BLAINE TO THE FRONT.

If there ever was any doubt as to Mr. Blaine's candidacy for the Presidency in 1892 there is little room for doubt now for he is practically in the ring as much so as if public announcement to that effect had been made by his authority. Mr. Blaine is an ambitious man, he has nursed the dream of the Presidency for years, his defeat when beaten by Cleveland was a grevious disappointment to him, and he has never rested easy under it. The fact that that campaign was waged largely upon his personal record, his honesty as a legislator forming one of the issues, made his defeat all the more stinging because it carried with it a personal rebuke, and popular endorsement of the arraignment against

A defeated candidate loses prestige to a greater or less extent, and this fact, coupled with the serious doubts of the Republican party being able to elect its candidate in 1888, accounts for his declining to enter the race then. He was perhaps as much surprised as any one when Benjamin Harrison was elected, by carrying the very same State which had beaten him.

than he was six years ago or ten years ago, and the desire to wipe | bition, long pursued and at last out the stigma of defeat and secure a personal vindication by an election, is as strong as it ever was. It would not be like Blaine if he did not avail himself of the first opportunity that success to achieve it.

Since 1884 there has been a marked change of popular sentiment in this country on several questions, but on none more so than on the tariff question, the high protective policy havthen, even in those States in which a man's orthodoxy and his patriotism with which he accepted that doctrine and the enthusiasm with which he supported it.

he could consistently do considering to 51.75 per cent., which every one soil.

his relations to Mr. Harrison's adadministration, than he. In his shrewdly shaped to attract the attention of the farmers without seeming to be so intended, he went as far as he could go on a measure to which Mr. Harrison and the party were committed, without openly antagonizing the administration and the party leaders, which it was not his purpose or policy to do, and in his disapproval of the Lodge force bill, another measure endorsed by Mr. Harrison and the leaders of the party, he put himself in accord with that conservative element of the country which holds law and right above party supremacy and who, though they make but little noise, are potent factors in all presidential elections.

If he had not a motive in addition to the desire to extend our commercial relations with the American countries south of us, he never would have adopted the reciprocity idea, nor taken that radical departure from the high protective Chinese wall policy as advocated by his party and himself, as one of its leading lights, for nearly a generation, and he would never have written that letter to Senator Frye, which, coming from the source it did, is one of the strongest documents against the doctrine of protection, as understood and carried out by the Republican party, that has ever emanated from a recognized Republican leader.

There is no shrewder politician in his party than he, no abler man, no one with so much personal magnetism nor a greater following, and he is not the man to take chances blindly without considering the situation and weighing the conse-

There is, from the present outlook, a better chance for his nomination than for that of any other man of his party whose name is mentioned in that connection, and there are particular reasons why he should not decline if he did not absolutely seek the nomination partisan bias that the Republican party is, from the negative administration of Mr. Harrison and the poswaters and the rocks around and ahead of it. There are pilots enough ready, willing and anxious to undertake the job, but none of them could present the endorsements nor command the support that Mr. Blaine could if the test were made to-day. This is the ground upon which his nomination will be urged. He will accept it because it will place him in the attitude of a party deliverer or savior, the leader of a forlorn hope, who came to the rescue when all was chaos and snatched victory from the jaws of defeat, which, in the event of victory, would be glory added to the personal triumph of a vindication after the lapse of eight years, and a reversal of the verdict of 1884. But should he be defeated it would involve no personal reproach nor humiliation to him, for he could with much truth say that it was Harrison's blunders and the criminal record of the Republican Congress which brought disaster and made victory under any leadership impos-

He risks no personal reputation nor prestige by accepting the nomination, but, if successful, would achieve fame as the leader who took the party which others had almost wrecked and saved it from

This might well be considered, from Mr. Blaine's standpoint, an honorable, brilliant and happy rounding up of a conspicuous and eventful public life, a blending of light and shadow, strength and weakness, He is no less ambitious to-day virtue and venality, and might reasonably fill the measure of his amachieved.

MINOR MENTION.

Mr. Voorhees stated in his speech in the Senate on the tariff, Monday, teen millions of dollars a year. This was not done for revenue, but simply to give more protection to industries already enormously protected. Another notable fact in this connecing lost thousands of adherents since | tion is the disproportion in the rate of increase on the finer and coarser grade of goods, the rates on the almost were gauged by the readiness | cheaper fabrics being increased from seventy-five to one hundred and sixty per cent., double the rate of increase on the finer goods bought and No one was quicker to discover worn by people in easy circumhimself in accord with it, so far as | 110n and steel is from 38.24 per cent. | feed for stock and a fertilizer of the who buys a pound of either will have to pay. This is not for revenue, but criticism of the McKinley bill, to give more protection to men who have already amassed princely fortunes out of the protection which they have had for years. This will fall largely upon the farmer as it forms an additional tax on every machine, vehicle or implement used in the cultivation of his farm, and this, too, while the farmers throughout the country are demanding relief with a unanimity and a positiveness that they never before demanded it. This is what they expect from a bill which, as Mr. Blaine says, does not open a market for another bushel of wheat or another barrel of pork, while an attempt is made to humbug them with a farcical protection on certain farm products the importation of which is insignificant, of some so much so that they are not considered worth classifying in the Custom House reports.

Is the tariff bill debate in the Senate to be a mere matter of formality as the debate on the admission o those rotten-borough States, the Montana Senatorships, and Dependent Pension bill was? It looks that way when it is stated that not more than a dozen Republican Senators remained in their seats last Monday to listen to the speech of Mr. Voorhees against it. Mr. Voorhees is recognized to be one of the ablest men and one of the leaders on the Democratic side, and certainly what he had to say was worthy of the respectful attention not only of the Democrats but of the other side of the chamber. It is true his speech might be read in the Record when it is printed, but if this be a sufficient reason for Senators not listening to it then the delivery of speeches might be dispensed with altogether as a mere time-consuming formality, and the speeches printed without going through that formal process. The fact of this general vacating of seats on the Republican side indicates that the majority have decided to run the It is a conceded fact by all who | bill through in its present shape, are not influenced to denial of it by admitting, perhaps, some trivial amendments by Republican Senators, and hence the only object to be accomplished by the Democratic itive blundering and criminality of | Senators in opposing it will be to the present Congress, in a very bad expose its enormities, show up what plight and sadly in need of a pilot a tight grip the protected monopoto steer it through the troubled lists have on the Republican side of the Senate as well as the House, and how little the over-burdened people have to expect in the way of reformor relief from either. In this respect the debate, formal as it is, will prove serviceable in the campaign of education now in progress throughout the country.

> Mr. John I. Davenport, of New York, who has achieved some reputation and notoriety as a manipulator of Federal election laws, seems to have become a necessary adjunct counsellor-in-chief, of the Republican statesman in Washington when they set themselves to hatch out any election devilment. When Lodge had worked up his bill and it was submitted to the committee on elections Mr. Davenport was summoned to give his views and suggestions before the bill was put in final shape for presentation in the House, so the Senate committee on elections now have him closeted with them to help them work up a bili which they think will meet the emergency which confronts the g. o. p. Johnny is a hustler and from his experience he is qualified to give them all the points which they haven't caught on to. As counsellor-in-chief to the conspirators in general he has become quite distinguished, and is contributing his share to make them quite infamous.

STATE TOPICS.

The Scotland Neck Democrat mentions seeing some clover cut from a field in Halifax county which measured five feet in height. This shows what Halifax can do on clover. But other counties can do as well as that. We have seen fields in Mecklenburg county of fifteen or twenty acres, where the clover stood from five to six feet presented anything like a hope of | that the increase of the tariff on | high, and so thick upon the ground woolen goods alone amounted to fif- that it was impossible to cut it with a mower. It had to be cut by hand. From two to three cuttings were made in one season. Wake, Guilford, Randolph, Forsyth, and other counties can show as fine clover fields as can be seen anywhere, and in addition to this, the area of cultivation is annually increasing as the ease and success of its culture have become so fully demonstrated. There need be no fears about the agricultural future of a State which can grow five-foot clover when that this change or more alert to put stances. The increase of rates on clover is utilized as it should be as

CURRENT COMMENT

- The majority in the House will have to be made larger to maintain even a counted quorum. Accordingly two more Democrats are to be bounced .- Phil. Times, Ind.

--- Compared with the arrogant lawlessness of Dictator Reed and the complacent impudence of Boss Quay how feeble seems the speculative chicane that lost Mr. Blaine the Presidency; Reedism and Quayism have almost made Blaineism respectable. -Phil. Record, Dem

- Remonstrances against the fraud and force bill come in increasing numbers from all parts of the country. Many signers, especially in the West and Northwest, accompany their protests with the statement that they are Republicans but feel it their duty to denounce so revolutionary a measure.—N. Y. Star,

- It is said now that the advanced steps taken by Mr. James G. Blaine on the tariff question and the Lodge election bill, directly in conflict with the leaders of his party and the views of Harrison, will necessarily cause his retirement from the Cabinet at an early day, and must probably make him a candidate for the Presidential nomination in 1892. We shall not be surprised if that is true.-Lynchburg Advance, Dem.

WOMEN WHO SPECULATE.

They Like to Take a Flyer in Stocks the Same as Men.

"Do you know that there are beween 300 and 400 women who speculate in Wall street?" said a Virginia woman, now engaged in the stock brokerage business in New York, while in conversation with a reporter the other day.

"Most lady speculators are bulls," she continued. "They buy, do not sell often. I do not know why this is so. I know that when I was speculating I was a buyer. I have had twelve customers thus far. I expect to have orders by mail from all over the country. I have already bought for Virginia ladies and for one in

"It is easy to make money in stocks if one only keeps one's eyes open. Of course if you buy at random you are in great danger of losing. I suppose there are ladies who fancy that all they have to do to get rich is to throw some money into

"Most of the ladies who speculate are women of means who want to increase their wealth, but there are a good many who only have a few dollars, say $20 or more, and invest it here and make.'

MOTH FLIES SEIZED THE TOWN

They Made the Walks Slippery and Drove Folk Indoors.

A plague of moth flies or, as they are also styled, "electric-light bugs" invaded Pottsville. Pa., Wednesday night and literally covered everything. They so filled the electric light globes as to dim the light. Pedestrians had to wave them aside with violent gestures. They piled themselves half an inch thick on doorsteps and windows. They covered telegraph poles and awning posts till the latter looked as if they had been painted with a heavy coat of ochre. So dense were they upon the pavements that people slipped down upon them. Porches of hotels and residences were cleared of their legitimate occupants. The pests died by millions before morning and left a nauseating odor in the

The bug causing all this trouble is about one-half an inch long and resembles the ordinary miller, except that it does not have the white, dusty cover of that fly. Its color is a dark yellow with brown spots. While not so malicious in its attacks as the mosquito its swift dashes are nevertheless extremely annoying.

AFRICA'S DWARF BELLES.

Said to be Graceful and Prepossessing, Though They Wear No Clothes.

Explorer Stanley's new book contains the following description of a belle among the African dwarfs: At this settlement, Ugarrowwa's station, saw the first specimen of the tribe of dwarfs who were said to be thickly scattered north of the Ituri, from the Ngaiyu eastward. She measured 33 inches in height, and was a perfectly formed young women of about seventeen years of a glistening and smooth sleekness of body. Her figure was that of a miniature colored lady, not wanting in a certain grace, and her tace was very prepossessing. Her complexion was that of a quadroon, or of the color of yellow ivory. Her eyes were magnificent, but absurdly large for such a small creature-almost as large as that of a young gazelle; full, protruding, and extremely lustrous. Absolutely nude, the little demoiselle was quite possessed, as though she were accustomed to be admired, and really enjoyed inspection.

POLITICAL POINTS.

- With Blaine in the Republican ring for 1892, how dwarfed in appearance become all other contestants for the championship .- Petersburg Index-Appeal, Ind.

- The surplus is in sheol, and its

PERSONAL.

- A foreign contemporary has gallantly conferred upon Mrs. Henry M Stanley the title of "Queen of Africa."

- The greatest steeple climber in England is William Green. He has repaired over fifty steeples in England, and is in constant demand. A. P. Peterson, attorney general of the Hawaiian Islands, was born in Plymouth, Mass. He received his early education in Hawaii, but finished his studies in New England.

—Ex-Secretary McCulloch's illness is now reported to be less serious than was represented last week. He has suffered from Hay fever for years, and this disorder has lately developed an asthmatic phase. Besides, his digestive apparatus has been slightly disordered.

- George Francis Train is comfortably domiciled in Fern Hill, a suburb of Tacoma, and calls his cottage "Train-Villa-on-the-Hill." He is expecting a visit from his daughter soon and talks some about making another trip around the world-this time in fifty days.

Dear Sir:-I have visited a great many Springs i this country and in Europe, among others the "Sara toga" of this country, and the celebrated "Karlsbad" Springs in Europe, and am free to say that I find the "Sparkling Catawba" to excel, in their curative properties, all of them. And so far as I am personally concerned, I always look forward with pleasure to the time when I can spend a few pleasant days at those Springs. Yery respectfully, S. WITTKOWSKY.

Charlotte, N. C., February 25, 1885 The subscriber has been for many years acquainted with the beneficial effects resulting from the use of the Sparkling Catawba Spring water. It restores the lost appetite, regulates the action of the bowels and kid neys, clearing the skin, and removing eruptions (usually benefited by sulphur or arsenic). WEBSTER'S UNABRIDGED ANCIENT EDITION

A so-called "Webster's Unabridged Dictionary" is being offered to the public at a very low price. The body of the book, from A to Z, is a cheap reprint, page for page, of the edition of 1847, which was in its day, a valuable book, but in the progress of language for over FORTY YEARS, has been completely superseded. It is now reproduced, broken type, errors and all, by photo-lithograph process, is printed on cheap paper and flimsily bound. A brief comparison, page by page, between the reprint and the latest and enlarged edition, will show the great superiority of the latter. These reprints are as out of date as a last year's almanac. No honorable dealer will allow the buyer of such to suppose that he is getting the Webster which to-day is accepted as the Standard and THE BEST, -every copy of which bears our imprint as given below. If persons who have been induced to purchase the "Ancient Edition" by any misrepresentations will advise us of the
