WILMINGTON, N. C.

SUNDAY MORNING, FEB. 9, 1890.

PROTECTION RUN WILD.

Under the demoralizing influence of the Republican protective policy it has been carried sometimes to such an extent as to make it absolutely ludicrous. The number and variety of so-called industries that put in a claim for protection is amazing, and the pertinacity with which they urge their claims is really admirable for the unbounded cheek displayed, it nothing else. The impression seems to have become thoroughly rooted that it is the business and duty of this Government and of the American people to protect with bounties, called a tariff, every man who puts two dollars and a-half into any sort of an enterprise, from the manufacture of a tooth-pick to an engine.

The demand for protection is not confined by any means to the manufacturers, for there is hardly a business of any kind where there could be a possible competition from any other country which does not claim it and insist upon it. Here are a few by way of illustration.

The mineral water proprietors plead for a tariff upon foreign mineral waters to protect them from foreign competition. God Almighty has furnished the water and keeps it bubbling up from the springs in the earth, without putting them to the expense even of digging wells. The only expense they are at is in furnishing bottles and corks to bottle and cork it up, and yet they have the cheek to demand that the Government pay them a bonus for this.

An enterprising egg cultivator, somewhere, sympathizing with the hens of this country in having to compete with the pauper hen labor of Europe and Canada, lays claim to protection for the laying hen. He for mammoth ship-yards, if the insists that the industrious American hen ought to be protected in her enough. A California skipper said, the full realization of what an important factor the American bean is in American progress and development, thinks it outrageous that the American bean is compelled to sprout in opposition to the pauper bean of Europe and Canada. In all these years, since protection was invented, the American bean has gone on uncomplainingly, if not absolutely silently, performing its mission in Boston and elsewhere regardless of asserted its rights, and demanded this Government to which it is entitled. Note bene. The man who is raising this bean racket is also a bean raiser, and that's why the racket is being raised. Next in order comes a friend of time from St. Louis to Jefferson | Phil. Ledger, Ind.

the | briar-root diggers of Virginia, mostly citizens somewhat off in color. who have been briar rooting for years without any protection from the pauper root gougers of Europe. These briar root diggers furnish the raw material to make pipes. Pipe making is not in itself a great industry, but it is a first cousin of the tobacco industry, which is a great thing in this country. Tobacco is used in two ways (excluding snuff, which don't amount to more than a sneeze comparatively). It is either chewed or smoked. To be smoked it must be burned, and must be rolled up into a cigar, cigarette, or chucked into a pipe. The high-toned and the ext ravagant like the cigar, the idiot or the dude (with some rare exceptions) the cigarette, but the pipe, the democratic pipe, is the plain, unpretending, poor man's refuge, comfort and solace. Secretary of Agriculture Rusk, sometimes familiarly and affectionately called "Uncle Jerry," smokes a pipe. If there were no pipes to smoke, the effect on the tobacco industry would be disastrous, therefore the pipe ought to be encouraged. The briar pipe is a superior pipe, and therefore the briar root gouging industry ought to be encouraged and protected. It should be made, they claim, a permanent industry, taken under the fostering care of the Government and prevented from being rooted out by the pauper root grubbers of Europe. Next in the troop of protection seekers comes an enterprising denizen of New York who runs a macaroni shop, who asks that a tariff of two cents a pound be put on the imported pauper macaroni from Europe and thus compel the epicurean Italian organ grinders of this country and others who have a weakness for macaroni to astonish their stomachs with the output of his shops or pay two cents a pound tariff for the privilege of carrying about with them an aesthetic taste which prefers to gorge on a foreign importation and turns up its nose at a New York macaroni. Must New York macaroni perish from the face of the earth, and go down in the unequal contest before the pauper macaroni of Europe, and this great Government of ours stands idly and callously by and see it crushed rather than come to the rescue with protection of a pitiful two cents a pound, which this New York macaroni builder pleads for? He insists that the New York macaroni's cry of distress be heard, and that justice be done to this struggling "infant industry" though the stomachs of all macaroni eaters pay the penalty. These are a few of the samples of the "infant industries" that are demanding protection, of which a score or so more might be cited; but these will suffice to show to what a ridiculous extent the protection absurdity may be, and is being carried.

MINOR MENTION

The Shipping and Industrial League held a meeting in Washington Thursday to boost the ship subsidy scheme. Forming leagues is now getting to be the order of the day when the treasury is to be raided. Speeches were made at this league meeting favoring generous subsidies and resolutions passed also favoring a colossal system of coast defences, and a navy on a grand scale, all of which involves an expenditure of several hundred millions of dollars. Nothing small about that league. The Pacific coast delegates figured conspicuously, a California man asserting that with a liberally subsidized merchant marine California could knock the spots out of Great Brittain as a commercial power, while the Alaska man said that Alaska was a delightful shipbuilding country and a daisy place Government will chip in freely that in circumnavigating the globe A New York bean raiser, rising to he never saw the American flag on but one ship and that was his own. This is a terrible commentary on the Republican protection policy which has driven the American flag from City, the capital of the State. These figures tell a marvelous story of the progress of the Great West, Forty years hence figures will tell even a more marvelous story of the progress of Great South. The boys and girls are living who will see it.

It begins to look as if New York would get the World's Fair. Boss Platt, who for political reasons, (because New York is a Democratic city), opposed the bill which was befor the State Legislature appropriting $10,000,000 to it, succeeded in defeating it, but the defeat raised such a howl in the State, that it was reconsidered and passed. The with the $10,000,000 subscribed, or said to be guaranteed in the city of New York, rather gives New York the start of her most active competitor. when the matter of location comes before Congress. Its location in New York will require but a small appropriation by the Government, if any, whereas the Government will have to appropriate several millions if located at any other point. The great phosphate find of Marion county, Florida, is still one of the sensations down in that country. The discovery was an accident. Al bertus Vogt, a well-to-do planter and a great sportsman, residing near the town of Dunnelton, claims the honor of the discovery. Last April he put a colored boy to boring a well in a meadow on his place, and went off for a day's hunt. When he returned at night the boy informed him that at the depth of about three feet the auger got fast and he had to quit work. Failing in the effort to remove the auger, the negro was ordered to dig it out. He had not spaded far before he unearthed teeth and bones, which he carried to Mr. Vogt. Vogt became interested, had the digging continued and found a mass of bones. To him this meant something, but he went with his family on a pleasure trip and gave it no further attention until his return in June, when he had several analyses made by competent chemists, all of whom pronounced he samples sent phosphates of the highest order. He then took a capitalist of Ocala into his confidence, and together they pursued the investigation and the boring, demonstrating that the deposit was of wide extent and of unknown depth. At the place of discovery a bore of seventeen feet did not go through the layer, and at another place a bore of flfty-two feet did not go through it. A company was at once formed which controls 40,000 acres, with a capital of $1,500,000, which it is proposed to increase to $20,000,-000, and other companies have also been organized, land running up in the meantime to fabulous prices, and the excitement amounting to almost a craze. It is said to be the greatest phosphate discovery ever made. Vogt and his brother made

STATE TOPICS.

$100,000 each out of it to begin with.

The New Berne Journal speaks of the farm of Messrs. Hackburn and Willet, near that city as one of the model farms of the State. It is both a truck and a stock farm, where trucking and dairying are carried on extensively. Everything about it, its well kept fences, its neat and substantial barns, broad pastures covered with clover, timothy and other grasses upon which the stock are fed, indicates good management, thrift and prosperity. The cows are blooded daily. This is the kind of farming which we like to read about, and we publish it as an evidence of the fact that North Carolina is adapted to diversified farming in all sections, and that grass is a sure and reliable crop in the far east as well as in the centre and far west.

SOME SMALL CHANGE.

How a Smart Young Woman Banked on a Confederate Note. New York Sun.

She was a sweet-faced, demure litle woman, and as she sat in the ladies' waiting room of the Pennsylvania Railroad, in Jersey City, more than one man had his eyes on her and wondered who she was. By and by a young man in a check suit and carrying a great deal of cheek, took a circuit around and sat down beside her. He had scarcely dropped into the seat before she gave him a sweet smile and inquired if he would please do her a great favor.

"Ah! with all the pleasure in the world!" he made haste to reply. "I want some small change, and if you will be so kind as to take this oill and— "Certainly-certainly-most happy to do so, he said as he received it and started for the ticket office. He handed it in without looking at it and asked for change, but the ticket man shoved it back with the remark: "Wonder how many more fools she will strike before her train goes?" "What do you mean?" "Look at that bill."

It was a $5 confederate note; and as the young man stood staring at it with blinking eyes the ticket man added:

"You are the fifth one within two hours. She brought 'em along for such an emergency, and the proper thing for you to do is to take a back seat and make yourself as small as possible until your train goes."

The crushed young man did even better than that, he left the depot altogether, and his demenor was that of a man who intended to hunt up a pile driver and let the hammer fall upon him a half dozen times.

ABSENT MINDED.

How an Absorbed Denizen of Seattle Paid His Fair.

Seattle Press The greatest absent-minded man has put in another appearance at Seattle. His first appearance here was in the form of a young man who had hurried home to change his clothes preparatory to going out for a call upon a young lady friend. While disrobbing he discovered two letters left there by the postman during his absence, and as he read he forgot himself and mechanically crawied into bed. This time he ed gentleman, rlding in a street car. He was reading a paper, and as the conductor passed through the car asking, "Fsres please," he went through the usual search in his pockets and out a nickel, which he handed to the conductor, never once removing his eyes from the interesting article he was reading. New passengers boarded the car, but the reader was not disturbed, and as the conductor passed through the car, asking the new passengers, "Fares, please," the nicely-dressed, but extremely absentminded man, mechanically dove down into his pocket, and, without taking his eyes off the paper, handed the conductor another nickel. No telling how often this operation would be repeated if a small boy on the other side of the car had not laughed and said: "Ma, see that man who is reading pay five cents every time the conductor comes round." The gentleman folded up his paper, and during the rest of his trip he sat in deep eogitation.

IS THIS REALLY SO?

What a Seat in the United States Senat is Worth.

The Epoch. A seat in the United States Senate s worth all the way from $25,000 to $150,000, depending upon the legislative cattle in the State from which the applicant hails. So far as we are able to understand our Assembly and Senate at Albany, we should say that it will cost the man who wants to succeed Senator Evarts about $100,000. We are probably not Holsteins, forty of which are milked far out in stating that almost any Republican, it matters not whether or not he has any special ability or qualification for the office, it matters not whether or not he has had sufficient education to enable him to make his nouns agree with his verbs-almost any Republican, we say, who is willing to spend as much as $150,000 can succeed Mr. Evarts, unless perchance there be another Republican who is willing to spend $151,000. Some day the people will put a stop to this farce. and then we shall get men of brain and genuine scholarship in the upper branch of Congress at Washington.
