OUTLINES.

In the Senate yesterday a report from the Secretary of the Treasury was presented, in which he expresses himself as perfectly satisfied of the capacity of this country to complete the eight battle ships recommended by the Department; Mr. Ingalls offered a long preamble and resolution as to the debt due by the Southern States on the Indian trust funds and on the direct tax of 1861; Mr. Mitchell made a speech in advocacy of the free coinage of silver, and Mr. Vance gave notice that he would address the Senate to-day on the bill to provide for the emigration of colored people; there was an exciting session of the House; the election case of Smith vs. Jackson, from West Virginia, was called up when the question of consideration was raised. and on this the Democrats, with three exceptions, refused to vote; the chair took down the names of the Democrais who were present and not voting, and directed the clerk to record their names as present and not voting; a scene of great confusion followed, the action of the chair being declared revolutionary, when he quoted authorities sustaining his decision, several speeches were then made in opposition, notably by Mr. Crisp, who very effectively quoted the Speaker against himself, and who appealed "from Philip drunk to Philip s per," and which elicited tremendous carries and clapping of hands; the matter finally went over until to-day. --- The government of the United States of Boazal was formally recognized yesterday by the President, in the reception of the Minister appointed to this government. - A young man, evidently an expert, has succeeded in swindling banks in Tennessee and several citizens, of a considerable amount of money, aggreguilag, it is stated, $15,000 or $20,000, he has made his escape, and a powerd is offered for his capture. - Dr. Peters, the German explorer, conferning whose health there have been conflicting reports, has been seen by some French priests, who say he is in goal health. - A San Francisco dispatch says the great railroad blockade in the Sierras will soon be over; the blockade on the California & Oregon resid still continues, and there is no prospect of breaking it for a week yet. --Troubles are anticipated in Harlan county, Ky., when the Circuit Court convenes, and a company of State troops are in readiness to move to the scene.

A Splendid Paper.

The Wilmington STAR has put on the new dress it promised, and it is quite becoming. Dress doesn't make the paper any more than it does the man but it is an important adjunct to both. We congratulate the STAR upon its handsome appearance. It is a splendid paper and we consider it one of our most valuable Greenville Reflector. The Wilmington STAR is now a thing of beauty and shines with more lustre than ever. Last Friday the daily edition came out in a brand new dress of type; giving it the handsbmest appearance of any daily in the State. For some time the STAR, in point of ability, has been well in the lead of North Carolina journals, and now this last step of enterprise makes it second in no particular to any of its contemporaries.

It is very seldom that Atlanta is visited by a better musical comedy than that of Royce & Lansing's "The Scrap Book." Every actor and actress is possessed of wonderful musical talent. Although the Opera House was not crowded, a very good audience was present. Ray L. Royce, in his comical specialties, shows himself a comedian that is sure to take with any audience. Mr. Fred Archer's playing on several instruments assisted by Miss Lizzie Royce and Nellie Harris, was well received. Professor Olaf Moon is a violin soloist of no ordinary ability. His rendition of the famous song, "The Last Rose of Summer," was heartily applauded, and Charles Horwitz, in his various parts, was acceptable, and all in all, the "Scrap Book" is a very good musical comedy.

Lecture by Col. Burr. Col. James G. Burr, who was recently invited by the Ladies' Memorial Association, to deliver a lecture in this city for the benefit of the fund for the proposed medallion of the late ex-President Davis, to be placed on the Confederate monument at Oakdale, has accepted the invitation, and the lecture will be delivered in the Opera House on next Tuesday night, February 4th. The theme selected is "Reminiscences of the old Grave Yard in Wilmington," the grave yard in the rear of St. James' Church, around which many sacred and historical associations cluster. Probably no subject could be selected more appropriate to the occasion and more interesting to the citizens of Wilmington. The object is in every sense a noble one, and Col. Burr is peculiarly fitted to do it justice.

THE PINE-TREE BUG.

Ravages of the Insect Pests in the Turpentine Forests of Georgia-A Similar Visitation in North Carolina ln 1848.

The account published in the STAR a few days ago of the injury caused to the turpentine industry in Georgia by the 'black-headed bug," is confirmed by the Savannah News, which says: "Naval stores factors are receiving accounts from their correspondents in the interior of the ravages of the black-headed bug or worm, which is said to be destroying pine trees by the thousand. His ravages in the turpentine territory were never felt severely in this section before 1882 and 1883, when the crop was shortened by the bug. In the great storm of 1881 thousands of trees were blown down and across one another, and the bug went from tree to tree. A well known factor yesterday said that there is no doubt that the bug is doing a great deal of harm. In fact, all that it can do. The factor was asked why no report of the insect's work was made on the board of trade. He replied that the exporters are always accusing the factors and planters of concocting and circulating bull stories, and this might be charged as one of them. An exporter was asked about the bug, and he said that he had no doubt of the bug's existence in the forests. "Wait and you will see just as much turpentine and rosin next season," he added 'as ever, if not more." The effect of the reports from the turpentine farms seems to have no visible effect on the spot market, and turpentine steadily declined last week all the while that the farmers' letters were being received."

A gentleman of this city, writing to the STAR, gives an interesting account of the destruction caused in the pine forests of North Carolina by these bugs

Mention is made in yesterday's STAR of the appearance in the Georgia pine belt of the much dreaded black-head bug, and the consequent anxiety which pervades that region. This brings to mind the ravages of this same pine bug forty years ago, during the latter part of the year '48, and the early Spring of '49. Appearing late in the season of '48, the destruction to the pine forests was so great and wide spread, as to lead to well founded fears that the year '49 would witness the probable destruction of the pine tree. The Spring of '49 opened very early, and continued exceptionally warm. The worst fears of of our people were now to be realized; for early in March the bug appeared and went to work. Consternation seized upon turpentine getters, while all believed that this great industry, together with the timber and mill business, was about to be destroyed by this miserable insect. The ravages of the bug continued well into April, and man was powerless in the presence, as it were, of a little insect. The 14th of April was ushered in warm as summer. Suddenly, during the afternoon, the wind whipped around to the north, the temperature fell rapidly and the night was very cold. The next morning (the memorable Sun-day) the 15th day of April, early in the day, sleet commenced and fell for about five hours. This: was followed about midday with one of the severest snow storms with which this country has ever been visited. It was general, North as well as South. Every green thing, cotton, corn, vegetables, all succumbed to the storm, and were killed outright; even the trees of the forest suffered, for all were in full leaf. The pine bug with which mighty man was powerless to contend-was swept off with the breath of the storm-was utterly destroyed by sleet and the snow. In all this, the hand of Providence clearly appeared What seemed a misfortune, to-wit: the mild winter and early spring, only served to develop and bring out all the bugs, so that, after the sleet and snow no larvæ remained. Our friends South may from this bit of history take heart and be comforted. A repetition of this snow next April would, however, be hard on cotton-growers. Dealers in futures must not take this as a hint. Our city authorities would be wise, too, not to rely upon Kamehameha. A sailor on the British barque Kamehameha, lying in the river opposite the Messrs. Northrop's saw-mill, was aceidentally drowned vesterday morning about 11 o'clock, by falling into the river from a scaffold swung over the stern of the vessel, and on which the unfortunate seaman was standing, engaged in painting around the name of the barque. The accident was witnessed by Col. Jno. D. Taylor who made every effort to rescue the man, but could not reach him in time. Col. Taylor was starting for th saw mill from the Brunswick side of the river in a small boat. He heard the splash made by the man falling and saw him struggling in the water, and urged his oarsman to pull hard and try to save the sailor. The boatman did his best to reach the man, but the poor fellow sank for the last time before the boat could come up to him. Some of the men on the barque attempted to lower a boat to go to the man's assistance, but were too late. The sailor was apparently unable to swim, but in his struggles drifted some thirty or forty feet from the barque. His name could not be learned.

NORTH CAROLINA

RALEIGH, N. C., January 15th, 1890.

To all Consignors and Consignces of Freight:

A serious loss and much inconvenience have been caused, both to shippers and railroad companies, by the unnecessary detention of cars in loading and unloading freights. Shippers are often unable to procure cars, tracks are encumbered, and the speedy movement of freight ix impossible under the practices that have prevailed. The railroad companies feel obliged, therefore, to endeavor to correct this evil, and have issued the notice printed below. The system thus established has been in force at a number of important points during the past year, with advantageous results in every instance. The amount charged is not sufficient to recompense the companies for the use of their cars, tracks, etc., for warehouse purposes, and is not collected for the purpose of revenue, but for the prevention of abuses which affect both the public and the transportation lines. The rules will be enforced without discrimination by the North Carolina Car Service Association, which will act for all interests alike.

NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that on and after March 1st, 1890, cars remaining unloaded forty-eight (48) hours, after being placed for delivery, shall be subject to a charge of one dollar ($1.00) per day, or fraction thereof, for detention of cars and use of tracks.

If cars be consigned to private sidings, and such sidings be already full, or if consigned to general devery tracks, and the prompt placing of cars be prevented by the presence of cars belonging to the same consignce held under load for more than forty-eight (48) hours, it shall be considered that they have been placed for delivery at the time of arrival at the yard or siding where held. Forty-eight (48) hours will be allowed for loading empty cars after being placed in position, after which time the Car Service rate of one dollar ($1.00) per day, or fraction thereof, for detention and use of tracks will Sunday and legal holidays are excepted in the com-
