He said, by way of preface, it h said that "The hand that rocks the cradle moves the world," and that "if the mothers could rule the world, they would save the world." We know that no one guides the destiny of men like the wives, mothers, and daughters of men. In an Eastern town a convention of mothers was called to discuss the subject of rearing children. The question was asked, "at what age should begin the training of our children for God?" One mother said eight years, another five; another three; another two; thereupon a good old mother in Israel arose and said, begin twenty years before the birth of your child and give it a good mother.' All great men bear the impress of their mother. Nero's mother was a bloody murderess, and she gave to the world the most blood-thirsty man it ever saw. Byron's mother was a proud intellectual, worldly woman, and she gave to the world the most intellectual autocrat it ever had. The mothers of George Washington and John Wesley were plain, honest, sensible Christian women and gave to the world great and good men. But few really vicious men had good mothers to train them. If you never had a good mother you have lost what God can never make up in grace. If I had to make a choice between churches, Sunday schools and preachers and a good mother, I'd choose the latter every time, for her hand would lead me straight to heaven. The verses on which I shall speak read thus: "I beseech you brethren by the mercies of God, that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service. And be not conformed to this world; but be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind, that ye may prove what is that good, and acceptable, and perfect, will of God. For I say through grace given unto me, to every man that is among you, first to think of himself more highly than he ought to think.' Were I to change this this morning I would read it, "I beseech you-wives mothers, and daughters, &c. The first verse puts you in right relation to God, the second to the world, and the third to yourself; with these three adjustments perfectly made, you will have a fine character. You would have fits if a snake came into your house, but a deck of cards is sometimes a thousand times more awful in their consequences than the venom of a rattlesnake. Many a woman to-day is far worse off than if a mad dog had bitten her, and she was bitten in a ball room. Some of you say we have no cards or balls in our homes, but you've got a gossipping tongue. I've heard more than once that the two cardinal sins of this town were failure to pay debts and gossip. No family of children who had a long-tongued mammy eyer grew to be men and women of character. He Not only adjusted to God, but the world. You've got to live here, but be particusaid, "Is this the best you can do; and do you sleep on a bed of straw, after you have served God all your life? I'd curse a God who would let me come to that."

It helps to make the journey pleasant to know that is going to end well. Thank God for the end of our journey. Instinct tells man that it is to be well beyond God never anymore put the instinct of immortality in man until he made heaven than he gave fishes fins without creating the ocean, or a bird wings until he made the air. I believe in the immortality of the body and soul both. If the body of a man is scattered to the winds of heaven God wil bring it together at the last day. When you go to heaven let it be said by everyone, 'Heaven ready.' It is a grand idea to think of our mother and father waiting to welcome us as we sweep through the pearly gates. We have cares and tears on our way, but in heaven we shall have flagons of joy and rivers of happiness for every tear we drop here. At the conclusion of the sermon a pleasant incident occured in the presentation by Mr. H. M. Bowden of a silver cup to Prof. Excell, a testimonial from the choir in token of the esteem and love that he has inspired during his short stay among them. The cup is sterling, silver handsomely engraved with vines on the sides which have the monogram "E. O. E." On the bottom is: "From the Wilmington North Carolina Choir, 1890. Revs. Messrs. Mr. Jones commended to the favorable consideration of the citizens the Y. M. C. A, and the Seamen's Bethel. The latter, he said, was a credit to any city. He also expressed his regrets at having to say 'Good-Bye,' and made kindly mention of the choir, the reporters and the newspapers. He also said that one hundred and sixty-six dollars had been given him for the use of the Orphanage at his home, and desired those who wished to further aid to hand or send him their contributions.

BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

Requier Meeting-Various Matters Discussed and Disposed of.

The Board of Aldermen met westerday in regular session; all the members present with the exception of Alderman Craft, and Mayor Fo vler in the chair.

The Committee on Finance reported settlement of the claim of Jno. H. Green, colored, by the payment of $50. Green was injured by falling into an excavation on Third street some time ago.

On recommendation of the Committee on Markets it was ordered that the clerk of the market be required to weigh all iresh pork purchased by but ters.

It was recommended that an oppropriation not exceeding $600 be made for the purchase and removal of two small frame houses that obstruct Seventh street, been Wooster and Dawson.

The Sanitary Committee reported progress in the matter of Jacob's Run sewer.

The same committee through Alderman Post, recommended that all sinks and cess-pools on private premises be abolished, no matter at what cost. The question was discussed by Aldermen Hicks and Post in favor of the recommendation and by Alderman Morton who opposed it. Finally' an ordinance submitted by Alderman Hicks, requiring householders to fill up and close all sinks and cess-pools was adopted; to go into effect February 1st, 1891. A fine of $10 to be imposed for each day's failure to comply with the law,

In the matter of paving Nutt street the Permanent Street Improvement Committee reported that the work would begin next month.

The street car ordinance prepared by the City Autorney was read, and on motion action upon it was deferred until the next meeting.

Permission was granted the Electric Light Company to place street lights on poles, on all streets east of Third street. Report of the Chief of Fire Department, recommending repairs to the "Adrain" engine and Fifth Ward Hook and Ladder Co's house, was read and referred to Committee on Fire Department. Also, recommendation of the Chief that two dilapidated houses on South Fifth street, regarded as unsafe. be demolished, was discussed. Alderman Hicks asked if it was in the power of the Board to have the houses torn down. The Chief of Police said the houses were owned by persons who could not be found, and had been on the

- A meeting of the Democratic Executive Committee was held yesterday at Burgaw. The committee endorsed the action of the Democratic Convention of New Hanover in nominating Mr. John D. Bellamy, Jr., for State Senator from this, the Twelfth District.

- Sheriff Manning, Deputy Collector Rice and others who went to Washington to see the President in regard to the matter of the collectorship of this port have returned. They say they have "downed" Young, and that Taylor, the present deputy collector, will be appointed to succeed the late E. J. Pennypacker.

REV. SAM. JONES.

Pungent Hits in Monday Morning's Ser

A preacher in Los Angeles said, "I can't stand Sam Jones; I wont go to hear him, but I'm praying for him." I said, "Lord bless your soul, a preacher praying God to keep company he wouldn't keep."

Show me a man that's not hen-pecked, and I'll show you one that's devil-pecked That's why I love Bro. Creasy so good, "a fellow feeling makes one

God said man and wife should be one; one quarrelling; one getting up a row. If you want your daughters to be an honor to you, be an honor to your Folks that quit courting when they marry don't live the happiest life. Tell your husband or wife three times a day that you love him or her; some of you would have to tell a lie, though to do it. sins, He is faithful and just to forgive us our sins and cleanse us from all unrighteousness." If I paraphrase so as to read. "Repent of your sins and God will be faithful and just to forgive us," I shall do no violence to it. The first thing I learned at school was the alphabet, and as I advanced in my studies through the vatious sciences, I found that all was based on the alphabet, and that not a proposition or a fact could be stated without the aid of the various combinations of the alphabet. What the alphabet is to the man of letters, repentance is the first thing, and the last thing a Christian ever does. An old woman once defined repentance to mean where one is so sorry for their meanness that they resolve to quit. Repentance is nothing more nor less than quitting your meanness. If you are going in the wrong way turn around and go the other. Some people define it as a Godly sorrow for sin. It is nothing of the kind. The Bible says, 'A Godly sorrow worketh repentance." Steam works an engine, but steam is not the engine. See the point? Do not mistake blubbering for repentance. An old man had a son who came home every night drunk, and he would cry and say that he was so sorry that he got drunk. But the next night he was drunk as ever. Finally the old man said, 'Bill you have got to quit drinking or blubbering, one or the other.' And one night Bill came home soher, and as he reiterated his resolve to lead a better life it was not whiningly, but in an open, manly manner. It is the quitting and not the crying that gets there. If you have been cursing, drinking and leading an immoral life, quit it. That's repentance. I have a great respect for a man who, religion or no religion, when he knows a thing is wrong will

Feeling is not religion; it is nothing but moral perspiration. It is an evidence of moral action but not the action itself. You people sitting out there do right and live better lives and yet do don't feel good about it,' are like the fellow who went out one cold morning to cut down a tree. He sat down on a log, and in reply to a question why he am waiting until I begin to sweat.' He is waiting yet. Omit your meanness and do right and you will have the feeling. Ask yourself, if you are doing right, not how you feel. Repentance is not a question of feeling. I had a lot of those shouting fellows at one of my knew what others say about you, you'd want to go off on business. If the grandest results don't come from these meetings it will be because of the gossippers who have built bulwarks we couldn't climb over. Some of the pastors in town are heading the procession. I'd hate to go to hell in a crowd headed by a parson.

The Bible says, "the tongue is an unruly member, full of deadly poison," and "all manner of beasts have been tamed, but the tongue no man can tame." When you go to say anything about anybody stop and say, "is it the truth, is it kind, will it do any good to say it?" If you will apply these three rules, like scissors, you'll chip off a pile of tongues three feet high; some would have to quit talking altogether.

Men are sometimes equally guilty of gossip; sometimes more. I don't mean every woman here is a gossipper. There are some noble, sweet women here. I'm just "hewing to the line," and if your head, or tongue is on the line and gets chopped it ain't my fault.

Don't let the husband get on the wife's territory or the wife on the husband's. I asked Gen. Evans how he reared such a splendid family of children. He said it was his wife's fault; he never interfered but in one thing; he made them always mind their mother. I said, "I'm in the same fix," and sometimes I have a lively time making mine mind their mother: If the switch lay over the motto"I need thee every hour," the boys would think there was more truth than scriptnre in it.

When adjusted to God and the world, get the right grip on home life. I give you two pictures: If little Annie, six years of age, goes to mother, asking for needle and thread one day, doll scraps another, scissors another, thimble an-serve." That night the rich man dreamed that the richest man in Harris county would die at six o'clock. In great fear he awoke and told his wife. The dream was vivid; he sent for the doctor who came and found him perfectly sound. Six o'clock passed and he did not die. As the doctor rode home a colored man met him and told him the old man in the cabin had died at six o'clock; and sure enough the richest man in Harris county had gone home to heaven. My talk has been scattering, but one must scatter to hit everybody. May God crown all you good women with everlasting life.

LAST NIGHT'S SERMON. The last of of the series of Tabernacle meetings was very largely attended, there being about seven thousand people present. After the rendition of several selections, the Rev. Mr. Stewart of Clinton, led in prayer. Miss Florence Bowden, one of Wilmington's most accomplished songsters, sang, "From every stormy wind that blows," accompanied by the full choir. Every gradation of tone in its admirable shading was clearly pictured by the clear voice on the background of the full choir's gentlest pianissimo. Prof. Excell sang as a solo, "Keep in the middle of the road."-

"I hear dem angels, calling loud, Keep in de middle of de road,

Dey's a waiting dar in a great big crowd, Keep in de middle of de road.' Rev. Mr. Jones preached a short but forcible sermon from the text: "Her ways are ways of pleasantness, and all her paths are peace." He portrayed the beauty and grandeur of a life devoted to the service of God, and touchingly insisted that if we so live, our paths will be paths of pleasantness and our ways, ways of peace. I have said somethings seemingly harsh; so does the Bible; but in that precions book are found also the severest things in the world. A Christian's life is compared to a way in which we are walking towards a desired end. We are strangers in our pilgrimage, but when it ends it will be in a home up yonder. I propose to speak of the pleasant things a Christian meets in the way.

It is pleasant to know that we shall have strength to reach our journey's end. Many would start, but for fear of their inability to complete the journey. Lay aside any such fear, for God has promised that He will maintain you until the end. God's grace will hold out in the future as it has in the past, to all who earnestly and honestly try. Some of you fellows have been saying harsh things about me.
