Hoar and others in favor of such a measure are now trying to work up something which will be less repugnant to the North than the House bill, but the sentiment among the Senators is gaining so decidedly against any action of that kind, that the impression is gaining ground that whatever bill may be shaped there will be no chance of passing it this session, at least. This is also the opinion of the Washington correspondent of the Philadelphia Ledger, a very careful and well informed writer.

ANNUAL ENGAMPMEN'T

THE NORTH CAROLINA STATE GUARD.

A Pleasant Day---Battalion Drills---Roster of the Troops Present-

The sun rose in a clear sky yesterday morning at Wrightsville, and the soldiery fairly began the duties of the encampment.

The regular orders, as published, were carried out, although, on account of the lateness of the hour of the arrival of the main body of troops on Tuesday night, there was some delay in carrying them into execution. There was some variation, also, in the programme by a lecture to the officers by Col. S. E. Blunt, U. S. A., on rifle practice, which was exceedingly interesting and instructive. It was plain, practical and clothed in simple, common-sense language, such as all could comprehend and was highly enjoyed by all present.

Battalion drills were held by both regiments in the morning and again in the evening, in which the men did well both in the evolutions and in the manual of arms. The marchings, wheelings and facings were all finely executed, with military precision and a proper idea of correct soldierly bearing.

The Hornet's Nest Riflemen, of Charlotte, are in camp and temporarily attached to the First Regiment. They are a fine body of men. The following is a corrected roster of the officers and men in camp, as furnished us by the first sergeants of the companies. Of course we omit the roster of Co. David J. Garner Adjudged to be Insane and Acquitted of the Murder of Edward Hill.

The trial of David J. Garner for the murder of Edward Hill, colored, on the 25th of June last, was taken up in the Criminal Court yesterday morning, Solicitor B. R. Moore prosecuting for the State and Col. A. M. Waddell, Allen B. Brown and A. J. Marshall, Esgrs., appearing for the prisoner. The work of selecting a jury from the seventy men summoned was completed at half past 12, the jury being empanelled as follows: R. B. Register, W. F. Ketchum, F. V. B. Yopp, S. F. Yopp, W. M. Hankins, Geo. T. Alderman, F. S. Clark, A. B. Sandlin. H. M. Woodcock, T. J. Tart, E. V. Mc-Kenzie, J. W. Thorburn.

The facts of the homicide were detailed by the witnesses for the State, as published at the time in the STAR, and are familiar to its readers.

After the recess for dinner the examination of witnesses for the defence began. Most of them were citizens of Onslow county, and had known Garner and his family for years. All testified to the prisoner's insanity. Dr. Kirkham, testified that he lived about eight miles from the Garners; was physician for the family; there are five branches of the family; the prisoner belonged to a branch in which insanity frequently occurred; an uncle of the prisoner became insane and for years before he died was always kept under guard. Have heard of numerous cases in the family. The prisoner's brother was insane, and a female cousin was an idiot. Other witnesses testified to the same facts. Mrs. Garner, wife of the prisoner's brother, testified that David J. Garner was sent to her home to be taken care of about seven years ago. He was insant and had to be watched day and ight; tried on one occasion to get a gun in the house to shoot himself. He got better and left, but had a second attack and was brought back but ran away Her husband, prisoner's brother, is insane, and he had a cousin an idiot.

Mr. Gaskill, who fished with Garner down the Cape Fear river, testified to the strange behavior of prisoner, and of his attempting to shoot witness with a gun at the Hammocks about a week before the shooting of Ed. Hill. Prof. Miller also gave testimony going to show that prisoner was insane, as did a num-

At the conclusion of the testimony for the defence, the Solicitor signified his willingness to agree to a verdict of

The following record was made in the case and signed by the Court: "After hearing the testimony and the charge from the Court, the jury find for their verdict that the prisoner, David J. Garner, slew the deceased. Edward Hill, as charged; but the jury further find that at the time of the homicide the prisoner was insane, and still continues to be insane at the time of this trial. The prisoner, David J Garner, was indicted and tried at the present term of the Criminal Court of New Hanover county upon the charge of murder. It was proven that on the 25th day of June last the prisoner who had been staying for a short time at the Hammocks, in charge of a sail boat, came out of a pavilion and seated himself on a hand-car at the depot of the Hammocks in the presence of numerous persons who were passing to and fro, with a gun in his hand. It was about 10 o'clock in the forenoon of that day. In a short time thereafter the passenger train on the Seacoast railroad (from the city) arrived and just as the engine and tender came up to within about 25 feet of where the prisoner was seated, and had stopped, the prisoner raised the gun and shot the deceased, Ed. Hill (the fireman) who was standing on the tender, in his right thigh. The deceased only lived a few hours after he was shot. The prisoner made no attempt to escape, but remained seated on the hand-car, and was scraping the barrel of his gun with a key until he was arrested about twenty minutes after he had shot the deceased He kept perfectly cool and was indifferent in his manner, and when asked why he had shot the deceased he first said he had done it of his own free will and then that he did it in self-defence, and finally that the Lord only knows why he

"It was also proven that the prisoner and the deceased had no acquaintance with each other, and no disagreement or difficulty of any kind had ever taken place between them. The prisoner came to Wilmington during the past spring and engaged for a while in the business of a fisherman. He is a citizen of Onslow county, and he was legally adjudged to be insane in the year 1882, but was not received in the State Asylum for want of room. There was no dispute or contention on the trial as to the manner of the killing. The defence of insanity was set up and three physicians and many other witnesses were examiined, and he was acquitted by the jury and a certified copy of the finding of the jury will accompany this order of the court,

"The jury empanelled in this case
