OUTLINES.

The Senate yesterday adopted a concurrent resolution, expressing the desire of Congress for the removal of the remains of General Grant to Arlington National Cemetery, and a resolution was adpted accepting a statue and perlestal of the late distinguished officer, from the Grand Army of the Republic, to be erected in the Capitol; conference reports on the fortification and sundry civil appropriation bills were presented and agreed to; the tariff bill was then considered until adjournment; the general deficiency bill was considered in the House. - Dun & Co., in their weekly trade review, say the state of trade throughout the country appears satisfactory for the season, and reports are almost uniformly confident in tone; the crop prospects are less promising; business failures for the week number 208, against 189 for previous week. -The switchmen on the New York Central and Hudson River railroad inaugurated a strike last night, and the road is tied up from Buffalo to New York; the Grand Union Hotel, in New York city, is crowded with people who expected to leave the city, and had engaged passage tor various points. -- The cholera mortality at Jeddah shows no signs of abatement, and the deaths number about one hundred daily; all points on the Red Sea are guarded to prevent the landing of persons from Arabia. -- The Anti-Lottery League of Louisiana has issued an address to the people of the United States, severely denouncing the Louisiana company as fraudulent in every respect, and memoralizing the President and Congress to bring about such legislation as will break down the power of the concern, and prevent a possibility of its being ever again reestablished. -- The population of Atlanta, Ga., is 65,414, which is an increase during the census period of 28,105, or 75.13 per cent. - Two ladies and two children, of a pleasure party from Baltimore, were drawned Thursday while bathing in a creek in St. Mary's county; the undertow from a passing steamboat swept them beyond their depth; nine of the party were rescued by oystermen. -Dr. Pettegrini has been elected to the Presidency of the Argentine Republic, and there is great rejoicing in Buenos Ayres; the city was illuminated Thursday night; the Governors of all of the provinces have sent congratulations to the new President. - A terrible hail storm is reported from Montevideo, Minn.; the standing grain crops were totally destroyed, --- New York markets: Money 5@8 per cent.; cotton quiet; middling uplands 121/c; middling Orleans 11 13-16c; southern flour heavy; wheat quiet, weak and 1/01c lower; No. 2 red 98@99c; corn duil and heavy; No. 2, 54% @55%c; spirits turpentine quiet and steady at 411/2c.

Philadelphia's population is said to be 1,044,894, a gain of 231 per cent. since 1880. Not bad for a quiet rural town like that.

A New York paper speaks of a thief who died of remorse. It does not give his politics but it is safe to say that he was not a Republican.

As Reed's majority in his district is not quite 2,000, even with sixteen dollar bribes and whiskey thrown in, he will probably find the Kittery mavy yard quite serviceable in the next election.

The Republicans in Congress have so effectually wrecked the treasury that they haven't any more money to build lighthouses to save ships from wrecking.

Secretary Blaine denies the reports that he intends to resign from the Cabinet, but they can't get him to say that he won't be in the White House race in 1892.

The latest kink according to the New Haven Palladium in bicycling in that city, is attaching wicker seats to the bicycles on which the riders take their heirs out for an airing.

As President Harrison will save about $100,000 of his salary he can probably worry through the increase of tarif duties in the McKinley bill, especially if sugar goes on the free list.

Mr. Carnegie draws his princely income from his protected iron works in this country and spends it in England and Scotland, where he finds living more congenial to his tastes than in this country.

That watchman who shot at and killed a colored boy who was running away from him in Philadelphia the other day, says he didn't aim to hit the boy, but just to frighten him. This is probably so. Watchmen seldom hit anything they aim at. | tery.

Mass Meeting of the Germans. Slowly but steadily the number o Germans in our city has increased in the last forty years, and both their numbers and finances constitute a very im portant factor in our city affairs. They have repeated the history of thousands of places in this country in Wilmington, by their success, with the thrift and honesty proverbial with the Germans. We are glad to see that preparations are being made to celebrate the German Immigration Day, for Wilmington should be behind in nothing good. Such a celebration as we learn is contemplated, namely. a grand German parade and German industrial display, will not only be a source of pleasure to our people, but also, no doubt, a profit to our city. We hope the Germans will make this a success. They will have a mass meeting on next Monday, at 8.30 p. m., in Luther Memorial westerly winds, stationary temperature Building, to further the move.

ANNUAL ENGAMPMENT.

THE NORTH CAROLINA STATE

Gloomy Weather--The Morning Drill --- Artillery Practice--- Veterans in Camp --- A Musical Entertainment To-

Owing to the gloomy rainy weather, there were comparatively few visitors at Camp Latimer yesterday and the grounds presented rather a deserted and, as some of the young soldiers expressed it, cheerless appearance. But the weather, like time and tide, waits for no man, and as for that matter, for no woman. It must be taken as it comes, aided by umbrellas and rubbers. The rain acted kindly, however, in one important sense as it put off its appearance until the merning drill was concluded, so that that did not suffer in consequence.

The military evolutions in the morning drill were performed in an entirely satisfactory manner, and, in our humble judgment it was, taken as a whole, the best of the present season. Officers and men seemed to be awake to the occasion The commands were given properly and in the true martial spirit, and executed promptly and with soldierly precision In fact, the esprit du corps of the State Guard seemed to possess every one. whether he wore a sword or carried a

During the forenoon a detachment from Company C, Second Regiment (Wilmington Light Infantry), under the command of Capt. Kenan, marched over to the battery, where they were drilled in the manual of heavy artillery by Sergeant Helcher, assisted by the men under his charge. The detachment entered heartily and earnestly into the spirit of the work, and their progress was highly creditable for a first lesson While the most of the instruction and practice was confined to the manual, it was concluded to fire once; so one of the seige guns was loaded with ninety pound solid shot and discharged. The gun was airhed for the shot to strike in the channel, something more than a mile from the battery and so perfeet was the aim that y struck the water right at the point aimed at, throwing the spray in every direction to the height of forty or fifty feet. The experiment was in every way highly satisfactory, and all present were much gratified at the result.

In this connection it is but simple justice to say that Sergeant Helcher, as well as the Corporal and men under him, have been ever ready and willing to assist the military in this branch of the service. They have manifested a lively interest in the encampment, and in all the movements looking to the advancement of the soldiers in a knowledge of tactics and in everything pertaining to the duties of the soldier.

On account of the rain there was no afternoon drill nor dress parade and it was feared that the Veterans would not be able to pay their promised visit as is their annual custom, and many regrets were uttered for fear that they would not come at all. However, at about half-past 5 o'clock in the afternoon a delegation of the Veterans arrived, having been conveyed from Wrightsville in wagonettes. The delegation was a small one, but they nevertheless received a hearty and cordial welcome. They were received informally but cordially and after calling upon the officers at headquarters, they passed through the camp, with many a pleasant word for the young soldiers, and then left for the train that was to bear them home.

The programme for this evening's entertainment, to be given in the pavilion on the camp grounds, under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A., will be varied and interesting, as the following will show; Overture—"Crown of Victory," by the Band of the Second Regiment.

Trio (Instrumental)-R. L. Keesler, organist; Capt. J. F. Reid and C. H. Wynne, violinists, all of the Fourth Regiment.

Vocal Duet with guitar accompaniment, "No Hope Beyond"-M. Norwood and H. Laney, of the Fourth Regiment.

Recitation, "The Old Homestead"-E. B. Lewis, of Fourth Regiment. Trombone Solo (Polka)-Second Regiment Band.

Duet, "The Flower Song," with organ. by R. L. Keesler, and violin, by Capt. J. F. Reid, of the Fourth Regi-

Selection on the Auto Harp, by Drum Major M. P. Taylor, Jr., of the Second Regiment Band.

Vocal Duet-"Medley," guitar accompaniment, by M. Norwood and H. Lanez, of the Fourth Regiment. Selection, by the Second Regiment

Band. The entertainment promises to be one of real interest, and will undoubtedly prove an attraction worthy of the Encampment and those who take a part, besides reflecting honor on the

In explanation of the cause why the expected target practice has not been carried out before this, we are informed, that the targets which were ordered on the 14th of June last did not arrive until Thursday night. It is not through any fault of the military authorities that they were not in camp on the first day of the first encampment.

Contract Awarded for One of the Greatest Undertakings in the History

Anderson & Barr, of Jersey City, N have been awarded a contract for building a lighthouse on Outer Diamond Shoal, off Cape Hatteras, coast of North Carolina, at their bid of $485,000. The contractors are to begin work within one month and are to have the structure completed within two years. They are required to maintain the light for on tractors within certain limits prescribed by the lighthouse board. The same firm several years ago built the lighthouse on Fourteen-foot bank, in Delaware bay, where, however, the difficulties encountered were not nearly so grave as those at Outer Diamond Shoal. The same plan has been adopted for the erection of this light as was used in Delaware bay. A large iron caisson, with a hollow cylinder rising from its centre, will be built, probably at Norfolk, though possibly at Hatteras Inlet, and will then be towed out to where the light is to be located. Here the caisson will be sunk in about twenty-four feet of water until it rests upon the sand of the shoal. It will be sunk by piling stone on top of it. When it rests firmly on the sands the work of excavating will be begun, the work being done by men inside the caisson from which the water will be excluded by forcing air down from above. As the material is excavated the caisson will be carried down until a suitable foundation is reached. Just how far down this may be is not known. It may not be over forty feet or it may be one hundred. As soon as the caisson is firm on a solid General and the Officer of the Day for | foundation it will be completely filled with concrete, as will also the hollow cylinder, to a height of thirty feet above the water. When this concrete hardens it will form a monolithic structure with a thin iron shell. Rip-rap work will be built up about this base so as to break the force of waves. When this concrete base and its rip-rap protection are in position the building of the superstructure, or the lighthouse proper, will be comparatively easy. This structure is to be of iron lined with brick. Its first floor will be thirty feet above water and will be reached by a strong ladder. It will be the store room, in which will be kept coal, wood, fresh water and three life-boats. The second floor will contain the fog signal machinery, with a boiler and small engine. The third floor will contain a fire-proof vault for the storage of mineral oil and tanks for fresh water. There will also be space on this floor for one year's provi-

Editor Star-You state in this morning's STAR that the warrant against Capt. Ward was executed by two of Sheriff Manning's deputies, Holmes and Whitney. Can't you try and find out the truth before publishing such things. Holmes and Whitney are not Deputy Sheriffs and have not been for some years. Well, this is really a very small affair But what's the matter with Holmes and Whitney, that a statement that they are connected with the Sheriff's office is so promptly denied? Arn't they good enough for Stephen? Yes, we can "try and find out the truth" about "such things," but we won't apply at the Sheriff's office for that commodity, because it don't vegetate there.

Crazy Negro Supposed to be an Escaped

Police officer Howell arrested a colored man yesterday afternoon who gave his name as Thomas Anderson and is supposed to be insane. He was found at the house of a colored woman who had reported at the City Hall that a crazy negro had broken into her house and would not leave. It is claimed by some persons that Anderson is the escaped convict for whom a reward of $100 would be offered by Gov. Fowleas mentioned in the STAR yesterday.

A Suspicious Character.

A strange white man, who gave his name as Joseph Sypher and said that he had just arrived in town from Jackson ville, Fla., was "run in" by police officers last night who saw him acting in a manner that created suspicion that he was a thief or robber. The man was ragged and dirty and when searched nothing but a small piece of tobacco was found on his person.
