The vessel is to be a steel and iron ship, and instead of being built on lateral lines, as has always been the custom, she will be built on sixty-eight tranverse steel walls or bulkheads seven and a half feet apart, each of the full size and accurate shape of a cross section of the vessel. She will be provided with compound engines of 27,986 horsepower, capable of giving a speed of twen-ty-two knots an hour. There will be twenty boilers to furnish steam for the main engines, placed fore and aft of the vessel, with three smoke pipes on each side of the vessel next to the rall. Changes are going on in the mind the President, and "coming events" already are casting "their shadows before." The New York Star is the New York organ of the Administration. Its special from Washington on 21st inst. says:

That the Treasury should go to the West no one questions. The administration's policy in respect of the tariff represents the convictions of the West, and now that events have disclosed it more fully, the administration's financial purposes are recognized as fully in accord with the most advanced and intelligent views of western leaders. The feeling is that Mr. Cleveland now has the opportunity to correct a serious weakness in the Cabinet by importing into it a representative man from the great region where the strength of the party lies, and where its future victories must be or-. . Grand and Petit Larceny.

A bill is before the State Legislature which, if it becomes a law, will fill all the fails in the eastern counties of the State to repletion. It recites "that there shall be a distinction in this State between grand larceny and petit larceny, whether the offence charged be larceny at common law or made so by statute. All larcenies in this State, of articles of value less than twenty dollars, shall be petit largeny, and all other larcenies shall be grand larceny, and petit larceny shall be a misdemeanor, punished by imprisonment in the common juil of the county where the offence is committed, and liable to be worked on the public roads of the county in which convicted: Provided, that no person convicted of petit larceny shall be imprisoned for a longer term than

A correspondent of the STAR, writing from Tarboto, N. C., Feb. 22d, says that a colored woman named Bettle Harris was killed atthat place about 11 o'clock Monday morning last. The woman was walking on the railroad track near the depot, when she was struck by a flat car attached to a shifting engine and run over. Both of her legs were cut off just below the knee by the wheels of the engine and car passing over them. She died in half an hour after the accident. No blame is attached

Salvage to be Paid on the Spanish

Barque Maria. After several conferences between the parties in interest an agreement was reached yesterday on the question of the amount to be paid as salvage on the Spanish barque Finner, Eli L Fletcher, E L Fletcher, C W Futch. Maria, fixing it at $5,500, of which the owners of the pilot beat Oriental will recefve $2,000 and Mr. J. W. Harper, owner of the steamer Blanche, $3,500. The tug W. J. Pride has arrived at Smithville to tow the barque to New York, and the crew of the vessel left their comfortable quarters in the Seaman's Home yesterday afternoon and went down on the Louise.

The pilots in their statement say that they spoke the barque the day before she went on Frying pan sheals, and warned the captain of the danger of sailing in the direction he was going. The next day they saw a vessel on the shoals, and ran down and boarded her; found that she was the same vessel they had spoken the day before, but that there was no one on her; the sails were all set, and an anchor dropped, but the anchor chain had been unshackeled and the end fastened to a rope that would have broken had the ship pulled on it. The pilots started to Smithville to get a tug, and on the way met the Blanche towing a vessel out. Two of the pilots went on board the Blanche and reported the matter, when the Blanche ran down to the barque, took her in tow and brought her into Smithville. The captain of the Spaniard had gone ashore at the Life-Saving Station, where he told the men that he and his crew had to abandon the barque to save their lives. He had with him the vessel's compass, charts and papers, and all his personal effects and those of the crew. The pilots deny that they prevented the master from boarding the vessel after her arrival at Smithville, saying that he never offered to do so. And it is also denied that he endeavored to get a tug to go to the barque when he went ashore.

special order in the House of Representatives to-day. It provides that on the first Monday in December, 1888, the joint boards of county commissioners and justices of the peace shall be abolished, and that all the rights, powers and duties of said joint board shall be vested in the board of county commissioners exclusively; that the county commissioners shall be elected biennially upon the same rules and regulations as are now provided for in the election of members of the General Assembly; the first election to be held on Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1888. Before entering upon office each county commissioner shall give bond for the faithful performance of his duties. The penalty of the bond shall be one-fifth of the tax levied for county purposes in the fiscal year preceding the filing of the bond; the bond to be justified before and approved by the probate judge, with the right of appeal to the Judge of the Superior Court. The act is to be submitted to the voters of the State for ratification and approval, at a general election to be held on Tuesday next after the first Monday in November, 1887, under the same rules as are now provided for the election of Governor.

The fish market of Messrs. W. E. Davis & Son, on South Water street, has been plundered for some time past, but in such a systematic manner that the proprietors have been unable to discover it until quite recently. It was found that the parties engaged in the stealing got under the market house in a boat, and by means of an oar displaced a board in the flooring that had been cut to enable employes to draw up water from the river, and through the aperture thus made the thieves climbed into the building, where they selected such fish as they fancied, and making their exit, carefully replaced the plank as they found it. The Messra Davis estimate their losses by these depredations at not less than seventy-five dollars. The thieves, it is alleged, sold the fish to other dealers in the market; the latter, however, not knowing that they were stolen.

RIVER AND MARINE.

- The tug George W. Pride, from Philadelphia, arrived at Smithville yesterday.

- Latest advices from Fayetteville report the river rising, with about twenty feet of water on the shoels.

- The steamer D. Murchison arrived vesterday from Fayetteville, at which place she had been laid up for several weeks, while workmen were engaged in putting in a new boiler and making slight repairs to her machinery.
