WILMINGTON, N. C.

SUNDAY MORNING, OCT. 13, 1889

AN IMPORTANT EVENT.

By the first day of the new year, or within a few days thereafter, the Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Rail. way will be completed and trains running through from Mount Airy to Wilmington. This is an important event, in our opinion, one of the most important that has occurred in the commercial history of "the City by the Sea." The excessive rains of last summer retarded operations somewhat, or the work would have been completed by the middle of December, but there is now a large force of laborers engaged in laying the rails and ballasting as the rails are laid, and it is the calculation and intention of the company to have the work finished and trains on the road by the first of January, or within a few days after, if work should be retarded by unfavorable weather. There are few, if any, of our citizens who do not set a high estimate on the value of this road as a tribu tary to Wilmington's growth, progress and prosperity, but there is not one who sets too high an estimate upon it. It will bring Wilmington in direct and speedy communication with Central North Carolina, with a great tobacco, grain, fruit, grass and stock growing section second in fertility and agricultural possibilities to no portion of the State. It brings her also in speedy connection with the great coal and iron fields of the Deep river, and also with the great coal and iron fields of the Dan river region, from both of which Wilmington can draw ample supplies of cheap iron and cheap coal when she enters upon the career of a manufacturing city. These various industries, giving employment to large amounts of capital and large numbers of industrious mechanics and others, will not only be possible but feasible, which but for this could not be seriously thought of.

5 But the benefits in the near distance do not stop here, for this road is not going to run into the ground at Mount Airy, and stop there. It is only a question of one or two years at farthest, when it will have three connections, North, Northwest and Northeast; one by a branch road now under construction by the Norfolk and Western Railroad Company, from their road, to a point on the Virginia line four miles distant from Mount Airy, where it will meet and connect with the Cape Fear and Yadkin Valley, when extended to that point. Another branch of this same road further westward will give connection via the Norfolk and Northwestern, with a road running directly to Louisville, Ky., and there with the Western system of roads. This will make it the shortest and a report of their sales, but, as the

and the West. As we see it this means a good deal for Wilmington as a point of import and export, and we do not see why her commerce and shipping business should not be immensely increased by it. Another Northern connection will be by the Rosnoke and Southern, upon which work is now in rapid progress on both the North Carolina and Virginia sides of the line. Within a year this road will be completed through to Martinsville, Va., and within another year on to Roanoke. This will also make one of the shortest routes South, direct to Wilmington.

Then with the road extended northwestward through the Yadkin Valley, one of the finest agricultural regions in the South, on to the Tennessee line, to connect with the Tenne ssee system, there will be another Northwestern connection and a through line and a short one from that direction to Wilmington. The completion of this branch will be accomplished at no very distant day, and then through this one road we will have practically a grand system, pointing and tributary to this city.

This as we see it, and we think we see it in the right light, is a hasty, running sketch of a road which is destined to be a mighty power for good to Wilmington, and one of the agencies, in connection with the roads now tributary to her, to make her one of the great cities upon the Southern coast, not only a great commercial but a great manufacturing city as well.

The first train that comes over the all restlessment is in, the proprietor will only be responsible for the mailing of the paper to his add dram. road to Wilmington should be the occasion of a befitting celebration by this city, and it should be a grand one, too. The whistle of the locomotive should be the signal for general rejoicing, and such ceremony and display as will best befit the realization of a hope on which Wilmington and her people have had their hearts set, and upon which they may well rejoice, and "sound the loud timbrel" for joy. Let us celebrate it.

MINOR MENTION.

A Chicago paper grows funny over the recent kissing excitement in Detroit, and says it behooves the lone bachelor over there to be exceedingly judicious in bestowing his kisses, for the price set on that commodity is high in Detroit, and only a few misplaced tokens of affection would suffice to break even a man of means. Mrs. Mary Pearsall, a widow, wants $5,000 for being kissed against her will by her employer. This seems extortionate at first sight, and one insensibly falls to pondering what there was about the fascinating Mary's kiss which made it come so very high. But when the additional facts come to light that not only did he kiss her, but sisce has been writing poetry and sending it to her in job lots, then public sentiment stalks over to Mary's side, and is strongly in favor of striking the delinquent for more than $5,000, and even suggests a term of imprisonment in addition. There is no excuse for an action like this. He might have kissed her in a fit of absent-mindedness, but if he wrote poetry he had crime in his heart.

The Philadelphia Times thinks Col. Dudley's presence is greatly needed in Indianapolis, where he resided until some unpleasant conflicts with the law made it inconvenient for him to mingle with his old neighbors since the last November election. It's evident that the "blocksof-five" system of politics that Col. Dudley invented to carry Indiana last year has fallen into innocuous desustude, and the result is the election of a Democratic Mayor and other city officers in Indianapolis by a large majority for the first time in half a generation. Clearly something must be done, and if Colonel Dudley isn't the man to do it, who Generalissimo Quay can't get down to carry a municipal contest; but think of a Democratic police in the President's own city with Dudley uncertain about his safety even under Republican rule. The Indianapolis returns come to Dudley like "sweet bells jangled and out of tune," and he must either heroically halt the current or let things go to smash and

Michigan has just as accommodating legislative bill clerks as Pennsylvania. It was intended that the latter should be required to get permits to sell liquor and that they should also make

The Chippewa lands in Minnesota about to be ceded to the United States and then opened to settlement include immense pine forests, the timber of which is valued at $60,-000,000. As soon as the civilized whites get hold of those lands they may be expected to give a demonstration lesson on tree destruction much more effective than the beautiful sentiments on forest preservation pronounced in Arbor Day addresses.

The St. Louis Republic denies that the newly appointed postmaster at Bethany, Mo., is a Democrat. It says his name is Prentiss, and that he is the same Prentiss who was captured at Shilob. It thinks that the surprise at Shiloh could be nothing to that in Missouri if a Democratic postmaster should be appointed in that State.

CURRENT COMMENT.

- Benjamin Franklin was the first reformer of the postal service in this country. He said: "I have made it a rule to dismiss no official who does his duty and who has his money matters in order; and I think reason and right are on my side." What an old fogy must Benjamin Franklin have been, in the estimation of such statesmen and patriots as Assistant Postmaster General Clarkson and Superintendent J. Lowrie Bell! -Philadelphia Record, Dem.

— Just at present Mahone seems to have his time pretty well occupied in watching his enemies in his own party. It will not be denied, even by Mahoneites, that some of the brainiest and most influential Republicans n the State are opposed to their eader. These prominent anti-Mahone Republicans are doing Mahone a great deal of damage. In some localities their attitude has made the party apathetic. Unless Mahone can succeed in nullifying their influence and in arousing enthusiasm in the Republican ranks there will be an immense falling off in the Republican vote. - Savannah News, Dem.

- The arrest of six girls in New York on the charge of having caused the death of their playmate, Julia O'Connor, by brutally beating her, reveals another of the many strange phases of metropolitan civilization. The oldest of these girls has not passed her sixteenth year, but they are all described as typical "eighteenth warders," "tough and proud of it." Last July the unfortunate object of their enmity was enticed by them from her home and assaulted and beaten so severely that she died last Saturday from her injuries. Her assailants when brought before the coroner showed neither trepidation nor shame, and while denying he charge preferred against them, iscussed the fight in which their former associate received her injuries with great gusto and reminiscent relish. - Baltimore Sun, Ind. Dem.

-The defeat of high license in the Dakotas was a signal one. East of them lay Minnesota, and south of them Nebraska, the two States in which the license fee required is the bigbest in the country, ranging from $500 to $1,000. In both the highlicense law has been marvellously successful as a revenue measure. In Minneapolis, although the license is restrictive - excluding the saloons from all except the business centres of the city-the revenue from it is $240,000 a year. In Omahs, a city of only 120,000 people, the revenue from the saloons is $246,000 a year almost enough to maintain the publie schools. Yet the people of the Dakotas have preferred to raise by direct taxation the revenues which the saloons might yield in order to secure, if possible, entire suppression. - N. Y. Commercial Advertiser.

A CUP OF TEA.

How to Make It Properly and How to Spoil It. London Telegraph

It seems a simple thing enough; vet of the millions who use this refreshing and agreeable beverage a very small proportion understand how to prepare it. But if not properly made, tea is deprived of a great deal of its value, and sometimes rendered absolutely injurious. The water to be used should boil, and it should be poured on the tea immediately it boils: if allowed to overboil, the peculiar property of boiling water which acts upon tea evaporates and eventually disappears. Tea should not be a decoction, but an infusion. If allowed to stew it becomes little better than a decoction of tannic soid. Tea that is overdrawn is hurtful to the nerves and to the digestion. As to the precise number of minutes which should be devoted to the process of drawing some people will say five minutes, some seven, some will perhaps go as far as ten, but our experience is in favor of six; this suffices to bring out the flavor, quality, and strength. Just as much tea as is wanted should be made-no more. Make fresh tea as often as it is required. The replenishing of the teapot with fresh hot water is very ob-jectionable. As the thorough heat- convictions.—Philadelphia Record, Dem. pot with fresh hot water is very obing of the receptacle is of the first importance, the teapet should be made thoroughly hot before the tea is put in it. The earthenware teapot is preferred to all others by many connoisseurs, and it is superfluous to say that whatever utensil is used for this purpose should be immaculately clean. Tea is an extremely delicate artiquickest route of trade and travel clerk by an error invalidated that cle. Its susceptibility to the odors of burg.

commodities near it is a source of danger and deterioration, as it readily takes up the smell of coffee, cocos, spices, cheese, bacon or other articles of pronounced odor. The complaints sometimes made about tea would propably not arise if always kept in places free from such contagion. Tea should be stored in a warm dry place; unnecessary exposure to the air should be avoided. Even when securely packed in the leaded chests in which it arrives in England, the change from the glowing heat of Eastern skies to the damp and humid atmosphere of this climate deprives tea of much of its beautiful fragrance. Tea of much better quality than is generally dispensed at our railway stations and refreshment rooms can be bought at 2s. per pound. A pound of tea would make 128 cups. This is considerably less than a farthing per cup. You may well ask why is it that we should be still charged 4d, and 6d. "for a little hot milk and water slightly fla-

Comfort for Red-Headed Women-No

Longer a Source of Merriment. All young women possessed of red hair can remember that in the days of their childhood their hairsute adornment was a source of merriment to their friends, says the Chia cago Herald, and the term "sorrel top," or "straw-berry blonde" was one of contempt. They wondered, perhaps, why it was that they were always called "red-headed," when their playmates were described as being black, brown, or golden-haired. But the "red-headed" girls do not mind now that it is every young woman's ambition to be anburn-haired, and she hopes by the use of hair dyes to attain the shade which belonged to the wicked Lucretia. If she gets exactly the right shade she does not see why a single thread of her hair might not be preserved by the United States government and exhibited as is the one so proudly shown in Florence as having belonged to the wicked Lucretia. It is odd how many famous women have had this Titian red bair. Catherine of Russia gloried in it, and Anne of Austria had brown hair just on the verge of being red. Ninon de L'Euclos was equally proud of her warm-colored tresses, and Mary Stuart seemed a daughter of the sun. Jane Hading and Mrs. Potter both bave warm suburn hair, but it does not reach the real tinge, which is that which crowned in all ber glory the head of the Empress Eugenie, she who has known the extreme of happiness and

New York World. The last meeting of the Cabinet was devoted exclusively to a consideration of the Tanner question.

The cabinet gave it up "Because he is cut by us-cut bias - out by us, see?"

The cabinet pretended not to see it, and Mr. Wanamaker was compelled reluctantly to set up the postage stamps.

to PANACEA WATER by that Christian gentleto PANACEA WATER by that Christian gentleman, the Rev. J. P. Barrett, D. D., editor in chief of the Christian Sun, is only confirmatory of similar testimonials from other reliable sources on the same subject. Dr. Barrett says: PANACEA WATER—There are so many "quack remedies" for dyspepsia, and kind ed dispases, that it is hard to get people to believe that all remedies advertised are not "quack" and worthless. In such that commendiate the same of the same such as the same such and worthless. In another column will be found the advertisement of the Panacea Water, by Mr. John A. Williams, of Oxford, N. C. We have great confidence in its value, especially in cases of dyspepsia. We have used it with great benefit, and we know whereof we speak In a week's time its use made a decided improvement, and we have no hositancy in commending it to the suffering. We also know that when Rev. M. L. Surley, of Franklin, Va. had been reduced almost to a least the surley of the surley of the suffering the surley of the surley educed almost to a skeleton from a ter-ible case of dyspepsia of several years' standing, and when the medicine of first class physicians had falled to cure, or even give much resief, be tried this water as well nigh the last hope, and to his astonishment in a few says he found great relief. He continued its use for several weeks and he is a well man. We write this notice of our own accord, that we may persuade the suffering to try the PANACEA WATER.

Swift's Specific has cured me of a malignant breaking out on my leg, which caused intolerable pain. It was called Eczema by the doctors—four of whom treated me with no relief. I candidly confess that I owe my present good health to S. S. S., which in my estimation is invaluable as a blood remedy.

Miss Julia DeWitt, 2227 N. 10th St., St. Louis, Mo.

Our baby when two months old was attacked with Scrofula, which for a long time destroyed her eyesight entirely, and caused us to despair of her life. The doctors failed to relieve her, and we gave Swift's Specific, which soon cured her entirely, and she is now hale and hearty.

E. V. Delk, Will's Point, Texas.
