Inherited Diseases.

heritance are most numerous and are daily accumulating. Here, alas, they become ter rible, fateful and overwhelming. No fact of nature is more pregnant with awful meaning than the fact of the inheritance of disease. It meets the physician on his daily rounds, paralyzing his art and filling him with dismay. The legend of the ancient Greeks pictures the Furies as pursuing families from generation to generation, rendering them desolate. The Furies still nly their work of terror and death, but they are not now clothed in the garb of superstition, but appear in the more intelligible but no less awful form of hereditary disease. Modern science, which has illuminated so many dark corners of nature, has shed a new light on the ominous words of the Scriptures, "The sins of the fathers shall be visited upon the children unto the third and fourth generation." Instances of hereditary disease abound. Fifty per cent. of cases of consumption, that fearful destroyer of famiics, of cancer and scrofula, run in families through inheritance. Insanity is hereditary in a marked degree, but, fortunately, like many other hereditary diseases, tends to wear itself out, the stock becoming extinct. A distinguished scientist truly says: "No organ or texture of the body is exempt from the chance of being the subject of hereditary disease." Probably more chronic diseases, which permanently modify the structure and functions of the body, are more or less liable to be inherited. The important and far-reaching practical deductions from such facts-affecting so powerfully the happiness of individuals and families and the collective welfare of the nation-are obvious to reflecting minds, and the Best means for preventing or curing these diseases is a subject of intense interest to all. Fortunately nature has provided a remedy, which experience has attested as infallible, and the remedy is , the world-famous Swift's Specific, a pure vegetable compound-nature's antidote for all blood poisons. To the afflicted it is a blessing of inestimable value. An interesting treatise on "Blood and Skin Diseases" will be malled free by addressing THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO. Drawer 3, Atlanta, Ga.

eneral George J. Hundley: I have used the water from the Otterburn lithta and Magnesia Springs in quite a number of cases of Digestive Troubles, and always with benefit. In the case of an old gentleman of sventy years, with Dyspeptic and Urinary Troubles of twenty years' standing, with Structure and Enlarged Prostate. requiring the use of the catheter almost constantly, the residual urine setting up vesical trouble, with sympatical kidney trouble, with mental impairment also. After a protracted illness last summer from increase of all the symptoms, when his case seemed to be hopeless, I advised the use of the water from the Otterburn Springs, which he has used persistently up to the present time. He has used persistently up to the present time. He has gradually improved, and can now dispense with the catheter. His digestion is good, and hals doing as well as one at his age could expect. He receives no treatment other than the water from these springs Very truly, J. A. HILLSMAN, M. D.

General George J. Hundley:

For ten years past I have suffered greatly with my Kidneys and Biadder, and nothing gave me reliet until I began the use of Otterburn Lithia and Magnesia Water last August. This is decliedly the strongest of any mineral water I have ever used, and I have tried several kinds for five or six years When I began the use of this water I had just passed a large stone from the Kidneys, but have not passed any since. I heartily recommend this Water to all who may be suffering as I have been. C. A. HILL, Tenth and Main streets. General George J. Hundley:

RICHMOND, VA., September 6, 1887. General George J. Hundley, Amelia Courthouse

Dear Sir:—Our mutual friend, Mr. Charles B. Wingo, informs me that you desire my opinion of the Otterburn Lithia and Magnesia Water. I am satisfied that it is one of the finest waters in this country for Atonic Dyspepsia, and the tests I have subjected it to have been numerous, but slways satisfactory. I esteem it equally high in disorders of the urinary organs—for several of my cases of Kidney trouble have improved more rapidity under the use of the Otterburn Water than bethesda or Buffalo Lithia. To prove my appreciation I am daily using it in my practice, and have been much benefited by its use in my own case, which is one of Atonic Dyspepsia.

Very respectfully, J. G. TREVILIAN, M. D., 316 South Third street. R. R. BELLAMY, Agent, WILMINGTON, N. C.

ANNA ALEXANDER CAMERON, HILLSBORO, NORTH CAROLINA. [Lines written on hearing a distant bugle, and dedicated to the survivors of the

IN MEMORIAM.

Confederate States Army.] Faintly rings out a bugle horn, And fainter still its echoes die, Breaking the soft, sweet hush of morn With mimic war's wild minstrelsy.

And memories of the long ago Come thronging, as its notes I hear, When all the future seemed aglow With radiancy of promise fair. Adown the coming years did beat The pulse of hope, life seemed so bright That little recked we of defeat,

Nor dreamed such days could close in Freedom had gathered thirteen stars. Soft blue from out the sky she rent, Caught from the rainbow crimson bars That with the stars and blue were blent

Into a banner that shall live On history's page in song and story, By heroes wreathed with immortalles, A people's pride, a nation's glory.

She gave this standard to our trust And bade us to the conflict go, Never to trail it in the dust Or yield one fair star to the foe.

For four long years we kept at bay 'Gainst desperate odds their countless We fought and starved for many a day, Nor dreamed our cause could e'er be

But as the years went slowly by Our sun adown the west had crept; The flower of Southern chivalry On blood-stained fields by thousands

Disease and want had worn away Our shattered ranks, until at last ight's darkness fell athwart a day, When hope of victory was past.

On Appomattox, fatal plain, Faded from out our flag the stars, The blue crept back to heaven again, The rainbow claimed its blood-stained Ragged, hungry, weary men! Brave veterans of a hundred fields, You rallied for the last time then. And wrote defeat upon your shields.

Oh! who can e'er forget that hour In the long lapse of coming years, Men though we were we had no power To stay our sobs and bitter tears.

Rough hands dashed blinding tears aside Then reverently, with drooping head, Slowly each went with heavy stride As from the presence of the Dead !

OUR STATE CONTEMPORARIES.

One of the most dangerous evils of our time is the so-called "trust." A handful of monopolists who produce a certain article, agree together that they will deprive the people of any of the advantages of competition and fix upon certain prices, binding themselves not to sell for less. A few men in different industries thus have it in their power at any time to exceed the natural profits of trade and to exact from the people in addition exorbitant tributes. What is the remedy for this evil? To legislate directly against these "trusts" is not wholly satisfactory, for the reason that it is difficult to frame laws that the ingenuity of these combinations cannot evade. The proper remedy, the most practical and successful remedy, is to lower the tariff on all the foreign articles of like kind with those whose prices can be easily fixed by these "trusts."-Hillsboro Recorder.

Some weeks since the Jefferson, (Ashe Co.,) News copied the following from the Wilmington STAR through the Reporter. The New England Historic Geneological Society has discovered that the word 'Yankee' is probably derived from the Dutch 'Janker,' which means a chronic growler or a howling cur." Our contemporary of Jefferson thinks it strange that the STAR and Reporter should seemingly be unaware of the fact that the following derivation of the word "Yankee" is given in Webster's Dictionary: "A corrupt pronunciation of the word English by the native Indians of America, or more probably of the French Anglais (English.)" We knew, however, the origin of the word as given in Webster's Dictionary, but the derivation of the word as recently given by the N. E. Historic Geneological Society has the advantage of being the result of later investigation, and is endorsed as it were by a society whose membership in-cludes some of the best scholars of America. - Danbury Reporter.
