The Mayor called the Board to order and asked for the report of the committee, which was read by Alderman Fishblate, chairman, as follows:

The special committee to whom was referred for consideration and report the agreement between the Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railroad Company and the commissioners on the part of the city, respectfully report: That the terms end conditions of said agreement have been carefully considered, and the committee unanimously recommend (the Board of Audit and Finance concurring) that an election be ordered on a day hereafter to be designated, for submission to the qualified voters of the city of the question of a subscription to the capital stock of said railroad company in the sum of $150,000, agreeably to the terms and conditions of said agreement, and that the sum of $500 be ap propriated for the expenses of said

Ricaud's remarks Aldermen Rice. Price and Walker came in and took their seats, and on motion of Alderman Fishblate the report of the committee was again read.

Alderman Fishblate said that he gentleman should remember that they were there to carry out the wishes of their constituents, and how could these wishes be ascertained without submitting the matter to a popular vote. He thought the city could readily afford the ex penditure even if $250,000 were necessary to carry out this and other railroads proposed. He mentioned the advantages the city had derived from existing railroads The Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Rail road, he said, would open up a new territory, and put' our business men in direct communication with people who are now strangers to us. Besides this, every dollar of the subscription voted would be spent by the railroad company right here.

Alderman Pearsall said he could not vote for the subscription to be submitted to the people because he did not think it the proper thing to do. If he could relieve himself of his obligation and duty to the city he would be glad to sustain the committee. With his knowledge of the aftained that he was boarding at the fairs of the city he was satisfied that Wilmington's greatest need was for money to expend in the permanent improvement of her streets, and to provide proper measures for sanitation. Let us, he said, build sawdust pavements no longer, and trust no scavengers.

At the conclusion of Alderman Pearsall's remarks the Mayor put the question of the adoption of the rethat the ayes and noes be taken.

Walker. Alderman Price asked to be excused from voting.

Alderman Pearsall questioned the right of the Mayor to vote, unless it was to decide a matter when the Board was equally divided.

The Mayor affirmed his right to vote, and said that he proposed to exercise the right until the Supreme Court told him not to do so. He ruled that Alderman Pearsall was out The matter was further discussed by Aldermen Pearsall, Fishblate and The Mayor announced that the report of the committee had been adopted. Alderman Dudley entered his protest against the vote of the Mayor being recorded.

A communication was read by the Clerk from the Wilmington, Onslow & East Carolina Railroad Company, accompanied by a petition signed by about 1,200 voters of the city, asking that an election be ordered by the Board on the question of a subscription of $100,000 to the capital stock of the company.

On motion of Alderman Ricaud the communication was referred to a committee. The Mayor appointed Aldermen Ricaud, Fishblate and Dudley as the committee, with instructions to report at the next meeting.

A motion offered by Alderman Fishblate that the Board adjourn to meet next Friday (to-morrow) at 5 p. m. was adopted.

A petition was received and read from the Wilmington & Sea Coast Railroad Company, asking for right of way with permission to lay its track and run its engines with such turnouts as may be necessary, upon Brunswick, from Eighth to McRae street; Fanning from McRae to Dickinson; Dickinson from Fanning to Mulberry; Tenth from Mulberry to Castle; Church from Eleventh to Cape Fear river.

Alderman Fishblate offered a resolution that the petition be granted, but withdrew the resolution on the statement being made that the right of way on some of the streets named had been granted to the Wilmington, Onslow & East Carolina Railroad Co. On motion of Alderman Price the petition was referred to the Committee on Streets and Wharves, with instructions to report at the next meeting of the Board.

The Assembly Herald of Chautauqua, in a notice of this company, which appears here to-night, says: "Mr. King led off with a Rondo in the minor as a piano solo; 'twas encored, and followed with a Polish dance. And did one ever before hear such a cadenza as Mr. Emerson startwas made before he had finished it. Then the pyrotecnic display that followed! Nobody need go to Coney Island to hear Levy; hereafter come to Chautauqua and hear Emerson: a perfect tone, unexcelled virtuosity, and a brilliancy and dash that caplonger to buzzards to do the work of tured the applause of 10,000 at every opportunity. Madam Henson Emer-son declaimed her recitative in Gounod's famous aria, and then sang just as we expected her to, like the prima donna that she is-a voice as pure as a bird's at every pitch, an enunciation that enables the audience to understand every word sung. If one number of the music was better than another, it was when Mr. Emerson had his cornet sing with Mrs. Emerson in the beautiful and immortal serenade of Schubert. The song itself is an inspiration; last evening it was an intoxication of delight."

Jim the Penman. The play last night of "Jim the Penman" is one that will be long remembered in Wilmington by the large crowd that assembled to hear it. The play itself is most admirably conceived and is put on the stage in a most telling manner. There was no flaw in the whole performance, and all that the audience regretted was that it ended too soon.

The company is the most evenly balanced one that has been here this season, and one and all in it were up to the highest mark of excellence.

Some of the scenes are most thrilling, and one in particular where Mrs. Ralston (Miss May Brooklyn) denounces her husband (Mr. George Edgar) for his perfidy. There it was that both Miss Brooklyn and Mr. Edgar had full scope to show their great qualities as actors, and Miss Brooklyn especially evinced her unmistakable genius.

Miss Sanders, as Agnes, was a sweet and winsome lassee, and Mr. Eytinge, as Baron Hartfield, was all that the most fastidious could desire.

Mr. Wright Huntington made quite a hit in the part of Louis Percival, and Mr. Lewis Baker, as Captain Redwood, attracted the attention and admiration of the whole house, not only by the thorough knowledge of his part, but also by his inimitable shake, to which the audience could not exactly catch on.

The company cannot fail to draw wherever it goes, and if it keeps up to its present standard, will always be followed by a most enviable repu-
