OUTLINES.

The Senate yesterday passed a bill extending the privileges of the free delivery of mails to towns having a population of five thousand, or a gross postal revenue of $5,000; House bill to define the jurisdiction of the courts of the United States, was considered, and an amendment adopted, but it was finally laid aside, when private pension bills on the calendar were taken up and passed, eighty-five of them in fifty minutes; no business was done in the House, the Democrats absenting themselves in a body and preventing a quorum, - The wreck on the Reading railroad, near Reading, Pa., Friday night, was of a frightful character; the dead so far recovered number twenty, including two ladies; the injured will number fifty. - The French have subdued the natives of the Society Islands, and have established a protectorate over them; serious trouble occurred at only one of the islands, where one hundred natives were killed and a number of marines from the French war vessels were injured. - The tulle manufacturers of Calais, France, have locked out five thousand employes for demanding higher wages. - Four men were killed and one fatally hurt by an explosion of gas, Friday afternoon, in a Pennsylvania coal mine. - A desperate fight has taken place, near Wayne court house, West Virginia, between a sheriff's posse and a number of Italian laborers, in which several of the latter were killed and a number wounded; the Italians refused to let new men work in their places in a railroad cut-- A meeting is reported between the German and Austrian Emperors and the King of Saxony, at a parade of German troops, in which there was much embracing and kissing, and shaking of hands; much gratification was expressed at the efficiency of the army under the leadership of Emperor William.

Austria has taken the initiative in proposing concerted European action against the McKinley tariff bill, but the German Prime Minister is opposed to any measure tending to increase the cost of necessary articles of food. The delegates to the Republican Convention of South Carolina have telegraphed Senator Blair to use his influence to defeat the Conger lard bill, in the interest of the colored farmers and laborers. -New York markets: Money easy at 3@4 per cent., closing offered at 3 per cent.; cotton dull; middling 10 7-16 cents; middling Orleans 105/8 cents; southern flour dull and weak; wheat dull and nominally lower; No. 2 red $1-0134@1 0178; corn dull but steady; No. 2 red, 55% cents; rosin steady and quiet; strained common to good $1 40 @1 45; spirits turpentine steadier and

Last year the cotton seed oil mills paid out for seed $13,762,450. This is the industry which the Conger lard bill is striking at,

Receipts of cotton yesterday were 3.262 bales-the largest for one day this season, so far, and swelling the aggregate since the beginning of the crop year -September 1st-to 27,698 bales, an increase as compared with last year, of 20,850 bales, the receipts to the same date last season being 6,849 bales. Wilmington is going ahead of its neighbors in the ratio of increase this year. Charleston is congratulating herself upon an increase of something less than 4,000 bales for the week just passed; the increase here for the same perid was nearly 8,000 bales.

REV. SAM. JONES. Extracts from One of His Sermons Delivered in Lynchburg.

"Did you ever think how far a bad boy must go to alienate the affections of a mother? I point you to the saddest face and most piteous voice on earth: 'Where is my wandering boy to-night?'

"A mother's love! If she has five boys and four of them are preachers and the fifth a vagabond and a scamp, she loves the mean boy best. You may say what you please about the preachers; but begin to abuse the scamp and she'll halt you on the spot. And why? The four are strong and do not need her sympathy; the one is weak and she loves him most because he most needs her love. I said to my wife some time ago: "Laura, I believe you loved me better when I was a good-for-nothing old vagabond than you do now.' 'Well, suppose I did, old fellow,' was her reply, 'you needed it worse then. Now you can tote your own skillet!' I repeat, that God loves the wandering better than the good man. Now you will say: 'Pshaw! Jones; that can't be so!' If it isn't so, and I can't prove it, I'll take it back and beg your pardon, And I'm going to prove it by the book. A man had an hundred sheep and one of them went astray, leaving ninety-nine safe in the fold. The man in a fret says: 'Well, let him go. It ain't but one, and he had no business to be tramping off.' Is that what happened? No. The man said; 'Well, I'll go a little way and see if I can find the sheep," doing which, and failing to find the sheep, he said: 'I won't search any more, but return to the ninety and nine safe in the fold. That sheep had no business to go off nohow.' Isn't that what the good book says? No. The man 'goeth into the mountains, and seeketh that which is gone astray,' and keeps up the search until he finds it. And then does he jump on it and light in to abusing it? No. Does he kick and cuff, and pound it as he drives it back to the fold? tenderly lifts it up, trembling and and placing it gently against his breast, bears it back lovingly to where he had left the ninety and nine safe in the fold. Didn't that man love that lost lamb better than all the rest? My, my! Talk about God, who is my father and my mother, not loving a lost soul! I ask again, how bad does a boy have to be before his mother quits loving him? I have seen a mother as she followed her wayward boy on, and on, and on, to the very brink of hell, and when the son made his final leap from that mother's arms, she took his poor body and buried it, and would go to his grave and water the cold sod with her tears. O, how that mother's heart clung to that wayward boy! I have seen the wife when every friend in the world had forsaken her husband and all mankind had scoffed him away from their presencewhen he would come home drunk, and debauched, and ruined, his precious wife would meet him at the front gate, and help him up the steps, and help him the kiss of love and fidelity upon his dissipated cheek. O, why did wife do that? Why did mother do that? It is just a little of the nature of God poured into that mother's heart and that wife's heart that makes them cling so. Several times during the sermon the evangelist digressed and pitched into the church members and officials who voted against prohibition. He denounced them as sn many hypocrites who had teken position with all the mean and disreputable characters in town.

CRIMINAL COURT.

The Barker Perjury Case-Defendant Sentenced to Six Months in the Penitentiary and to Pay $300 Fine.

At the opening of the Court yesterday morning at 10 o'clock, the case of John A. Barker, convicted of perjury. came up, and a motion for a new trial was argued in behalf of the defendant by Mr. A. G. Ricaud and Judge D. L. Russell, attorneys for Barker. The Court overruled the motion and sentenced Barker to pay a fine of $300 and be imprisoned in the State penitentiary for six months. Defendant's-counsel thereupon appealed the ease to the Supreme Court, and bond in the sum of $800 was given for the appearance of the defendant at the January term of the Criminal Court.

The following is the record made of the case: "A motion for a new trial is made by the defendant's counsel on the following grounds: First. For error in over-ruling the plea of former jeopardy. 2d. For error in refusing to abate the bill of indictment after it was admitted by the State that when the bill of indictment was found there were only eleven members of the grand jury present, the twelfth grand juror being excused by the foreman of the grand jury on account of his being a brother-in-law of the prosecutrix. 3d. For error in rulings on the evidence to which the defendant excepted. 5th. For error in refusing to consider the affidayit of C. P. Lockey, who was a witness for the State in the trial of the case-offered by the defendant, setting forth what his testimony was upon the trial-which affidavit was offered after the verdict and upon the motion for a new trial.

"Rule discharged; motion for a new trial over-ruled,

"The defendant moves to arrest judgnent. Motion denied, Judg prayed for. The defendant is fined $300 and he is sentenced to imprisonment for six months in the State penitentiary. The defendant is required to give a bond of $800 for his appearance at the January term of this Court."

In the afternoon, the case of the State vs. Wm. Stewart, colored, charged with assault and battery with a deadly weapon, was tried. Defendant was found guilty, and sentenced to twelve months imprisonment in the State pen-

THE RICE CROP.

Damage Not so Great as Reported. The reports now from the Savannah river planters and also from those on the Ogeecnee are not so gloomy as they were, and the damage is smaller than was formerly estimated, This, says the Savannah Morning News of yesterday, is usually the case every season after a bad spell of weather. The greatest danger to the growing rice during the continuous rains of the last two weeks was that of its becoming overripe, and thereby losing in its value by reason of its poor grading, as well as the additional cost of gathering

it. When rice becomes over-ripe it becomes chalky in the grain and falls over and breaks off the stock at the top, or iu other words hangs down heavily, so that the laborer who is cutting and gathering into the stacks cannot cut it so rapidly as he could were the plant straight up and down; so that it entails longer time and great labor and consequently more pay. The fears of its being over-ripe were well grounded, but not to the extent or percentage of last week's estimates.

It is now thought that the damage by over ripeness will probably be 10 to 15 per cent.; the very conservative say 10°

The Scheme of the Alabama Farmer. Col. Livingston, the Farmers' Alliance leader, of Georgia, opposes the gigantic warehouse scheme of the Alabama farmers, so that advances from Liverpool could be secured. It has been reported that offers have already come from Europe to advance $32 a bale, and when asked about the plan, Col. Livingston said: "The advance of $32 a bale on cotton would of course be a very desirable thing for the farmers, and would relieve the stringency of the money market, as about $64,000,000 would at once come to our people. But the scheme is impracticable. The only thing that will relieve the stringency is the shipment of cotton to Europe and the return ofmoney to this country." His advice to the farmers is: "Put your cotton in the hands of your merchant if you are indebted to him; not to be sold, but as a security debt, and let him draw on the cotton to relieve his own indebtedness."

Weather Forecasts. For Virginia: Fair and cooler, followed by rising temperature in the western portions of Maryland and Virainia, winds becoming variable; warmer

For North Carolina and South Carolina: Fair, except light local rains near the coast. Cooler, northerly winds. For Georgia and Alabama: Generally fair except local rains in the southern portions; stationary temperature; northeasterly winds.
