Miss Mary Anderson still attracts in England. The Yankee critics swear she cannot act but she is growing rich, and she plays to crowded houses. A Nottingham, England, cable dispatch to the N. Y. Times, dated 23d, says:

"Three thousand persons who filled the Theatre Royal, Nottingham, from floor to ceiling to night, witnessed Miss Mary Anderson's first appearance in 'A Winter's Tale," acting both Hermione ann Perdita. The early evening train from London brought the leading dramatic critics and many others interested in works of this de scription, and among the latter Lord Lytton and Mrs Lawrence Barrett, with her daughter Gertrude, were noticeable. At the conclusion of the drama Miss Anderson was twice called before the curtain. The subject thought was good, and the piece was handsomely put on the stage."

Their number is only limited by the power of getting members of Parliament, especially Irish members, to attend. That clumsy piece of Tory invention, the forged Parnell letter, is being energetically worked for the Taunton election. The Tory managers have issued a placard, including the for-gery, which Mr. W. H. Smith, the Cabinet Minister, displays largely at the bookstalls of Mr. W. H. Smith, the bookseller, and pushes in every possible way."

A Democratic U. S. Senator reports the President as saying to him:

"He wanted the people to believe and know that his administration was for the whole country, and this was his aim and ambition. But, he said, when he came to the presidency he had made up his mind deliberately that his record was to be completed in the four years for which he was elected, and that under no circumstances would he again be a candidate. Time had strengthened this determination.

This is contradicted by the Washington Post and New York Star. both quasi organs of Mr. Cleveland. The Mugwump New York Times also contradicts it, saying it is "made out of the whole cloth." It says the subject of Presidential renomination was never touched upon by Mr. Cleveland. We have no doubt that the President desires and seeks renomination and it really looks now as if he will be gratified in his wishes.

Another Storm-Lower Temperature. A storm passed in a northeasterly direction off the Atlantic coast yesterday, which occasioned strong northeastly winds on the sea and immediate coast. The atmospheric pressure was greatly reduced by the close proximity of the storm which made conditions favorable for the approach of the high barometer in the Northwest and West. The storm centre evidently passed north or this parallel shortly after sunset, when the wind shifted to the westerly with increasing force. The change of wind was attended by rapidly falling temperature, and the prospects were that the mercury will be ten to fifteen degrees lower than yesterday morning.

The following telegram was received in this city from the Chief Signal Officer rela. tive to the storm:

"Washington, April 25, 5 20 P. M. "Hoist cautionary signal, Wilmington and Wilmington section. Storm central on the South Atlantic coast, moving northeast. Northeasterly winds, shifting to westerly, are indicated for the North Carolina and GREELY." Virginia coasts.
