OPERA HOUSE.

Prescot and McLean In "Cleopatra Saturday Night.

Miss Marie Prescott's new play, "Cleopatra," was given its first production last night in the presence of a large audience. The play is a dramatization of Rider Haggard's famous work, "Cleopatra," and Miss Prescott has shown as much ability in the role of a playwright as she has in historic art. The play is strong and virtuous in action and the dialogue is well adapted and not too wordy. There are a number of very passages which give an opportunity for most excellent work and Miss Prescott has made all that can be got out of them. The Cleopatra of the authoress last night was an admirable creation, and one that is sure to win the beautiful young actress an endearing reputation. Its originality is its charm and was evidence throughout tnat Miss Prescott has carefully studied the life of the famous Egyptian Queen and has familiarized herself with contemporary history. This knowledge is conspicuously displayed in the costuming, in which beauty has been frequently sacrificed to historical accuracy. The Harmachis of Mr. McLean wes excellent throughout. The pathos and rage of the desperate young lover was admirably portrayed. The other characters were well handled by the supporting company .- Louisville Post, Sept. 25. Mr. McLean and Miss Prescott will appear here in this play at the Opera House on Saturday evening next, Dec. 20th. Reserved seats at Yates' Friday

Schooner Neff Ashore-One Life Lost. Mr. Dosher, acting Signal Service Observer at Southport, telegraphed here yesterday that the small schooner J. A. Neff, plying between this city and Lockwood's Folly, went ashore on Piney Point beach, about three miles southwest of Southport, at daylight, and with her cargo, consisting of wood and turpentine, is a total loss. The crew consisted of two men only, Riley Lewis and Charles Price, both colored. Lewis, the master of the vessel, was saved, and Price died from exhaustion after being taken ashore. The Neff was owned by a colored man named Fullward, of Lockwood's Folly; she was an old vessel and was worth probably about one hundred dollars.

WIND AND WEATHER.

A Biting Blast from the Northwest-Cold Drizzing Rain-Presage of Brighter Skies To-Day.

The cautionary signals ordered displayed night before last at the Signal Service station here were fully verified. The wind blew in heavy gusts early yesterday morning, with a cold drizzling rain and a threatening of snow; just the kind of weather to promote the growth of Santa Claus' whiskers, but rather uncomfortable to those not so well supplied with furs.

The Signal Service men were kept busy yesterday, gathering the elements together again, and they assure us of crisp and brighter weather to-day. The storm started day before yesterday off the South Carolina coast. It passed Wilmington early yesterday morning, causing a wind of thirty-five miles per hour from the northwest. It was central over Virginia at 8 a. m. yesterday moving rapidly northward and being closely flanked by a cold wave pressing in from the West.

All coast stations reported high winds yesterday. Hatteras could not be heard from as the wires were down.

A heavy snow storm was reported along the Carolina Central railroad from Maxton to Rutherfordton; and telegraph wires on both the Western Union and Postal companie's lines were in trouble all day from the combined effects of snow, sleet and wind.

At 10.30 o'clock last night the Signal Service observer here received the following dispatch from the chief officer at Continue signals for Wilmington and Wilmington section. Fair weather. The storm's centre has passed to the northeast; brisk to high northwest winds.

THE INVITATION.

To the First Virginia Regiment to Join the North Carolina State Guard at the Encampment Next Summer,

The following is a copy of the communication addressed to the First Virginia regiment by Adjutant General Jas. D. Glenn, inviting the regiment to hold its encampment at Wrightsville, viz: GREENSBORO, N. C., Dec. 5, 1890.

Col. Jones, Commanding First Regiment

Virginia Volunteers: DEAR SIR-Hearing that your regi-ment has not yet decided upon a place to hold your encampment next summer, write to invite you to hold it in the 'Old North State," at the same time and place as our State encampment, which will be held at Wrightsville, N. C., the latter part of July or the 1st of August,

I am satisfied the railroads will give you the same rates as to our troopsviz., two thirds of a cent per mile each way-and I am sure you can find no place where the men can be fed as well and at such little expense. There, with boating, fishing, dancing, etc., the men can find plenty to amuse themselves during their leisure hours.

We have a seacoast batery where your men, if they wish to do so, can learn the use of heavy guns and mortars. We have also a rifle-range which shall be at your service. Our encampment will be by regiments, so that each regiment will have separate camps and guard lines.

Wilmington will be within nine miles of camp by railroad and there are several good hotels at Wrightsville and many visitors, and I am sure holding these encampments together will greatly strengthen the very intimate relations which have always existed between our citizen soldiers and be of great benefit to both. Hoping you will accept this invitation, I am, yours very truly,

JAMES D. GLENN, Adjutant General.

As previously stated in the STAR, the officers voted unanimously to accept the

Those who are interesting themselves in the organization of the League anticipate as their greatest trouble the difficulty of getting six or eight neighboring cities interested in the League. The base ball men think that with three or four cities in the eastern and western circuits that the League could be made to pay. Savannah, Wilmington, Richmond, Norfolk and Charleston are mentioned as desirable cities to be represented in the eastern circuit. Base ball men do not have much faith in Augusta for support of the national game. It is expected that there will be little difficulty in securing the teams for the Barn Burning Near Greenville.

A correspondent of the STAR, writing from Greenville, N. C., Dec. 16th, says "Last night Joe Laughinghouse, living ten or twelve miles below here on the river, lost his barn by fire, containing one thousand bushels of peanuts, eighty barrels of corn, and all the fodder made. The fire was discovered about 9 o'clock. and had made such progress it was impossible to check it. The work is supposed to be that of an incendiary. The property belonged to Mrs. Wm. Grimes, of Raleigh, and the farm was cultivated by Mr. Laughinghouse."

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

CASTLE HALL, CLARENDON LODGE No. 2, K. OF P. WILMINGTON, N. C., Dec. 17, 1890. WHEREAS, The members of Clarendon Lodge, Knights of Pythias, have been called upon, in the providence of God, to mourn the death of their valiant brother Knight, John E. Grant, and have sustained by the dissolution of the bond of brotherhood heretofore existing between the members of this Lodge and the deceased, an irreparable loss, therefore, be it re-

1, That we shall cherish in memory the many virtues of our deceased brother, his kindly nature, un-selfish friendship and generous manhood, which made his comradeship in life a pride and a pleasure, not only to this Lodge, but to the Order of Knights of Pythias, in this city, and that we commend to our brother Knights the rich example of the noble and upright life of our deceased brother. 2. That profoundly sensible of his untimely death, at so young and so useful a period of life, and mourning in deep sorrow and full realization of our own great loss in the severance, by the dread messenger of death, which truly seemeth to love a shining mark, of our re-lations with our beloved brother, we tender to the sor rowing circle of the family of the deceased in their moment of supreme bereavement, the earnest, sincere and heartfelt sympathy of the members of this Lodge. 3, That as a mark of respect to the memory of the deceased that the members of this Lodge shall wear the usual badge of mourning for a period of thirty days, and that a page of the minute book be inscribed with the name, birth and death of our de parted brother. 4. That copies of this resolution be sent to the family of the deceased and be published in each of the daily papers of this city.
