She ought to. She was born in England and was sixteen years old when she came to Tennessee. Stanley also loves England, and he ought to for he is pure English.

M. Chevreul, a distinguished man of science in Paris, is dead, in his 103d year. He was born 31st Aug. 1786. A sketch of him in the World says:

"M. Clevreul remembered Louis XVI. the Revolution, the Directyire, the First Empire, the First Restoration, the Hunared Days, the Restoration, the Legitimists, the Republic of '48, the Second Empire and the Third Republic.'

Stanley says his enemies annoyed him very much. They planted the ground with skewers, digging shallow pits, and covering them. His men fell into them and were wounded. Gangrenous sores appeared and used them up so as not to be fit for farther service. He says the natives are "cunning rogues."

done by electricity. In a short time all a fellow will need will be a room to run off his pot-metal and do his own mailing. Editors, reporters and printers will be dispensed with. There is one objection to this. As the Southern people have some ideas and principles of their own it may not be convenient or exactly suit to have all the reading matter set up in the North and selected by fellows who may not have taste, principles, or anything else commendable. But this is in an age of progress. Great is Diana of the Ephesians.

The lawyers of Massachusetts do not fancy the Constitutional prohibition amendment. Nearly all the men of celebrity at the bar in that State have signed a protest against its adoption. They say:

"We believe that if such a change in law is expedient, it should be made-as all similar provisions of law have hitherto been made-by statute enactment. To attempt to put into the Constitution matters which were left by it entirely to legislative action will tend to subject the Constitution to constant amendment, may lead to doubt and confusion in its construction, and will tend to diminish the honor and reverence in which it is held by all men and all parties.'

Y. M. C. A.-The Building Fund.

The building fund of the Young Men's Christian Association has been greatly increased since the State Convention last month. Within a short time after the Pearson meetings the subscriptions amounted to $12,-065; but as the organization was then only in a formative state no effort was made to increase it beyond that amount, all attention being turned toward organizing and preparing for thorough and systematic work of officers and committees. Since the convention, however, public interest in the work seemed to justify another effort for adding to the building fund, and thus far $8,500 additional has been secured among the business men, making a total subscription amounting to $20,565. At least $25,000 is needed to begin a building project that will do credit to our city, and from the encouraging beginning it seems that the early accomplishment of the plan is certain. The Association building in Charlotte, costing about $28,000, is one of the handsomest buildings in the city and is an object of pride to the citizens of that place. Mayor's Court. Fourteen negro men and boys were arraigned before the Mayor yesterday charged with gambling. Two of the gang, Alex. Mallett and Anthony Poisson, were found guilty of "playing cards for stakes at a place where liquors were sold," but judgment was suspended. Alex. Lord, alias "Causey," was held on the charge of perjury, and all the others were discharged. Wright Matthews, found drunk and down, was fined five dollars.

appeared a few days ago among the work-horses of Messrs. Boney & Harper of this city. About the middle of February last, the firm bought a mule from a drover, who it is thought came here from Pennsylvania. The mule was put in a stable with other stock belonging to the firm, and a few weeks ago was taken with what seemed to be distemper. The animal was doctored for this complaint, and separated from the rest of the stock, but did not get well, and Mr. Boney, believing that the sule was affected with glanders, sent it out of town to be killed, but found, subsequently, that instead of killing the sick mule the man gave it to some one living in the neighborhood of Third and Castle streets. Last Saturday, however, two mules in Messrs. Boney & Harper's stables were taken with the same disease, and on Sunday a pony from the same stable was also found to be similarly affected. These animals were also separated from the other stock. Mr. T. J. Southerland and Mr. Dan Quinlivan examined the sick animals yesterday, and both were of opinion that the disthe is not glanders; ease but notwithstanding this, it has been deemed advisable to send all the sick stock out of the city and place them in a temporary stable, where they will be completely isolated, and this was done yesterday. A police officer was also detailed to kill the mule which was taken with the disease.
