EVENING EDITION.

WILMINGTON, N. C.

BRING THE MATTER TO A PRAC-TICAL TEST.

The Raleigh Chronicle publishes large number of letters relative to what is known as Civil Service Reform. We have not read them and do not know what opinions the various correspondents hold. We suppose it would not be difficult but troublesome to obtain five thousand letters from sound, intelligent voters in opposition. The STAR has expressed its own convictions as to reform, and the kind needed, many times, and it is not about to enter upon its discussion again. The STAR believes in in Democrats. If the organ of the Administration in New York city, the Star, is to be trusted, Mr. Cleveland believes himself in turning out "the rascals." At any rate the Star has an editorial in defence of the supposed dilatoriness of Mr. Cleveland in the matter of getting rid of "offensive partisans." It says:

"The Administration was inaugurated 4th of March last. We will allow it thirty days to prepare for work. From the 3d o April to the 1st of January there were 222 working days, during which 15,000 fourth class postmasters were removed and others appointed in their places. This is at the rate of sixty seven a day, and, giving ten hours to the day, at the rate of about seven an hour—or a removal and an appointment for every nine minutes of time."

The Star thinks that the Administration is "going on at an excellent and inspiring gait."

This is doing better than was supposed. But will not this be offensive to the organs of sentimental politics This paper believes as much in real, genuine, unmistakable reform as the sentimental advocates believe. The difference lies just here: they believe it is immaterial-not at all important -who holds the offices, Republicans or Democrats. The STAR believes it is very important to the best interests of the country that honest, capable, efficient Democrats should fill all of the offices in the land. They should leave all partisanship behind and regard public office as a public

Mr. Cleveland has been seriously annoyed and hampered by the Civil Service law, and the struggle between him and the Republicans in the Senate could never have occurred but for this very unwise and unfair law. Unfair because it keeps the party mainly in power that has held office for a quarter of a century.

The Democratic party in 1884 decided at the polls that the Republican party "must go." But the sentimental reformers are now saying that they must not go. Not one voter in one hundred, we venture to say, ever thought of the humbug planks on Civil Service in the two platforms when they were voting.

talents, because they are so perverted to the use of bad teaching. But he is regarded in the North as a man of probity and veracity. He is a very pronounced Republican. Here is what he says of the "monumental fraud of the age:"

"I have talked with Presidents and Senators and Congressmen and public men of all parties, and I have never yet found one of them who was sincerely for civil service eform as it is advocated and put into practice now. I have had Republican Presidents read me their messages upon this subject and laugh at the doctrines they de-

Doubtless among the politicians there is an immense amount of humbuggery and deception in this question of Civil Service, as in some others. Honest, plain, sensible people ought not to be bamboozled by the attempt to bring over from England its perpetual tenure of office system and fasten it upon the system of a democratic, republican Govern-

One point more. If there is really strong public sentiment in North Carolina in favor of retaining Republican officials in office under of Democratic Administration we hope those favoring it will show their hands plainly and unmistakably in the nominating conventions of this summer. If it is really of no importance who holds office-and so say sentimentalists and callow statesmen in shorts—whether it is a Republican or a Democrat let them introduce resolutions to that effect in all of the conventions, County, District and State. It will be then seen how many Democrats in Convention will vote for destroying the Democratic party in North Carolina.

The STAR proposes to stand by the party through thick and thin, and it is for nominating for office no man who does not believe in Democrats only holding office under a Democratic Administration. If this is not to be the future policy then why two tickets for Legislature or Congress or for any office within the gift of the people.

Let the sentimental theorisers give a practical test of their sincerity by introducing resolutions in the Conventions that will express what they say in the newspapers - that it is not important which party hold office -that is just as well for the State to allow Republicans to take charge as for Democrats to continue in office. Then they will hear it thunder.

ASTOUNDING GROWTH. The average annual receipts of the United States Government for the first five years succeeding 1810, were $13,088,543. Now the Congress vetes away a hundred millions like it was so many cents. The avturning out Republicans and putting | erage annual receipts in the last five years have been $373,328,321. Said a very intelligent and excellent mechanic in this city - a worthy man with whom we often talk and always learn something-to us a few days ago -"There will be no more prosperity in this country until the national war debt is paid." Was he far wrong in this? He might have added-"Until the officials of the people regard public economy and cease to think that a dollar of the people's money is not really but one

In 1800, the ratio of communicants to the whole population was one in fourteen; in 1880, it was one in five. And yet fools say there is no God, and that Christianity is "playing > Seventy-five years ago the Christian world gave less than $1,000 to evangelize heathendom. In 1880, nearly $10,000,000 was given for that end. In 1810, there were a mere handful of missionaries; now there are 6,000, aided by 28,000 native helpers. In 1800, not one convert to Christianity had been made by modern missions. Now there are 752,152 histian communicants in native churches, with nearly three million adherents. It looks as if the Gospel had already been preached in the ut termost parts of the earth and that "nothing can check its triumphant advance," as Rev. Dr. Storrs says.

PASSED THE SENATE.

All men who revere principle and regard the Constitution should hold in all honor those Southern Senators who remained faithful to the organic law and were unseduced by the proposition to make a raid upon the We are not an admirer of Bob In- public treasury to the amount of gersoll; not even of his brilliant seven-seven million dollars. honor, say we, to Coke, Cockrell, Gray, Harris, Maxey and Wilson! Senators Beck, Saulsbury, Butler, Vest and Morgan are known to be opposed and all or nearly all have spoken against it. We record with exceeding pleasure that there are eleven Southern Senators who show that they are ready to stand by the limitations of the Constitution and to dare to do right whatever may be the infatuation of the people for the time being. Those who live through the century will have cause, we fear, to turn back in sorrow to 1886 when the plain teachings of the Constitution were openly violated by men of both parties to obtain a large sum from the Treasury that was raised by taxation and for an entirely different purpose. The House will probably pass the bill. The men of this era are not strong enough to withstand the bait thrown out by a cunning, artful Republican who knows well how to rive in twain the Constitution and to introduce the Greeks into the citadel. The vote in the Senate was very small. There were 25 absentees.

The STAR has tried to do its duty in this very serious matter. It has been moved by the highest motives that can stir and energize the human soul-love of country and a sincere desire to do that country some service. In our very soul we believe the Blair bill to be a curse -an unmitigated curse. In our inmost soul we believe that it is a gross violation of organic law, and is a most pestilent and noisome visitation. The STAR of course can stand such things if the country can stand it, but a precedent will have been set if the House passes the Grab Bill that will yet entail upon the land we love the most "direful and unnumbered woes," as we fear. We say again we have tried to do our duty and shall have but little more, to say editorially of the Federal school teaching measure. Said Butler in his inimitable "Hudi

The Boston Sunday Times of the 28th ult., contains a biographical sketch of the South's chiefest living poet, Paul H. Hayne. There is an accompanying portrait which we take to be very good, as it is like his photograph. It is well enough to mention in this connection that D. Lothrop & Co., Boston, have published a finely illustrated edition of Hayne's poems. The following extract from the kindly appreciative article of the Times, will be read with interest, as it gives a glimpse of the man and the poet. The writer says: "In person, Hayne is of slight figure and medium height, having piercing eyes, full lips and a dark complexion. His skin is as fresh as that of a boy of sixteen. It must be the subtle alchemy of a pure genius which is the wonderful preservative. Or is it the deep love for, the life, the constant communion with nature in the undying freshness of her youth, which seems to keep this man ever young? * * "His style is, generally speaking, subdued and reflective. He interprets nature with the clear insight of one who loves her. He has made the melancholy moanings of his Georgia pines sob through his verses. But it would be superfluous to enter upon criticism of the work of Hayne's genius. That can be done only by the reader, who, as Margaret J. Preston has said, 'if he can-not, of himself, find therein the aromatic freshness of the woods,-the swaying incense of the cathedral-like aisles of pines .the sough of dying summer winds,-the glint of lonely pools, and the brooding notes of leaf-hidden mocking birds, would not be able to discern them, however carefully the critic might point them

CURRENT COMMENT.

- The Sun and World have both taken sides with the Republican majority of the Senate against the President, and thereby abandoned all pretense to supporting a Democratic administration. Both papers, in assuming this attitude, abandon their own former professions and demonstrate that their conduct is directed by rooted dislike to the President. They have for months joined in attacking him for delay in removing Republicans from Federal office. Now that an accidental Republican majority in the Senate has undertaken to usurp the power to call the President to account for such removals of Republicans as he has made, these two papers turn around and support the Republican Senators in their demand, and seek to belittle and discredit the vigorous and manly message in which Mr. Cleveland repels the partisan attack upon him and declares his determination to resist the Republican demand. There is but one explanation of such conduct. The papers in question wish to weaken the administration and divide its supporters.-N. Y. Star,

-- Great is Salvini-easily the greatest! And yet the Saxon listens to the Italian stolidly. The actor must yearn for the plaudits of his countrymen-he gets so few from the audiences of America. The same people who would explode in transports of enthusiasm over some aged joke in "The Rag Baby," some tra la-la-lee in "The Mikado," wander along in their librettos, far behind Othello and Lear, and almost stupidly resolve that the tragedian "must be very good." Take their money, Salvini-it is all you can get! It is all you need, probably. But for all the ox-like silence of the American audience, Salvini's comings and goings have brought and left us our few glimpses of true culture. That man is a dull hind who has not within him a deeper fount of love and tears after the death of such a Lear's Cordelia, and after the despair and death of such a kingly, broken, human Lear. What a white light the colossal genius of the man throws upon some passage of Shakespeare. that, oft repeated, has never before had the justice of its full meaning!

A Republican Point.

-- Chicago Current.

J. R. R.'s Letter from Washington in Augusta (Ga) Chronicle, Dem.

Mr. Reed, in his speech on Friday last, marked out what, I suppose, will be a stinging Republican retort for campaign purposes. He confronts the Democrats with two difficulties formulated thus: You won your last election by desiring to turn Republi-can rascals out. Where are the rascals? If you have turned any out how dishonorable to refuse the proof of their misdeeds when called for by us, in open session! You made many voters for Cleveland by the persistent demand of Hendricks to examine the books and count the treasure of the people. The books have been at your disposal, but no fraud is found and not a cent of money is missing.

The supreme answer to this may be that the President has allowed the Republican book-keepers to remain in charge of the documents.

AN ANCIENT RIVER DISAP-PEARING.

Chicago Living Church.

A curious and noteworthy statement has been published in regard to the great river Euphrates. It appears that this ancient river is in danger of disappearing altogether. Of late years the banks below Babylon have been giving way so that the stream spread out into a marsh, until steamers could not pass, and only a narrow channel remained for native boats. Now this passage is becoming obliterated, with the probable result that the famous river will be swallowed up by the de-

Evils of Centralization. Montgomery (Ala.) Dispatch, Dem.

The Blair bill is still discussed and is likely to be for some time to come. The best way to dispose of this dangerous measure is to adopt an amendment-since amendments are still in order-to strike out the enacting clause. We are drifting far enough towards the evils of centralization without embracing this opportunity to violate the letter and spirit of the American Constitution.

OUR STATE CONTEMPORARIES.

We take the above from the Wilmington STAR. It was the good fortune of the writer of this to have known the subject of the notice well. Mr. Venable was a man of remarkable loquacity; an incessant talker, in fact, but, remarkable exception to loquacious men, he was never tiresome. He never repeated himself. His mind was wonderfully well stored with the choicest treasures of literature; his memory was replete with historical and political The Season for April contains a review reminiscence; his conversation sparkled with wit, humor and anecdote; he was an excellent racanteur; his language was clear and vigorous, yet choice and chaste; his manner was vivacious; his temper was courteous, and such a man could never be tiresome or offensive. In the private circle, at the bar, in the political arena, there was the same exhaustless flow of brilliant thought, of elegant or profound learning, of happy illustration. There has been no second Abram W. Venable; and when he passed away, one of the mos brilllant lights that ever shed its lustre over the intellectual field of North Carolina was extinguished.

After reading the papers a good deal, it seems to us that a great many Democrats (working Democrats) were credulous enough to believe that, after Cleveland's election, the offices (or most of them) would be given to working Democrats—Democrats who worked hard before the election and on the day of election for the success of the party. How confiding some people are!—Charlotte

Hostile to the Knights of Labor. [By Telegraph to the Morning Star.] Sr. Louis, March 6 - Archbishop Kenrick of Missouri has instructed Vicar General Brady to deny the statement recently sent from here to the effect that the Catho lic Church was hostile to the Knights of Labor. "The Church," says the Vicar General, "is very conservative on the question of labor. It loves the laboring classes whose special guardian it is. If the teachings of the Church were followed there would be no clash between capital and labor. It is said that, because the Bishop of Montreal has seen fit to denounce the Knights of Labor it would be consistent for Archbishop Kenrick to do the same. That is not the case at all. In Montreal the Knights may not live up to their constitution, or there may be some local causes which do not obtain here or in other cities. This is the fact, however, Archbishop Kenrick has not condemned the Knights of Labor. I can state that positively. The Church must be especially conservative in the matter of societies, because this is the age of societies. They are springing up on every side." -

"What do you think the Church will do about the Knights?" "Why, that is very simple. The Plenary Council at Baltimore discussed such questions thoroughly, and when the decrees of the Council are published the position of the Church will be clearly defined."

Three Hundred Thousand Dollar Fire at Akron.

[By Telegraph to the Morning Star.] CLEVELAND, March 6 .- At 2 o'clock this morning a fire broke out in the extensive oat meal mills of Ferdinand Schumacher, at Akron, O. These mills were the largest in the country, and consisted of several immense buildings. The fire was discovered in the seven-story wooden structure. The flames spread with alarming rapidity and were soon beyond control. The building first attacked was soon entirely enveloped. The fire next communicated to the dry-house, which was also destroyed. The twenty-thousand bushel elevator was next eaten up, and at last reports another immense mill was in great langer of destruction; and the Universalist Church, across the street, and the freight house of the Cleveland, Akron & Columbus Railroad were on fire. The Windsor Hotel, also owned by Mr. Schumacher, and valued at $70,000, is threatened. The loss will reach $300,000.

'Our Storm Signal Still Flying."

THE STORM SIGNAL WE HOISTED WITH our SEAMLESS TURPENTINE STILL put 'Competition' on the tramp, and forced it to seek shelter in other localities. So hard was the "Blow" it did not subside in North and South Carolina, but reached the great "Turpentine Belt" of Georgia, Alabama and Florida, and now with a Strong Blow and Low Prices. with a Strong Blow and Low Prices,

MCMILLAN BROS. SEAMLESS STILLS have again 'Scatterd Competition,' and 'Tramp' is the 'Marching' word, and OUR SEAMLESS STILLS are WITHOUT "COMPETITION in the Turpentine world. Now parties wanting STILLS OR STILL REPAIRS, should Take Advantage of Low Prices.

and call on or address us. We have on our yards FORTY STILLS, WORMS AND CAPS. We have also in stock THIRTY CIRC ES, from twenty-five to eighty inches. No "Advertising Dodge." Call and examine our "JUMBO STOCK." We claim, as before stated, that we carry a LAR-GER STOCK in this particular line than any half dozen houses North and South combined. We keep TEN REGULARLY EMPLOYED COP-PERS • ITHS, which enables us to do work with PROMPTNESS and DISPATCH.

A WEEKLY JOURNAL OF TRADE, FINANCE, AND PUBLIC ECONOMY. Sixteen Pages every Saturday. Oftentimes Twen ty Pages. Sometimes Twenty-four Pages.

FIVE DOLLARS A YEAR. The foremost purpose of Bradstreet's is to be of practical service to business men. Its special trade and industrial reports; its weekly epitome of bankruptcies throughout the United States and Canada, and the summaries of assets and ilabilities, are alone worth the subscription price; its synopses of recent legal decisions are exceedingly valuable. As commercial transactions, in the wider sense, are coming to be more and more conducted on a statistical basis, the information contained in Bradstreet's is of the first importance both to producers and middlemen.

The Trade and Agricultural Situation throughout the United States and Canada is reported by Telegraph to Bradstreet's up to the hour of publication.
