Some smart lawyer has discovered since the lands in southwest Virginia have begun to get on a boom in consequence of the rich mineral deposits, that the heirs of a gentleman named Walcott have a claim on a million acres under an old grant made about two hundred years ago. Some of these days some sprightly limb of the law will go nosing around and find some of the heirs of Christopher Columbus and put in a claim for the continent.

That Indianapolis bookkeeper who made some suspicious looking changes of figures in his books, then got a leave of absence and remained away until his employers published him as an embezzler, then came back, proved the books to be all right and received $5,000 damages, is smart enough to go into the service of Boss Quay without any further training.

It is said that Senator Colquitt, of Georgia, has a speech in soak which he is going to deliver the first chance he gets, in which he will go for Ingalls never had any war record. He parted his hair in the middle and sniffed the battle from afar-so far that he wouldn't be able to recognize a battle if he saw one in a chromo.

Some of the leading Democratic papers of Virginia urge the Legislature to repeal the law passed requiring the inspection of beef slaughtered outside of the State, as a hasty, illvised and unconstitutional measure, Corporal Tanner's advertising has paid. He is said to be doing a pension business in Washington worth $20,000 a year, and to employ twelve clerks.

The fact that a Stanly county man is the father of thirty-two children, twenty-five of whom are living, is another proof of the salubrity of our North Carolina climate.

The New York Produce Exchange sold last year twice as much wheat as was raised in this country, didn't import a pound, and probably didn't see a pound to millions of bushels pold.

The Senate has passed a bill appropriating $75,000 to erect a statue in Washington to Christopher Colambus. Chris. seems to be becoming somewhat popular in this country.

I Vice President Morton with his family will spend this month in Florida. After sitting and listening to crank Blair's six day speech on his Educational bore, he finds it necessary to seek a recuperative clime.

They have got to making a sausage out West which has a corn juice property about it, so that when a man feels like painting a town red, all he has to do is to masticate a big hunk of the sausage and proceed to paint.

Some of the protected pottery establishments in New Jersey are doing a thriving business in making meat and pay the additional cent a pound for inspection.

Perhaps after all the Senatorial investigating committee which is trying to find out how the newspaper men get hold of the secrets of the executive session will discover that newspaper men can keep a secret, when it comes in the way of confidence, better than some Senators can.

Corporal Tanner has retired from the public arena, for the present, but he is not forgotten. He left a legacy to the American people. Out of the $23,000,000 required by the Urgency Deficiency bill reported by the Committee on Appropriations $21,000,-000 is to pay pensions.

With the close of the week comes the advent of Spring, and with it an increased demand for new vegetables of all kinds. Late arrivals of asparagus have not been sufficient to meet the demand of the trade, and prime have sold from $1 to 1.25 per bunch, and culls 40 to 60 cents. A few peas have already arrived from Georgia and South Carolina, and are selling at $4 to 4.50 per crate. Market on cabbage has further advanced, and choice are $3 to $5 per bbl., and in good demand. Arrivals of strawberries have been liberal, but very irregular as to quality and condition, the few fancy selling at 30 to 35 cents; other grades 15 to 25 cents. The demand will gradually increase as the season advances, and the outlook is for firm prices to hold.

Receipts of eggs continue very heavy, aggregating for the week 8,875 bbls. The advices of heavy storms in the West caused the market to close firm at 15 cents, and the outlook is favorable during Lent.
