The money markets of New York and London were greatly excited yesterday over trouble at the great banking house of Baring Bros. London; the Stock Exchange of New York was thrown into a great state of excitement, and a veritable panic prevailed, stocks declining to the lowest prices on record; prompt action was taken however by the Bank of England for the relief of the great banking firm, and confidence has been partially restored on both sides of the Atlantic; the assets of the Barings are said to be $40,000,000 in excess of their liabilities.

Mrs. L. A. Norman, of Decatur, Ill., recently visited Terre Haute, Ind. While there she was informed that there was a letter for her in the post office. When she called she was informed that it had been delivered to another lady of the same name in that city.

Gen. Husted, of Winchester county, N. Y., the day after the election, pulled the nose of a little man named Miller, and now the little man wants $5,000 damages. If Miller can recover, he had better give up the sewing machine business, in which he is engaged, and go around getting his nose pulled. He thinks he knows what he is about.

A woman died in West Virginia the other day at the age of 113 who had used tobacco ever since she was a little chick. This case is respectfully referred to that Paris anti-tobacco society which attributed the longevity of M. Renaud, who died at the age of 106, to steering clear of the weed.

The Cincinnati Commercial Gazette, Rep., says that the election being over, "the occupation of the Democratic editor will be gone." Oh, no. There are lots of Republican editors to be watched, and lots of benighted Republicans to be lifted from the darkness into the light.

When Blaine became excited while discussing the tariff before the Senate committee and mashed his beaver hat, he provided in advance a typical illustration of the g. o. p. as it is now. Blaine couldn't save that hat and he can't save the party.

A West Virginia man got mad at an editor and tried to shoot him. The bullet struck a silver dollar in the editor's pocket and saved his life. The singular thing about this is how the editor came in possession of a whole dollar.

Congressman Mason, of Chicago, has the pen that Mr. Harrison signed the McKinley bill with. It could be bought cheap now.

OPERA HOUSE.

Hi Henry's Minstrels—A Good Entertainment. A large audience filled the Opera House last night to witness one of the best minstrel performances ever given in this city.

Two Chinese factions in San Francisco are engaged in the interesting pastime of cutting each others' throats, thus illustrating that the Chinaman must go.

A blind editor died a few days ago in Kansas. But there are a good many blind editors still living. They can't see a defeat in the Republican lay-out on the 4th inst.

Over 1,000,000 half grown shad have been put into the Potomac river this year by the U. S. Fish Commission. Next year 15,000,000 will be put in the Delaware river.

The people of the United States consume 200,000,000 bottles of pickles every year. But this is not the reason why they soured so bad on the Republican party at the last election.

LOCAL DOTS.

Items of Interest Gathered Here and There and Briefly Noted.

The Criminal Court convenes to-morrow morning. The revival at Fifth Street M. E. Church is progressing, and will continue during this week.

Marriage licenses were issued the past week for five couples—two white and three colored.

The next engagement at the Opera House will be "Little Lord Fauntleroy," on Saturday, Nov. 23d.

The regular monthly convocation of Concord Chapter No. 1, Royal Arch Masons, will be held to-morrow evening at 8 o'clock.

The traveling car of the Hi. Henry's Minstrels is most complete and convenient. It is a combination of all that is useful and elegant.

Henry Green, colored, was fined $20 and costs in the Mayor's Court yesterday for resisting an officer. Membur Hankins, colored, was fined $5 for disorderly conduct.

Interments in the city cemeteries the past week are reported as follows: Bellevue, one adult; Oakdale, two adults and one child; Pine Forest, three adults and two children.

Messrs. Alex. Sprunt & Son cleared the British steamship Tudor Prince yesterday, for Reval, Russia, with a cargo of 3,785 bales of cotton, weighing 1,859,921 pounds and valued at $185,000.

Mr. Linehan, who has the contract for stone work at the Government building, in fixing the curbing, etc., of the yard, is receiving the stone and will commence work next week to carry out his contract.

The annual meeting of the Ladies' Benevolent Society will be held in the lecture room of the First Presbyterian Church, Thursday, Nov. 20th, at 11 o'clock. The Rev. Mr. Beaman will address the meeting.

Rainy weather prevailed yesterday all over the cotton region. The rainfall was heaviest in the Galveston, Little Rock, Memphis and New Orleans districts and lightest in the Augusta, Charlotte and Wilmington districts.

NEW ENTERPRISE.

A Stock Company to Develop the Oyster Industry in Onslow.

Several gentlemen of this city, in conjunction with citizens of Onslow county living near Stone's Bay, contemplate the formation of a stock company for the purpose of developing the oyster industry at that place. The Bay is said to abound in oysters equal to any brought to this market, and the development of the industry which is contemplated cannot but redound to the benefit of the business interests of Wilmington. The plan of the company, it is learned, will soon be given to the public.

Stone's Bay, by the way, is said to be one of the most beautiful sheets of water in Eastern Carolina, and may yet be a rival, as a watering place, of many seaside resorts. In the winter season it is described as something of a "hunter's paradise," its broad waters being covered with myriads of wild fowl and affording splendid sport for visitors.

The opening up of the country between Wilmington and New River by the Onslow Railroad will no doubt lead to the development of the varied interests of that section, not the least of which are its fisheries and the immense oyster beds of contiguous waters.

Seaman's Bethel.

Services this afternoon at the Seaman's Bethel, at 3:30 o'clock, will be conducted by Rev. Robert Strange, rector of St. James' Episcopal Church. All are cordially invited to attend, especially seamen. Masters of vessels are requested to have this notice read to their crews and urge their attending these services at the Bethel, which are conducted and arranged especially for them. They cannot in a better way show their appreciation of the efforts being made at this port on their behalf by the Seaman's Friend Society than by attending these services.

All city pastors are asked to give notice of this meeting from their pulpits this morning, and especially urge the attendance of ladies, who can sing and who can in this way make the services more attractive to seamen.

Personal.

The STAR has added a bright young man to its staff in the person of John G. Marshall who will begin his new work December 1. Johnnie is a mere youth, but he is full of the stuff of which newspaper men are made, and he will be heard from before he is old enough to vote. Among other duties he will pick up local items, and our friends who may meet him will oblige us by aiding him in this work.

Remember Bridgers & Rankin is the only place in the city where you can buy Royser's Candy.

ROCKY MOUNT FAIR.

A Great Success—Thousands Present—Fine Displays of Home Products of All Descriptions.

[Special Star Report.] ROCKY MOUNT, Nov. 14.—To-day (Friday) the fair closed. A large number of entries were made, and in the agricultural department the exhibit though small, was good. Farmers being busy housing their crops did not give it any attention, hence the small display.

Floral Hall was handsomely decorated with the fine display of numerous kinds of needlework. The hall was a marvel of beauty, being represented by various kinds of handwork of the ladies of Halifax and Edgecombe counties. A large quantity of home made work of the farm, such as cloth, carpets, &c., and last but not least, an elegant display of crazy quilts, all kinds of embroidery and many other articles too numerous to mention.

The stock department was thinly represented, but good what there was of it. The poultry was good, as usual, as Nash has a reputation for fine chickens, as well as brandy.

In the tobacco line a finer display was never exhibited anywhere. This display satisfies the people that this section cannot be beaten.

The racing was much better than usual, and there was more of it—both running and trotting.

The best feature of the occasion was the exclusion of gamblers; they were prohibited on the grounds and on the streets, hence, none to defraud the innocent of their money.

Thursday was the biggest day. The town had more people than ever seen by the oldest citizen in it at one time. From six to seven thousand were on the ground and as many on the streets, making twelve thousand.

Financially the fair was a big success. Thursday's receipts showed over four thousand tickets, besides a large amount received at the gate. The net proceeds will be from twenty-five hundred to three thousand dollars.

THAT CUTTING SCRAPE.

The Injured Man in a Fair to Recover.

Fred Johnson, the seaman stabbed in an affray Thursday night (as reported in the STAR yesterday), is better and will probably be able in a few days to be present at the preliminary examination of the case which will take place before Mayor Fowler. Johnson says that he was on his way to his vessel, with some of his shipmates, shortly after midnight, and at the corner of Nutt and Red Cross streets met three men, one of whom shoved him off the sidewalk. Johnson asked the man what he meant and was cursed and abused by the men, who followed him a short distance up Nutt street, where they jumped on him, stabbing Johnson in the side and shoulder and biting one of his thumbs nearly off. The wounded man was assisted to the vessel, lying at the Carolina Central railroad wharf, by his shipmates, and an attempt was made to stop the flow of blood. In this, however, they were only partially successful, and but for the prompt surgical attention rendered by the surgeon of the Marine Hospital Johnson would probably have bled to death.

One of the three men arrested Friday night admitted that he stabbed Johnson. Their names are Albert Taske, Ben Guirk and Randolph Schonackoff. The two first are members of the crew of the cutter Colfax and the last named one of the crew of the steamer Benefactor.

Entertainment Next Wednesday.

The Mengert Mission Circle of St. Paul's Evan. Lutheran Church will give a Floral and Musical Entertainment next Wednesday, Nov. 19th, commencing at 4 p. m. They will exhibit Chrysanthemum and a great variety of other beautiful flowers; there will be both vocal and instrumental music. This being the first anniversary of the Circle, everybody should try and encourage them by their liberal patronage, as they will try their best to please every one.

THE BAPTISTS.

NORTH CAROLINA STATE CONVENTION.

Third Day's Proceedings.—Educational and Benevolent Institutions—Wake Forest Endowment—Foreign Missions—Sunday School Convention, Etc. [Special Star Report.]

SHELBY, Nov. 14.—After the usual devotional exercises of half an hour, the resolution of Mr. J. H. Mills, looking to the establishment of an institution for the education of feeble-minded children was considered. The committee to whom the matter had been referred, Drs. Taylor, Huffham, and Hon. Wm. A. Graham, did not deem it wise at this time for the Baptists to project such an institution, but expressed a sense of the public need of such a school and the desire that the State, or some combination of benevolent men, should establish one. It is greatly to the credit of Mr. Mills that he has been so useful in this direction. He it was who first proposed in the Grand Lodge of the Masons to found the Orphanage at Oxford and he undertook the enterprise before the State had made any appropriation for its maintenance, and when the Grand Lodge had given it only $500. For nine years he successfully ran that Orphanage, and when the Baptists originated their Asylum he was called to the head of it, where he has wisely served his denomination for five years.

Mr. Mills explained that he did not mean that the school he suggested should be a Baptist affair. A tract of land had been offered him by a gentleman at Pine Bluff, on the railroad from Raleigh to Hamlet, and other persons had spoken to him of their desire to give to such an institution, and his idea was to appoint, or rather nominate, a number of good men from different denominations—and some of no church—who might act as trustees to receive this property and arrange for the founding of such a school at an early day. Gen. Robert Vance and J. S. Carr were among those he named, though these are all your reporter can recollect.

Dr. Pritchard said he was glad the matter had been mentioned, for it was another feather in the cap of the Baptists of the State. They had originated the first denominational college—they had the first religious paper, and they had founded the first church orphanage. It was not deemed expedient to mention any names, especially as several of these gentlemen are not Baptists; but the enterprise was commended as worthy.

THE ENDOWMENT OF WAKE FOREST COLLEGE.

As said in a former article, this college has $155,000 of well invested endowment, but because of the large number of beneficiary students—about 80 out of 200—and also because many poor young men give notes for their tuition, the expenses of the college are greater than the income. Last year by $2,800, Dr. C. E. Taylor wishes to make the college self-supporting as well as to increase the number of professors, and hence he is trying to raise the endowment to at least $300,000. He made an extended and earnest and really eloquent speech, parts of which affected the audience to tears. He said that six hundred preachers had been educated at Wake Forest, besides a large number of very useful laymen—that they had a lovely campus of twenty acres, enclosed with a stone wall, four large buildings well adapted to college purposes, seven hundred and two hundred students, sixty of them now promising young preachers, and that the Baptists must get ready for five hundred students—they were coming—and that in the near future, he hoped, He told us how in a time of great trial when he had failed to secure help from any one North, and when it seemed all had been done in North Carolina that could be done, to raise a conditional endowment, he remembered that some one had given him the name of Mr. J. A. Bostwick of New York. He wrote Mr. B. asking for an interview. Mr. B. replied that he was very busy and could not see him, but to write him the state of the case and he would consider it. Dr. Taylor wrote a brief letter—he wrote it the second time—he wrote it the third time, so as to compose and take the time of a busy man to read a long letter, and then he got down on his knees and spread the letter before the Lord and asked Him to open the heart of Mr. Bostwick. That letter brought by return mail a check for $10,000. Mr. Bostwick has since given the college $20,000, and now proposes to give $50,000 for every two that is raised by the friends of the college up to $50,000. His proposition closes March 1st, 1891, and Dr. Taylor hopes to get from $80,000 to $40,000 in North Carolina by that time, so as to make Wake Forest self-sustaining.

Addresser was also made by Rev. W. R. Gwathmey, Dr. Durham and Dr. Pritchard, when a subscription of about $3,400 was raised. Very many of those present had already contributed.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION.

I omitted to state in my report of yesterday's proceedings that it was agreed to call a Sunday School Convention in Raleigh next April, with a view to the permanent establishment of such a body.

MASS MEETING ON FOREIGN MISSIONS. At night an immense concourse of people was addressed by Dr. T. P. Bell, one of the secretaries of the Board at Richmond on Foreign Missions, for fifty minutes, and a magnificent effort it was. He was followed by Mr. Hickson, once a missionary in China; also, by Rev. C. A. Woodson, of Durham, by Dr. Taylor and Drs. Durham and Pritchard. It was one of the best missionary meetings known in the history of the Convention, and the interest rose to the high-water mark last night.

Dr. Taylor said there were three young men at the college who expected to go to the foreign field, and one young lady in the church there who had offered herself for that work to Dr. Bell.

The N. C. Baptists have now thirty-one men and women in the foreign field.

They are perhaps not giving as much money relatively as some other denominations, but they are giving very many more laborers.

The next Convention was invited to meet in Wilmington, but will go to the Tabernacle Church of Raleigh, and Dr. T. Hune, the golden mouthed orator will preach the sermon, which will be on Tuesday instead of Wednesday night as heretofore. REPORTER.
