On last night Rev. Mr. Pearson did not preach one of his great sermons, but be preached one of his direct, plain, pointed, caustic, earnest, persuasive discourses that was aimed at the sinner. The subject was-"What shall I do with Jesus." A very large congregation was present.

Rev. Dr. Morgan Dix, rector of Trinity Church, N. Y., and one of the ablest divines in that great city, recently preached a very severe' sermon upon the morality of "society" women of New York. There is only too good reason to believe that the Doctor's strictures were just. A great screaming has been heard, and a vicious press denounces him, while women of a certain type assault him in the papers.

The sermon of Mr. Pearson, on Sunday, was one of great power and interest. It was upon the Holy Spirit. There were supposed to be not far from 4,500 people in and outside of the Tabernacle. There were 84 conversions. On Friday night there were 71. On Monday morning there were probably 1,500 persons at the Bible study. It was on the Work of the Holy Spirit. It was one of the best, and that exhausts praise.

Rev. Mr. Pearson's Sermon on Sunday Night.

Sunday night Mr. Pearson preached to the largest crowd that has yet gathered to hear him; not only was the hall packed to its utmost capacity, but the street was full clear back to the Building on the other side. The sermon was a simple unfolding of Bible truth on a great theme, and the intense silence with which it was received, and the profound impression it created, was a convincing proof of Mr. Pearson's great principle that the Word of God is itself the greatest preacher. The text was John 14:26, "But the Comforter, which is the Holy Ghost, whom the Father will send in my name, he shall teach you all things, and bring all things to your remembrance, whatsoever I have said unto you."

Mr. Pearson said: The Bible teaches the Trinity. I don't understand it, nor explain it, nor interpret it; I simply believe it as God's revelation of Himself. Each person of the Trinity had a work to do in man's redemption. The Father devised this wondrous plan (Eph. i: 9, 10). The Son came to execute it, and so He says, "I must work the works of Him that sent me" (John ix: 4); so in dying He cried, "It is finished." What was finished? The plan the Father had devised. The work of the Holy Spirit is to apply this salvation to our hearts and make it efficacious. Of Him I wish to preach te you to-night. There is as much merit and joy for this subject in men's minds as on almost any other. People think of the Holy Ghost as an influence, an attribute, an emanation, or-as some one once said to me-an and seek there the answer to five questions. 1. Is the Holy Ghost a personality? In Matt. xxvi: 19, we have the name of the Holy Ghost in the formula of Baptism along with the Father and the Son. Therefore any argument that will lead us to deny the personality of the Holy Ghost will deny that of the Fether and the Son. So, logically, theologically and scripturally, you must take your choice between admitting the personality of the Holy Ghost, or taking refuge in bold atheafflatus. So let's go to God's word, ism or infidelity. In Matt., xii: 18, we have the blasphemy against the Holy Spirit spoken of as the one unpardonable sin. Mr. Pearson paused here to explain the sin against the Holy Spirit and to give a caution. It is evident from the context that this sin was attributing Christ's miracles, which were done by the Holy Ghost, to the devil. The sin can be committed now, for it is the age of the Holy Ghost. Now God is doing a precious work here. It must be evident to any impartial observer that this is not the work of any man or set of men, but the work of the Holy Ghost. Strong men are bowing themselves at the feet of Jesus, forsaking their vices, burying their feuds. These eager, anxious crowds are not drawn by rhetoric or eloquence or philosophy. It is the Holy Ghost. Now let any one stand on the street corners and talk of this work as all bosh, as hurrah, as animal magnetism; he is coming dangerously close to the sin against the Holy Spirit, and is standing on the ragged edge of perdition,

2. What is the relation of the Hely

Ghost to the Word of God? (1) He is the author of the Bible. All scripture is given by inspiration of God, (2 Tim. iii: 16.) Holy men spoke as they were moved by the Holy Ghost (2 Pet. i: 21). And wrote that He is the author of the whole of it-ALL scripture, history, biography, doctrine and all. People need not be troubled that it contains record of lies, adultery, polygamy, etc. There is a great difference between the lie or the sin being inspired, and the record of it being inspired. We don't hold the judge and clerk responsible for the crimes on the court record, but only for the accuracy of the record. Nor can you except anything marvellous, not to believe-Jonah and the whale for instance. Nothing opposed to common sense in it. If God could make a whale at all He could make one big enough to swallow Jonah. Record says God prepared a great fish-it was made to order. And Jesus Christ endorses the story in Matt. 12th chap. Take care how you give Him and the Holy Ghost the lie. This is the same chapter in which He spoke of the sin against the Holy Ghost. (2) The Holy Ghost is the teacher of the word. (See text). That is the reason these things are foolishness to the natural mind. They are spiritually discovered, and you need the spirit to teach them to you. Come to the word only with your intellect, your learning, your criticism, and you won't understand it. These things won't give you the combination to unlock this treasure-vault. Come to the Holy Ghost in the spirit of a little child and He will take of the things of Jesus and show them unto you. (8.) He is not confined to the Word. | tieness, persuasive tenderness and | The Board adjourned subject to In the case of Lydia He preceded love but if resisted, and rejected, the call of the chairman. (8.) He is not confined to the Word.

the Word, opening her heart to receive it. With infants and idiots He acts entirely independent of the Word. With Abel he used the first spoken promise. With the heathen, without the written Word He may use we know not how little truth. This possibility, though, would be a poor excuse for not sending them the gospel. I hear there are some people in Wilmington who don't believe in Foreign Missions. God pity them. 3. What is the relation of the Holy Chost to the sinner? In John xvi: 8, we see that He reproves and convinces of sin. Have you not felt that in this meetingthat you were a sinner on the way to hell. Why? It is the Spirit moving on your heart. And it would be as hard to find a leaf that had never been shaken by the wind, as to find in this land a heart that had never been moved by the Spirit. Again, in Acts vii: 51, we see that men resist the Spirit. So we see the Spirit opposing us, and resisting us as we go on in sin. Illustrated by a mother seeking to dissuade her son from going out to haunts of vice. Because she loves him; so because the Spirit loves us He resists us on our way to ruin. And in Gen. vi: 3, we see that God's Spirit shall not always strive. Just as the mother when resisted may at length give up, so the Spirit resisted, will at length leave you, and when He does you are lost.

Mr. Pearson here related cases from his own experience to show that this was not theory but a solemn terrible fact-where persons had by their own confession when under deep conviction determined that they would not yield, and then felt themselves left. so that they knew they were lost, but were able to feel absolutely no concern about it.

4. What is the relation of the Holy Ghost to the child of God? Exactly the same as to the humanity of

In Luke i: 3, 5, we read that Christ was born by the power of the Holy Ghost. In John i: 12, 13, we read that the same is true of believers (Compare John iii: 5.)

In Matt. iii: 16, we read that Christ was baptized by the Holy Spirit; in Acts i: 5, we read the same of be-

In Matt. iii: 1, we read that Christ was led by the Spirit; in Rome viii 14, we read the same of believers. And here let me remark: the Holy Ghost never led a man into a saloon, nor into a godless theatre, nor to a hop, nor to oppress the poor, nor to cheat his neighbor. In John i:32 we read that the Spirit abode upon Christ: in John xiv:16 He is promised to abide with us. But why, then, are they not always happy? Because by sin they grieve Him and destroy their communion with Him. Illustrated by a child that has disobeyed his father: the father is grieved and the son is shy of him. He is no less his son than before, but the happiness and communion is gone But when the child draws near and confesses his sin and asks forgiveness; then communion and happiness are restored. So with the Spirit. In Luke iv:14 we read of Christ in the power of the Spirit; in Acts i:8, 9 we read of the same power coming upon His believing children, and if we would witness with power to our fellow-men we must have the Holy Ghost. Lastly, in Rom. viii:11 we read that the Spirit raised the humanity of Christ from the dead and will also quicken our mortal bodies with Him.

5. What are the emblems by which the Scriptures convey to us ideas of the Holy Ghost. In John xiv:16 He is the Paroclete, Comforter, Advocate. When Christ left the world He did not leave us orphans, but sends the Spirit as our Comforter and Protector.

In John iii: 8, He is represented as wind. We can't see the wind, nor know whence it comes, but can feel its power. Thank God, no one can convince me I have not felt the power of the Spirit in my heart. This experience is the bulwark of the saints. In John, vii: 33, He is shown us as water. Water cheers and refreshes, we don't know why, but it satisfies our wants just as well as if we did. So with the Spirit.

In Luke xiv: 18, He appears as oil. How it calms, soothes, strengthens. Ingersoll's ignorance in ridiculing the prohibition about imitating the holy oil of the Tabernacle. It was because it was an emblem of the Spirit, and the sin against the Spirit was the unpardonable sin, that profaning it or making it common was so, severely

In Acts 2:3, we read of the Spirit as fire. Fire gives light, makes things hot like itself, purifies, elevates, and the detached sparks fly upward. So the Spirit illumines, makes us like Himself, purifies us, elevates our sonls to God, and when the spirit in which He dwells is detached from the clay, like a spark of immortality it flies straight up to God.

And, lastly, in John 1:32, we read of Him as the dove. Never as the eagle and advertising awarded by the or bird of prey, but always the gentle, timid dove. So He comes in gen-tleness, persuasive tenderness and wings its way, and the man is left alone. And now remember the parts of the three Persons in our salvation. The Father was to devise the scheme, and He has done it. The Son was to execute it, and He has done it. The Spirit was to apply it and make efficacious, and when He has come to do it and been driven away, there is no other God to come.

So we read of the wrath of God (the Father), and the wrath of the Lamb. but never of the wrath of the Holy Ghost. Gentle, tender, persuasive, loving, when grieved and resisted He merely takes His flight and leaves the soul to take its chosen destiny.

The attendance at the meeting Menday morning was very large. Mr. Pearson stated that as Tuesday was the annual meeting of the Produce Exchange, he would give the Bible reading te "Mothers" on that day, and to the business men on Wednesday. He then addressed the audience from John xiv: 16, 17. He gave twelve references concerning the work of the Holy Ghost.

He made clear to many minds that which they had never understood be-

Last night, after preliminary services, conducted by Rev. Mr. Tolson, Mr. Pearson read a portion of the 27th chapter of Matthew, from which he selected the 22d verse, "What, then, shall I do with Jesus?" There were three thoughts which he presented

1. "You must do something with Jesus." Life is short and your reception or rejection of Him decides your fate for eternity. "What did you do with Jesus?" will be the question that will meet you at the judgment bar. You will not be allowed to hide behind the faults of others-it is a pure ly personal matter.

2. "You have done something with Jesus." You have compromised this question, deferred it, accepted Christ, or rejected Him. There can be no compromise; to defer only makes it harder to accept Jesus. To reject Him is to lose all, and in the end get nothing but eternal misery. To accept Him is to gain all, in this world and the world to come. Which is preferable?

3. "What are you going to do nou with Jesus?" With wonderful power and pathos he appealed to the un converted to decide for Jesus and heaven. He urged the thought that this night might be the turning point

A large proportion of the audience repaired to the inquiry room deeply impressed, and fifty-one professed
