none of it. All their energies seem to have been bent upon devising partisan measures, and in carrying them through by the foul methods planned and agreed upon in the councils of the conspirators. They have passed a pension bill which if it finally become a law, will take at least $1,500,000,000 out of the pockets of the American people, some appropriation bills, two or three hundred private pension bills, scores of public building bills, and sundry other bills to take money out of the treasury, but not one single bill for the benefit of the people. This legislation has all been of a partisan or class character, and every bit of it inspired by the hope to catch or control votes. The only thing they attempted to do in the pretended interest of the people is the new tariff bill which they have patched up, a bill which pleases no one but the comparatively few beneficiaries who will be still more enriched by it, and what has proved to be a shameful travesty both in its construction and in the methods of its conduct through the House from beginning to end.

This is the record, one of disgusting disappointment to the people and of shame to the men from whom they had a right to expect something. As a Congress it has been a failure, a dismal failure. If it had started out with the avowed purpose of disappointing public expectation and of ignoring the popular will it could not have succeeded better and perhaps not so well. What a record this will be to go before the people on next fall.

MINOR MENTION.

The majority of the Ways and Means Committee profess great interest in the prosperity of the American farmer, and to humbug the farmer into the belief that they really felt this interest they gave him protection on certain farm products, which don't amount to a continental. But in this paternal interest they do not include the farmers of the Southern States who raise cotton, for not satisfied with the tax which was already on cotton ties, they have in the McKinley bill increased the duty from 35 to 104 per cent. In discussing an amendment offered by Mr. Sayers, of Texas, to put steel and iron hoops, to be used in the manufacture of ties, Mr. Blanchard, of Louisiana, showed the unfairness of this tax by calling attention to the fact that would increase the cost of ties to Southern planters $1,000,000 a year, and that this was an annual tax as the tie lasted but one year, whereas the tax on steel rails was paid only once in ten years, the rail lasting that long. In ten years the planters of the South will have paid $10,000,000 for ties in excess of what they have heretofore been paying. In reply to Mr. Blanchard Mr. Bayne of Pennsylvania, and Burrows, of Michigan, contended that this tax would build up the cotton tie industry in this country, and at no distant day the cotton planter could buy ties cheaper than he can to-day. Nonsense and hypocrisy, both. They know better. This is the same old cant repeated by which all excessive tariff taxation is justified. We were told in the beginning that a few years protection would build up American industries, and then they could take care of themselves. Now after twenty-nine years of this fostering protection they are louder in their demands for it and for more of it than ever and seemingly from their own statements, more dependent upon it than ever. If protection be necessary and anything short of absolute prohibition of foreign hoop iron would build up the cotton-tie industry in this country it would have been built up long ago. This increased tax is not to build up more manufacturing of cotton-ties, but to put more money into the pockets of the men who own the few which are now in operation. Mr. McKinley, by the way, chairman of the committee, who takes so much interest in the farmer and pleads for an increase of duty on wool to let the struggling wool raisers, couldn't see why iron for cotton-ties should pay any less duty than any other hoop iron, nor can he see why the Southern farmer, who happens to live on a different side of the line from himself should be entitled to any fair play or favors under his tariff bill. Of course the amendment was voted down.

STATE TOPICS.

It makes the Danbury Reporter sad to see long trains of wagons passing by daily empty, to come back loaded with fertilizers, hay, meal, ship stuff, &c., and next winter to think that these same wagons will go to town loaded down with tobacco and come back through the mud loaded with corn, flour, hay, &c., to feed man and beast. We are not surprised at the Reporter's indirect protest against this senseless course which is pursued to such a great extent in the tobacco and cotton growing sections of the State. The one-crop system has been the bane of the North Carolina farmer, and always will be so while it is followed. In some years it may pay, or certain individuals may be so situated as to make it pay, but in the long run and for the farmer generally it will prove a failure. To insure independence and permanent prosperity there must be diversified farming and the farmer must raise his home supplies on his own farm.

CURRENT COMMENT.

The Boston people have made up their minds that good manners and good morals must be taught in the public schools in that city. It is supposed that the exhibition of "manufacturing" manners made by Representative Walker, of Massachusetts, in the House the other day does not please them.—Savannah News, Dem.

All who "egged on" the disorderly conduct of Saturday, or who failed to try to suppress it, earned the censure of the House in its organized capacity. Only one of them, however (Mr. Bynum of Indiana), was so censured. He strongly deserved it, and as he is a Democrat among an intensely partisan Republican majority, he got it. Had he been a Republican he probably would have escaped, as Mr. Bayne of our State did.—Phil. Ledger, Ind.

The McKinley bill has been very successful in one respect—it has put everybody into a brown study. If a large majority of "everybody" don't like the bill, why, how could it be otherwise with sensible people? The elect few whose private axes will be ground to a razor edge by the bill are praying with the energy of a windmill in a gale that it may become a law. Of course; it will be money in their pockets. A big bank account—a few surplus millions—is a consummation devoutly to be wished, and if these elect few can manipulate the policy of the federal government to suit their private ends it will be a very shrewd thing to do.—N. Y. Herald, Ind.

Interesting Statistics.

Here are some interesting criminal statistics: In the last ten years 672 persons were committed for trial in England and Wales for the crime of willful murder. Of these 290 were sentenced to death, 231 acquitted and 142 adjudged insane. Of the 290 condemned to death 154 were executed and 145 had commutations of sentence; of the 290 fifty were women, of whom nine were hanged.

STANLEY'S FIANCE.

The Beautiful and Gifted Woman Whose Heart is the Explorer's. The announcement of Mr. Stanley's engagement to Dorothy Tennant has taken London by surprise, although many of his friends now remember that what little preference he ever seemed to have for the other sex was for the beautiful woman he is about to marry, says the London correspondent of the New York Sun. Miss Tennant is, in fact, just the woman to capture a hero's heart, as she is just the woman to wait for a hero before losing her own heart. She is tall and stately, though rather of a dashing type of beauty. She is about thirty years of age, and is the daughter of the late Charles Tennant. She lives with her mother in a beautiful house in Richmond terrace, where she has a studio fitted up, for she is known as an unusually clever artist as well as a lady of fashion.

One of her fads has been the street Arab, and several of her best paintings in the Academy have been of the London gamin. Her picture in this year's exhibition is of five little waifs hanging over a railing on the Thames embankment, and she has had a class of small outcasts, to whom she has given an hour or two's instruction each day for a number of years. Miss Tennant is the original of the beautiful girl in Sir John Millais' well known picture, "No or Yes," in which she is represented as meditating upon the answer to a letter she holds in her hand. Altogether, the bold explorer has won a very superior woman for his wife, and she marries him with the full understanding that if he returns to Africa she goes with him.

ROLLING GLASS.

A New Invention that will Revolutionize the Trade. It is stated that an invention has been perfected in the glass industry which will accomplish a complete revolution in that branch of manufacture. Until the present it has only been possible to produce sheet glass by blowing a hollow cylinder, which was then cut, separated and polished. An American glass manufacturer is said to have succeeded in producing glass plates of great breadth and of any desired length by means of rolling.

Glass thus produced is said to possess a far greater homogeneity, firmness and transparency, and it has on the upper surface a brilliancy which is hardly to be distinguished from art plate glass. The material part of the invention consists in the application of the peculiar, undulated, hollow metal rollers, heated from the inside by means of steam or gas. These rollers seize the sticky, liquid glass, which is conducted to them from the bottom of a melting tub, without the intervention of any other apparatus whatever. To prevent the soft glass from adhering to the rollers the latter are covered with an extremely thin coating of wax. If the new process is extensively used window glass will be considerably cheapened.

THE ROAD RUNNER.

A Queer Sort of Chicken to be Seen in California. Judge Normie tells the St. Louis Globe-Democrat: When I was in California I was fortunate enough to see a very queer bird, which was entirely unfamiliar to me. One day I was driving in the country with a friend when he called my attention to a bird in the road ahead of me. It was something like a prairie chicken, but much more slender and graceful in build. It was not using its wings, but it moved very rapidly, and we had to keep the horse in a pretty good trot to keep up with it. My friend told me that it was a "road-runner," a bird that was noted there for its pedestrian accomplishments, and a peculiar habit they have is to walk always in the centre of the road. The miners are very fond of them, and never injure them, because they kill rattlesnakes, and the manner in which they do it is exceedingly interesting. When they meet a serpent and it smiles blandly on the road-runner, bent on making a dash, the bird behaves in such a coy manner that it leads the snake to think it will become the victim of its charm, and while it is keeping the snake in doubt as to its intentions it runs about in the cactus and picks off the thorns with its bill, dropping them in a circle around the snake until it has him completely surrounded by cactus thorns, and then it flies to some elevation and sits there to watch the snake stick himself to death on the thorns, trying to get out of the ring.

The Famous Lady Tiger Killer.

The pursuit of "the grand sport" in India has brought to the front a lady tiger killer of great skill and prowess in the person of Mrs. Evans Gordon. This fearless lady, as a member of the recent Cooch Behar hunting expedition, shot an angry tigress who was rushing viciously upon the party, and was actually within a few yards of her elephant's trunk. Her shot, we are told, was as well timed as it was well aimed, for the other guns engaged, including that of the lady sportsman's husband, Major Evans Gordon, had failed to stop the furious brute. It is added that this brilliant achievement adds one more to the many laurels and trophies already won by this dauntless lady in the hunting grounds of Cooch Behar.

PERSONAL.

Lotta is said to be by all odds the richest actress in America. Bishop Newman has been appointed to visit Japan and hold the Methodist conference there in July. General Nathaniel P. Banks enjoys the reputation of being the most courtly and polished man in Washington city. Senator Eustis was assaulted in Washington the other evening by a colored man who was employed in the circus to take tickets. Miss Forsythe has secured the rights for England of M. Victorien Sardou's new play, "Cleopatra," which will be Mme. Sarah Bernhardt's next creation.

The Czar's brother, the Grand Duke Alexis, is going to take some friends through Siberia, and show them how like an earthly paradise a Russian prison-pen is. Elsie Hall is a 12-year old pianiste from Australia, who is attracting attention in London. She has been elected to a scholarship at the Royal College of Music.

The Belgian King, Leopold, is said to contemplate a journey to this country in the coming autumn, with a view of arranging for further development of the Congo. Mrs. Edward Morrell, of Philadelphia, formerly Miss Drexel, has received as a present a coat from the mare once owned by General Grant and now the property of Mr. Childs.

POLITICAL POINTS.

Ben Butterworth unquestionably realizes that the people are awakening and that they intend to hold to their accountability their representatives who are charged in Congress with the making of the laws.—Charleston World, Dem. Mr. Cleveland is apparently so strong with the Pennsylvania Democracy that gubernatorial candidates find it to be necessary to disclaim that they are combining with anybody against the ex-President's presidential possibilities.—Wash. Star, Ind.

In devising a special gag law for the regulation of the tariff discussion the Republican leaders show that, rigid as the party discipline is, they dare not trust even their own followers if full debate is permitted. It is a pitiable confession of the weakness of their pet measure.—Detroit Free Press, Dem. Superintendent Porter says that the eleventh census shall be above suspicion. The "injurious" statements made at the Pittsburg banquet by a prominent Republican, while wrestling with a full-grown campaign "jag" made it imperative necessary that Mr. Porter should say something, and he said it.—Houston Post, Dem.

In Consumption Incurable?

Read the following: Mr. C. H. Morris, Newark, Ark., says: "Was down with Abscess of Lungs, and friends and physicians pronounced me an Incurable Consumptive. Began taking Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, am now on my third bottle, and able to oversee the work on my farm. It is the finest medicine ever made." Jesse Middlewast, Decatur, Ohio, says: "Had it not been for Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption I would have died of Lung Troubles. Was given up by doctors. Am now in best of health." Try it.
