Some of the Republican statesmen declare that a strict adherence to the Constitution and to precedents is a barrier to progress. The idea of progress entertained by many of the Republican statesmen is license to raid the Treasury, and boom jobs, steals and political conspiracies. A strict construction of the Constitu-

There is unrest in the naval circles in Washington, and it all comes out of the fact that there is a vacancy in the Naval Academy from the second district of North Carolina, and the navy officers are disturbed with the fear that Congressman Cheatham, who has the naming of the cadet, will select a colored boy.

tion is rather against these.

The United States made a clear profit of $56,000,000 in coining money last year. But the Government has a monopoly of this business and has it all in its own hands. Just as soon as any enterprising individual undertakes to run opposition to it the Government pounces on him and breaks up his establishment.

The Chicago Inter-Ocean, Republican, thinks the politicians will make a great mistake if they undertake to snuff out the Farmers' Alliance. By the way, the politicians are not showing much of a disposition to snuff. The Alliance is doing the snuffing, and the Republican politicians the sneezing.

Females who put a high price on their lacerated hearts had better go to some other town than Philadelphia to institute damage suits. A jury there a few days ago gave a woman five cents damages, and didn't even take into account the value of the kerosene burned in the courtship.

It is said that the Syracuse lawyer who is to marry Miss Winnie Davis, although the grandson of a red-hot old abolitionist, is himself a State's rights Democrat. We thought when we saw the announcement of the engagement that he must have had some redeeming virtues.

The Produce Exchange.

The Wilmington Produce Exchange is anxious to enlarge its sphere of usefulness, and to this end invites the hearty co-operation and assistance of all the business men of Wilmington who are interested in the development of the commercial interests of the city. Any espectable person engaged in any branch of business is eligible to membership, and all such are earnestly urged

The objects of the Association, as stated in the by-law are to inculcate just and equitable principles in trade, to maintain uniformity in commercial usages, to acquire, preserve and disseminate valuable business information, and to adjust controversies and misunderstandings between its members.

the Library Association.

The stereoptican lecture at the Opera House last night was especially entertaining. The views of a previous lecture on London showed fine monuments and grand architecture. That of Paris showed an even more lavish expenditure of taste and money; but it was reserved for last night to show that Venice surpasses either of the others in its wealth of artistically sculptured and statue-adorned 'palaces and cathedrals.

Next to an actual visit to Venice nothing could give such a vivid description of the city as this lecture one which will be long remembered by the audience. As a prelude to the Venice views there was shown about a dozen views of the beautiful lakes of Northern Italy, and the lecture itself was brightened by a couple of verses of the stirring and martial national air of Italy, and by a verse of Mendelssohn's charming gondolier song of "On the Piazzetta," the first being sung and the latter played on the
