

PUBLISHER'S ANNOUNCEMENT.
THE MORNING STAR, the oldest daily newspaper in North Carolina, is published every Friday morning at $1.00 per year, 50 cents for six months, 30 cents for three months.
ADVERTISING RATES (DAILY)—One square (10 lines) for one day, $1.00; for two days, $1.75; for three days, $2.50; for four days, $3.25; for five days, $4.00; for one week, $7.00; for two weeks, $12.00; for one month, $20.00; for three months, $55.00; for six months, $100.00; for one year, $180.00. Ten lines of solid newspaper type make one square.
All announcements of Fairs, Festivals, Balls, Hops, Proms, Society Meetings, Political Meetings, &c., will be charged regular advertising rates.
Notices under head of "City Items" 20 cents per line for first insertion, and 15 cents per line for each subsequent insertion.
No advertisements inserted in Local Column at any price.
Advertisements inserted once a week in Daily will be charged $1.00 per square for each insertion. Every other day, three-fifths of daily rate. Twice a week, two-thirds of daily rate.
Communications, unless they contain important news or facts locally and properly subjects of real interest, they will not be received if the real name of the author is withheld.
An extra charge will be made for double-column or irregular advertisements.
Notices of Marriage or Death, Tributes of Respect, obituary notices, &c., are charged for as ordinary advertisements, but only half rates when paid for in advance. At this rate 50 cents will pay for a simple announcement of Marriage or Death.
Announcements in which no specified number of insertions is marked will be continued "till forbid," at the discretion of the publisher, and charged on the date of discontinuance.
Announcement, Auction and Official advertisements, one dollar per square for each insertion.
Advertisements under the head of "New Advertisements" will be charged extra according to the position desired.
Advertisements large under the head of "New Advertisements" will be charged extra according to the position desired.
A percentage deducted before the time contract expires, if not renewed, charged transient rates for time actually published.
For insertion of transient advertisements must be made at least one week in advance, and with proper references, may pay monthly or quarterly, according to contract.
All communications and recommendations of candidates for election, whether in the shape of communications or otherwise, will be charged as advertisements.
Contributors will not be allowed to exceed the amount of advertising contracted for in their reports, and no extra charge for transient rates.
Notices must be made by Check, Draft, Postal Note, or Cash, and must be accompanied by the proper receipt, and be the responsibility of the advertiser.
All notices should always specify the issue or issues in which they are to appear. Where no issue is named, they will be inserted in the Daily. Where a particular issue is named, the advertiser is responsible for the making of the paper to which they are referred.
SPECIAL ADVERTISING OFFICE.
WILMINGTON, N. C.
SATURDAY MORNING, JUNE 28, 1890.

But it is held by some that, taking into consideration the amount of work done by the American workman, aided by machinery and his superior methods, the wages of the American workman in some lines of goods are really less than of the European workman, so that as a matter of fact the American manufacturer does not need protection even in this.
With free raw material and the tariff lowered to a revenue basis, with such incidental protection as that would afford, with the additional protection to the amount of the difference in the cost of labor, when there was a difference in this and other countries whose manufacturers compete with ours, if we say, with such protection as this our manufacturers cannot hold their own they ought to shut up shop and go out of business.
An illustration of the effect of free raw materials and taxed raw materials is furnished in the growth and condition of the woollen and boot and shoe industry of Massachusetts, the former protected, the latter not protected, the former paying a tariff tax on its raw material, the latter getting its raw material free from tariff tax, hides being on the free list since 1872. While the business of the former has made but a slight increase in twenty years the business of the latter has increased elevenfold. The reason is one had cheap raw material which the other had to pay a tax tribute of from forty to sixty per cent. on the raw material which they used. This is why the Wool Consumers' Association is pleading so earnestly to have wool placed on the free list.
Another illustration is furnished in the growth of the silk manufacturing industry in this country. For the purpose of encouraging silk growing along about 1840, a duty of from 12 to 20 per cent. was levied upon imported raw silk, and a silk raising craze spread throughout the country, which struck North Carolina pretty hard. Mulberry trees were planted by the thousand, and people went into the business of raising cocoons, in which they thought they saw fortunes. But with the 12 to 20 per cent. duty on foreign silk, the domestic cocoons didn't pan out according to popular expectation, the people got tired of the business and the bottom fell out of it. Occasionally in North Carolina to-day, may be seen the relics of the mulberry groves which were planted then.
In 1850 silk was placed on the free list. Between 1870 and 1880, when the census was taken, the silk manufacturers had increased from 88 to 382, the capital employed from $6,200,000 to $19,100,000, the hands employed from 6,999 to 31,337, the wages employed from $1,900,000 to $9,100,000, the value of products from $12,700,000 to $41,000,000. So much for free silk. What free silk did for the silk industry free wool would do for the woollen industry. What our American manufacturers need is cheap raw materials, an unrestricted market, and then they can take care of themselves.

FOUND AFTER TWENTY YEARS
A Bullet Taken from the Forehead of Robert von Jutzzenka.
Chicago Herald.
An interesting operation was performed a few days ago by Dr. C. A. Wat of Chicago, upon Robert von Jutzzenka, formerly an officer in the Austrian army, but now a resident of this city. This man consulted the Doctor about a nervous affection, coupled with a severe headache, having its seat in the forehead. From the description of the symptoms given by the patient Dr. Weil concluded that there must be an outside irritant causing the troubles. He made a local examination and to his astonishment felt imbedded in a thick layer of skin over the forehead some hard object. This he removed by a simple surgical operation, and the object proved to be a small bullet lodged in it, appears, for over 20 years at or near the spot where finally recovered. And thereby hangs a tale. Jutzzenka is a native of the southern portion of Hungary, hailing from a district which adjoins Roumania. While still a small boy a playmate accidentally shot him with a small revolver. The boy Jutzzenka fell, but in a short time he recovered consciousness, felt no further pain and went home, never telling his parents of his little encounter with that bullet. Years went by. Occasionally the boy had more or less severe headache, but surgeons being scarce in that portion of his native country and the wound having meanwhile entirely healed over, a thick, parchment-like membrane having formed around it, nothing was done about it. The boy became a man, served with distinction in the Austrian army and finally came to America. By this time he had forgotten all about the bullet, not having given it any thought for ten years or more. And when of late his headaches reappeared in any aggravated form, and some peculiar nervous troubles ensued, he never attributed them to that escapade in boyhood's days. From the location where Dr. Weil found this bullet it was shown that the latter had lately moved right over some nerve knots on the frontal bone and that the pressure thus exerted was responsible for the physical ailment from which Jutzzenka has been a sufferer for some time. The patient is now in all respects as well as ever.

FOUND AFTER TWENTY YEARS
A Bullet Taken from the Forehead of Robert von Jutzzenka.
Chicago Herald.
An interesting operation was performed a few days ago by Dr. C. A. Wat of Chicago, upon Robert von Jutzzenka, formerly an officer in the Austrian army, but now a resident of this city. This man consulted the Doctor about a nervous affection, coupled with a severe headache, having its seat in the forehead. From the description of the symptoms given by the patient Dr. Weil concluded that there must be an outside irritant causing the troubles. He made a local examination and to his astonishment felt imbedded in a thick layer of skin over the forehead some hard object. This he removed by a simple surgical operation, and the object proved to be a small bullet lodged in it, appears, for over 20 years at or near the spot where finally recovered. And thereby hangs a tale. Jutzzenka is a native of the southern portion of Hungary, hailing from a district which adjoins Roumania. While still a small boy a playmate accidentally shot him with a small revolver. The boy Jutzzenka fell, but in a short time he recovered consciousness, felt no further pain and went home, never telling his parents of his little encounter with that bullet. Years went by. Occasionally the boy had more or less severe headache, but surgeons being scarce in that portion of his native country and the wound having meanwhile entirely healed over, a thick, parchment-like membrane having formed around it, nothing was done about it. The boy became a man, served with distinction in the Austrian army and finally came to America. By this time he had forgotten all about the bullet, not having given it any thought for ten years or more. And when of late his headaches reappeared in any aggravated form, and some peculiar nervous troubles ensued, he never attributed them to that escapade in boyhood's days. From the location where Dr. Weil found this bullet it was shown that the latter had lately moved right over some nerve knots on the frontal bone and that the pressure thus exerted was responsible for the physical ailment from which Jutzzenka has been a sufferer for some time. The patient is now in all respects as well as ever.

FOUND AFTER TWENTY YEARS
A Bullet Taken from the Forehead of Robert von Jutzzenka.
Chicago Herald.
An interesting operation was performed a few days ago by Dr. C. A. Wat of Chicago, upon Robert von Jutzzenka, formerly an officer in the Austrian army, but now a resident of this city. This man consulted the Doctor about a nervous affection, coupled with a severe headache, having its seat in the forehead. From the description of the symptoms given by the patient Dr. Weil concluded that there must be an outside irritant causing the troubles. He made a local examination and to his astonishment felt imbedded in a thick layer of skin over the forehead some hard object. This he removed by a simple surgical operation, and the object proved to be a small bullet lodged in it, appears, for over 20 years at or near the spot where finally recovered. And thereby hangs a tale. Jutzzenka is a native of the southern portion of Hungary, hailing from a district which adjoins Roumania. While still a small boy a playmate accidentally shot him with a small revolver. The boy Jutzzenka fell, but in a short time he recovered consciousness, felt no further pain and went home, never telling his parents of his little encounter with that bullet. Years went by. Occasionally the boy had more or less severe headache, but surgeons being scarce in that portion of his native country and the wound having meanwhile entirely healed over, a thick, parchment-like membrane having formed around it, nothing was done about it. The boy became a man, served with distinction in the Austrian army and finally came to America. By this time he had forgotten all about the bullet, not having given it any thought for ten years or more. And when of late his headaches reappeared in any aggravated form, and some peculiar nervous troubles ensued, he never attributed them to that escapade in boyhood's days. From the location where Dr. Weil found this bullet it was shown that the latter had lately moved right over some nerve knots on the frontal bone and that the pressure thus exerted was responsible for the physical ailment from which Jutzzenka has been a sufferer for some time. The patient is now in all respects as well as ever.

FOUND AFTER TWENTY YEARS
A Bullet Taken from the Forehead of Robert von Jutzzenka.
Chicago Herald.
An interesting operation was performed a few days ago by Dr. C. A. Wat of Chicago, upon Robert von Jutzzenka, formerly an officer in the Austrian army, but now a resident of this city. This man consulted the Doctor about a nervous affection, coupled with a severe headache, having its seat in the forehead. From the description of the symptoms given by the patient Dr. Weil concluded that there must be an outside irritant causing the troubles. He made a local examination and to his astonishment felt imbedded in a thick layer of skin over the forehead some hard object. This he removed by a simple surgical operation, and the object proved to be a small bullet lodged in it, appears, for over 20 years at or near the spot where finally recovered. And thereby hangs a tale. Jutzzenka is a native of the southern portion of Hungary, hailing from a district which adjoins Roumania. While still a small boy a playmate accidentally shot him with a small revolver. The boy Jutzzenka fell, but in a short time he recovered consciousness, felt no further pain and went home, never telling his parents of his little encounter with that bullet. Years went by. Occasionally the boy had more or less severe headache, but surgeons being scarce in that portion of his native country and the wound having meanwhile entirely healed over, a thick, parchment-like membrane having formed around it, nothing was done about it. The boy became a man, served with distinction in the Austrian army and finally came to America. By this time he had forgotten all about the bullet, not having given it any thought for ten years or more. And when of late his headaches reappeared in any aggravated form, and some peculiar nervous troubles ensued, he never attributed them to that escapade in boyhood's days. From the location where Dr. Weil found this bullet it was shown that the latter had lately moved right over some nerve knots on the frontal bone and that the pressure thus exerted was responsible for the physical ailment from which Jutzzenka has been a sufferer for some time. The patient is now in all respects as well as ever.

FOUND AFTER TWENTY YEARS
A Bullet Taken from the Forehead of Robert von Jutzzenka.
Chicago Herald.
An interesting operation was performed a few days ago by Dr. C. A. Wat of Chicago, upon Robert von Jutzzenka, formerly an officer in the Austrian army, but now a resident of this city. This man consulted the Doctor about a nervous affection, coupled with a severe headache, having its seat in the forehead. From the description of the symptoms given by the patient Dr. Weil concluded that there must be an outside irritant causing the troubles. He made a local examination and to his astonishment felt imbedded in a thick layer of skin over the forehead some hard object. This he removed by a simple surgical operation, and the object proved to be a small bullet lodged in it, appears, for over 20 years at or near the spot where finally recovered. And thereby hangs a tale. Jutzzenka is a native of the southern portion of Hungary, hailing from a district which adjoins Roumania. While still a small boy a playmate accidentally shot him with a small revolver. The boy Jutzzenka fell, but in a short time he recovered consciousness, felt no further pain and went home, never telling his parents of his little encounter with that bullet. Years went by. Occasionally the boy had more or less severe headache, but surgeons being scarce in that portion of his native country and the wound having meanwhile entirely healed over, a thick, parchment-like membrane having formed around it, nothing was done about it. The boy became a man, served with distinction in the Austrian army and finally came to America. By this time he had forgotten all about the bullet, not having given it any thought for ten years or more. And when of late his headaches reappeared in any aggravated form, and some peculiar nervous troubles ensued, he never attributed them to that escapade in boyhood's days. From the location where Dr. Weil found this bullet it was shown that the latter had lately moved right over some nerve knots on the frontal bone and that the pressure thus exerted was responsible for the physical ailment from which Jutzzenka has been a sufferer for some time. The patient is now in all respects as well as ever.

WILMINGTON, N. C.
SATURDAY MORNING, JUNE 28, 1890.

WILMINGTON, N. C.
SATURDAY MORNING, JUNE 28, 1890.

WILMINGTON, N. C.
SATURDAY MORNING, JUNE 28, 1890.

WILMINGTON, N. C.
SATURDAY MORNING, JUNE 28, 1890.

WILMINGTON, N. C.
SATURDAY MORNING, JUNE 28, 1890.

WILMINGTON, N. C.
SATURDAY MORNING, JUNE 28, 1890.

WILMINGTON, N. C.
SATURDAY MORNING, JUNE 28, 1890.