We don't doubt her pluck, but there is a suspicious look in the statement that the braves had a hankering for soap. There must have been some strange revolutions out in that country when the noble red man manifests an interest in soap.

Officer Joe Roddick was sleeping quietly yesterday, after watching all night, when messengers ran to his house, No. 908 Wooster street, and informed him there was a robber under a house on Wright street. Joe, with visions of a large reward, jumped into his clothes and seizing his club went off to catch the robber (?) He found the women at the house badly scared, and went under the house and pulled out his robber, who wanted to know what he had done, and why a man who was tired could not get a little sleep if he wanted it? Joe found it was a man who was working on the premises, resting from his labors, and went home sadly disappointed at losing both sleep and reward.

Annual Meeting of Farmers' Alliance at Asheville.

Several delegates from the Farmers' Alliance meeting at Asheville returned last night and express themselves as well pleased with their visit.

All of the old officers were re-elected, with one or two exceptions. Many changes were made in the organic law of the order, so that the State constitution would conform with the national.

Mr. H. E. King, of Onslow, an officer of the State Alliance, made a strong appeal for Wilmington as the next annual meeting place, and this nomination was seconded by Capt. S. W. Noble in a short but pointed speech, and had the question been agitated a little earlier Wilmington would have undoubtedly been chosen. As it was the vote stood: Morehead 43, Wilmington 37, Greens-

The Arm-Clutch.

The Richmond (Va.) State gets off the following:

That silly and indelicate method of grabbing a young lady's arm known as the "arm-clutch" is more objectionable than the round dancing, and is certainly more ungraceful. The man squeezes the young lady's arm and clamps her figure to him in such a way that any forward movement gives to both figures a mistimed pendulum-like motion, rendering both parties decidedly ungraceful, and giving to the lady's figure especially an awkwardness unjust to her. No lady should allow a man to grasp her again in this way. It is not nice. It is not the polite thing. Plainly speaking, it is undue familiarity without even the reprhensible excuse of being effective as a street parade measure.

A NEW COMPANY ORGANIZED.

The Carolina Inter-State Building and Loan Association-Capital Stock Five Millions-Officers Elected, Etc.

The organization of the Carolina Inter-State Building and Loan Association of this city has just been completed. under the auspices and direction of some of the most reputable and prominent gentlemen of the community. The association proposes to place agents in every one of the Southern States as soon as possible, and to establish local branches throughout the country. It is to do an inter-state business and the success of this one under the conservative and able management of the gentlemen who compose its directors and officials may be said to be assured.

At a meeting held by the stockholders here the following directors were chosen, viz: John W. Atkinson, H. M. Bowden, W. H. Green, J. R. Kenly, Berry Gleaves, Isaac Bates, Iredell Meares, E S. Tennent, Chas. E. Borden.

After this the directors met and elected the officers, which are: J. W. Atkinson, President; H. M. Bowden, Vice President: E. S. Tennent, Secretary, Charles E. Borden, Treasurer; Iredell Meares, General Attorney; John S. Watters, SuperIntendent of Agencies.

Mr. John S. Watters will in a few days call upon citizens to solicit subscriptione and explain the workings of the Association. The capital stock, to be accumulated, will be five million dollars, and this no doubt will direct the eyes of many to Wilmington, for the whole management will be in our city, and it will tend to give to this place great commercial importance.

IMPROVEMENT IN TELEGRAPHY.

An Important Invention by Mr. R. J McIlhenny, of Wilmington, N. C. - In the Mayor's Court yesterday

The STAR some time since gave description of an important invention in telegraphic instruments made by Mr. Richard J. McIlhenny, of this city, and yesterday the attention of a reporter for the paper was called to new instruments embodying this invention placed in the office of the Western Union Telegraph Company. In telegraphic nomenclature these instruments are known as "repeaters," and the purpose they serve is to increase the current, acting as an extra motive power or force for the transmission of messages over long dis-

Mr. John Bragg, the Associated Press operator, has had these instruments working every night for several months on the Wilmington and Jacksonville Press Circuit-from which all cities copy at one time-and he finds them, as he says, the most superb instruments ever used, and at the same time the most simple; so that the most ordinary operator could soon comprehend them. Mr. Bragg, a few nights since got some of the principal operators in Washington interested in the workings of the new repeaters, repeating back to them some of the Associated Press reports. They were much pleased, remarking that every dot and dash was perfect, and expressed a lively anxiety for the success of Mr. McIlhenny's invention. Mr. C. C. Brown, an experienced telegrapher, and Manager of the Western Union office here, is much pleased with the new instruments, and says that in his opinion Mr. McIlhenny's repeaters are superior to any now in use. It is claimed for them that they work smoother and firmer, are not as complicated, require less attention, and will effect a saving in cost of cells of local battery and labor of keeping in order, amounting to twelve dollars a year with every set used.
