By WILLIAM H. BERNARD.

WILMINGTON, N. C.

THURSDAY MORNING, JAN. 1, 1891

HOAR AND WOLCOTT. Tuesday was more than a usually interesting day in the Senate, as the Force bill performance was varied by speeches from two Republican Senators against it, and also by Republican speeches against the gag resolution of Senator Aldrich. Mr. Hoar, who had not spewed out all his venom the day before, had the floor and finished a speech which, foreaut, hypocrisy, assumed patriotism, sheaking meanness and concentrated spite, has rarely been equalled. Although all the speeches by the Republicans in favor of the infamous measure of which he has assumed the leadership have been partisan, some of them extremely so, it remained for the Codfish statesman to get out the old bloody shirt, get down among, the ashes, rake out the embers and try to fan them into a flame, and all this with a santimonious air as disgusting as it was contemptible. He went back to the Copiah massacre, as it is called, and played on it as if it were an occurrence of yesterday, as if such things were of common occurrence in the South today, endorsed by the Southern people, and gave this as an argument why the Force bill should be enacted into a law. If all he said on this line were true it was utterly irrelevant, for it is no part of the carry on the fight inside of the party Force bill, over which he daily perspires, to preserve the peace and outside. protect people, black or white. from mob violence. That is not any part of its purpose. It is simply to control the ballot boxes, and to get as many votes for the Republican party as may be got through that devilishly contrived machinery. That's all, and the only object this venomous sneak had in view in recalling and becoming frantic over the disturbances of years ago was to arouse sectional feeling, and under its stimulus pass a measure which cannot be passed upon its merits. This was about the

to this narrow-minded and splenetic began the tail-twisting process. In ebulition was the speech of Senator the Harrison campaign he criticised Wolcott Republican, of Colorado, the Cleveland administration for who avowed himself as uncompro- dallying with this question, and yet misingly opposed to any such mea- every movement he has made in the sures as uncalled for, as an inwar- way of settlement since he has beranted interference with the rights come Secretary of State, was made of the States, and in its essence on the lines mapped out by Secretaun-American. He e was the young ry Bayard. Nearly two years have Senator from the young West, elapsed and that question is just full of life and vigor, actuated where Mr. Bayard left it. by the broad, patriotic American spirit which embraces the whole country and every section, pointing Force bill in the Senate Tuesday hopefully to the future and pleading Senator Tellet of Colorado, and for fraternity and peace, while the Hale of Maine, took position against jabbering old relic from the en- the proposed gag rule. The latter kind of speech, however, which was expected from Hoar, who is essen-

filled with rancor, spits out his venom and gets down upon his knees ashes to arouse have and sir up contention which good men of both sections have been staving for years allay, and had at last succeeded.

Mr. Wolcott voiced the sentiments of the better class of the American people of all sections, while the Massachusetts fossil spoke for himself only, and for the small remnant of sectional fanatics and partisan vampires who in the mysterious dispensations of Providence are still permitted to linger upon the earth, as a reminder, perhaps of what once was, and as a warning for the future.

Wolcott and Hoar represent two separate and distinct types of Ameri cans, the one bouyant, hopeful, manly and progressive, pointing to the future, and to a country united and solid moving onward to a grand and glorious destiny, the other a rancorous gang who see nothing it the future, whose eyes are turned back ward, whose country is confined to section, whose patriotism is confined to party, and who instead of peace and harmony would make contention and turmoil perpetual that they might revel in the spoils and grow fat on plunder while the country suffered. And the miserable old Codfish conspirator has the effrontery to say there is no partisanship in

MINOR MENTION.

Poor Mr. Hoar is not happy. He has not only not been able to whip in all the Republican Senators to support his Force bill and Aldrich's gag resolution, but some of his colleagues publicly rebuke him for fritting away valuable time with his belated measure, and failing to make any progress in bringing it to a vote. When this is done the poor old fellow whines and throws the responsibility on those Republican Senators who will not remain in their seats but prefer to lounge around, the lobby the cloak rooms or somewhere else leaving him without a quorum and powerless to do anything but indulge in a little homipering at their indifference and lack of attention to business Then, in addition to this, when Mr. Hoar is anxious to proceed with business and keep late i.ours the Democratic Senators deliberately put on their overcoats and go home to dinner, leaving him with a handful of Republican Senators and lots of vacant chairs to mournfully gaze at. Hence he is sad.

In the Senate Tuesday, Senator Stewart, of Nevada, spoke on the Financial bill which has the endorsement of the Republican caucus, as a measure for the benefit of gamblers, silver speculators and national banks, a mere pretence and make-shift, which now of provides for dree coinage, which the people whom he represents demands, and which they will insist upon until they get it. He gave notice that he would oppose this or any other measure which did not provide free coinage, and if they couldn't get it now, the friends of free coinage would keep up the fight until they do gerit. The silver fight is evidently on, and the day of compromise passed. The Republican silver dollar men are disperately in earnest about it, and if they can't lines, they are going to carry it on The dallying of Harrison and Blaine with the Behring sea controversy leaves ground for the suspicion that they are holding it in reserve with the express purpose of getting into a tangle with England, in order to have a new issue in the next Presidential campaign, to appeal to national pride and divert attention from the issues which have proved so disastrous to their party and which promise more disaster. When Blaine ran against Cleveland "a vigorous foreign policy" was one his strong cards. He twisted the tail of the British lion, and by doing so tially sectional and essentially par- got considerable of in Trish following in some of the larger cities, the In striking and pleasing contrast . He brought the proposers of that arbitrary measure to task for endeavoring to resort to gag methods their Force bill to a vote to demon strate whether there was any necessity for it or not, which they should at least have done before they undertook to revolutionize the modes of proceeding which had always prevailed in the Senate.

STATE TOPICS.

The late convention of county Superintendents of Instruction, in Raleigh, passed a resolution favoring compulsory education, which we do not think will meet with the endorsement of the Legislature nor of the people of the State. If people will not give their children schooling when the schools are open to them, the forcing process would hardly prove effective, unless it panned out more satisfactorily in this State than in others where it has been tried. There is a compulsory law in Illinois now which works so badly that there is a demand for its repeal even in the cities, where such a law could be most effectually enforced. Aside from the objection that it would probably fail to accomplish the purpose for which it is intended, there are other objections which it would be difficult to overcome. People as a general thing do not take kindly to compulsion of any kind and the people of this State are not an exception to this.

CURRENT COMMENT.

-Ferd Peck expected President Harrison to play Santa Claus and issue his World's Fair proclamation Christmas eve. The President possesses one essential quality for a successful Santa Claus. He could crawl through the smallest stovepipe,-Chicago Mail, Dem.

- Mr. Hoar is a very nice man, and his colleagues are usually anxious to oblige him, but when it comes to asking unanimous consent to take up the Lodge Force bill-well, the Democratic Senators concluded they wouldn't do that, even to oblige as nice a man as Mr. Hoar.-Phil. Times, Ind.

- The President based his veto of the Bar Harbor public building scheme on the ground that it was costly and uncalled for by public need. The same considerations would much more dictate a veto of the Force bill, should it by any logrolling co-operative device be squeezed through Congress .- Phil. Record, Dem.

NEW YORK SUNDAY PAPERS

How Immense and Ponderous They Have Becomer: 971 Richmond Times.

The growing proportions of the Sunday editions of the New York dailies reminds us of the increasing size of the standing armies abroad. Each European government is adding to the numerical strength of its national forces simply because every other European government is doing the same thing, the of the column A like reason seems to be influencing the leading newspapers of New York city. The Sun of Sunday had twenty-six pages of printed matter. either original or carefully selected. and the other New York papers were hardly inferior in volume. The first thought that enters the mind when glancing over these columns is, Who has the time in one day to give more than the most cursory examination to their contents? Papers are printed to be read, not to be hastily scanned. nor is it sufficient to say that where there is such a variety of matter each man can confine himself to what is agreeable to his tastes. Where there is so much to be perused one is left in confusion as to what one really wishes to chose in so great a

New York journalism, as reflected in the Sunday papers, is simply voluminous journalism, and it is voluminous not because there is any public demand for such magazines of every kind, but because rivalry and competition have combined to push the New York dailies to an extreme for which there is no sound reason. The prediction may be wentused that there will in time be a strong reaction from this style of journalism. It is essentially opposed to the spirit of the age, men having less disposition than ever to follow long detailed discussions and descriptions in the newspapers.

The journalism of the future will be disposed to regard quality as be-ing more desirable than quantity, but the most exciting times to carry for quantity. Clearness and compactness of statement, accuracy, lines upon which the reaction in journalism will operate, and it will in the world. Newspapers are not cles of a vast amount of miscellaneous information. The reform when it begins will be in the direction of without having attempted to bring a radical curtailment in the amount of general matter on the one handand a more succinci manner of state, ment on the other, it good will be a

FORTY YEARS HENCE.

In That Time Our Millionaires Will be Billionaires.

Thos. G. Shearman in January Forum. Unless some great change takes place in our financial or social system, the billionaire is certainly coming, and at a rapid pace. True, a vast fortune does not multiply by mere interest, if kept at home quite so rapidly as one of more moderate size, on account of the difficulty of reinvesting such enormus incomes at foll rates of interest. But it is also true that in other respects large formore rapidly than very small ones. Opportunities for large profits on special transactions are presented to millionaires far more often than to others. They are more likely to gain by "the unearned increment." They can afford to pay for the very best 'service, and they can and do secure agents of great ability and integrity. Such agents can as easily make safe investments in the West at eight per cent, as in the East at five per cent. Small capitalists must keep their money at home, because they cannot watch | lin. over distant investments or afford to employ local agents. These advantages more than compensate for the lower rate of interest which large capitalists often have to accept on home investments in consequence of sonian grounds in Washington. their rapid accumulations.

Thus we see that in the last twenty years, while rates of interest have been constantly declining in America vast fortunes have increased more rapidly than ever before. Several non-speculative estates have increased five-fold in less than forty years. Interest is now very low; but, adding to interest the steady increment of city lands, an addition of at least four per cent. per annum, at compound interest, may be counted upon for these great estates. At that rate, a present fortune of $200,-000,000 would become a billion ($1,000,000,000) in less than forty years. Financial conditions remaining unchanged, the American billionaire might reasonably be looked for within that time and several billionaires might be expected within
