasons for a large patronage. The Library Association ought to be encouraged in its every effort to benefit, interest and instruct.

Peck's Bad Boy. The Atkinson Comedy Company will give this musical comedy in the Opera House here Monday evening next. The New York Graphic says in a notice of a performance by this company :

"It is ridiculously absurd, but it is so cleverly presented that the most confirmed cynic is compelled to surrender to the laugher provoking doings of the various characters in the piece. The house was crowded last night, and the generous ap-plause and hearty laughter evidenced the favor with which it was received.

Mayor's Court.

A negro man who said his name was Geo. Williams, was brought up in the City Court yesterday. He said he was arrested the night before at the W. & W. Railroad Depot, where he was found stowed away in the smoke stack of an engine which was on a flat car for transportation South. He said that he was anxious to get back to Petersburg, Va., whence he came, and a policeman was sent to escort him beyond the city limits in that direction, with a warning not to return.

Death offmr. J. K. Brown.

Mr. John Kent Brown, city surveyor, and well-known as a civil engineer and real estate agent, died last night at his home in this city after a prolonged sickness that had for months almost entirely incapacitated him for business.

Mr. Brown was a native of Bladen county, was about fifty years of age and had a large and influential connection throughout the Cape Fear section.

Opera House. Last night concluded the engagement of Miss Myra Goodwin's troupe at the Opera House here, and the audience were again delighted with the charming rendition of the comedy. Sis was of course the centre of attraction. She sings well, she dances better, and she smiles in the most winsome of ways. Mr. George Richards is an exceedingly clever comedian, and kept the louse in roars of laughter.
