TIMMONSVILLE, S. C.

Fatal Boiler Explosion-Cotton Crops. A correspondent of the STAR writes from Timmonsville, S. C., July 23d, that the boiler of the saw mill belonging to Wm. Atkinson, situated between that place and Cartersville exploded last Wednesday, killing Norman Phillips and scalding a young brother of Mr. Atkinson so seriously that, Dr. Palmer says, he cannot live. The cause of the explosion is attributed to carelessness on the part of the fireman.

Cotton still keeps in a fine growing condition and in some sections needs rain. On light lands it will begin to open in a few days, and by the 15th of August it will be ready to gather.

Weather Forecasts.

Travellers by Sea.

The following are the weather forecasts for to-day: For Virginia: Rain, southerly winds, and slightly warmer. For North Carolina: Showers, southerly winds, and warmer. For South Carolina and Georgia: Showers, southerly winds, and stationary temperature, except in the extreme northern portion of South Carolina, where it will be warmer.

A Verdict of Guilty in the Slander Case. The greater part of yesterday's ses-

Gardner, Barker's divorced wife, who was married to him in 1882 and from whom he obtained a divorce some years later. The case was ably argued by Solicitor B. R. Moore and Marsden Bellamy, Esq., for the State, and Herbert McClammy and Mr. Rountree for the defence. It was given to the jury late in the afternoon and a verdict was soon returned, in the bill of indictment. The prisoner's counsel gave notice that a motion for a new trial would be made. The Court then took a recess until

- Sergeant C. R. Oliver, Co. G, Third Regiment, Reidsville, is in camp with the boys. He is one of the editors and proprietors of the Reidsville Review, which is a good paper, as he is a good and clever gentleman.

- There is marked improvement in the drill and discipline of the troops every day, and the officers as well as It will not COST MUCH to investigate. men are working assidulously to make the present Encampment superior to any of its predecessors.

- G. M. Haynes, snare drummer of the Third Regiment band, was a drummer in the Confederate service, serving four years, and he can proudly boast that in all that time he never had a furlough nor took a dose of medicine.

- The only case thus far in camp for surgical treatment was one in which a soldier, while bathing, had a big splinter run through one of his great toes. It was pulled out as quickly as possible, and the man was able to return to duty. - The officials of the Seacoast rail road are compelled to insist that all freight to any points must be shipped by the 6:45 a. m., and 12:50 p. m. trains, and will be taken on no others. Shippers will take notice and govern themselves accordingly. - It has been suggested that if the fare on the Seacoast Railroad were reduced to 25 cents for the round trip to Wilmington and return, during the Encampment, it would be a great convenience to the military and pay, through the natural increase of travel.

- Rev. A. G. McManaway, pastor of Tryon Street Baptist Church, in Charlotte, and Chaplain of the Hornet's Nest Riflemen, was in camp with the boys vesterday. He will leave this morning, having an engagement to deliver an address before a Bible Society in Union county on Saturday.

- The Third Regiment band is from Newton, N. C., and has been organized a little less than three years; but it is composed of first class musicians who have had thorough training, which makes them the equal, if not superior, to many older bands. They are an honor to the regiment and to the musical fraternity.
