TUESDAY MORNING, Nov. 11, 1890

THE SENATE.

Since the Democratic tidal wave last week speculation as to the pos-, sibility of the Democrats capturing the U.S. Senate in 1892 becomes interesting, and there is not only a possibility but a reasonable probability of it. If the Democratic majority elected to the 52d Congress makes 10 mistakes, and so conducts itself as to merit the approbation of the people, there is no danger of losing my State which we carried last T esday, but on the contrary some may be won which were carried by small majorities by the Re publicans.

The Republicans now have a majority of ten. If they had held their own in the recent elections in all the States which had Republican Senators, they would have in the Fifty-third Congress, with the four Senators from Idaho and Wyoming, a majority of 14. Of these 14, 12 are the result of the conspiracy by which these six Territories were taken into the Union, March 4, 1891, the terms of 28 Senators expire, twelve Democrats and sixteen Republicans, as follows: DEMOCRATS.

The Legislatures elected in these twelve States are Democrats and will elect Democratic Senators to succeed those whose times expire in '91 Of the sixteen States now represented by Republicans, six are claimed by the Democrats, South Dakota, New York, New Hampshire, Wisconsin, Kansas, Illinois, while Nevada, North Dakota are close, and possibly one or both of them may elect Democratic Senators. It is possible also that there may be a change in Colorado. But leaving these out of the calculations, we have six Senators from these six States which will reduce the Republican majority to eight.

March 4, 1893, the terms of 28 more expire, of which 12 are Democrats and 16 Republicans, as follows:

DEMOCRATS. California-George Hearst. Delaware—George Gray. Florida-Samuel Tasco. Indiana-David Turple. Maryland-Arthur P. Gorman. Mississippi-James Z. George.

Missouri-Francis M. Cockrell. New Jersey-Rufus Blodgett. Tennessee-William B. Bate. Texas-John H. Reagan. Virginia-John W. Daniel. West Virginia-Charles J, Faulkner, REPUBLICANS. Connecticut-Joseph R. Hawley. Maine-Eugene Hale. Michigan-F. B. Stockbridge. Minnesota-C. K. Davis. Montana-W. L. Sanders. Nebraska—A. S. Paddock. Nevada-William M. Stewart. New York-Frank Hiscock. North Dakota-L. R. Casey. Ohio-John Sherman. Pennsylvania—M. S. Quav. Rhode Island—N. W. Aidrich Vermont-George F. Edmands. Washington-John B. Aikn.

Wisconsin-Philetus Saw er. Each of these twelve States with the possible exception of California, which now has a Republican legisla ture and may then have, will . . ! a Democrat to succeed the one now in. If New York, Connecticut and Wisconsin return Democratic legislators in '92 as they likely will, it will reduce the Republican majority to five, but if the Republicans get a Republican in place of Senator Hearst they will have six. Michigan and Rhode Island do not elect a Senator, but do two years hence. If they remain Democratic they will reduce the Republican majority to four. To overcome these four the Democrats have a fighting chance in Minnesota, Montana, North and Wyoming, Maine and Nevada.

But if this should not be there are among this majority of eight which the Republicans will have at least a half dozen who will favor tariff reform and other measures of reform which have been advocated and they will be disposed to act with the Democrats on the tariff, subsidies, pensions, and other measures not of a partisan character, so that as indications present themselves now if the Democrats do not succeed in securing a majority in the Senate they will cut the Republican majority down so small that they will not be disposed to put on many airs, and have the co-operation of Republicans enough to insure the passage of such reform measures as the country demanded with such thundering emphasis. If it had not been for those six manufactured States with their twelve Senators to give the Republicans a majority in the Senate that chamber would be Democratic on the 4th of next March. and would have quite as large a Democratic majority two years hence as the Republicans have now. They owe their salvation to the put-up infamy of making States and Senators to order to suit political emergencies,

Since the election some of the Republican organs are loud in their demand for the re-apportionment for Congressmen under the Porter en sus. The object of their great is to have the re-apportionment made upon this fraudulent census tefore the next Congress meets and takes measures to have a correct count made in those States where injustice has been done, as in New York and in nearly all the Southern States. If in the face of the recent election they force that re-apportionment on a census which is almost universally conceded to be grossly defective, and by many held to be, with good reason, scandalously fraudulent, it will be an outrage and an insult to the American people, which should be resisted and resented by every means in the power of the Democrats in this Congress. With the lights before the gag gang now there may be enough of them who have had their eyes opened and may be disposed to join the majority in doing the fair thing by the American

The Speakership of the next House of Repsesentatives is becoming an interesting topic of discussion, no less than a dozen names being mentioned in that connection. Among these is that of W. C. P. Breckinridge, of Kentucky. He is not only one of the most brilliant men in the House, but also one of most cautious, cool and level-headed. Asked if he was a candidate, he candidly replied that while he desired the office, and would esteem the election to it a great honor, he must decline to be considered a candidate now. Considering, he said, the great responsibilities which would devolve upon the next House, the consequences to the party and the country dependent upon how the Democratic majority met these responsibilities, the power exercised by the Speaker and the great importance of his office, all make it imperative that only the most thoroughly equipped man should be selected for that position, regardless of personal or sectional considerations. He thinks that under these circumstances, and in view of the elections to be held in New York, Ohio, Iowa, and other phlets.

States next fall, the question of the Speakership could be wisely deferred until the 52nd Congress meet and no effort made to commit members to any particular gentleman now. For this reason, while not desiring to be understood as criticising any gentleman who had or might declare himself a candidate, he declined to announce himself as such before the meeting of the Congress which was to elect the Speaker.

Some of the Pennsylvania Republican organs are turning on Boss Quay now and are belaboring him since he has been downed. For weeks before the election they worked with might and main to elect Quay's man, Delamater, and confidently predicted his election up to the day of election, some of them claiming it the day after. When they realized the full force of the cyclone they set themselves to accounting for it. This is the way the Philadelphia Press

"The Republican organization of Pennsylvania has long had the discredit abroad of being boss-ridden. But it has shown on several occasions that there is a limit beyond which it will not endure. It has done this now in the election of a Democratic Governor."

It not only had the "discredit abroad" of being boss-ridden, but it evidently had it at home as well, judging from the racket which Delemater's nomination caused, and the mighty scoop on the day of election. But the Press knew all this months before the election as well as it did on the day after, and yet it with the balance of the organs gave its mightest efforts to perpetuate that discreditable bossism, and then meanly jumps upon the bosses when they are down and dances on their bones. But organs which desert the people cannot be expected to stand by the bosses in adversity.

STATE TOPICS.

The demand for nickel to be used in plating our war ships has led to the inquiry whether it could be found in any considerable quantities in this country. Heretofore our supplies of nickel have been imported from Canada. It was reported a couple of weeks ago that extensive deposits were discovered in Southwest Virginia, but the place-for the time being was kept a secret. The New York Sun quotes Major E. Willis as saying that this is probably a mistake, and that reference was made to North Carolina, where he is reliably informed that the ore is found equaling in quality any found in Canada, The deposit, which he says is inexhaustible, is located in Jackson county, near Webster, and within four iniles of the Western N C. railroad. The ore analyzes from 11 to 32 per cent. metalic nickel. The United States wants a million pounds of nickel ore for the Navy, and he sees no reason why it can't be got there. That's another mineral which we didn't know that North Carolina had, which reminds us of the fact, which we have observed heretofore, that North Carolina is very much in need of a first class geological survey. CURRENT COMMENT.

--- President Harrison has conducted his Administration to "please himself, and the people have conducted the Fall elections to please themselves .- N. Y. World, Dem.

-The tariff went off half-cocked. that's what did it. If storekeepers all over the country had not forgot ten their patriotism in their wild, untamed desire to make 300 per cent on pearl buttons, $97 net on a bottle of champagne, and 25 cents a puff on Havana cigars, they would not have marked all their goods up right on the eve of an election and given the horny-handed son of toil a fit of nervous prostration .- Wash. Star, Ind.

- We have conferred with many of the most sensible manufacturers in this country, and they agree with us that raw materials free and a moderate auty on foreign goods would do far more for them than this topheavy statute. It is not only illadvised and ill-adjusted, but on almost every page it is spitefully hostile to the importing interests, and liable on that account to the just resentment of a large class of our citizens .- N. Y. Journal of Commerce,

- Under a nice arrangement of Connecticut law Luzon B. Morriss, who received the highest vote, cannot be Governor because he did not get a majority of the votes cast; but Samuel E. Merwin, Republican, who should be more disqualified, because he fell further short of a majority, will be elected by the Legislature.
A similar absurdity will probably give New Hampshire a Republican Governor, though in that State the Republican happens to head the list of candidates .- Phil. Ledger, Ind.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.

Republican Managers Planning to Steal the Legislature.

Concord Dispatch, Nov. 8th.

With returns from every town in the State, believed to be perfectly reliable, it was found that there are 175 Democrats and 163 Republican Representatives elected to the House, upon the present basis of representation and existing apportionment, while 13 Democrats and 27 Republicans have been elected from towns and wards making gains in population which will entitle them to the extra representation under the new apportionment.

It is clearly developed to be the Republican purpose to have the names of these additional Representatives placed upon the roll by the Clerk in the outset, thus enabling them to pass upon the question of their own right to seats in the House, which must be determined by the subsequent action of that body. If they are thus admitted, it now appears that it will give the Republicans a lead of two, one or two errors in yesterday's calculation having been shown by revised returns.

In the Senate there are twelve Republicans and eight Democrats elected, with no choice in four districts, which vacancies will be filled by the two branches in joint convention.

The absolute control of the Legis lature, the election of Governor, State officers and United States Senator, depends entirely, therefore, upon the admission or rejection of the "if entitled" members chosen, in the making up of the roll. The Republicans will insist that they shall be included, the Democrats will insist that they have no rights to seats in the Legislature at all, and that, in any event, they cannot and shall not be permitted to participate in the organization and to pass upon the question of their own rights.

If these men do not participate in the organization and the elections, the twelve absolute Democratic majority in the House will overcome the four Republican majority in the Senate among elected Senators, with eight votes to spare, giving all officers, Governor and United States Senator, to the Democrats.

The situation must remain thus until the meeting of the Legislature in January brings the solution. The Republican managers are desperate, while the Democrats are determined and resolute.

POLITICAL POINTS.

- The Republican clerks who went home to vote with a hurrah have returned and gone to work with a quietness beside which that of a cat watching a mouse hole is obsteperousness itself.-Wash. Critic, Ind.

- All the great reforms inaugurated by the Republican party during its brief term of control of Congress will have to be carried out by the Democrats. Most of them will be carried out feet toremost.—Wash. Star, Ind.

- The Democratic managers in Philadelphia have evidence that more than $200,000 was used by the Republican leaders in the recent election in this city, and that of this large sum more than $100,000 was expended in debauching the ballot .- Phil. Record, Dem.

-Indiana may be taken out of the list of the list of doubtful States in 1892. The Democrats have obtained control of the Election Boards of 2,100 out of 2,800 districts in the State and that means a great deal in a State with the political morals of Indiana. -Phil. Ledger

- If the Democratic party sees anything else in sight it has not yet taken, but wants, it will please seize on to it right away and get through. "Git a plenty while you are gittin'." If you don't see what you want ask for it. Don't be backward. All step up according to the size of your feet. ing to the size of your feet. Let's get through with the business before Thanksgiving. PERSONAL.

-It is said that Mrs. Marshall O. Roberts owns the finest pearls in this country.

-Major Hiram Bassett, whom a history of Masonry calls "the highest Mason in the world," has been stricken with paralysis, at his home, in Millersburg, Ky.

-Miss Hattie Blaine, the youngest and prettiest daughter of the Secretary, is an intrepid canoeist, and her skill, as displayed at Bar Harbor, was admired by many spectators.

-Louis Fagan, master of prints in the British Museum, is on his way to this country on a tour of the world. He will lecture on the treasures of the British museums while on his travels.

- John F. Ford, of Baltimore, is the oldest theatrical manager in the country in consecutive years of business, and has brought out more dramatic stars than any other person in his line of

- M. de Giers, the Russian Chancellor, is regarded as one of the most astute and far-seeing foreign, ministers in Europe. He was trained under Prince Gortschakoff, who was one of the few men whose ability Bismarck feared.

-In her pleasant "Few Words About Art" in Treasure Trove, Miss Ellen Terry says she has often wished she had learned dancing-that is, stage dancing. Her original trouble was her hands, though she can manage them better now.

- Richard Moulton, Professor of Literature in Cambridge University, England, who is soon to give a series of lectures in Boston under the auspices of the New England Press Association, is an exceptionally fine Shakespearian scholar.
