A distinguished medical gentleman of this State said to us not long since: "The time is not distant when mediocrity will not hold its own, and when full and strong men will be to the front." We think this true. We believe that in all the professions there will be a demand for higher culture, for higher attainments. While it is more than doubtful if there will be greater men in the pulpit or editorial chair, at the bar or in medicine, and so on, than there have been, there will be more greatly diffused attainments, more men of intellectual parts and broader culture than there were in the past. The South will never perhaps have in the pulpit any greater men than, Stuart Robertson, Thornwell, Dabney, Palmer, Hawks, Atkinson, Elliott, the two Pierces, Lowe, Lipscomb, Bledsoe, James A. Duncan, Jeter, Manly, Kerr, Brantley, Crudup, Hawthorne, and others that might be well added. It will never have more influential or more brilliant or abler editors than Pleasants, Ritchie, Oliver P. Baldwin, John M Daniel, Patrick Henry Aylett, Roger A. Pryor, Keiley, George Venable, Elam, Ridgeway, the Hales, Holden, Fulton, Rhett, Dawson, Thompson, Kendall, Prentice, Watterson, Pike, and a hundred others that may be named. The South will hardly ever produce greater men than Virginia alone has furnished in statesmanship and in war-Washington, Lee, Jackson, Thomas, Henry, Leigh, the Randolphs, the Lees of the Revolution and after, Jefferson, Madison and a hundred other famous and great-men. In North Carolina we may not hope for greater men at the bar than Badger, Gaston, Pettigrew, the Hendersons, Murphey, the Haywoods, and

scores of other able, vigorous, full men. And so on in medicine and in teaching and in pulpit. But we may hope, as we have said, for wider attainments, for a fuller science, for a more generally diffused educa-

a young man of superior education, of clever talents and marked facility with the pen. There may be others unknown to us. We copy the extracts that our readers may see what men and women of the South are able to become prominent in the greatest city in the professions, in art, science and other fields of endeavor.

Mr. Galusha A. Grow, of Pennsylvania, was a very prominent Democrat before the war. He is now a Republican. But that is not all. He was once a very warm Low Tariff advocate. He is now a very hot High Tariff apostle. In 1846, he wrote to that great political economist, Robert J. Walker, who was possibly the ablest Secretary of the Treasury since Hamilton, a letter we have before us, and from which we copy the following. He writes:

"The Democracy, even in this remote region, is beset by the friends of special legislation with the cry of 'protection to home industries,' and especially to Penn sylvania interests. Therefore, if it is not tressparsing too much on your kindness, please forward me any statistics (or any informatisn that you may think proper which will enable me to sustain the tariff of '46, either in public assemblies or private controversies, with the enemies of fair and equal legislation.

Mr. Grow now thinks a High War Tariff in a time of profound peace the very quintessence of economic wisdom.

In the last fourteen days there have been fourteen changes in the Democratic Districts. If the changes keep on as they have begun there will be a great infusion, as the New Sun phrases it, of "new blood" in the House. In the last Congress there were an unusal number of new men, and there promises to be a greater number in the Fiftieth Congress. Whether this bodes ill or good is doubtful. While there are men in the Forty-ninth Congress who richly deserve to be returned, there are a score or two who ought to be let alone severely by the sovereigns-the of great usefulness to the Sun. Mrs. Mary E. Bryan, who has written several books of so highly imaginative a cast that they may be said to border upon the sensational, in thrilling detail and intensity of situation, is now established in editorial management of George Munro's Fashion Bazaar, and at the same time doing the greater part of like work for his Fireside Companion. * * Miss Bislanton, on the World, is sustaining admirably her well earned reputation for clever work, and excellent success in her own peculiar lune. Mrs. Laura L. Holloway is a highly esteemed member of the editorial staff of the Brooklyn Eagle, and has recently published her new volume entitled "Bridal Edition to Ladies of the White House," * * Mrs. Mary Tucker Magill enjoys unstinted praise for her history of Virginia, but is in even stronger public favor because of her artistic magazine sketches in dialect, such as that unique specimen, "Sis," which was contributed to Harper's Magazine. Above all these, however, for conspicuous success, ranks Mrs. Frank Leslie, who, although having spent most of her life here, was born in New Orleans. There is perhaps no woman in America to day of more energy, enterprise and splendid executive ability than this far-famed daughter of the Crescent City. For men in this department of labor so much cannot be said. In casting about for worthy examples we find no one so specially deserving of mention as Mr. Ballard Smith, who holds a position on the World, which, although not strictly definable is peculiarly important. * * In the practice of law, Gen. B.H. Bristow, Gen. Roger A. Pryor, Hon. A. J. Requier and Hon. McKenzie Semple, are among the most distinguished Southerners. The last-named gentleman is at present Assistant District Attorney, which, of itself alone is a sufficient guarantee of his belonging to the class we are considering.

General Pryor 18 widely known, and his brilliant success is beyond dispute. His metropolitan reputation as a lawyer may be said to have begun at the time of the Beecher trial, in the course of which he represented Theodore Tilton, From then till now, tinguished practitioner at the New York Bar, on the criminal side of the conrt

THE YACHT RACE.

The Mayflower and Galatea Make their Second Sail for the Prize-An Immense Crowd Line the Shores, but Foggy Weather Prevents a Good View of the Race.

[By Telegraph to the Morning Star.] SANDY HOOK, N. J., September 9, 8 30 A. M. -There was not the slightest ray of sunshine this morning. Since 5 o'clock : heavy mist has hung over both sea and land. The highlands were enveloped in a thick fog from early morning, that made them almost invisible. By 6 o'clock a fine drizzle set in, which turned into a full storm before another hour had gone by. The wind is from the rain quarter, and the prospects for a good race are excellent. There is a choppy sea running and the surf is breaking upon the beach. All night long the fog horn has been screeching, but by 8 o'clock the fog began to lift, and the light ship was visible.

8.40 A. M.-An immense fleet is in the horse-shoe this morning, the most of the squadron that has been at anchor off Bay Ridge since the night of the first race having come down during yesterday afternoon and evening. Shortly after daybreak there was unusual activity on board the yachts in the cove On the sailing craft mainsails were set, while the thick black smoke that rolled from the stacks of the steam vachts showed that they were preparing for the work of the day. All of the great throng of people that had filled the verandas of the hotel along the Narrows, on the occasion of the first race, those who had stationed themselves along the Long Island or Jersey shores, or perched upon the walls and breastworks of the two big forts at the entrance to the upper bay, appeared to have been lifted in one great mass and set down upon the beach at Sandy Hook, or the Jersey hills. The beach be tween Ocean Grove and Navesink highlands, as far as the eye could reach, was black with people. Not only from the seas side resorts did they come, but from the inland towns where the contest has awakened intense interest. The piazzas of all the hotels near the sea were occupied by spectators who came down on the early trains and boats. The crows and seagulls that flutter about the beach down here seemed conscious that something of unusual importance was going on. They were restless, and their shrill cries were evidently intended to show their disapproval of the invasion of their domain by so many human

With the wind in the present direction the yachts will probably run down to the eastward. 11.03 A. M.-The wind is from the east and blows 24 miles an hour. The weather is foggy and cloudy, with a light rain, and will be impossible to see the start. 10.20 A. M .- The Galatea passed the Hock in tow at 10 13, and the Mayflower passed out in tow at 10.22; with a fleet of steam and sailing yachts, steamboats and tugs following them. The wind is blowing twenty miles an hour from the east The weather is cloudy and hazy. The Scotland lightship is barely visible. There is a moderate sea. 11.25 A. The yachts must have started. The Mayflower is on the sturboard tack, standing northeast, one mile and a half from the lightship. The Galatea leads the Mayflower about 100 yards, but the Mayflower is well to the windward. They point for Rockaway, under mainsail, gafftopsail, staysail and jib. Wind east, 24 miles, foggy. 11.50 A. M.—The Mayflower is near Whistling buoy outside the bar, point well up, and seems to overhaul the Galatea. 11.53 A. M.-The Galatea went about off

ECZEMA

For the benefit of suffering humanity, and in heartfelt gratitude at the wonderful results. I deem it only my duty to give this unsolicited testimony in favor of Swift's Specific. My wife has been afflicted with hereditary Eczema or Salt Bheum from her infancy; it has increased in intensity with each succeeding spring, and being somewhat skilled in medicine myself, I tried every remedy I could think of for years-Sarsa-parilia combined with every form of Potassie, "Cuticura," pills of every kind, and hundreds of other remedies, lotions and alkali washes of every known kind, but they all gave only tempo-rary relief. During the spring of 1884 her lower extremities became so inflamed and sore that the was obliged to keep them constantly coated she was obliged to keep them constantly coated with a covering of "Fuller's Earth." mixed wet with a covering of "Fuller's Earth." mixed wet and allowed to dry on. Among other things, she was afflicted with a periodical nervous head-ache, occurring regularly every seven days, sometimes followed by intermittent fever for weeks at a time, so that her life became a bur-den to her. This spring I determined she should take S. S. S. and follow strictly the directions in regard to dose, diet, etc. This was about seven weeks ago. After taking the first large bottle the disease dose, diet, etc. This was about seven weeks ago. After taking the first large bottle the discase seemed to increase; the burning, itching and in-fiammation became unbearable. She, however, persevered in the use of the medicine. After taking the second bottle the inflammation began to subside. After the third bottle the inflamma-tion discurred and sore spots dried up and to subside. After the third bottle the inflamma-tion disappeared, and sore spots dried up and turned white and scaly, and finally she brushed them off in an impalpable white powder re-sembling pure salt. She is now taking the sixth bottle, three tablespoonsful four, times daily. Every appearance of the disease has gone, and her flesh is becoming soft, white and smooth again; and what is more, her periodical headaches have disappeared, and she is now, at 53 years of age, enjoying the only good health headacnes have disappeared, and she is now, at 53 years of age, enjoying the only good health she has known for upwards of 40 years. No wonder she declares with emphasis that every bottle of S. S. S. is worth a thousand times its eight in gold.

Any further information concerning her case will be cheerfully given by herself at her resi-dence, 135 Mullett street, or by me. JOHN F. BRADLEY,

THE YOUNG MEN THE HOPE OF THE COUNTRY.

Our young friend Robinson, of the Goldsboro Argus, who is showing energy, tact and ability in the management of his neat daily, was pleased to refer in terms of cordial approval of what the STAR recently said of the success of Southern young men. There is no paper in America that takes more pleasure than the STAR does in recognizing talents and success among the young men of our beloved Southland. And why not? They are the salt, the salvation of the South. The old men are daily passing away and it is the young that must take their places and shape the future of the country. Upon the moral, sober, industrous, noble, earnest, energetic, educated young men must the prospering South lean in the decades to come. We can, therefore, but rejoice when we hear of a promising young man in any Southern State, and when we meet or hear of a North Carolinian who gives earnest of future usefulness, of high achievements and success we thank God and take courage. All honor to the capable, noble, generous youth in whose hands are the destinies of North Carolina and her sister States in the South !

But what the STAR said was gratifying abroad. A cultured and accomplished young Virginian editor connected with the editorial staff of the Philadelphia Daily News, whose make no apology:

HEAVY TAXES.

Governments are a necessity but they are very costly. They should be made just as light as possible. Taxes crush. Federal, State, municipal and county expenditures should be cut down to the lowest minimum point. We notice a statement in the Boston Post that the local governments of Massachusetts cost the people the immense sum of $24,000,000, besides an interest account of $5,-500,000 each year. The people have not watched their officials as they should. Americans are too confiding, too trusting. Let all expenditures be razeed and where needed to the lowest point compatible with efficiency.

People are prodigiously generous with other people's money. You will find thousands who favor high salaries and big expenditures. If the entire sum expended by the people of North Carolina for all purposes connected with government were properly audited, as it should be, and reported, it would stagger the ordinary mind. And yet this vast sum comes each year out of the people's earnings. Honest, economical, efficient government is the talk of politicians and the deliverance of party platforms, but where do you find it? We have not the slightest doubt that it is possible, and without detriment to the public interest, to reduce the expenditures of the Federal, State, county and municipal Governments of the United saved to the people through a decade ago were now at the helm.

RING OF THE TRUE METAL.

Successful Southerners in New York City. New York Correspondent of Augusta, Ga. Chronicle.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.-Wherever competition is sharpest, conspicuous success is naturally most difficult of attainment, and likewise proportionately praiseworthy. Therefore, any notable achievement in New York, is especially creditable, from the fact that here, more than in any other city on the American continent, is every vocation crowded with energetic contestants struggling desperately for mastery. A million and half people congregated in one municipality, make an enormous hive of human bees, in which there is no room for drones. * * The field of mercantile pursuit is too wide for close examination, but even in its broad expanse Messrs. Woodward, Baldwin & Co. have made themselves prominent as succesful dry goods commission merchants. In the Cotton Exchange, where the South's boasted staple is the single article of trade, it is natural that Southerners should congregate. Many have gained good foothold there, prominent among whom may be men-tioned Messrs. Murchison & Co., originally of North Carolina, and Latham, Alexander & Co., while abreast with the strongest and boldest leaders of the market is always to be recognized Mr. John M. Inman, who is master-spirit in the distinguished Southern firm of Inman, Swan & Co. This house has amassed great wealth. * * Glancing at the roll of Bank Presidents, we find about ten per cent. of the entire list to be Southern men, notably among whom are: James T. Woodward, President Hanover National Bank; Charles M. Fry, Bank of New York;

General Bristow is senior member of that eminently distinguished firm of corporation lawyers-Messrs. Bristow, Peet & Opdyke. He has been very conspicuous in high places of political preferment, having been at one time United States District Attorney, and at another Secretary of the Treasury in General Grant's cabinet.

The Medical profession in New York is so crowded at the top by Southern men, that we have not space here even to enumerate them all. * * The royal mantle of the late Dr. J. Marion Sims will never lack a worthy wearer while his noble Confreres-Drs. Theodore G. Thomas and Thomas Addis Emmit-are alive, who stand to-day as national celebrities in the orthodox school of medicine and surgery. And there is a score or more of others, highly deserving of honorable mention, among whom we find Dr. Nathan Bozeman, Dr. Prince A. Morrow, Dr. William M. Polk, Dr. Virgil P. Gibney, Dr. George C. Harrison, and Dr. E. C. Dent, Superintendent of the Insane Asylum on Blackwell's Island.

All these are Southerners, to the manor born, and every one has achieved marked distinction and liberal success in this, his adopted M. J. V. home.
