OUTLINES.

In the Senate yesterday a number of public building bills were passed, after which there was a long debate relative to reconstruction measures in the South, in which Mr. Sherman and Mr. Butler were the principal speakers; in the House the Oklahoma bill, which is a substitute for the Senate bill on the same subject, was passed-160 to 25, - The three Catholic Bishops of Wisconsin have issued a protest against the school law of that State; they claim that it will gradually destroy the parochial system altogether; they have never received one single cent of State help for their schools, and want no interference with them either. - An explosion of dynamite occurred yesterday at the Brooklyn water-works, which killed two laborers and fatally injured two others. --- Mrs. President Harrison and a number of friends left Washington vesterday morning in a private car for a trip South; they will spend to-day in Charleston, and then go to St. Augustine, Fla. - Dispatches from New Orleans report that the river is three inches above the high-water mark of 1874, and is still rising; one of the levees has broken, and a portion of the city upon the river front is entirely submerged; water is all through the streets, which are lower than the river, and is being pumped out at the back part of the city into Lake Ponchartrain, a large fire is reported, which destroyed much valunble property; reports from Arkansas represent that the rivers are still rising, and that great damage has been done over a large extent of counfry; all railway traffic is badly delayed. -- Developments show that there is a shortage of $32,745 in the accounts of Noland, late Treasurer of Missouri. --Sol Haas, Traffic Manager of the Associated Railways, has resigned from the

R. D. Congressman Murrow, of California, thinks he has struck upon a plan to keep the Chinese out. It is to furnish every Chinaman in the country when the census is taken with a numbered certificate containing his photograph, and that every one found without the certificate with the photograph be sent back to China or imprisoned. Is Murrow interested in the photograph business?

W. C. STITT.

There was a large attendance at the First Presbyterian Church last night, the occasion being an address by Rev. W. C. Stitt, corresponding Secretary of the American Seaman's Friend Society of New York. The meeting was opened Friend of New York had been in existence sixty-two years. During that time they had spent many millions of dollars in the interest of the seamen. They have now fourteen foreign stations and fourteen home stations, where services are had and missionary work done among the sailors. He spoke of the great benefit the sailor was to civilization during the past three hundred years, and of his great importance in time of war, when he stood as a bulwark of protection; of his great importance in the war of the Revolution in achieving the independence of this fair land. He stated that there were over four million sailors on the seas all the time-or about the same number as the population of New York and Philadelphia combined. He spoke of the great injustice done the sailor in port, and of his submission to wrong by reason of the want of money and of the law's delay in taking up his case where complaint was made; of the efforts made by runners and the dens of vice to en-trap him when in port, and the ruin that followed, both of body and soul; the loss of his hard-earned wages and the diseases that followed his debauch and ill treatment; of the hardships the sailor endured, the exposures to which he was incident, and the effect upon his constitution, which resulted in an average life of only some for the neat and tidy manner in which they kept the Home, and asked all present who had not visited there, to do so and see how beautifully it was kept. He spoke of the efforts of the Port Society here to maintain the Home and the work of the Society here among seamen who visited this port, and asked the cooperation of citizens and churches to aid them in carrying to a greater success the work. He mentioned that during the year 1889 some five thousand sailors visited this port, and of that number over 1,400 came under the influence of the sailor boarding houses and dens of vice, and that over twenty-eight thousand dollars was paid by them for drink at the haunts of vice on the wharves in this city. He asked that the good people of all classes unite to form some attraction in the way of sacred concerts and reading rooms and in other ways to advance the influence of the Home and to elevate the morals and religious status of the sailor
