In the name of patriotism it inflames sectional prejudice and arrays one against the other to retain the power it has stolen.

In pretence of favoring "majority rule" its representatives in the House of Representatives override the law and all the precedents, usages and customs, inaugurate the one-man power, and recognize the Speaker as an autocrat mightier than the law and the usages which governed for more than a century.

In the name of the people this partisan conspirator, backed by his fellow conspirators, assumes dictatorial power and makes the House of Representatives a mere burlesque on its former self.

In pretence of serving the people it is laying the plans and preparing the way for the most despicable, the most despotism and the most stupendous plunder of the people ever before contemplated or concocted in all its odious and infamous history.

The self-styled party of the people, it is led by demagogues, mountebanks, pap suckers, fanatics, and men who "serve their country" to feather their own nests, backed by hoodlums, rings, combines, corporations, land pirates, timber thieves, protected favorites, trusts and plunderers, and supported by the prejudice-blind, the ignorant, the humbugged, the foolish, the honestly mistaken, the mercenary and the bribed.

This is the party, as it is represented to-day by its leaders and law-makers, and this is the party which in the mysterious visitations of an overruling Providence has been permitted to again get control of the destinies of this Republic.

The plunderer, the lobbyist, the jobber, the grabbers of all kinds are at the front again, and are gleeful at the bright prospects before them when the jobbery, begins in the House, where their champion, Tom Reed, with gavel in hand sits supreme, and where, when there is not a constitutional quorum present to carry through any pet job, he can shoot his eye over the House and make a quorum to do the business.

Great is this Republican party, this champion of the people, as it now stands with the lights turned on.

to do with the ballot box case in question nor with any other ballot box case, and that the use of his name in the paper published through the instigation of Foraker in the Commercial Gazette, was a deliberate forgery.

Mrs. Wood, the wife of the forger, testified that she had received several sums of money, for her husband, during his flight to avoid arrest, from one Hedden, a friend of Foraker, amounting to three hundred dollars or more, and that Gov. Foraker knew where her husband was when he fled the State to escape arrest.

When Mr. Campbell applied to him for information as to Wood's place of refuge, he declined to tell, because he feared the exposure of the plot would defeat him.

Murat Halstead has yet to tell his story and drive some more nails into Foraker's coffin. There are two men who are keenly enjoying this coffin nailing business. One is John Sherman and the other Ben Butterworth, both distinguished members of Mr. Foraker's political family.

In an address delivered before the American Temperance Union in New York last Sunday Senator Colquitt, of Georgia, said that one of the great causes of race troubles in the South is the liquor drinking habit among the colored people and the number of doggerels at which cheap, mean, fighting bug-juice is furnished in such quantities as may be demanded, and the result is the devil is turned loose and at times in localities disorder and riot reigns.

There are two or three tons of truth in what Mr. Colquitt says, and he simply states a fact which thousands of other people had observed before, and still every effort at reform in this direction meets its strongest opponents among the colored people themselves.

Too much in the bane of the colored race, and one of the greatest bars to its peace, prosperity and happiness. In its recent address the colored convention might have made some remarks and given some healthy counsel upon this subject with great propriety. But it wasn't so much after doing the negro good as grinding axes for some of the black and white politicians.

Asheville is one of the prospering cities of North Carolina, whose prosperity seems to be on a solid foundation. The following figures, clipped from the Citizen, give ample proof of this:

Ten years ago Asheville contained a population of 2,610. To-day she has a population of 12,000.

In 1880 the assessed value of the property in the city was $904,428. To-day it is $4,383,234, an increase of 500 per cent. in ten years.

In 1880 the mercantile business amounted to about $500,000. The total business of the city for the year 1889 amounted to $4,958,000.94.

The increase of business in 1889 over the business of 1888 was 25 per cent.

In 1880 there were sold on the Asheville tobacco market 150,000 pounds of leaf tobacco, for which was paid $12,000.

At the close of the tobacco year, ending September 1, 1889, there had been sold 4,178,838 pounds, for which was paid $422,479.26.

Governor Fowle has received a letter from a colored man, asking whether it is true that the colored people in this State will be compelled to emigrate to the Western States.

The inference from this inquiry is that the emigrant agents who have been doing such a lively business in eastern North Carolina for some time have been circulating this report with a view to influencing emigration and persuading colored people to accept the offers they make.

This may account for their success, for many of the colored people are credulous enough to believe anything.

Not a Democrat in Congress protested against a clear majority of the House seating Smith of West Virginia. What the Democrats rightly protest against is the transaction of business by a minority, or a majority of a minority, the latter being created at the will of the Speaker.

The impeachers of President Johnson in 1868 and the partisans who stole the Presidency in 1876 have their Republican successors and imitators in the House in 1890. On each of these three occasions the greed of power and spoils has been the incentive to political crime.

Probably the only reason why the other Congressmen don't go home and leave Speaker Reed to pass all the bills and do everything else himself is that they fear another Silcott will run away with their salaries. There doesn't seem to be any other reason why they should stay in Washington.

Paris morals are getting even worse. Last year out of 26,000 malefactors, 16,000 were under twenty years of age. The corruption in this wholesale way of the youth of a great city is the most unfavorable sign of the many unfavorable signs given by the French capital.

THE ONLY ONE JUDGE KELLEY EVER INDULGED IN. Washington Post.

The late Judge Kelley did not indulge a great deal in humor. His inclination was in the direction of the most serious and practical subjects, and he had no time for joking.

Yet he had one joke which he used on all occasions when the opportunity afforded. To the newspaper men whom he knew well he was always frank and outspoken, depending upon their good faith to present his ideas and not his exact words.

Consequently when his feelings were stirred up in the course of an interview, he would use the most forcible language, sometimes liberally interspersed with profanity. He would knock at the time that his language was too strong, but that the experienced Washington correspondent was not likely to take advantage of it.

So he would say at the close of an interview: "Remember, my boy, and only print my ideas, not my words, for I talk to you as a gentleman, and not as a newspaper man."

It was the one joke in which the judge indulged. Occasionally he would spring it on some tenderfoot correspondent, who would go snorting around the Row about Kelley's insult to journalism, only to be laughed at by the old veterans who had been "insulted" by the same joke in '65.

RULES BY THE SUPREME COURT. Raleigh News and Observer.

The attention of attorneys practicing in this Court is called to the following rules recently adopted:

10. When, by consent of counsel, it is desired to submit a case without oral argument, the court will receive printed briefs, without regard to the number of the case on the docket, or date of docketing appeal.

Such consent must be signed by counsel of both parties and filed, and noted on the docket, but the Court, notwithstanding, can direct an oral argument to be made if it shall deem best.

11. When the case is argued orally on the regular call of the docket, in behalf of only one of the parties, no printed argument for the other party will be received, unless it is filed before the oral argument begins.

No brief or argument will be received after a case has been argued, or submitted, except upon leave granted in open court, after notice to opposing counsel.

12. When a case is reached on the regular call of the docket, and a printed brief or argument shall be filed for either party, the case shall stand on the same footing as if there were an appearance by counsel.

POLITICAL POINTS. — The tendency of the Republican party is now towards despotism. It is thus antagonistic to the interests and welfare of the American people.—Albany Argus, Dem.

—This country has seen no more pronounced conspiracy since the dragging out of reconstruction measures through Congress than this attempt of the Reed House to unseat Democrats and put in Republicans.—Augusta Chronicle, Dem.

—Reports from Senators Farwell, Cullom, Ingalls, Quay, Wolcott and others indicate that when President Harrison, on a down grade, collided with the Senatorial prerogative, running wild without orders, the resulting smashup was very painful and nerve-destroying.—Chicago News, Dem.

—Governor Campbell, of Ohio, is a doubly fortunate politician. He has a clean record, and has been accused of being a corruptionist. Any politician may have a clean record, but he never gets a chance to prove it until he is denounced as a thief, for with politicians the ordinary rule of law that every man is innocent until he is proved guilty is reversed.—Phil.
