

MORNING EDITION.

OUTLINES.

The Senate committee will recommend an appropriation of $150,000 for public buildings in Wilmington, N. C. The question of religious services in public schools in Pittsburg, Pa. is giving trouble. A railway ferry house, West 42d street, New York, burned; loss $75,000. J. Whitney has swindled bankers in Kansas City out of $14,000. A mob lynched the murderer of a Mrs. Groves at Henderson, Ky. Four inches of snow in Washington, D. C., and a heavy fall in Baltimore. Dr. Sam Price and Wm. Powell quarrelled over a bill of the doctors; Powell was shot and Price's skull crushed in the fight that followed. The remains of Col. Ashbel Smith, a veteran of the Texas war, were buried at Austin yesterday. N. Y. markets: Money 1 1/2 per cent.; cotton dull at 9 3/16 @ 9 1/2; wheat, ungraded red 87 @ 90; corn, ungraded 46 @ 50; southern flour steady; spirits turpentine steady at 41; rosin dull at $1 02 1/2 @ 05.

It is hinted that Mr. J. R. Tucker, of Va., has an eye to the Supreme Court of the United States. The very place for him.

Judge Tourgee is now lecturing. His theme is "A Story Teller's Story." In other words, the same old lie by the same old Munchausen.

Mr. Stead has left the London Pall Mall Gazette, or that paper left him. He is to start a new paper, one that he can control. He proposes to make things lively.

Mr. George D. Wise is receiving compliments all around for his capital reply to Boutelle, and he deserves them. Boutelle did not know the Virginian was loaded.

The very sprightly and newsy Philadelphia News has grown up to a circulation of 31,235. A year ago its circulation was 12,480. It is a decided success and deserves it.

The papers generally regard the Queen's little speech as decidedly opposed to the repeal of the Union and to favor a renewal of coercion. Age has not made the Queen wiser it appears.

The very latest from London is that Lord Salisbury will resign in three weeks. Ignorance and prejudice are in the way of a satisfactory adjustment of the difficulties. Gladstone is said to be making up his Ministry. But all this is premature, it strikes us.

Some of the silver men in Congress are talking of impeaching the Secretary of the Treasury for violating the plain law in the matter of silver. Representative Payson, of Illinois, thinks the silver men will have not less than one hundred majority in the House. The Senate is also overwhelmingly in favor of silver.

Steel rails have gone up from $27 per ton to $35, with an upward tendency. In England they are now worth about $24.50. Freight and charges to this country $4.50. So they could be laid at Wilmington or New York for say $28.50 a ton. Why should steel be worth $35 now? Is it not the tax? If not, then what? A railroad would pay $6.50 a ton extra to equip itself. Is not this something?

The staff correspondent of the Augusta Chronicle, Mr. Randall, whose letters are generally very readable, has gone into the record to show how silver was demonetized in 1873, by the Republicans by a trick. It must have been a trick when President Grant who signed the bill, wrote himself afterward that he did not know that silver had been demonetized. It was a regular piece of political jugglery that accomplished it.

At Cartersville, Ga., the house of United States Commissioner Aaron Collins was blown up with dynamite. An account in the Charleston News and Courier says:

"When the house was reached by the excited populace it was found to be tottering on its foundation, and screams could be heard for yards away. The gathering crowds rushed into the shattered dwelling and found Mr. and Mrs. Collins terribly frightened, but not fatally injured. Mrs. Collins was in convulsions and was carried to a residence near by. Since the reaction set in both are seriously ill. The entire town was soon aroused and an investigation made. The detectives have already located the perpetrators of the crime, the leader of whom is the notorious Tobe Jackson, one of the most daring moonshiners in Georgia. Jackson was recently tried for violation of the revenue laws before Commissioner Collins. At the time the trial occurred Jackson swore revenge against Collins."

The ladies of Lexington, Virginia, are making active efforts to erect a monument to the memory of General "Stonewall" Jackson. Mrs. Fannie Taylor, wife of Rev. Dr. James B. Taylor, both so well and kindly remembered in Wilmington, is one of the leaders in this most commendable movement. That one of the great military geniuses of America has no monument, although he has been dead nearly twenty-two years, is a positive reflection upon the people; and of Virginia and, indeed, of the whole South. "Stonewall" Jackson's wife was a North Carolinian and our people have, therefore, a special interest in this movement to erect a suitable monument to a grand Christian hero, patriot, soldier, and should also be a good work. Rev. Dr. Milburn has a very fine, a very strong lecture on Jackson. If he were employed by the Lexington ladies to canvass Virginia, delivering his eloquent and interesting lecture, a good deal of money might be raised for the monument fund.

Spirits Turpentine.

Cotton receipts at Raleigh to 31st January were 21,704 bales—a falling off of 6,709 bales.

Washington Gazette: Mr. C. A. Campbell planted 20 acres in cotton and raised twenty 450-pound bales. Mr. C. Denney will be a good year for the farmers in this section.

Goldboro Argus: Just think of 140 prisoners in our county jail, which is one of the smallest county prisons in the State. Its capacity is registered for accommodating eighteen.

Rocky Mount Talker: The force of the contractor of the Albemarle & Raleigh extension arrived here last Wednesday evening and will begin operations in earnest. Mules, carts, wheelbarrows and laborers in large numbers indicate that work will be rapidly pushed.

Goldboro Argus: Master Geo. Edgerton, while out gunning last Wednesday in the vicinity of Sandy Plains, a few miles north of this city, shot at a bird in the bushes near Mr. E. M. Denning's house, when the whole load took effect in the side of the house and several shot struck the eighteen months' old child of Mr. Denning, who was sitting in the open doorway, in the neck and face.

Greensboro Workman: The attendance upon the preaching of Rev. J. E. Mann, the new pastor of the M. E. Church, South, in this place, speak highly and quite justly, we think, of his pulpit efforts. Salisbury, N. C., Jan. 23.

Fire broke out in the night at 10 o'clock this morning, destroying depot and contents, together with Salsbury Woolen Mills, gas house and several freight cars. Origin of the fire unknown.

Tarboro Southerner: W. A. Jones, of Bethel, made an assignment last Thursday, with E. E. Eyrum assignee. Liabilities $15,000, assets $10,000. The grave of Gen. Lewis D. Wilson, on the James L. Battle farm several miles from here, is in a very unsightly condition. The marble grave stones have fallen in.

The New York Herald says it is as easy to make a city (on paper) in Florida as the falling off the log act. We commend this to some of our ambitious North Carolina journalists.

Raleigh Visitor: Yesterday the Board was in session again. During the morning the Industrial school question was under consideration. It was finally agreed to set aside $5,000 for fitting up the school to be disbursed as soon as it may be established. Upon the question being put the Board decided to postpone the matter indefinitely. It was decided to establish the State experimental farm near the fair grounds. It will consist of twenty acres, to be tendered by the city of Raleigh for the purpose and an additional ten acres to be purchased by the Board. A trained superintendent will be placed in charge of the farm.

Weldon News: The willow used for manufacturing purposes is the oster or white willow and is cultivated in various places in the United States. It is also largely imported. There is some of this species of willow growing on the farm of Mr. J. N. Smith, of Scotland Neck. About twenty-five or thirty years ago a steamboat capitan came up the river and gave Mr. Smith a twig of oster willow which he stuck into the ground. He paid no attention to it whatever in the way of cultivation, but now there is a large quantity of it growing on the place, having spread considerably. It proves conclusive that this species can be successfully grown on the Roanoke.

New Bern Journal: We are pleased to see that many Northern visitors are visiting New Bern this winter. An interview with a large majority of our merchants reveals the fact, that notwithstanding the cry of dull times heard in many quarters the trade of New Bern during the last year has increased from 25 to 50 per cent. over that of the year before.

The publishers of the Family Enterprise with commendable zeal send out a paper this week notwithstanding the destruction of their office and press by fire last week. Such earnestness on their part should be appreciated by the people of the county. The editor, Mr. Ohio, has gone North to make arrangements for another outfit, and his paper is expected to appear again soon in a new dress.

Charlotte Observer: Mr. A. W. Davenport, one of the oldest citizens of Gaston county, died at his home near Mt. Holly, yesterday, aged 75 years. He was a member of the Legislature of 1850 and 1851. One of our city plumbers estimates that the damage to water pipes in Charlotte by the late freeze amounts to fully $300. The worst break was at the fall, where every pipe burst. Upon the arrival in this city last night of the passenger train on the Charlotte, Columbia & Augusta road, the conductor of the sleeping car telephoned up town for a physician, stating that a passenger occupying a berth in the sleeper was very ill and probably dying. Within half an hour after the train the man was dead. His name was Henry Hill, and he was a citizen of New York. He was a young man, not more than twenty years of age, and was not married. He had beside Augusta, Georgia, on some business matters.

Father Gross, pastor of St. Peter's Catholic Church in this city, has gone to visit his brother in Oregon, and expects to extend his visit until this in the summer.

Washington dots: Senator Vance will call up his bill to repeal the civil service act and make a speech in his favor. But his object is to make a thorough examination of the subject, and to this end he will defer his remarks for several weeks.

Col. Green, who has been indisposed for several days, is confined to his bed today. Leave for one week was extended by the House. Mr. Johnston's bill for the relief of Judson Female College, provides only for an appropriation of $500 to pry for damages done the building by Federal troops at the close of the war.

Raleigh News-Observer: Col. William J. Clarke, of New Bern, died yesterday morning at his home in that city. He was about 64 years of age. He was born in this city, and has relatives here, Mrs. Julia C. Fisher being a half-sister. He resided here for many years and lived for a time at New Orleans and afterwards in Texas. He was Captain of a company (recruited in North Carolina) of the 12th U. S. Infantry during the Mexican war, and in a number of battles showed conspicuous gallantry. He was in the service of the State during all the late war, and removed to New Bern about 1868. He was appointed a Judge of the Superior Court. He leaves a wife and three or four children. His wife, Mrs. Mary Bay-ard Clarke, was Captain of a company in literary circles. Colonel Clarke himself was a graceful and vigorous writer.

Yesterday $3,000 in 6 per cent. N. C. R. R. construction bonds were issued from the State Treasury in exchange for old ones. The schedule on the North Carolina and Western North Carolina railroads is anything but satisfactory to the public. One can go from Goldsboro to New York in eight hours; yet it requires about thirty hours to go from Goldsboro to Asheville.

David Hare, the negro wanted for perjury and who was recently captured at Clarksville, Va., was brought here yesterday and lodged in jail. Of the 608 registered voters of Durham 300 have signed a petition asking the county commissioners to order an election on the prohibition question.

The Wilmington Star facetiously terms Raleigh a town. It was from its birth a city, having been incorporated as such. (Yes, that is the way "cities" are made in North Carolina, but they are getting rather numerous. Some English travellers about 1872, were in Raleigh. After strolling about they returned to the hotel. One said: "We heard that Raleigh was a city and behold it is a wilderness." STAR.)

Cotton receipts yesterday 425 bales.

The receipts from the Kellogg concert last night were between seven and eight hundred dollars.

Messrs. Alex. Sprunt & Son cleared the Swedish barque Mary yesterday for Genoa, Italy, with a cargo of 950 bales of cotton, valued at $40,900.

Two women—one white and the other colored—were before the Mayor yesterday for disorderly conduct on the streets. They were each fined two dollars and costs.

An alarm of fire was given yesterday afternoon about four o'clock that caused a stir among the boys. It turned out to be false—caused by the wires of the fire-alarm telegraph getting tangled in the branches of a tree that had fallen.

Each night this week, excepting Saturday, Rev. Mr. Hoge will preach at 8 o'clock in the lecture room adjoining the First Presbyterian Church, the sermon to be followed by short devotional services. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Capt. B. Patrick, master of a small schooner lying near the foot of Wooster street, fell into the river during the progress of the fire at that point yesterday morning. Some of the Hook and Ladder boys fished him out with a long pole and saved him from a watery grave.

Superior Court.

The second week of the term of this court began yesterday, when the following cases were heard:

W. M. Bruce vs. W. H. Bernard; motion for a new trial. By consent of defendant's counsel the motion was granted, and it was ordered that the plaintiff file a justified prosecution bond on or before the first day of the next term, or the case will stand dismissed.

P. Cumming vs. J. W. Taylor. Continued.

C. B. Wright and Alex. Oldham vs. City of Wilmington. Continued.

The following will be heard to-day: Beverly Scott vs. Wilmington & Weldon Railroad Co., Messrs. Russell & Ricard and M. Bellamy for plaintiff, and Messrs. Geo. Davis and Janius Davis for defendant.

Same To-Night.

All the articles now on hand and which were not disposed of at the Fair recently held by the ladies of the Temple of Israel, will be raffled off this evening at half-past eight o'clock, at Concordia Hall, opposite Front street market house. There are some very pretty and useful articles in the collection.

OPERA HOUSE.

Miss Clara Louise Kellogg.

Wilmington paid this cultivated and gifted lady the rare compliment of as large and excellent a house as was possible on last night. The prima donna showed her appreciation of this fact by responding to several encores. The entertainment was refined and elegant and was very much enjoyed throughout. Miss Kellogg has been before the musical world since 1860, when she made her debut. She is a high soprano. She has really an engaging face and is wonderfully preserved. She is bright, cultivated intellectually, and is a refined lady. That admirable theatrical critic, Richard Grant White, described her in 1882, as she appeared a few years before when in the very flower of her vocal gifts as "the most distinguished artist that any one of the United States had yet given to the lyric stage." He farther described her as a "high-soprano, very clear, very pure, very fine, close and firm in quality and capable of the most exquisite delicacy and tender inflections." Those who heard her when she was in her meridian splendor of song will bear witness to the accuracy of Mr. White's description. We heard her in Ford's Opera House, Baltimore, in March, 1873, in opera, and she was supremely fine, as it seemed to our un-critical taste and uncolored ear. She then had a most certain intonation, a most delicate and pure execution, with a vocalization that seemed flawless—full, flexible and sweet. Her pure womanhood and her great gifts, guided by a fine and bright intelligence, gave her fame and fortune in this country and in Europe. Whilst she is still capable of producing fine artistic effects and her vocalization is yet at times very charming, candor compels us to say that her gift of song is not what it was. There is a rift in the flute. She is not the great prima donna of 1873. And yet this is a graceful task. We would much rather say that on last night she sustained her high reputation among famous singers. Much that she sang was greatly relished, and some of the simpler airs that she gave were delicious, especially "Away down on the Swannee River," which we never heard better rendered.

Miss Pauline Montegriffo, contralto, gave great pleasure to the audience and was most rapturously applauded and encored again and again. Miss Ollie Torbett is a girl of some sixteen, with sweet artless manners, and her performance on the violin was really very remarkable for one so young and a girl at that, and she affords the great promise of becoming in the years to come a violinist of very distinguished excellence. She won the good opinion of all and the bald heads and gray heads rivalled the boys in the enthusiasm of applause. She too was encored more than once.

Mr. Ross David is a clever tenor and sang with expression and melody that secured for him very hearty encores. Mr. Francis H. Noyes is a baritone, and he was especially effective in the "Yeoman's Wedding Song." The pianist and musical director, Adolph Glose, pleased the audience very much. In fact, we do not remember to have heard a pianist in Wilmington who gave such general satisfaction, although there may have been his superiors for aught we know. We write as we think, without pretending to any special qualification in this line of criticism. We say, therefore, we liked his touch exceedingly and thought his execution markedly brilliant and dashing. We are pleased to know that he is an old pupil of our respected townsman, Prof. VanLaer.

We suppose that all who pretend to any musical culture whatever will agree with us in the opinion that the concert was a delightful feast, in which taste and refinement presided.

The piano used was a fine instrument of excellent liquid treble.

Personal.

Mr. Plat D. Cowan, Auditor of the G. & L. R. R., Georgetown, S. C., was in the city yesterday.

Capt. R. H. Paddison is back from Florida, and was in town yesterday.

Mr. Carl Strakosch is in the city to make preparations for a performance to be given in Wilmington on Monday night, February 1st, by the Max Strakosch English Opera Company. They have fifty-five people in the company and twelve in the orchestra. Seats will be on sale Thursday.

Among the arrivals at the Orton yesterday were Wm. Rich, Baltimore; N. J. White, Chas. H. Waltz, Charleston; M. Van B. Kahnweiler, New York; J. E. Figford, E. S. Figford, Duplin county; W. H. Haynes, J. Gordon, W. Bradley, N. Y.; J. L. Spencer and wife, Miss Clara Spencer, Connecticut; W. P. Sam, Goldsboro; Jas. G. Mitchell and wife, Glasgow; Mrs. Welldridge and child, Ontario; E. Huntington, Iowa; R. W. Whitehurst, Norfolk; Eugene Reedy, Savannah; M. M. Harris, Charleston, S. C.; Jas. D. Pope, Jr., Charleston, N. C.; E. Howard, New York; H. Greentree, New York; P. D. Cowan, N. C.; Carl Strakosch, New York; T. J. Peyton, Richmond; F. L. Dorch, Goldsboro; Frank Strauss, Fayetteville.

Public Buildings.

The Senate Committee on Public Buildings decided yesterday to report favorably bills making appropriations for public buildings in a number of places, among which is Wilmington, N. C. for which an appropriation of $150,000 is recommended.

The two-masted schooner T. S. Parker, Von Kleist, from New York for Moequitoe Isle, Ga., put in at Smithville Sunday, leaving, and with loss of gaffs. She will come up the river and repair damages.

Weather Indications.

The following are the indications for to-day.

For the Middle Atlantic States, warmer weather with local rains, generally followed by fair weather, winds becoming variable, preceded in northern section by northerly winds, falling barometer.

For the South Atlantic States, light local rains, generally followed by fair, warmer weather, northerly winds, becoming variable and rising, preceded in extreme northeastern portion by falling barometer, and again followed in southern portion by falling barometer.

Incendiary Fires.

The two fires just before daylight yesterday morning gave the boys of the Fire Department a great deal of trouble. They were occupied about the same time and were widely separated—one in the northeastern part of the city and the other on its southwestern limits. Both were undoubtedly of incendiary origin. The alarm was first given for the fire on the corner of Tenth and Mulberry streets, about five o'clock. It was a disagreeable morning to turn out—even for a fire; but the boys rallied promptly and went vigorously to work to stay the progress of the flames which had already destroyed the store of Mr. Fred Kleia and were fast devouring his dwelling. A part of the building was saved, but the store and its contents and nearly all of Mr. Kleia's household effects were burned. He had insurance on the buildings amounting to $350, and on his stock of goods amounting to $150.

While the firemen were engaged in efforts to subdue the flames here, another alarm was given. Some of the firemen remained to finish the work they had begun, while others, with hose reels and steamers hurried to the scene of the second fire, the bright glare from which illuminated the sky. This fire was located in a large shed at the foot of Wooster street, used for the storage of spirits of turpentine. The building and its contents were destroyed, the latter consisting of fifty barrels of spirits, belonging to Mr. F. W. Hicks and Messrs. C. S. Love & Co. The fire spread rapidly to the wharves and the rosin yard adjoining on the south, occupied by Messrs. Paterson, Downing & Co., and here its further progress was stayed by the firemen. Messrs. Paterson, Downing & Co., had between 3,100 and 3,200 barrels of rosin and 120 barrels of tar burned; besides a small shed and tanks. Their loss is estimated at $3,500, which is fully insured. The spirits of turpentine burned was also insured. The loss incurred by the burning of the shed and wharf is about $1,500, upon which there is no insurance. The shed burned had been repeatedly set on fire, as it was, doubtless, yesterday morning. It was formerly a part of the Union Distillery, which was destroyed by fire about a year ago; the shed being the only building saved on that occasion.

Installation Ceremonies at the First Presbyterian Church.

The installation of Rev. Peyton H. Hoge as pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, took place yesterday morning. A large congregation assembled in the spacious edifice to witness the ceremonies, which were solemnly impressive. The services were opened with prayer by Rev. Dr. Marable, and after the usual exercises, concluding with prayer by the Rev. J. M. Rose, a sermon on the duties and obligations of the pastor and his people to each other was delivered by Dr. Marable. On the conclusion of the sermon the usual questions were propounded to and answered by the Rev. Mr. Hoge, and the questions asked of the congregation were answered by the members rising from their seats. Dr. Marable announced that the Rev. Mr. Hoge was duly installed as pastor of the church. Rev. Mr. Rose then delivered the charge to the pastor, in a most touching manner, after which the Rev. Mr. Primrose charged the congregation as to their obligations to their pastor.

A New Atlantic Coast Line.

A special to the New York Tribune says that James W. H. T. Fenton, E. A. Gaskill, James McManes, John Bardsley, W. H. Goodwin and R. M. Evans, all of Philadelphia, compose the syndicate who recently purchased the Jamesville & Washington Railroad. They will at once begin relaying this road with new fifty-pound steel rails, and will run two trains a day from Jamesville to Washington. They are also interested in the New York, Philadelphia & Norfolk Railroad. They contemplate making running arrangements with the Norfolk and Western Railroad, and to apply for a charter from Buckland, in Gates county, to Jamesville, and from Washington to Goldsboro, and from thence on to Wilmington. This is a fight on the Atlantic Coast Line.

THE FLORENCE NIGHTINGALE OF THE NURSERY.—The following is an extract from a letter written to the German Reformed Assembly, at Chambersburg, Penn.: A BENEVOLENCE. Just open the door for her, and Mrs. Winslow will prove the American Florence Nightingale of the Nursery. Of this we are so sure, that we will fetch our "Sunny" to say, a blessing on Mrs. Winslow" for helping her to survive and escape the griping, coughing, and retching stage. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup relieves the child from pain, and cures dysentery and diarrhoea. It softens the gums, reduces inflammation, cures whooping cough, and carries the infant safely through the teething period. It performs precisely what it professes to perform every part of it—nothing less. We have never seen Mrs. Winslow—know her only through the reputation of her "Soothing Syrup for Children Teething." If we had the power we would make her, as she is, a physical saviour to the infant race. Sold by all druggists. 25 cents a bottle.
