The Morning Star

By WILLIAM H. BERNARD.

WILMINGTON, N. C.

TUESDAY MORNING, OCT. 4, 188

The Chicago Inter Ocean is one of the half dozen great newspapers of this country. It is a Protection, Republican paper out and out. It copies some criticisms of the STAR upon its course and replies at length. It denies the charge we brought against it as hating the South and and never praising Democratic men or measures. The STAR would not be unjust. It admires the superior ability and great enterprise of the Inter Ocean but it dislikes its Radicalism and the bitterness that has characterized it. But let it be heard. It says:

"Not once or twice, but often, has praised Democrats, and whenever it could it has praised Democratic measures. example, it was nearly in accord with Senator Beck's silver bill; it praised Senator Pugh's courage in speaking on behalf of the American policy of protecting home industries; it praised the two Southern Democratic Senators who voted for subsidies to American ocean mail carriers; it warmly approved Mr. Tilden's letter on the necessity of coast defenses; only a few days ago it gave President Cleveland credit for the patriotic tone of his Philadelphia

When you examine those favorable expressions you will see that it was not an indorsement of Democratic measures at all. Senator Beck's bill was popular with both parties in the Northwest. It was not a Democratic measure, strictly speaking, as the President, his Cabinet, and all of the Eastern and Middle States opposed it. Many Southern Democratic papers were against it. The Inter Ocean merely praised it because it set forth Western views of the currency. It praised Pugh's speech because it was in favor of a Republican War measure. There is no Democracy in that. It praised two Southern Democrats for going against their own party in the subsidy business. There is richness just there. It praised a deserter and then calls that praising a Democrat and a Democratic measure. Bah! It even liked Mr. Tilden's letter. And why? Because it would relieve the Treasury of some fifty or a hundred millions of surplus and thereby stop the clamor for a reduction by Tariff reform. The Inter Ocean, you must bear in mind, 18 first, last, and all the time a Protection organ, It has an eye always to the main chance. As to the patriotic speech of the President it could as easily praise that as it would a Sunday Gospel sermon, as there was not any party politics in it. So the praise of the able Chicago paper does not amount to much of either Democrats or Democratic measures.

If the reader thought the STAR misrepresented the Strong Government tendency in the North, and the disposition to blot out Constitutional limitations, read what follows. The Inter Ocean thus replies to the STAR: "But the Inter Ocean ever has, now does, ever [will, proclaim that the condition of peace is the acceptance of the National idea and an abandonment of State sovereignty, as expounded by Jeff Davis, though not as the MORNING STAR would have it, "of local self-government." The solidification of the States into a Nation was the effect of the war; it was a sequence of "unconditional surrender," Until the rebellion was upon them the people had no realizing sense of what the fathers of the Republic meant when they framed the government for the whole people. And as is complained of by the MORNING STAR, so long as the South, or any considerable part of it, has a policy which magnifies the State at the expense of the Nation, so long will the Republican party be found waging war without truce or terms.' There now, that is plain enough A full reply to this will be found in the several recent editorials in the STAR on the Constitution. Judge Miller, a staunch Republican, in his Constitutional Centennial address, says there is the same necessity now of maintaining the old construction and theory of reserved rights of the States as there was in the past. We commend the address to the attention of the Inter Ocean and thank it for so plainly acknowledging the purpose and plan of the Republican party. Unless the South accepts Consolidation idea there is no peace. Unless the South turns its back upon the past, ignores the teachings of history and the exact language of the Constitution, and forgets all of the lessons of the ablest Southern statesmen and writers upon Constitutional limitations and accepts in good faith the Republican dogma that the war destroyed the Constitution, "solidified the States into a Nation," thus practically wiping out all State lines and making them mere provinces or counties, like the counties in England, there shall be no forgiveness or peace. Such is the real issue and meaning of the Republican demand.

The South has manliness, virtue, and enough of "courage of conviction" to withstand all threats of war and all overtures of surrender at the price of principle. This is a Constitutional Government. This is a republican, democratic, free Government regulated by law. The South will be faithful to the Constitution regarding it as the bulwalk of all freedom, the citadel of a people's strength, the breakwater of despotism. They will stand by their contheir convictions in war.

It is easily seen why ex-President Davis is so cordially hated by Republican doctrinaires. He has produced an argument in justification of the South that has never been answered, that cannot be answered. With Davis, Stephen's history and Bledsoe's masterly work on Davis, and the Southern man is so fortified that he can always successfully withstand all assaults upon his defences come from what quarter they may.

A TEXAS LAW.

Probably the Southern newspapers could not do a wiser thing than to copy the laws of certain New England States in the past which regulated the public morals, made church going compulsory, and even went so far as to punish a husband for kissing his wife on Sunday. The tendency, as the STAR has often had occasion to point out, is to return to sumptuary legislation -to make men better by legal enactment. The fanatical Northern fool, quoted from in Sunday's issue, who did not believe a man could be saved who used tobacco, is in the same proscriptive boat with those men who in the past made non-slave-owning a test of church membership, put the United States flag on the Communion table, made loyalty to the North the shibboleth of a sect, and now favor the forcing of mixed schools upon the Southern people, and sending to the "demnition bow-wows" all men who smoke or chew.

There is danger that a school of teachers may spring up in the South who, forgetful of the past, may be for applying new standards of faith and of discipleship. It may come to pass that a man must be an out-andout Prohibitionist or he cannot unite with a certain "body of believers." He may never drink; may be opposed to all abuses growing out of liquordrinking; may favor a Christian observance of the Lord's Day; may be a strict reader of the Bible, a man of prayer and meditation, and the soundest morality, but he shall not enter-not into the Kingdom Heaven-but he shall not enter the pale of a certain Church unless he be in favor of prohibiting by law the use of wine, cider, beer and spirits. We say there is danger at this point. Sumptuary laws exist more or less, it is true, but that does not remove the dangers of excess in the way of legislation. You can enact laws that are so repugnant to the people that they are dead letters and fail of execution. You can drive people into armed resistance by op-ever shed on North Carolina soil grew out of governmental oppres sions. Fanaticism stops at nothing. The barriers of common sense and justice are leaped over as if they did not exist by the inflamed hot-heads who hold themselves to be the Lord's annointed.

The above has been suggested to us by certain utterances we have seen in Northern religious gatherings, and by a recent law passed by the Texas Legislature. It seems that that pious body enacted a law forbidding the publication of a paper on Sunday morning. Under this Act the editor of the Galveston News was arrested. Now the STAR, and every other daily paper in the South, issues a Sunday morning paper. It is true it is got up on Saturday mainly, but it is worked off and distributed on Sunday morning. A Monday's paper would be much more objectionable, because it might have to be worked upon on Sunday. The STAR is not an advocate for violating the Lord's Day by work. But it is a notorious fact, seen, and read and heard and known of al men, that in ninety-nine hundreths of the Church-going families warm breakfasts and warm dinners are eaten every Sunday; the house servants must "clean-up;" the people walk about, visit, read, gossip, and even read books that are not so important or useful as the Bible. It is known that but few people in the land are strict Sabbath observers. They will read newspapers, and, what is far worse, talk business, or indulge in gabble and skimble skamble stuff. Is not that so?

The Texas people are no exceptions. They are no better than other people. Why then strain out a gnat and swallow a camel? The Sunday papers have much good reading. Some of them pay special attention to religious news, &c. They never yet did a man half the harm that idle talk does him, or promenading about or going out riding, &c. Why not enact a law at once regulating the eating, sleeping, walking, talking, smoking? Texas tried hard to get a law to regulate victions in peace as they stood by the drinking but failed by an enormous majority. It now has a law to regulate the reading. This kind of proscriptive legislation will do too much. It will prove a boomerang, if the throwers do not watch.

'Like that strange missile that the Austra-Your legal boomerang slaps you on th

From Virginia's Chief City. Richmond State.

The Wilmington (N. C.) STAR, which is owned and published by a native of Richmond, Va., has arrived at the age of twenty years. We hope for the STAR that its bright and vigorous youth may be continued to a manhood corresponding in strength and usefulness with the approved record of its past performance with the seemly lustihood of its present promise. The STAR is a Democratic paper, faithful in its convictions of right and fearless in their advocacy.

CURRENT COMMENI.

--- It seems to us that the many pattings on the back the Charleston News and Courier has had for its insolent and unexpected remarks about President Davis in connection with the Macon fair, by the Northern press, should have brought it to a true sense of the gross disrespect it has shown for the true sentiment of the South, which is that of never varying, never dying reverence for the man of whom this Charleston editor presumes to write as he does. When the people of the South cease so to love and respect Mr. Davis, they will relinquish all title to any decent people's regard, and become successful candidates for the contempt of mankind. - Anniston (Ala.) Hot Blast.

-- There is so much of genuine Democracy in what our friend Major Glass has to say from time to time on the subject of Federal taxation, that one of his editorials is as refreshing as a sea breeze on a hot day. Commenting on the revenue tariff plank in the platform of the Massachusetts Democrats, he says in the Advance: "This sounds like Democracy of other days and is really the true creed of that party and correct theory of our government. Nor is there any doubt of the fact that a reduced tariff is got to be the leading issue in the national campaign of 1888. Randall and his high tariff faction may kick and bolt if they choose, but the great masses of the Democratic party North and South, and no small number of the Republicans of the West, will go for reduction. What we call 'protection' to American labor is simply protection to a few monopolists at the expense of the laborer, the farmer, and the working people generally."—Richmond State, Dem.

-- It would be well for the tobacco farmers of Virginia, who are being baited so assiduously by the Protectionists, to turn over one single idea in their minds while there is yet pressive legislation. The first blood not now pay the tax, which is paid - Goldsboro Argus.

by the manufacturer and collected by him in turn from the consumer. The abolition of the tax will relieve the manufacturer and consumer but will not affect the producer. The tobacco farmer then will get no more for his tobacco, and will have to pay as high as ever for everything be buys. By securing the repeal of the internal revenue taxes, therefore, and leaving the import taxes as they are he will simply fasten upon the agricultural interest of the country for years to come the burden it now bears, without obtaining a single 10ta of profit or relief for himself. Is it worth his while to accomplish so much harm without cause or compensation? - Charleston News and Courier, Dem.

COTTON.

N. Y. Commercial and Financial Chronicle NEW YORK, Sept. 30 .- The movement of the crop, as indicated by our telegrams from the South to-night, s given below. For the week ending this evening (Sept. 30) the total receipts have reached 238,745 bales, against 187,740 bales last week, 126,-041 bales the previous week, and 85,437 bales three weeks since making the total receipts since the 1st of Sept., 1886, 654,776 bales, against 389,325 bales for the same period of 1885-86, showing an increase since Sept. 1, 1887, of 265,451 bales. The exports for the week ending this evening reach a total of 131,445 bales, of which 92,617 were to Great Britain, 128 to France and 38,700 to the rest of the Continent.

To-day an early decline was quickly recovered, and the close was dearer on a demand to cover contracts. Cotton on the spot has met with only a moderate demand from home spinners, and, although stocks continued very small, quotations were reduced 1.16c on Monday and again on Wednesday. Yesterday good middling was quoted 1-16c lower. Today there was a general decline of 1-16c, middling uplands closing at The total sales for forward delivery for the week are 458,300 bales.

OUR STATE CONTEMPORARIES.

Democracy vs radicalism Free clothes s. free whiskey .- Tarboro Southerner. A recent issue of our able contemporary, the Morning Star, has a most excellent article in reply to some strictures upon Hon. Jefferson Davis by the Charleston News and Courier. We commend the STAR for its laudable course of defending Mr. Davis, while we have no words in our vocabulary sufficiently strong to express our disapproval of the ill-tempered language of our Charleston contemporary. Let the heathen rage. Let the Northern people rave But it ill becomes a Southern editor to speak disrespectfully of the greatest of iving Southrons; especially, when this is done to win the praise of the enemies of our section and the slanderers of our people. - Windsor Ledger,

From what we have seen in some of our exchanges, next year will witness the existence of a very large quantity of this valuable tree, and its leaves will exhibit the most attractive colors. Indeed, some people who have a scorn for all pretensions will probably be so irreverent as to characterize the timber as simply Gubernatorial Timber. That we have a great abundance of it there is no doubt. It is seen in many localities where its existence is not gener ally known. But there is a great deal of t. We ought to be proud of the wealth of this material with which we are blessed and our people may be freed from all alarm that, on account of the extensive demand, there will be an exhaustion of it. There is no danger. Young ones are sprouting annually, and, as the matured ones are used, they will be ready for the demands of the age. They grow with remarkable rapidity, and it requires less than thirty years to develop them fully .- Rock ingham Rocket.

- The city that is unwilling to aid in the construction or bettering of the highways that lead to and from its markets, whether they be dirt, water or iron ways, because it is not demonstrable that the outlay will bring in a large direct income in proportion to the outlay, has no pub-he spirit, and is doomed to the lot of all towns that have no public spirit, that is, slow progress and early decay. A generous, unselfish, heroic disposition is necessary to all high endeavor, and great achievement. This is a truth that has no limitation, either in civil or military life, in the material or spiritual concerns of man. Self help develops the power of helptime. The promise is held out to ing others. The man, city or people them, more or less directly, that the abolition of the tax on tobacco will natural advantages and fortuitous add to the profits on their crop. This circumstances, have no claim to cannot be, however, since they do greatness, nor hardly ever attain it.
