There are no absentees among the Washington pension agents now. There is always a quorum of them on deck and they are the busiest men in that town. Applications for pensions under the new bill are pouring in by the thousands and employes in the pension office are up to their ears in parchment. Secretary Noble says it will take $1,000,000 to carry out the provisions of the bill and this but one of the incidentals of that big steal.

A Kansas judge holds that when an "original package" of liquors is shipped into that State it ceases to be an "original package" when broken and comes within the jurisdiction of the State law. While the European market for western breadstuffs is becoming annually narrower, the Republican statesmen are doing all they can to cripple the South, the North's best market for manafactured goods. As market demolishers the Republican statesmen are a howling success.

One of the reasons probably why the Republican statesmen take so little interest in the proceedings of Congress now, and why it is so hard for Boss Reed to get a quorum, is because the treasury has been so effectually raided that there is nothieg left but a big deficit.

The Fishermen.

The Blackfishers did not meet with their usual success yesterday, on account of bad weather. There was a lialf-grown gale at sea, and some of the fishermen did not "wet a line." Those who stopped at "The Rocks" had better luck, among them our piscatorol editor, who bagged a seven-pound sheephead. Bob Houston, Adolph Nelson and Charlie Harris held a meeting on the Grove, and unanimously resolved that next Monday will be a splendid day.

A Highway-Woman.

The police haven't caught a highwayman yet, but they had a highway-woman at the City Hall yesterday. She was a "furriner," and unable to speak English, but she made the janitor's hair stand on end by howling in seven other languages when he locked her up. Before she got through the Mayor ordered that she be released and escorted to the "outer guard," with her basket of small wares which she was peddling through the streets when arrested.

ANNUAL ENCAMPMENT.

THE NORTH CAROLINA STATE GUARD.

On the Tented Field---Everything in Readiness for the Troops---Officers of the General Staff Present---Arrival of the Washington Light Infantry.

The beautiful Seaside Park, at Wrightsville, is now dotted with the white tents which have been pitched there and made ready for the First and Third Regiments N. C. S. G., and 'Camp Latimer" is now ready for the troops, who will all arrive to-day. The following officers of the general staff have already arrived and in camp:

Adjutant General J. D. Glenn, Assistaut Adjutant General S. Smith, Inspector General F. H. Cameron, Assistant Inspector General B. Cameron, Quartermaster General F. A. Olds and Surgeon General Hubert Haywood.

Col. S. E. Blount, U. S. A., in charge of rifle practice, is also present, besides Captains Riddle and Gilmer, quartermasters respectively of the First and Third Regiments.

A detail of two men from each company was selected to put up the tents, under the direction of the regimental quartermasters, and these have put the camp in complete order for the military who will arrive to-day. The camp is well and neatly laid out, the officers being supplied with wall tents, while the non-commissioned officers and privates have the old-fashioned A tents. The encampment is pitched in a beautiful grove of large and shady trees near the parade grounds.

The following will be the hours of service during the encampment. in accordance with General Orders No. 12:

This morning a car load of equipments will arrive on the C. C. R, R. At 5:30 p.m. this afternoon five cars with military will arrive on the C. F. & Y. V. R. R., and at 6 p. m. thirteen cars loaded with soldiers will arrive on the W. & W. R. R. These trains will bring all the soldiers for the present encampment. It is estimated that there will be about 600, all told.

A Sneak Thief. The family of Mr. W. W. Sellers left their house, corner of Third and Hanover streets, Sunday afternoon between and 5 o'clock, to attend Sunday school, after carefully fastening the front and back doors. They had gone a short distance when one of the children, a little boy, ran back to the house to get something that had been forgotten. He went around to the rear of the house and was climbing in a window when he saw a colored man in one of the front rooms. The man came towards him and the boy, badly frightened, dropped to the ground and ran. The other members of the family were disposed to laugh at the boy's story, but when they returned home they found that some one had broken into the house, opened several trunks and scattered the contents of one over the floor of the room; but so far as ascertained nothing had been taken. It is supposed the return of the boy frightened the robber away,

The Cattle Nuisance.

There is good reason for complaint by the officials of the Seacoast railroad on account of cattle running at large on the line of the track within the city limits. The cattle seemed to be out in force on the line of the road yesterday afternoon, and at three different places, all within the city limits, the train blowed and was obliged to come nearly to a dead stop to avoid running over them. It is a great annoyance to the railroad men as well as to the many passengers who are daily passing over

WHAT TO DO IN DROWNINGS.

Under What Circumstances People Should Not Go in Bathing. As this is the height of the season for fresh water and surf bathing, accidents are likely to occur. Those who bathe in the surf, if they were always careful and cautious, never venturing beyond life lines, which should always be put up at the bathing resorts at the seashore, and never exhausting themselves by staying too long in the surf, and the uninitiated who remain close to the practiced swimmer, ought to escape without accident; but the frequency of asphyxia from submersion in the water, makes it necessary that it should be generally known what to do when a partially drowned person is first brought from the water. The relief should be prompt and intelli-

Recovery from asphyxia from drowning can scarcely be expected to take place after an immersion of five or six minutes, but there are well authenticated cases where restoration has taken place after an immersion of as much as twenty minutes. The effort to resuscitate should be persisted in for at least two hours if a physician can be summoned no sooner. As soon as returning vitality permits a few drops of brandy in a little water should be given, followed by beef tea or easily digested nourishment, as the system is exhausted by the violent muscular efforts of the person to save himself or herself from drowning.

The body should be recovered as soon as possible from the water; the face turned downward for a moment, with the forefinger of a bystander in the mouth and thrust backward, to depress the tongue, to favor the escape of a small quantity of water or mucus, or other substance, often collected at the base of the tongue, over the entrance to the trached (windpipe), which tends to obstruct the entrance of air to the lungs. The barbarous practice of rolling the person over a barrel, or hanging him head downward, to permit the escape of water from the lungs, has almost ceased, in view of the fact, now generally known, that no water can get into the

This can be done as the body is being conveyed to the nearest house, a messenger having been previously dispatched to make the arrangements involved in the following: As soon as the cody arrives it should be stripped of the clothing, rapidly dried, placed on a bed previously warmed, the head, neck and shoulders raised a very little, if any; frictions with the dry hands used to the extremities and heated flannels kept applied to the rest of the body. Two methods are usually employed for the purpose, the first known as "Sylvester's Ready Method." consists, after the above suggestions have been carried out, in pulling the tongue forward, which better favors the passage of air along the base of the tongue into the trachea (windpipe), and then drawing the arms away from the sides of the body and upward so as to meet over the head, by means of which the ribs are raised (expansion of the chest) by the muscles (pectoral) running from them to the arms near the shoulder. A vacuum is thus created in the lungs, the air rushes in, and the blood then is purified by the passage of the impure gases in the blood vessels to the air and by the giving up by the air of a portion of its oxygen to the blood. The arms are now brought down to the sides and the elbows made to meet over what is called the pit of the stomach. This produces contraction of the walls of the chest and expulsion of the impure air from the lungs. The Leonce "ready method," as it is called, is that of Marshall Hall. The person whose breathing is to be restored is placed flat on the face, gentle pressure is then made on the back, the pressure removed, the body turned on its side, or a little beyond that. The body is then turned on the side. This should be done about sixteen times in a minute.

Persons suffering from debility, especially debility peculiarly affecting the nervous system, should never be induced to go beyond depth in the water, or out of reach of immediate assistance. There is no warning in advance of the seizure, and the person sinks at once. Many ives are lost each season, in shallow as well as in deep water, from these seizures, which could have been avoided had the bather, perhaps just recovering from an attack of sickness, or even of indisposition, not neglected the precautions

Messrs. Hall & Pearsall were advised yesterday that the small schooner Charles, Capt. Ireland, with a cargo of shingles, from Onslow for Philadelphia, got aground last Sunday on New river bar, while going out to sea, and it is feared will prove a total loss. For the Star. LINVILLE IMPROVEMENT CO.

The Linville (N. C.) Improvement Company held their annual meeting July 16, and the following officers were reelected to serve during the ensuing year: Hugh MacRae, President and Treasurer; S. T. Kelsey, Vice President and General Manager; W. A. Lenoir, Donald MacRae and Thomas F. Parker, Directors; E. Prosser Holcombe. Secretary; and J. R. Ervin, Engineer.

Much work has been done in clearing and grading streets. Great progress has been made during the past year in the growth of the young city, and many miles of fine road and picturesque drives have been built, one of which is now within a mile of the top of the magnificent Grandfather mountain. This road is the finest in North Carolina, and is not surpassed by any in this country for its excellent views and beautiful scenery.

Large numbers of guests are daily arriving at the handsome hotel recently built, and depart delighted with the fine climate and magnificent scenery.

Assault and Bsttery.

D. J. Bowens, a young colored man of respectable appearance, was arrested and brought before the Mayor yesterday charged with assault and battery on Mr. Tom Quinlivan, last Saturday night.

The case is rather peculiar. Mr. Quinlivan testified that he was on his way to his home on North Seventh street Saturday night between 10 and 11 o'clock, and when between Bladen and Brunswick streets a man whom he recognized to be the defendant came suddenly upon him, and, with the exclamation "Highwayman!" struck Mr. Quinlivan a severe blow on the head with a stick, knocking him down. Mr. Quinlivan called out and the man, bending over him, called him by name and said that he did not know that it was him.

The defendant, Bowens, said that he came out of his gate and suddenly encountered a man whom he took to be a robber, and thinking he was going to assault him knocked the man down with his walking stick. Jno. Holloway, col,. corroborated the defendant. He heard the lick and ran out of his house and asked the trouble. Bowens said he had knocked Mr. Quinlivan down through mistake, and explained the circum-
