THE MORNING, JULY 9, 1889.

MUTTERINGS IN THE AIR. Several days ago we took occasion to make some comments on the character of appointments made by President Harrison in this State, and to express the opinion that it would result in disaster to the Republican party at the next election. Any one familiar with the history of the Republican party of this State knows that it is controlled by factions at bitthe bitterest struggles they have ever had were to get control of the State executive committee, which gave command of the party, and a monopoly of the patronage in the event of victory. In these scrimmages, after the Vance-Settle campaign, which was the best planned and best executed campaign which the Republicans ever made in this State, J. J. Mott, of Statesville, got control of the chairmanship and when he retired J. B. Eaves, who was a deputy collector under him when he was collector of internal revenue, took his place. So the Mott element is still in the ascendency and controls the Government patronage in Western North Carolina, where it is most important and valuable, if not throughout the State. Eaves has been rewarded for his services by the collectorship of the Fifth District, which embraces al the territory, as the districts have been consolidated, from the old Fifth District to the mountains, where most of the tobacco manufacturing and nearly all of the distilling is done. This makes him a political factor of no small proportions. The anti-Mott faction has been completely ignored by the Harrison administration and hence the mutterings in the air. Congressman Brower succeeded in getting some postmasters and route agents appointed in his district and that is about all. In the appointments to positions in the internal revenue office he is not only not consulted, but it is said Eaves is filling the places with men hostile to Brower for the purpose of strangling him when he puts himself forward for a

The Greensboro North State, ed. ited by two of the ablest Republicans in the State and the shrewdest of party managers, referring to the appointments, as a whole, in this State, draws the following gloomy horoscope for the party:

We look for nothing but disaster to the Republican party in North Carolina until the internal revenue laws are repealed. During the past four years we made some gains. The next four will probably result in putting North Carolina on a footing with Georgia, Mississippi and South Carolina; and the result will be that the party in this State will be just about big enough to fill the Federal offices.

party is not anxious to repeal them, and Mr. Brower has neither the mental weight nor personal magnetism to influence a sufficient number of Republican votes to carry the repeal if seriously offered. He is about as much out of place on the floors of Congress as a soft-shell crab would be in a steeple-chase. But he was elected mainly by his demagogic arraignment of the Democratic party for not repealing the revenue laws which he said they had promised to do. He spent one term Congress offering resolutions which he could never get out of the hands of the committees to which they were referred. He will spend his present term in the same vain effort, and then that plea which influenced deluded voters in two campaigns will have played out. The result will be a reaction in the districts now represented by Brower and Ewart, which, coupled with the Republican disappointment and dissatisfaction with the appointments made, will return both of these gentlemen to the shades of private life and send Democrats to Washington in their stead.

The editor of the North State had evidently heard voices and echoes from the hills when he penned the following vigorous utterance: "We have never heard of such execration as comes out of the depths of the West about the revenue appointments. Before sixty days the rank and file of the Republicans of North Carolina will be up in arms against the federal office-holders Mr. Harrison has get up in North Carolina." The "execution" will grow instead of lessen. The still chopper will get in his work and when he chops stills will also chop the Republican vote, as Democratic still choppers under the Cleveland administration chopped the Democratic vote, and helped to elect two Republican Congressmen. With this still chopping and the character of the appointments so far made, especially in the western part of the State, which is the battle ground, the mutterings in the air now will become a storm by the time the next campaign opens, and when it closes, as the North State says, "the party will be just big enough to hold the federal offices.'

STATE TOPICS.

Ocracoke Island, situated between Pamlico Sound and the Ocean, midway between Washington and New Berne, is looming up as a summer resort. The island is twelve miles ter enmity with each other. Some of long and two miles wide, and covered with a heavy growth of ever green yapon trees and other forest growth. It has a hotel, two churches, post office, and a number of neat cottages and private boarding houses. In the centre of the island is Silver Lake, a beautiful sheet of water, half a mile in diameter, which affords fine sailing and fishing. The Washington Gazette says it is becoming a favorite resort not only for people of that section, but for people of other States, a number of whom are now summering there.

Tobacco culture in the mountain section of North Carolina adjacent to Asheville has made remarkable progress within the past few years. According to a report of the Citizen the sales of leaf in the warehouses for the past year aggregate 4,043,845 pounds, bringing in cash $410,503, which is a big thing considering the fact that the crop was out short nearly one-fourth by frost. A larger area has been planted this year than ever before. The Citizen estimates the yield of the growing crop at between seven and ten million pounds, and predicts that Asheville is destined to be at an early day one of the great tobacco markets of the country, which means, also, that she should become a great tobacco manufacturing centre, for this is the only way which she can give her market

Confederate Veterans' Associations were formed in a number of counties in this State on the 4th inst., and in some it was decided to have encampments some time later in the Summer. Every county where an Association is formed, and one should be formed in every county, should have an encampment once a year, for in this way the veterans may be brought together in pleasant, social intercourse. The recalling of personal reminiscences of events which may possibly never have been recorded will bring to light much interesting matter which will prove valuable to the future historian of the grand struggle in which these vet-few days, not excepting Benjamin | for the district 4.57 inches; excess for | make a disinterested suggestion: Take a Harrison, LL. D., and brother Wanamaker, P. M. G., are Professors Sullivan and Kılrain, artistic jaw smashers and eye punchers, whose every movement has been closely watched, and whose sayings and doings have almost monopolized the telegraphic wires of the country. People must have their heroes it seems, and it don't all the time make much difference out of what sort of stuff the heroes are made. In the estimation of thousands of people in this, and some other countries, too, the successful mug smasher looms up in larger proportions than the greatest of civic or military celebrities. We have a great country. There is no doubting that and great is trained muscle.

A few days ago the wires reported the presence in Mexico of a prominent colored man of Texas, who visited that country with a view to conferring with the Mexican government as to the encouragement which would be given to colored colonists seeking homes in that country. What the result of the visit was we are not informed, but it appears as if there might be something in it from the fact that the Mexican press is fiercely attacking the scheme and appeal ing to the Government not to coun tenance it. So it seems that in the land of the Montezumas, where large portion of the population is black, there is prejudice against the negro. Here is a chance for some of our Republican crators to carry the war into Mexico.

The demand for Southern pine lumber is increasing every year, for the reason that the pine forests of the North and West are becoming exhausted and for the further reason that the yellow pine of the South is superior to and more durable than the white pine of the North and West. There have been some large deals in our pine lands and the probabilities are that much larger ones will be made by capitalists who put their money in this business. The Northwestern Lumberman reports that the general manager of the Nicaragua Canal company will shortly require 1,000,000,000 feet of yellow pine lumber and he is now prospecting in Alabama to find it where it can be

--- There is no New South. The people who fell in the common disaster are rising more vigorous and more powerful than of old. They may travel by another road, but the goal does not differ. The Southern Isn't it. people cannot change their character, and should not wish to, if they could. We find in the South a sweet and gracious life, which warms the soul and reminds us that all of mankind are brothers. The welcome becomes broader and the entertainment more liberal while with them remain the charm and grace which adoru each cultivated home of the South .- Louisville Courier-Journal.

--- After reading some of the newspaper comments on his trial Dr. McDow is said to have expressed an inclination to make a round of the newspaper offices with a shot-gun. The Doctor is wrong about that. His plan involves unnecessary risks and waste of time and energy. He should wait until the Press Association meets in Charleston next May. Henry Watterson is to speak then and most of us will be there. The Doctor can then, by inserting arsenic in the beer and strychnine in the sandwiches, bag the entire gang of us at once, appeal to a jury of his fellow citizens for vindication at the June term of court, and run for the Legisature in the fall on a platform of home protection and journalistic annihilation. - Greenville (S. TOO NUMEROUS.

The Valley of the Ganges the Most Densely Populated Spot on Earth Chicago Tribune.

The Valley of the Ganges has more people than it can support, and it is probably the most densely populated part of the world. The people live in villages and the average country town consists of one-story mud huts, too poor and illy ventilated for American pig pens. You would not think of having such outhouses as the residences of the majority of this vast population would make, and in a large part of India, and especially in the best part of this Ganges country, the holdings average from two to three acres apiece. At four to the family this represents a half acre per person, or over 1,200 persons to the

When it is remembered that these people live by agriculture it will be seen that this condition is far worse than that of China or any part of Europe. And still the people are bright. They are brainy, too, and you will find few sharper business men, better cut faces and more polite people than these people of India. Their faces in this part of India have much the same characteristics as those of the Anglo Saxon. Those of the highest castes are more like those of the Greeks, and I see faces every day which, if the skin were white, fair trial. It is guaranteed every time or any American might be proud to own. They belong to the same race ROBERT R. BELLAMY'S Wholesale and germ that we do, and under the same training and Christian influences they would be strong competitors

But what can a man do on 6 cents a day, or how can a man learn when he has to struggle to exist? The population of India is continually increasing. England eats the lion's share of the products of the country, and though the people are perhaps better off under her government than they have been in the past, it is the same old story of the wealth going to the rulers and the people working their flesh off their bones to support them. The Governor General of India, who, by the way, is the rich Marquis Lansdowne, gets $100,000 a year. Quite a contrast with the wages of the masses at 6 cents a day!

COTTON.

New York Commercial Chronicle FRIDAY, p. m., July 5.-The movement of the crop, as indicated by our telegrams from the South tonight, is given below. For the week ending this evening (July 5), the total receipts have reached 2,477 bales, against 1,961 bales last week, 3,301 bales the previous weeks making the total receipts since the 1st of September, 1888, 5,490,138 bales, against 5,441,909 bales for the same period of 1887-8, showing an increase since September 1, 1888, of 48,229 bales.

The exports for the week ending this evening reach a total of 16,017 bales, of which 11,754 were to Great Britain, - to France and 4,263 to the rest of the Continent.

The speculation in cotton for future delivery at this market has been light, and the fluctuations as a rule have been within comparatively narrow limits. This crop options have declined, owing to "long" selling, while the general tendency of the next crop months has been slightly upward.

The total sales for forward delivery for the week are 202,100 bales.

POLITICAL POINTS.

-Republicans are making such tremendous efforts to carry the new States that failure in any of them will be exceedingly injurious, while every one will understand that such success as they gain will be due only to a concentration of the party forces of the whole country on a limited territory, and will not be a demonstration of the real political tendency of the new commonwealths, - New York Star, Dem.
