Improved Mail Service.

Heretofore the mail for North Carclina from New York has left the postoffice there in a pouch marked North Carolina, so that when the postal clerks on the route between Washington, D. C., and Richmond, Va., had not time to assort it, the entire mail was carried via the Greensboro route; the mail for Wilmington being thus delayed twenty-four hours. Mr. G. Z. French, our posmaster, being cognizant of this fact, has after much trouble succeeded in getting the Wilmington mail from New York put into a separate pouch so that it now comes direct, and our merchants and others will no longer be subjected to the annoyance that has heretofore attended the delay in receiving letters, etc.

The Richmond Dispatch says the Atlantic Coast Line has, by purchase from the Richmond & Danville Company, acquired sole ownership of the Norfolk & Carolina Railroad, a line about one hundred miles in length, running from Norfolk, Va. to Tarboro, N. HOW ONE CAN MAKE A COMPASS

A Wilmington Sportsman Who Got Lost Yesterday, Makes a Practical and Successful Test.

OUT OF A WATCH.

It is not always possible to have access to a compass, and weather vanes and watch-charm attachments may be beyond reach. But for all that the traveller, tourist, hunter or excursionist need never be at loss for a sure and safe method to discover the North or South points, provided he has in his possession a common watch. One of our Wilmington sportsmen made a practical test of the method yesterday, and found it very useful. His dogs were trailing a wild turkey in a dense swamp near the city, and in following them he lost his reckoning and might have wandered miles out of the way but for the aid of his watch, which used as a compass, soon gave him his "proper bearings,"

It is a simple "trick" and easily learned. Take your watch, point the hour hand to the sun and the south is exactly half way between the hour and the figure XII, on the watch. For example, suppose that is 4 o'clock. Point the hand indicating 4 to the sun, and II. on the watch is exactly south. Suppose that it is 8 o'clock, point the hand indicating 8 to the sun, and the figure X. on the watch is due south. This a plain and trustworthy direction and should be known to all who are in the habit of camping out or pursuing their way in unfrequented places. The possession of such a simple bit of knowledge might under certain circumstances be the means of saving life, or at all events preventing unnecessary suffering. To the shipwrecked mariner, suddenly forced to leap into the boats hanging from the davits, with no time or opportunity to secure charts, instruments and a compass, the simple device as above illustrated might enable the distressed ship's company to reach a point of

The subject might be stated in more scientific terms as follows: A close approximation to the direction of the true meridian for finding one's way by the aid of a map is to hold a watch with its face level and with the hour hand directed towards the sun. Then an imaginary line drawn from the centre of the dial bisecting the lesser of the two spaces or angles between the hour hand and the figure XII. will be the direction of the meridian, or south, in the northern hemisphere, within 15

It is not claimed that the watch is a perfect compass or that a true course could be steered or path pursued by the means described. But the method is sufficiently correct to be well worthy of jotting down in one's note-book.

OPERA HOUSE.

"Little Lord Fauntleroy."

There was a large attendance at the Opera Honse last night to witness this charming play. The interest with which its rendition is witnessed is evinced by its appeal to the better nature of man. But this does not account for the charm of this beautiful idyl, nor would it be a recognition of the genius of the playwright. It is in the creation of the character of Fauntleroy that Mrs. Burnett's genius is apparent. This charming interpreter of the sentiment-love is supreme-endears herself to all hearts; but we suspect that little Miss Fleming's personal attractions were an important factor in capturing the hearts of her auditors in the difficult role she essay-

It is seldom that a better company than this is seen. As was at once evident, they were not chosen because of their availability, but with reference to their capability of delineating the characters so artistically created by Mrs. Burnett. To particularize would be to include the entire cast. The management of the Opera House is to be congratulated upon securing such a high class attraction.

The Charleston, Sumter & Northern R. R. The merchants of Charleston, S. C., are making energetic and determined efforts to secure the business of that rich section of the Pee Dee which has been and is now, largely tributary to the trade of Wilmington, and our business men will need to make redoubled efforts to retain it. The Charleston, Sumter and Northern railroad, the News and Courier says, "will not be completed soon enough to transport any of the cotton crop of the present season, but it will carry the planters of the Pee-Dee section their fertilizers next spring, and will be ready to bring all of the cotton raised in that section to this port next season. The value of Marlboro county as a cotton-producing locality is known all over the South, and it will help the general business of Charleston greatly to get this line into quick operation."

BANQUET AT FAYETTEVILLE. A Pleasant Social Affair-Complimentary to Capt. E. J. Hale, Late U.S. Consul

at Manchester, Eng. Special Star Correspondence.

FAYETTEVILLE, Nov. 22.-Last evening many of the friends of Hon. E. J. Hale, who, in common with the whole community of Fayetteville, greeted him with a most friendly welcome, on his visit to his old home, met with him around the mahogany of the Hotel La-Fayette in a banquet to his honor, at which Dr. W. C. McDuffie presided with his wonted readiness and versatility at all social entertainments.

Covers were laid in the beautiful dining hall for thirty persons. Dr. Mc-Duffie is wonderfully happy with his admirable tact and exquisite taste, in presiding over such formal banquets as that to which we did such enjoyment with hearty gusto last evening.

Rev. Thomas Atkinson, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church, "graced the meat" of that bountiful board, at which were seated the following persons: Dr. W. C. McDuffie, presiding; Hon. E. J. Hale, the honored guest of the evening; Hon. Jas. C. MacRae, Judge Superior Court; Rev. Thomas Atkinson, rector of St. John's Church; Dr. T. D. Haigh, Mr. Chas. Overman, of Salisbury; Col. John H. Anderson, of New York city; Col. C. W. Broadfoot, Col. John A. Pemberton, Dr. J. A. Hodges, Sheriff J. B. Smith, Mr. A. S. Huske, Mr. J. B. Starr, Jr., Mr. B. R. Huske, Mr. F. W. Thornton, Maj. J. N. Prior, Mr. E. L. Pemberton, Mr. E. J. Lilly, Capt. A. B. Williams, Maj. W. F. Campbell, Hon. W. J. Green, Mr. Ed. Smith, Mr. W. F. Leak, Mr. G. A. Thomson, Mr. H. R. Horne, Mr. Z. W. Whitehead, Mr. J. H. Myrover.

Dr. McDuffie toasted the guest of the evening in a chaste, classical little address, and Maj. Hale's response was just what would have been expected of one who had held so high a position, and had filled it with such distinguished honor and dignity. The toast, "To the Fayetteville Obser-er," was responded to by Mr. J. H. Myrover, of the Observer. Calls were made successively (and responded to) for Hon. W. J. Green, Dr. J. A. Hodges, Col. C. W. Broadfoot, Hon. J. C. MacRae, Mr. Overman, Col. J. H. Anderson, Dr. T. D. Haigh, Maj. J. N. Prior, Mr. H. R. Horne, Mr. G. A. Thomson and others. The evening was most delightful, and

the supper, which carried out every single article of the menu, showed how completely the Hotel LaFayette deserves its reputation as one of the bestappointed hotels in the State.

Nickel in the Slot. Charleston has a Nickel Savings Bank, which although in operation only about ten days is said to be an assured

The bank has issued a little book which gives in detail the object and manner of operation of the new establishment. The following extract will be read with interest.

"One nickel a day saved makes $18 25 at the end of a year; two nickels a day $36 50; three nickels a day, $54 75; four nickels a day, $73; five nickels a day, $91 25. This, with the interest accruing, will produce nearly $160 a year. Interest paid on deposits quurterly at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum, in January, April, July and October.

The population of Wilmington is probably not yet large enough for such an institution, but our present excellent Savings Bank will no doubt reduce its minimum deposit after a time.

RIVER AND MARINE.

Capt. Shepard, chief of the Revenue Marine Division, in his annual report to the Secretary of the Treasury says that the thirty-six vessels in commission traversed 283,112 nautical miles and boarded and examined 23,161 vessels, of which number 915 were found to have violated the law, and to have incurred fines and penalties amounting to $396,-616. Eighty distressed vessels were assisted, the value of which, together with their cargoes, amounted to $2,500,000. Forty-three persons were rescued from drowning and 811 were assisted in other ways. The expenditures on account of the service were $937,043, of which $17,-272 were spent in making the anchorage lines of New York harbor.
