THE MORNING STAR.

VOL. XLI.--NO. 58.

WILMINGTON, N. C., WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 30, 1887.

The London correspondent of the New York Star thinks changes of the Tory Cabinet are not far off. He says a reconstruction of the English Government is certain to occur not far hence. But it will not bring in the Gladstone party, but merely swap off some old Tories for some new ones. He says:

"A complete accord has been established with Lord Hartington, who is quite in a position to join the government if that would be to its advantage. Lord Randolph Churchill's extreme care is not committing simself to any legislation for Ireland has been dictated by a studious regard for the views of Lord Salisbury and his colleagues, which may betoken his return to the Cabinet before the legislation for next year is considered. Sir Michael Hicks Beach will also return to the Cabinet.

"Lord Stanley of Preston, President of the Board of Trade, Mr. Henry Matthews, Home Secretary, and Lord John Manners, are mentioned as the ones who will retire. The broad outlines of parliamentary action in the coming year can now be traced in the speech which Lord Salisbury delivered at Oxford on Wednesday."

Dr. D. C. Kelley has backed down and gone back completely on his anonymous, sneaking letter in the Nashville American. He has written to the Board of Missions and he "crawfishes right out." He says:

"I am opposed to any attendance on theatres by members of our church, and uphold our ministers in the correction of this evil, by public and private admonition and by a patient and kind, but firm, administration of discipline. I regret and withdraw my articles in the American, in so far as they may be construed to defend the interruption of public worship on October 9, at McKendre church."

He cries peccavi, and no longer attitudinizes as the volunteer champion of bad mannered screamers and of a vicious theatre.

Jenny Lind had some striking and not very engaging peculiarities. She had a perfect horror of the Froude sort of biographers and resolved to leave no autobiographical notes. But she is to be "shown up" all the same by Canon Holland in Murray's (Eng.) Magazine. The London correspondent of the New York Times says:

"Many of his anecdotes show the harsh and disagreeable side of her nature, familiar enough to those who met her, but a knowledge of which the world might well have

Prof. Joynes, a learned and gifted Virginian, connected with South Carolina College, has a German grammar that is now used in over forty colleges, universities and schools, including the University of Michigan, University of California University of Virginia, Washington and Lee University and Vanderbilt University. It is pleasant to note such a Southern success.

The English people have at heart but little use for America. The Lon. don correspondent of the New York Times, cables that Levy Lawson, owner of the London Telegraph, said to him that if he gave orders never to have America mentioned in his paper for six months he would not get a complaint from a single sub-

"How very, very happy Mr. Charles A Dana is to get back." - Washington Post.

But who wants such a fellow "back?" An old Republican, he has never yet shed his skin. Mr. Cleveland was elected in the face of the lies and slanders of the Sun and can be elected a second time without the aid of such an utterly unreliable and treacherous sheet.

Here is the way a plain rumor of Secretary Bayard's marriage with a young woman in one of the Departments is announced in the London Court Journal:

"Mr. Bayard, President of the Council of Ministers of the United States, is about to be married to Mile. Markoe. Mr. Bayard, it is stated, rejoices in the fact that he is the descendant of an illustrious side. That is the most extreme view | Bright's disease, with which he had we have yet seen. Well, this is a free country and we cannot all see alike.

The death of Lord Dalhousie a Havana immediately after the death of his wife is very touching. She was one of the most beautiful women in Europe. He nursed her night and day until she died. This completely broke him down. He was passionately devoted to her. He was found dead.

An eleven-year-old boy in Philadelphia died from the effects of "nar cotic possoning from smoking cigarettes." Boys, beware of the weed, and especially in this shape.

The Californian Republicans are very generous. The members of Congress say they will agree to a Protective Tariff and repeal of the internal revenue as a compromise. That is indeed promising. They believe in dear blankets and wool hats and warm clothing and cheap whiskey and tobacco.

The London Times is engaged in a kind of warfare upon Mr. Parnell that is not worthy of a great paper. It tried to injure him and break his influence by a forged letter or leta ters. It is about to publish scandalous stories attacking Mr. Parnell. This betrays the hopelessness of the Tory cause.

Editor Dorsheimer, of the New York Star, thinks the Vice Presidential nomination should come from Indiana. A good suggestion. How will McDonald do? If he has a good political record he may answer Indiana will be needed next year.

There are 406,007 pensioners. The increase for four months of present fiscal year was 10,641. This is to be added to the first sum. Wipe out the internal tax, and every dollar must come from the Tariff, and necessaries must always be taxed.

There have been 3,043 new post offices established during the year and 1,500 discontinued. During the year 13,078 postmasters were appointed. Pennsylvania leads. There are 7,745 money offices in operation, an increase of 481.

Death of Mr. Edwin J. Thorpe.

Mr. Edwin J. Thorpe died at his residence in this city yesterday morning at half-past nine o'clock, after an illness of a few weeks duration, of malarial fever. Mr. Thorpe was born in Walsall, Eng., January 23d, 1857. He came to this country in 1875, and spent a year in Philadelphia, in the employ of the Pennsylvania R. R. Co.; after which, near the close of 1876 he, came to Wilmington, at the request of the Auditor of the Atlantic Coast Line, in whose office he was employed as clerk and secretary to the General Superintendent and President. Thence he went into the office of the General Freight and Passenger Agent, where he remained until last January, when he became private secretary to the General Manager of the Coast Line, which office he filled up to the time of his

Mr. Thorpe was the organist and leader of St. James Episcopal choir in this city. In 1881, he married Miss Jennie Brink, daughter of Col. E. R. Brink, of this city. He leaves two children, to whom together with their bereaved mother we extend our sincerest sympathy and condolence. Knowing him as we did, we admired him for his talents, his sterling integrity and the candor that ever marked his transactions with his fellow men. As a friend we were drawn to him by the cheerfulness with which he ever aided those who sought his help, by the unselfishness of his generous disposition and the determination and

In a note to the STAR Capt. W. H. Bixby gives the Prescott-McLean troupe, which appears here on Friday and Saturday next, the following endorsement:

"For fear that a really first class theatrical troupe might meet with a poor house at its first performance, and for fear that lovers of good acting and legitimate drama might lose a performance which they would be sorry for losing, I wish through the columns of your paper to call the attention of the Wilmington public to the performances of the Prescott-Mc-Lean troupe advertised for this week Friday and Saturday, the 2nd and 2rd of December. In this troupe, not only have the leading actor and actress shown themselves to be stars of the first order, but they are excellently well supported by the rest of the company-a rare combination tor travelling troupe. This troupe played at Columbia, S. C., about three weeks ago during the fair week. At their first performance, because comparatively unknown in Columbia, they met with an almost empty house; but at their second performance over two hundred people had to be turned away for lack of seats and standing

Funeral of Mrs. Walker Meares.

Funeral services over the remains of Mrs. Walker Meares, whose sad death was announced in the STAR, were held in St. James' church yesterday morning at half-past ten o'clock. A friend tells us that there is considerable talk in town of organizing the "burnt cork talent" in the city and placing it on the boards for the entertainment and amusement of the public. We are assured that there ean be no doubt that there are any number of young men who will take hand in something of the kind and that a most amusing entertainment can be gotten up. By all means let us have it. It is proposed that a per-formance be given for the benefit of the Ladies' Benevolent Association.

Mayor's Court

Wm. Myers, colored, charged with disorderly conduct, was fined twenty dollars in the Mayor's Court yesterday, with the alternative of thirty days in the city prison.

William Anderson, Nicholas Anderson and Antonio Anderson, sailors, had a row in Mrs. Bryson's boarding house, about 1280 o'clock yesterday morning:a police officer was called and two of the sailors arrested; afterwards the other one. William got $10, or twenty days; the other two got $20, or thirty days each.

Criminal Court.

The trial of Stephen Freeman, colored, for rape, was resumed yesterday at one o'clock p. m. The court room was crowded with spectators throughout the afternoon and evening until the case was given to the jury, shortly after eight o'clock. The testimony of the witnesses for the defence was all in by four o'clock, and Mr. Elliott, counsel for the defence, addressed the jury. He was followed by his associate, Mr. Strange; Solicitor Moore making the closing argument for the State. Judge Meares occupied about an hour in the delivery of his charge to the jury. It was fair and impartial. He gave a lengthy review of the evidence, both for the State and the defence. The prosecutrix he said, gave the same testimony in court in relation to the assault that she did to the corroborating witnesses. As to the question of identity she was positive; she saw the man in a bright light, and she would know him again. The defence was that she is a woman of bad character; that she had a bastard child? years ago and that she ought not to be believed; they also offered evidence of a contradictory character as to the identity of the prisoner. About the alibi set up by the defence, the Judge charged that it must be established to the satisfaction of the jury; it did not rest upon the State to show that the alibi was not established, He told the jury to take the case and consider it carefully, without regard to popular 'sentiment. It was their sworn duty to render a verdict in accordance with the law and the evidence. The Judge then reminded the jury that it was a rule of law. applicable in all cases, that to convict a prisoner they must be convinced of his guilt beyond a reasonable doubt. He suggested that the jury | Sales at 11 Click A. M. 7 Click P. go to supper, and directed the Sheriff to put them in charge of a sworn officer, and to clear the Court room. It was brought out on the trial that Mrs. Sellers' maiden name was Bogan, and that she was a native of Anson county, this State. She came to Wilmington about seven years ago, when she was about sixteen or seventeen years of age.

At twelve o'clock last night the ury had not agreed upon a verdict. In all probability the result will be a mistrial-the jury unable to agree.

For Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Eastern Florida, slightly warmer fair weather. light to fresh winds, generally from north to east.

The Cold Wave. The predictions of the Signal Service were verified. The temperature yesterday morning fell to thirty-eight degrees, which was a fall of thirtysix degrees from the highest. During the day the temperature rose about ten degrees-the natural result of a clear day-but after the in fluences of the sun were removed, it started on its downward course again and by 10 p. m. stood at 35, just ten degrees lower than at the same hour the preceding night.

The barometer vesterday generally was the highest recorded for a long time and the temperature in the northwest was the lowest for the season, being from twenty to twenty-
