Chesnut street, between Eighth and Ninth, was entered by a burglar at an early hour yesterday morning. Mrs. McDonald was awakened about 3 o'clock, presumably by the noise made by the burglar in leaving the house. There was an overpowering odor of chloroform in the room, which caused her to get up and light a lamp, when she found everything in a bewildering state of confusion, the clothing of herself and daughter in a heap on the floor, and closets and bureau drawers emptied of their contents. Other inmates of the house were aroused and it was found that the whole place bad been ransacked, but nothing was missing with the exception of a few pen-
