conspirators, native and imported, seemed to make North Carolina their field of operations.

Since the overthrow of Radicalism in the South there have been comparatively few of these race troubles, and the feeling between the races has been of a more friendly character, because many of the instigators of mischief, finding their vocation gone, have packed up their traps and migrated to other parts; but they still occur, though less frequently and of lesser magnitude. Nine times to one it is during the pendency of some political campaign when such things, by misrepresentation, exaggeration and distortion, can be turned to political account on the other side of the line. The fact that they do so occur without any known previous cause or intimation justifies the suspicion that they are incited for a purpose and for this purpose. There are men in the Radical party at the North and in the South who would not hesitate at a thing of this kind, diabolical as it is, for an instant if an important election hinged upon it. The lives of a dozen white men and negroes would amount to nothing in the balance compared with carrying an election for which they spend hundreds of thousands of dollars, and buy voters like cattle. Such men would not be above inciting riots to win where riots would help them to win. They have done it before, they would do it again.

MINOR MENTION.

At the recent election in the 3d Congressional district of Louisiana, hundreds of men who had come from the Northwest, and had settled in that district, but who had been Republicans formerly, all voted for the Democratic candidate, notwithstanding the imported stump speakers from the North, who had come to tell them and other citizens how they ought to vote. There is nothing reason the most devilish of all the in the minds of many people, and not all ignorant people either, with a good deal of superstitious nonsense, for which this hangman's association is largely responsible. North Carolina took a sensible departure from this ridiculous old-time custom several years ago, and now Friday is no longer hangman's day in this State. Governor Hill is acting wisely in endeavoring to bring New York into line.

STATE TOPICS.

We are in receipt of the premium ist of the State Fair, which will be held at Raleigh, from October 14 to 19. One thousand premiums are offered amounting in the aggregate to over $5,000. In addition to this we understand that the managers are making efforts to secure the co-ope eration of as many counties as they can in the way of special premiums by citizens of those counties to exhibitors from them. We noted the fact several days ago that Winston and Salem led off with an offer of $500 to be divided as premiums to the most meritorious exhibitors from Forsyth county. The impression is that other counties will donate liberal amounts, thus largely increasing the aggregate of the premiums offered. The fair is being pushed with more energy, and is better advertised than ever before, and it should, and we trust will prove a grand success, something of which the whole State may be proud.

The Clinton Caucasian suggests to the Alliances of Sampson county

the idea of starting a canning factory in that county, to be under the management of the County Business Agent. It is a good suggestion and one that might be considered with advantage and profit by the Alliances in other counties of the State where fruit is raised to any considerable extent, and where there is not a ready market for it. By co-operating in this way the Alliances would in a short time have a considerable

A New style of Ad. Chicago News. The attempt to get up a duel in

New York in order to call attention to that town as a possible site for the quadricentennial of the discovery of America, was a lamentable fizzle, as it deserved to be. Everything was as ready to hand as could be. Capt. Wilhelm, a photographer, denounced M. D. Ritterhouse, a hop salesman, as a l-r. Mr. Ritterhouse retorted ted that Captain Wilhelm had a good deal of cheek for a mere picturemaker. Then they talked back and forth for quite a while, and finally the hop salesman said he would have to demand satisfaction, and the pho tographer said all right, he was ready. Now, could anything be handier than that? They named swords and made the date for Clifton and Friday morning. Of course, those who knew about it expected a real nice gory time. Mr. Ritterhouse, however, sent word, presenting his compliments and begging to be excused, on the ground of a severe toothache, caused by his fellow boarders bathing his head in ice-water the night before. One of the seconds had a pain in his ear, and of course couldn't come, and the other was just obliged to take a run over into Connecticut. Captain Wilhelm claums to have received word that the affair had been postponed on account of the weather, and so the whole thing fizzled out, just as any New York scheme does when it starts off with a big hurrah.

A Goose Story. New York Sun.

READING, PA., Aug. 31.-The other day a party of young men of Brownsville, over the border line in Schuylkill county, while on a lark, soaked some corn in a pint of whiskey which they couldn't drink and scattered it among a flock of geese that had wandered from a farm house a short distance away. The geese greedily devoured the corn and then moved off again toward the farm house. An hour later the woman who owned them found them in the yard in a comatose state, and believing them to have been killed by poison at the hands of some enemy, hastened to remove the feathers from them. After plucking them bare, and deciding that they could not be used for food under the circumstances, she flung the naked carcasses down an embankment near by. During the night the luckless birds slept off their drunk, and next morning the farmer's wife was astonished and chagrined to see them all huddled together outside the front gate in a nude and repentant condition. She set to work and made them coats

HACE CONFLICTS.

Within the past month or so there have been a number of conflicts between white and colored men, in some of which arms have been used and lives lost. The frequency of these occurrences and the fact that they have taken place in Mississippi, Louisians, Texas and Arkansas, and that other States have narrowly escaped them is calculated to arrest attention and call for comment. As far as known these troubles have been caused by lawless negroes, generaily under the influence of liquor. who incite other negroes to violence and resistance of authority, for which some of them, not, unfortunately, always the leaders, usually pay the penal'y with their lives. Of course, Northern Republican politicians do not fail to make the most of these troubles by charging the white Democrats of the South with the responsibility for them, and representing them as conspiracies concocted by the whites for the purpose of mardering the negroes who dare assart that they have rights that the white man is bound to respect. This is one of the methods parened of keeping up sectional prejudice in the North and at the same time keeping up the partisan rancor which keeps life in the Republican party.

We would not charge that these disturbances are incited by white or colored Republican politicans with this express view, but we do assert that their frequent occurrence in several States within such a short period, and all on the eve of important elections in some of the Northern States, is at least worthy of note.

We know that this thing has been done in years gone, and we know ized into oath bound leagues by unsingular in the fact that these North western settlers who had been Republicans, should have voted the Democratic ticket in Louisiana, for as a rule settlers from the North, in all the Southern States, when they are not politicians and do not expect to live by politics, vote the Democrat ic ticket. They sometimes, owing to differences of opinions on certain na tional issues, vote for a Republican President or a Republican Congressman, but almost invariably they vote for the Democratic State, county and municipal tickets, and they do this simply because they know that their interests as citizens and business men are safer under Democratic than they would be under Republican rule. As intelligent, prudent, common-sense men, they believe that government by intelligent, honest white men is the best government for them and they vote accordingly. They do in their politics just as they do in their business, throw preconceived prejudices aside and act on their best judgment. That's the whole thing in a nutshell.

The Philadelphia Ledger is doing the gravelling public a service by turning its batteries on the "grabbers" who monopolize four seats in a railroad car when they only pay for one, and coolly look on, surrounded by gripsacks, &c., while other people have to stand. There is not so much of that done in the South as in the North, we are glad to say, but there is too much of it everywhere. There are men so singularly constituted that while they are courteous and polite at home and in every-day intercourse with others, forget all their politeness as soon as they board a railroad car, become selfish hogs, and go for everything within reach, regardless of the rights and comfort of

CURRENT COMMENT.

---- There are phases of political greed that it would be kindness to attribute to idiocy. Among these must be classed the attempt to enlist out of cheap flannel. the farmers' vote for the Republican party by promising an import duty on hides. There has been no legislation on the subject of the tariff in the last quarter of a century that has been so fruitful of advantage to the entire community as the freeing of hides from such a duty. - New York Times, Ind.

- A statement of National expenditures shows that Tanner is not alone in the work of reducing the surplus. The payments on account of pensions since the 1st of July have increased nearly ten million dollars compared with the corresponding period of last year, but the "ordinary" expenditures have also been extraordinary to the amount of over eight millions during the same period. - Phil. Ledger, Ind.

--- A careful and liberal estimate of the actual value of the properties upon which certificates of the White Lead Trust have been issued places the figure at $15,000,000. To represent this amount of intrinsic value there are Lead Trust Certificates for $83,018,800. If it be presumed that the nominal valuation placed upon each works was four times the cash value, there appears the neat sum of over $23,000,000 in certificates, worth, at last week's figures. about $25 share. Here, indeed, is a promoters' profit worth handling. And the dear public is expected to rush into the business of buying lead at higher prices so extensively that before long those enormously wa tered certificates will be worth par. Truly, we are a great people-to make money out of .-- Phil. Record. Dem.

A Snake's Fatal $50 Meai. Pittsburg Dispatch.

One day last week a thorough bred collie dog belonging to Charles Gregory, a farmer living about four miles east of Beaver Falls, gave birth to a litter of beautiful pups. The little animals were kept in the barn and every care taken of them, as Mr. Gregory had sale for them all at $50 apiece. Saturday one of the pups, yet blind, was missing. Search was made for it high and low, but in vain, and the conclusion arrived at that some one had stolen it.

Last night Mrs. Gregory had occasion to go to the spring house, and hearing a queer rustling noise among the milk crocks, she investigated and discovered a huge house snake moving sluggishly across the floor. She quickly dispatched the reptile, and noticing that its body about half way down was enormously distended, she took it into the house, where Mr. Gregory cut it open and out rolled the deady body of his missing $50 pup.

Getting Even with the Condemned N. Y. Sup.

Nearly a score of years ago, when I was a reporter on a St. Louis daily, an atrocious murder was committed in a locality about 200 miles away. A farmer killed his wife, mother and brother, and then coolly sat down on the door steps and waited to be arrested. He admitted the crime, explained his reasons, and in due course of time was convicted and sentenced to be hanged. A few day's previous to the date of execution we got a sly pointer that the murderer was going to make a statement or confession of startling interest, and the city editor bundled me off in a hurry to get a "scoop." I found the sheriff a very good natured man, and very soon after my arrival I was permitted to see the condemned. I explained why I had come, and he replied:

"But that won't go. Any one can print what he likes on a card. I want a certificate from the paper."
