EVENING EDITION

WEDNESDAY EVENING, DEC. 30, 1885

THE GOVERNMENT TELEGRAPH. The proposition now before the Congress to let the Government take control of all the telegraphs in the United States is sure to be popular in the North where centralizing ideas prevail and where the Union of States is regarded as a Nation in the sense that Austria or France is a na tion, and in the South with that class who talk of abandoning all ideas of reserved rights of States, who are o the Col. Sellers school of politicsare strong for "the old flag and an appropriation"-and who are positively happy at the prospect of hav ing the Federal Government to use the rod in the public schools of the States because it proposes to pay the teachers for the most part.

If those who oppose such evil and dangerous tendencies will only abandon the old Constitutional principles and restrictions and shout lustily with those who are blowing and bellowing for Paternal Pedagogy and will abandon for all time the grand old principles of Jefferson, Jackson, Calhoun and Black and accept in stead the theory of Hamilton and Marshall and Story in ten years there would be a consolidated Government that would be as strong as any limited Monarchy.

The Government telegraph system is only another stride in the direction of centralization. After securing this additional patronage, the next step will be to control all of the railroad systems. With the schools, telegraph, railroads, postoffices, al subject to the control of the Government, we shall then have the newspapers next under Government surveillance and then a State Church and we shall have Russia at our doors. He is indeed a very blind man, if he has any intelligence, who cannot see the drift of the times and discover dangers lying in the way of the Ship of State. It is easy enough to pooh-pooh alarms that are given and to play the part of general care-nothing, but the observant and reflecting men who have seriously studied the theory of the American Government and know the difference between the conflicting theories of the founders, feel sincerely and profoundly alarmed when they perceive the trend of public thought and the encroachment upon the States by Federal power. There are some few educated men in the North who see the dangers and who fight centralizing tenden. cies. But they are, unfortunately, not numerous. Since the peerless Jerry Black, full of years, orowned with honors and bearing the confidence and reverence of all true men. passed away there has been no great expounder of Constitutional princi-South, where you would naturally able that very grave consequences

The age, the hour looks for some great leader, some man of lofty intellect and profound culture, with intense convictions and burning enthusiasm, who will stand on the walls of the Constitution and rally around him its defenders. As long as Southern men, in order to secure Government help for this and that are willing to make the organic law a nullity -a rope of sand-an attenuated thread-a mere finest strand of cocoon silk-then there can be no bulwark of defence, and no breakwater against the incoming tide of centralization. Oh, for a grand leader of great intellect and noble motives and ardent zeal for the right-some strong, simple man, .

Who never sold the truth to serve the

Nor palter'd with Eternal God for power. We are glad to see that the Boston Post, although favoring Paternal Pedagogy, does not favor the Government Telegraph. It does not however, oppose it on the safe and sound ground of epposition to centralization, but because there are already enough public servants and the Government already has more business enterprises than it ought to have. The STAR opposes all such aggressive schemes upon constitutional grounds and because they are destructive of the autonomy of States and tend to a Strong Government. Any measure that lessens local self-government and undertakes to do for the people what they can best do for themselves is usurpation, is antagonistic to the genius of republican institutions, and is in contravention of the theory and practice of the fathers.

AN ENLIGHTENED IRISHMAN'S DEMAND.

most gifted and famous of living

Irishmen. His historical work-"History of Our Own Times"-18 very clever, very entertaining, very graphic and has had a great success. He is a member of Parliament and one of the ablest and best furnished of the Home Rulers. He favors the plan of giving home rule to his country as has been given already to twenty one others of the British dependencies. He asks that Ireland shall have legislative powers "proportional to the powers given the American States under the Federal Constitution." This does not state the fact correctly. The Federal Government is the creature of the States and has only such powers as were granted by the States, they retaining to themselves all the powers not granted. Mr. McCarthy says that he would be willing to see Ireland ruled by its own Parliament, under a royal governor general. He asks for no army, navy, nor foreign policy; says that minority rights in Ireland would be as safe as in England, and that it was absurd to suppose that Mr. Parnell's co-religionists would be the first to suffer by Irish liberty. On the important question of the right to levy a tariff on English manufactured goods, he says frankly that he believed Ireland ought to have this right, but that he, as a free trader, should always oppose its application. He avers his belief that home rule would cause a sudden revival of activity in Ireland, and prove a blessing to the whole Union, cementing friendships and obliterating all unkind feelings. This may not appear extreme, and we would be glad to see Ireland in full possession of all that is asked. But is it -probable that all of these powers will be granted? Will England agree to clothe Ireland, that is but three hours from its coast, with such great powers as shall enable it to create a tariff that may be inimical to the interest of England? The Irish Protestants, or many of them, are very much opposed to a Free Parliament for Ireland, believing that they will be oppressed and afflicted by its legislation.

PRANCE AND ITS PRESIDENT.

The very best thing that could have happened to France under the circumstances is the re election of M. Grevy as President for another term of seven years. His ability and moderation give something of a guarrntee of permanency to the present form of government, which is really neither republican nor monarchical, but a hybrid embracing some of the features of each. If he ples left in all this land. In the had been defeated it is not improbwould have followed as the Radicals | love that last through all the ages, THE LATEST NEWS. in the Chamber of Deputies have a majority. Under this word are included several extreme factions opportunists, anarchists, etc. From the Baltimore Sun we clip a paragraph that throws some light on the situation. It says of the vote upon M. Brisson's management of the Tonquin campaign by which the Ministry came very near suffering a

"The radicals admit that they supported M. Brisson last Thursday merely in order to save the government from falling into a minority on the eve of a presidential election, but announce that they will not sup-port the new government. They do not, they declare, wish themselves to take office now, and if they did, and could muster enough moderate allies to form a majority, their programme of legislation is so extravagant, not to say alarming, that the friends republican government in Europe would have everything to fear from their success. It is not to be supposed that the monarchists, whose strength was vastly augumented at the last elections, will fail to make the most of the quarrels and blunders of their

But the re-election of President Grevy will tend to strengthen very much the Moderates as nothing succeeds so well as success. His Government will probably be stronger in the confidence of the country than before the Tonquin affair. It was thought that M. Brisson, the Prime Minister, would resign, but our dispatches of the 29th convey the intelligence that the President will not accept his resignation as the Ministry, in the estimation of his allies, did not suffer a defeat in the vote on the Tonquin credit.

FORTUNES IN TEXAS.

Cattle raising in Texas is immensely profitable. Colossal fortunes have been made and in a few years. We see it mentioned that E. C. Sougg is put down for $1,250,000, and yet only a few years since he was a poor boy. Another "cowboy" is A. W. Pierce. He owns one pasture that is sixty-four miles in length. An account before us says:

"Senstor N. C. Collins, who did not have a picayune when he arrived in Texas. is now worth $1,000,000, all of which was made in stock-raising. L. B. Harris, who was also a poor man when he went into the business of raising cattle, now owns one ing 65,000 acres. George W. West owns one pasture containing 125,000 acres, has over 20,000 head of cattle, and considers a check for $100,000 a mere mite out of his great fortune. H. H. Campbell is worth $2,000,000 in land and cattle. Major Sayers, John N. Simpson and H. H. Overall have each acquired more than a million doilars in the cattle industry. Ex-Senator Lane, a native cow boy, and C. C. Slaughter, count their wealth by hundreds of thousands, while Richard King has one tract of 650,000 acres of land, another of 40,000 acres, and many smaller tracts "

There are hundreds of smaller stock-raisers who are successful. The life is hard, full of self-sacrifice, is some times attended with danger. but pays. The road to fortune in Texas thus far is in cattle raising. There is one North Carolinian who has a ranche and is doing fairly well. He promises to be quite rich after a few years. He roughs it and is cut off from all desirable associations and civilizing influences. He has been in the cattle business for some six or eight years. He went from Granville county.

That was a very impressive gathering at Atlanta when three bundred correspondents of the Constitution assembled as the guests of that paper, their expenses being met by the proprietors. It is of course a splendid advertisement for the Constitution, but it is a sufficiently noteworthy event in Southern journalism to merit special mention. Who the fifty correspondents from North Carolina are does not appear. Georgia is far ahead of all Southern States in offering a field for journalism. Its dailies would be a credit even to the rich, populous and thriving business centres in the North. The Savannah News-an excellent daily-publishes as much matter probably as any paper in Philadelphia. The Press is the only paper that begins to print as much. It gives a great deal more than any paper in Baltimore, and more than several of the New York and Boston dailies. Then Atlanta, Augusta and Macon have large and prosperous papers, whilst the Evening Times, of Savannah, is good enough for a morning paper in a

CURRENT COMMENT.

-- People who know Henry James are not surprised at the revelation of empty mindedness made by "The Bostonians." Henry James has sentiments, but no emotions. He has probably been in love, after a fashion, some twenty or thirty times. These are not epochs in his life, but merely spasms. He does not know the serious side of a woman. He never penetrates beneath the feminine mask. He talks with a young girl wirh the purpose of discovering her intellectual vagaries, and when he has played upon her he thinks he has found the depths of her nature. Henry James cannot write about a great love, because he cannot conceive it. He has heard of it, and probably in the books of the great masters he has enjoyed the stories of just as all of us enjoy them. But Henry James's knowledge of woman-hood is gained from the artless prattle of very young girls, and he is en-titled to the distinction of being most capable of inspiring the prattle. How little he knows the human nature of which he has assayed to write may be judged from the remark which he made to a clever and astonished woman a year or two ago, to the effect that he was strangely out of material. And this was said by a man whose life has been spent in failing to understand the richness and variety of the material he has been unable to properly use. -Boston Post, Dem.

-- Students of the currency problem should not forget that the amount of money needed for the uses of the United States has increased fabulously within twentyfive years. A quarter of a century ago a millionaire was a rarity. Now a bank account of a million dollars is not an uncommon thing. Then the money of the masses was lent to savings banks, and thence returned at once to the channels of trade, Chicago, for instance was a town of hundred thousand inhabitants. Now it has nearly 700,000, with safety-deposit vaults sprinkled all through the business district, and new ones building. The sums of currency lying dead in these vaults must be enormous. The Government itself has this miser's mania, and holds two hundred and sixty millions-nearly the whole greenback issue! The country has expanded into the Great American Desert of our new-world mythology. These new phenomena must be considered in commenting on our currency supplies. When that have been done, it will be found there is a money famine .- The Current.

THE ARCHITECT OF RUIN. A Direct Result of the Protective Policy.

N. Y. Star. Dem. We agree with the Tribune in wishing that our United States manufacturers could get a large share of the money about to be spent by the Argentine Republic, but we have no hope that our people will know any such good fortune. We have no trade with that republic because the policy which the Tribune's party has fastened upon our country does not permit it to trade. Trade is really the exchange of the goods produced by one country for the goods produced by another country, and about all the part money plays in the transaction is to settle the balances.

In this particular case but a small portion of all the money borrowed will ever be handled by the Argentine people. The loan is to be made in London. Machinery and railroad supplies, instead of cash, will be shipped from England, while the interest on the bonds and the principal will be paid, not in money, but by Argentine products shipped to England. The wages of the laborers engaged in the various improvements will be paid in cash, and this will be about all the money used. It is folly to talk of the United States competing with England so long as the Tribune and its party have sufficient power to resist the removal of the tariff system which now prevents us from trading with the people of any other country. Throw down that stupid barrier and we shall have trade, and that will bring back our shipping.

A protectionist paper should ashamed to own that while from forty to sixty steamships arrive at Buenos Ayres every month, not one arrives there from this country, whose share of the enormous commerce of the River Platte is less than it was a century ago.

This is the direct result of the protectionist policy. The Republican party is the architect of this ruin.

WORTHLESS WORRY.

Wilson Mirror.

Some people gather all the briars and thorns and nettles for a hundred yards on each side of their pathway. and pile them up in steep and mountainous-like heaps before their footsteps, only to make life's journey more difficult, more toilsome and more perplexing. And these same people will begin to jump and jump and jump before they get within a hundred yards of a ditch, and expend and waste so much needless effort and worry; and it is frequently the case after jumping so hard they find that the hedge line which indicated the existence of a big, deep dangerous ditch was nothing more than a little ravine, and that a single step would place them on the other side. So, reader, don't go out of your way to collect troubles, and for your own peace and comfort don't try to jump over a difficulty until it is right before you.

.SILVER.

Lynchburg Advance. The speech of Senator Beck the other day upon the silver question is very highly complimented by most of the press, and deservedly so, we have no doubt. He will also be complimented and thanked by the great mass of the people of the country outside of the gold centres. A Washington correspondent says that Senator Beck "has given this all-important question the deepest study and consideration, and will be regarded as one of the ablest and staunchest friends that the silver men will have in this Congress," and that the subject of silver promises to be one of the leading questions before Congress this winter.

EDINBURGH, Dec. 30.-A terrific snow storm has prevailed throughout Scotland. A railway train, headed by three engines and two snow plows, is imbedded in the snow in county Caithness. All of the roads are blocked. LONDON. Dec. 30 .- Six hundred bales of cotton, which had been discharged from the British steamer Bedouin, at Bremen, from Sayannah, have been badly burned at the wharf.

CAIRO, Dec. 30.-A dispatch from Kaseh says: Lieut. General Stephenson, commander of the British forces in Egypt, who recently arrived here with large reinforcements, attacked the rebels, who had been menacing the garrison several weeks. A three hours' fight ensued, resulting in the British troops capturing Geniss, a village near Kaseh. The rebels were completely routed, and the cavalry are pursuing the enemy. Two guns and twenty banners were captured. The English lost one officer killed and twenty-one wounded. The Egyptian allies of the British lost six killed and thirteen wounded.

Eruption of the Volcano of Colima-The People Greatly Excited.

[By Telegraph to the Morning Star.] CITY OF MEXICO, VIA GALVESTON, Dec. 30.—Great excitement prevails in the State of Colima, over the eruption of the volcano of Colima. Four days ago loud reports were heard, and these were soon followed by eruptions of lava, which flowed over the sides of the mountain, completely covering them. At last accounts the people were much alarmed, as the flow of lava continued. A white eloud overhangs the mountain, and on it are, reflected the flames darting up from the crater.

The following letter from a well known West-ern ladvexplains itself and is worthy of carefu reading:

"I wish to say to the sick and those who are feeble and weak from any cause whatever, that in all the vocabulary of medicines they will find the most virtue and the greatest benefit from Parker's Tonic. I have been an invalid tor five or six veers past, and given up to die by the most Parker's Tonic. I have been an invalid for five or six years past, and given up to die by the most skilful physicians of Kansas and Colorado but Parker's Tonic has kept me alive, and raised me up after everything else failed. I have organic heart disease combined with spinal and great nervous debility, and have cold sinking spells with no pulse, and the only medicine that will bring on a reaction is Parker's Tonic. I have never known it to fail in curing a cold if taken in time, and it will relieve pain quicker than any remedy I have ever tried. I send you this because I would like for others to know how much good it has done me. It is just as good for children. Try it and be convinced."—MRS. D. SHULTZ, Louisville, Kansas. P. O. Box 92.
