

MORNING EDITION.

OUTLINES.

In the Senate yesterday Mr. Wilson of Iowa made a speech on the subject of the President's annual message; the House bill for the purchase of U. S. bonds, with the Beck amendment, was then passed, and a committee of conference ordered; the entire day in the House was spent in a continuation of Wednesday's wrangle over the motion to adjourn until Saturday, not an incident of interest occurring, and finally a recess until this morning was unanimously agreed to.

The Mississippi Republicans held a convention at Jackson on Wednesday and selected forty-one delegates to the National Convention at Chicago. A fire in Baltimore, yesterday morning, destroyed two warehouses on Hopkins' wharf, in which a large quantity of coal oil was stored; the burning oil ran into the harbor, doing some damage to sailing vessels, and making the surface, for a time, a sheet of flame; the damage is estimated at $10,000.

On Wednesday afternoon a wind and hail storm prevailed at Fairbault, Minn., which did a large amount of damage to property, and which, it is thought, will exceed $100,000. At a meeting of the directors of the Richmond and West Point R. R. Co., in New York, yesterday, Alfred Sully resigned the Presidency in favor of Vice President Logan. The Republican majority in Rhode Island for Governor is 1,884. The Democratic State Convention of New York will be held in the city of New York on the 14th of May. A man who had brutally murdered his wife at Fort Collins, Col., was taken from jail, Wednesday night, and hanged by a mob of three hundred men. Major General Alfred H. Terry has been placed on the retired list of the Army. Jacob Sharp, the noted New York boodler, died at his residence in that city yesterday. A telegram has been received in Raleigh, from Chief of Police Heatt, at Toronto, stating that White and Cross are willing to return home, and that no compromise has been made. A terrible railroad accident occurred yesterday near New Hampton, Iowa, by which a dozen or more persons were killed and eighteen or twenty injured; the engine and three coaches plunged into a swollen creek, and many lost their lives by drowning before aid could reach them. Rumors prevail in Europe of the intended resignation of Count Bismarck, the German Chancellor, and a London dispatch says that they are well founded. Four thousand Irish emigrants sailed from Queenstown yesterday for America. New York markets: Money easy at 92 1/2 per cent, closing at 24 per cent; cotton quiet and steady at 19 1/2-19 1/4-19 1/2; wheat, No. 2 red April 89 @ 89 1/2; corn, No. 2 May 60 @ 60 1/2; rosin steady at $1 21/2 @ 25; spirits turpentine quiet at 80c.

We wrote "consuming zeal" in our brief notice of the sermon in yesterday's STAR. There is said to be excellent prospect of refunding the direct tax. Many Republicans will support the bill. Julian Hawthorne is to have an English consulate. His gifted father was a Democrat and a consul to England. There is a medical fraud in New York who is a double dealer, with double signs and gives prescriptions under two names. A New York Assemblyman has been offered a bribe money by a rascally lobbyist. An investigation ought to be had. Queen Victoria, after visiting Florence, Italy, will go to Potsdam, Prussia, to visit her daughter and son-in-law—the Empress and the Emperor.

Mr. Gladstone is an excellent teacher and he has some apt pupils and even among the Tories. The Philadelphia American says: "Mr. Goehs's budget shows how well he studied national finance under the leadership of Mr. Gladstone, when he still belonged to the Liberal party. Indeed the only two financiers worthy of the name the Tories had since Peel were men who learnt the art under Peel's greatest friend and disciple."

The Danville Register pays the following tribute to a gentleman who is well known in Wilmington, and who is now editing the Norfolk Virginian: "Captain Henry E. Orr, editor of the Norfolk Virginian, has been selected to deliver the poem on the occasion of Confederate memorial day in Norfolk. From other modesty, our old friend bridled his tongue for a long time, but poetry will out and we have read of late a number of poetic gems from the pen of 'H. E. O.' and we want more of them."

Fully 1,700 persons attended the Bible study on Pure Religion yesterday morning. Mr. Pearson said he was very weak and worn. What we heard was edifying. We have been studying the hall. To appreciate the preacher you must be close to him—not more than fifteen or twenty feet from him. At thirty feet the force of his magnetism and the power of his preaching is very greatly lessened. We have heard him some fifteen times or more when close to him. We have heard him at thirty feet to the right and at twenty feet at the side. The effects when in front and not more than ten or fifteen feet, are very much greater than when in the middle or at the remote parts of the room. No man has heard Mr. Pearson at his best who has not been near him. His peculiar tones—grown so entrancing to us—his tender tear tones—his sweet, wailing, pathetic tones—his facial play, his admirable gesticulation are all more or less lost as you get away from him. The difference between hearing him close and at forty or fifty feet is the difference between a spent ball and one discharged from the gun at short range. Get up near.

Representative O'Neill, of Missouri, has been in France and is disgusted at the jingoism that prevails. But here is the joke on him as reported in the N. Y. World: "Here," said he, as they drove past a shop in which loaves of fresh made bread shone out through the windows, "here is an instance I've seen that name painted on fully one hundred shops this morning. You people never let a man grow prominent without worshipping him, and as for that man Boulanger, whose name is painted up over these shops he may be a great man in America, we would not worship him like a god." The guide burst into a roar of French laughter, and finally explained to O'Neill that "Boulanger" was the French word for "baker," and that the shops he supposed to be worshipping the French general were merely baker-shops for the sale of bread, biscuits and rolls.

At Coney Island the great Brighton Beach Hotel was picked up and carried 120 feet. Six locomotive engines did it. The New York Star says: "The total weight which was moved was 11,204,000 pounds, divided as follows: 8,000,000 pounds of hotel, 2,600,000 pounds of cars, 600,000 pounds of beams, 4,000 pounds of rope. If it were broken up and carried away in wagons, a ton to the load, it would fill 4,000 wagons, or a wagon train twenty miles long. The hotel glided along 6 feet 6 inches. It didn't tremble. Its wheels didn't vibrate. A bird who roared lighted on its roof, didn't know what was up. The hotel went as smoothly as if it had been railroading all its life, so to speak. The crowd of spectators cheered."

Joseph H. Choate is one of the lights at the New York city bar. A correspondent of the Charleston News & Courier writes of him: "Choate does not earn his hundred thousand dollars a year by doing nothing. His questions literally come in exquisite English, although he seldom raises his voice above conversational pitch. He is the most delightful and eloquent of our lawyers to listen to. The words come in exquisite English and beautiful modulation, but with withering force. When Choate asks Hilton to explain the failure of the women's hotel project there will be a treat for those who love to see a wrangle upon the rack. Hilton will have to explain why the noble charity designed by Stewart for the working women of New York came to nothing but profit for the Hilton-Stewart estate."

Mr. Pearson was not at his best last night. He seemed physically feeble. His sermon was Christ the Way. It was of course clear, simple, direct, earnest, persuasive. It had some rich things in it, fresh and new, although running on parallel lines with other sermons in the series. In illustration he is without a rival. There were a number of conversions and many backsliders reclaimed.

A battle between the Italians and Abyssinians is reported as imminent. "Admirably Edited." Charlotte Observer. His admirably edited and well gotten up daily has recently entered upon a new volume. As the STAR grows older, its brilliancy increases. While not agreeing with it in all things, it is ever a welcome visitor, and it is sadly missed when it fails to reach this office. Long life and increased prosperity to it.

The following are the indications for today, received at 1 a. m.: For North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia, threatening weather with rain, followed by colder, fair weather, winds becoming light to fresh northeasterly.

Local Notes.

The county authorities are setting a good example in whitewashing the trees in front of the Court House.

The Davis Cadets, from La Grange, will take part in the Memorial Services here on the 10th of May.

The schooner Mary E. Bacon arrived yesterday with a cargo of steel rails for the Seacoast Railway Company.

We notice in attendance upon the Pearson meetings, of reverends, Guthrie, Ashby, Smith, Forbes, Best, Sprunt, McMillan, McFadden, Phillips, and others.

We had the pleasure of a visit yesterday from Mr. H. I. McDuffie, of Fayetteville, an old-time newspaper man, but now engaged in a more profitable business.

Capt. J. M. McGowan, one of the newly-appointed health officers, has entered actively upon the discharge of his duties. He is active and energetic, and will give satisfaction in his new position.

The peal of bells for Grace M. E. Church has arrived, and workmen were engaged yesterday in preparations to put them in position in the cupola. The bells are three in number, weighing 350, 400 and 800 pounds, respectively.

The schooner Regulator cleared yesterday for Beaufort, N. C., with a quantity of lumber and other building material, shipped by Mr. Ransley, the contractor, and to be used in the erection of an Episcopal church near Beaufort.

Our venerable friend, James Evans, of the city of Idaho, Cumberland county, called on us yesterday. Jim has very recently become entangled in the meshes of matrimony; and as one of the results, he is here to attend the Tabernacle meetings.

A well-known gentleman of this city is authority for the statement that a request in behalf of prayer for a young man away from Wilmington was sent into the Pearson meeting one night last week, and yesterday the news reached here of his conversion, and that conviction seized hold upon him about the very time prayer was being offered in the Tabernacle in his behalf.

A schooner wrecked. The schooner Douglas Hovey, Capt. Blake, from Perth Amboy for Brunswick, Ga., with a cargo of railroad iron, grounded on Frying Pan Shoals about five miles west of the lightship, at daylight last Wednesday morning, and a few hours afterwards filled with water. Capt. John W. Harper, with the steam tug Alexander Jones, went to the assistance of the stranded vessel, but found her in such position that she could not be floated. The captain and crew, eight in number, were taken off and the vessel was stripped of sails, boats and some of the rigging. The officers and crew saved all their effects, and came up to the city yesterday on the Alexander Jones. It was thought that the wrecked schooner broke up in the heavy gale that prevailed on the coast yesterday.

A woman to be hanged. A colored woman named Alice Brown was convicted of murder at Whiteville (Columbus) Court last Wednesday, and sentenced to be hanged. The crime for which she is to suffer is the murder of an old negro known as "Squire George." He was over eighty years of age at the time of the murder, last February. His Honor Judge Phillips sentenced the prisoner to be hanged on the 7th of July next.

The hanging of a woman is something unusual in this State; but the correspondent of the STAR writes that the sentence of the law in this case will most likely be carried into effect, and "justice meted out to her on that day, as she is looked upon as an exceedingly bad character."

Mayer's Court. In this court yesterday, Tony Wooten, colored, who had been arrested several days ago on the charge of stealing chickens, was discharged. Frank Mumford, the colored "dude," charged with being concerned in the robbery of Mr. J. H. Daniels' clothing store, was committed to jail in default of bond in the sum of $100 for his appearance at the next term of the Criminal Court.

Ben Cooper and Wm. Gordon, charged with disorderly conduct, were each sentenced to pay ten dollars, or suffer imprisonment for twenty days.

St. Paul's Church. At a meeting of the Vestry of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, held last night, the following named gentlemen were elected: Senior Warden—Mr. DuB. Cutlar, Sr. Junior Warden—Mr. R. C. Cantwell.

As delegates to the Convention to be held at Fayetteville, May 3rd—Messrs. J. J. Hedrick, Jr., Wm. H. Bernard, W. P. Elliott, DuB. Cutlar, Sr. Alternates—Hon. Geo. Davis, and Messrs. L. J. Poisson, E. H. Pickett, and W. G. McRae.

THE TABERNACLE.

Interest in the Meetings Undiminished—Many Penitents—The Sermons Yesterday.

Yesterday morning, after singing, and prayer led by Rev. Alex. Sprunt, Mr. Pearson requested all ladies who feel especially interested in woman's work for woman, to remain after the services to devise plans for work among the outcasts of the city. Several of these unfortunates are already deeply interested.

He then spoke from the text James i: 28—especially the words "Pure religion." There is scarcely a word in the Bible, he said, more perverted—more misused—than the word "religion." The Bible idea is not to seek religion, but Christ. The expression "to get religion" is entirely erroneous. Some people have more of religion than of Christ; they will defend the peculiar tenets of their religion, but when they hear God's name blasphemed will not say one word Those who have least of pure religion generally make the greatest parade. The word religion appears in only three places in the Bible—Acts xxvi: 5, James i: 26, James i: 27—and only once does it refer to anything good. In Acts xxvi: 5 it refers to a Pharaisaical religion, an outward show; James i: 26, it refers to a vain religion; James i: 27, (the text) refers to pure religion—the proper kind to have.

What, he asked, are the manifestations of this kind of religion? 1. Having the spirit of Christ.—Rom. viii: 9. Christ had a gentle spirit, a loving spirit, a meek spirit, a self-denying spirit. Have you denied yourself in anyway for the cause of Christ? Christ lived for the good of mankind; can you lose yourself to glorify Him? Jesus had a forgiving spirit; have you any of the spirit of Jesus? 2. Having the mind that was in Christ.—Philippians ii: 5. Christ was a heavenly-minded man, not absorbed in the things of this world. He worked for a living, but did not allow business to crowd out thoughts of heaven. He thought of how he could do good to his fellow-men. He was pure-minded; nothing unclean could occupy His mind. You can't keep wicked thoughts from coming into your mind, but you can, by God's help, keep from entertaining them.

3. Bridling the tongue.—James i: 26. Do you bridle your tongue? If you retail gossip, give vent to your passions, speak evil of your enemies, you have not the spirit of Christ. 4. Visiting the fatherless and the widow. Jesus takes what is done for His children as done for Himself. The poor, the sick, the needy, are Christ's representatives. "Inasmuch as ye did it unto the least of these, my brethren, ye did it unto me," are Jesus' words. You can serve Him "As the days are going by," by helping those who need help.

5. To keep unspotted from the world.—James i: 27. It takes very little of mingling with this world to 'spot a Christian character. The question is not what is the harm in card parties, dancing, &c., but can you indulge in these things and keep unspotted from the world? 6. To diligently follow every good work.—1st Tim. v: 10. This is especially addressed to women. Rearing children is work for God.

7. Building up yourselves in the most holy faith.—Jude xx: 21. Are you building up your consecration, your faith, your love, day by day? If so, you show the spirit of Christ, and possess true religion.

The rain interfered so with the congregation hearing, that Mr. Pearson omitted much he wanted to say. THE EVENING SERVICE. Preliminary services were led by Rev. Mr. Primrose. It was then requested that the society known here some years ago as the "Magdalen Society," would meet in the First Baptist Church Friday a. m., at 11 o'clock, to confer with a band of workers engaged in woman's work for woman. Requests for prayer were read, and prayer was offered by Rev. Mr. Greasy. Mr. Pearson then announced that there would be no morning service today, but the service for children at 3.30 o'clock.

After a brief prayer he spoke from the text, John xiv: 6. It is interesting to study the different ways in which Christ is presented to us. The text presents Him as the Way to God. That form of religion that repudiates the Divinity of Christ is an ecclesiastical and theological monstrosity. "Nature has taught us, like the Athenians, to worship an 'Unknown God,'" but Jesus reveals the way to that God. The colors of the rainbow are in the light, but the prism is required to reveal them. God is not revealed fully save through Jesus. Jesus is the whole way of salvation. Gen. iii: 24. Adam and Eve were sent out of Eden and there was no way for them to return to the tree of life, because of the angel with the flaming sword. Rev. H. reveals to us the tree of life unguarded, and the way to that tree is through the atonement of Jesus. Genesis and Revelations are the complement of each other. Man's part is to accept Him as the way—sanctification, justification, redemption, are all through Christ. Jesus is the only way. Acts iii: 12. Are you willing to take God's words or will you reject His way? Jesus is a living way.—Rom. x: 9, 22. Man is dead in trespasses and sin. Science, philosophy, electricity, learning, can't put life in a corpse! No one but God can give physical or spiritual life. Jesus says "He that believeth on Me hath everlasting life."

Jesus is a plain way.—Isa. xlv: 8. Many things in the Bible are very profound, but in all cases they are not essential to salvation. The essentials are so plain that a child can take them in. The deep questions are side issues. A grasshopper would be a fool to refuse to eat unless the solar system was explained to him. The Trinity, the Incarnation, the Vicarious Atonement, cannot be explained to finite beings, but they can believe and live. Jesus is a safe way.—Rom. viii: 14. Will you walk in it? Jesus is a peaceful way.—Rom. v: 1. Jesus is a happy way.—Acts xvi: 25. Not only a happy way hereafter but a happy way here. There is joy in His service. The song of Paul and Silas shook the doors of the jail open and converted the jailor. The Christian's life should be the happiest of all lives. Peace with God brings happiness on earth. Jesus is the glory way.—Col. iii: 4. His people will be glorified with Him. The interest in the inquiry room was great and twenty-two persons professed conversion.

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP.—REV. SYLVANUS COBB thus writes in the Boston Christian Freeman:—"We would by no means recommend the use of medicine to infants, who are known to be good—particularly to infants. But of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup we can speak from knowledge in our own family. It has proved a blessing indeed, by giving an infant troubled with colic pain, quiet sleep, and the parents unbroken rest at night. Most parents can appreciate these blessings. Here is an article which works to perfection, and which is harmless, for the sleep which it affords the infant is perfectly natural, and the little cherub awakes as 'bright as a button.' And during the process of teething its value is incalculable. We have frequently used it, and it has proved to be without a doubt the best medicine on any consideration whatever. Sold by all druggists. 25 cents a bottle."

DIRT IN A DITCH.

A Cart Upset on the Turnpike and a Colored Girl Thrown Out and Drowned.
Rosanna McDaniel, a colored girl about thirteen years of age, was smothered to death in a ditch, about a mile and a half from the city on the turnpike road last Wednesday night, at 9 o'clock.

The deceased, in company with her sister Mary Jane McDaniel, was riding in a cart with J. L. Brook, a white man, who was returning to his home on Greenville Sound from the city, and had taken the two girls into his cart at Fourth street market, where they had been selling oysters which they brought from the Sound that morning. Brook had been drinking heavily, and the girls, it is supposed, were also under the influence of liquor. All three laid down after leaving the city, and Brook and the elder girl claim that they were only awakened by finding themselves in the ditch by the roadside, an hour or two afterwards. The horse and cart were also in the ditch, which was about four feet wide, with water standing in it about two feet deep.

After getting out Brook got a light and search was made for the younger girl, but it was some time before they found her, lying face downwards in the mud in the bottom of the ditch and quite dead. In her evidence at the inquest the girl Mary Jane said she tried to pull her sister out of the ditch but Brook told her to let the body stay there and he would go to town and get help. Brook and the girl, however, remained there all night until Mr. Jesse Williams came along from the Sound and Brook got into his cart and was brought to the city.

Coroner Miller, when notified of the occurrence, went out to the place with a wagon and brought the body of the dead girl to the city. He found her lying face downwards in the mud, a few feet from the horse, which was also in the ditch, with one of its legs broken. At the inquest, which was held at an undertaker's shop on Second street, the janitor at the City Hall testified that at about 6 o'clock yesterday morning a cart was driven up to the Hall and he was told by the driver that a man lying down in the cart requested to be brought to the Hall. After being told of the accident the janitor awoke the man, who proved to be Brook, still very drunk, and locked him up.

Brook testified that he had been drinking and fell asleep in his cart and knew very little about the matter. His horse, he said, was blind in both eyes. The jury rendered a verdict that the deceased came to her death by accidental drowning. Coroner Miller sent word to the parents of the girl on Greenville Sound and in the meantime had the body prepared for burial. Brook was released from arrest and went home. His horse was found so badly injured that it was killed to end its sufferings.

A lady and gentleman left their residence a few evenings since for the "Tabernacle," and shortly thereafter a colored boy called at the house and told the servant in charge that the gentleman had sent him for a chair; but the trick didn't work, as the servant refused to deliver it.
