be sure and ask for Ayer's

Sarsaparilla. Your life, or that of some one near and dear to you, may depend on the use of this well-approved remedy in preference to any other preparation of similar name. It is compounded of Honduras sarsaparilla (the variety most rich in curative properties), stillingia, mandrake, yellow dock, and the lodides. The process of manufacture is original, skilful, scrupulously clean, and such as to secure the very best medicinal qualities of each ingredient. This medicine is not boiled nor heated, and is, therefore, not a decoction; but it is a compound extract, obtained by a method exclusively our own, of the best and most powerful alteratives, tonics, and diuretics known to pharmacy. For the last forty years, Ayer's has been the standard blood-purifier of the world-no other approaching it in popular confidence or universal demand. Its formula is approved by the leading physicians and druggists. Being pure and highly concentrated, it is the most economical of any possible blood medicine. Every purchaser of Sarsaparilla should insist upon having this preparation and see that each bottle bears the well-known name of

J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

In every quarter of the globe Ayer's Sar. saparilla is proved to be the best remedy for all diseases of the blood. Lowell druggists unite in testifying to the superior excellence of this medicine and to its great popularity in the city of its manufacture.

sion is to be final!'

Adventures of a Walrus Hunter Who Reached the East Coast of Greenland.

A very unusual feat of Arctic pavigation last summer is reported in Petermann's Mitteilungen. Capt. R. Knudsen, an enterprising Norwegian walrus hunter, while in pursuit of walrus pushed his little steamer Hekla into the ice along the coast of east Greenland, and landed at several points in King William's Land, the most northern part of the east coast which has been visited, and that only once by the German expedition under Capt. Koldeway in 1869-'70. Capt. Knudsen first reached the cost water in the middle of August, and, in spite of the danger of being hopelessly beset, he thought himself amply repaid by the great abundance of walrus, and it did not take him long to load up his vessel.

He skirted the deeply indented coast in a northern direction, landing now and then. He was for some time beset in the ice and drifted north, and for some days he was fast in the pack on the north coast of Shannon Island. He finally, however, escaped and reached open water in safety,

This was a very daring, if not a fool-hardy enterprise. The Arctic ice packs itself against the coast, and for this reason, that part of Greenland was almost entirely unknown long after the western coast, in its general features, was very well mapped. In the Koldewey expedition one of the vessels was crushed in the ice, and the crew, atter terrible suffering and a long drift southward on the ice floes, reached succor on the southwest

In recent years, however, three successful attempts have been made to reach the east coast. The first was by Nordenskiold, who landed on Cape Dan in 1883; the second by Nansen, who reached Semalik flord in 1888, and from that point made his overland journey to Godthaad; and the third by this daring walrus hunter, whose adventures occurred several hundred miles north of the points reached by the other two

LOOK AT HER GARTERS.

If They are Jewelled, Says the Young

Man's Mother, Don't Wed Her. The betrothed wife of an estimable young man was recently visiting his mother, says the Boston Herald. The members of both families were delighted. The chap's mother was dazzled by the beauty, the breeding and the elegance of her prospective daughter-in-law. Strange to say, however, on the day after the young girl had begun her visit the mother called her son to her and spoke gravely to him about his promised bride. "Harry," said she, "Alice invited me into her room to-day, and oh, my son, she doesn't dress like a lady at all. I'm afraid, Harry, I really am."

Harry smothered his indignation and begged his mother to explain herself.

"Well, you see," said the latter, instead of nice white linen, all her underwear is black silk. Every item is of that material, and when I spoke of it she showed we trunks full of clothes in every tint of silk imaginable and no linen at all. This was bad enough, Harry; but her garters had jewelled clasps on them. Oh, my son, you never knew of a girl of real refinement to get herself up in that style. I feel certain that something that we do not know about in Alice's disposition will come out sooner or later," In a great rage at his mother's imputation Harry left the house. When he returned he did not recur to the subject, and his mother refrained from broaching it again, though her whole manner indicated her fears concerning her son's fiancee. A week later, however, the girl eloped with an adventurer. "I should always," says Harry's mother, "doubt a young lady who could not take pride in fine linen, and am positive that no modest girl | North Carolina Home Ins.
