DOLLAR WORSHIP

In no other country in the world is the almighty dollar pursued with the same restless energy and determination as in this. It seems to be swipe, when he declared that the chief end of man, and to make money the inspiration of every one old enough to know what a dollar is. In this respect the character of our people seems to have undergone a change within the past generation, for thirty years ago there was not this wild and general pursuit of riches. Of course there were men then as there always have been and always will be who toiled, planned come when the people would rise and struggled to accumulate riches, and sweep the last one of them from but the average man was content the places they hold and elect Repwith a moderate income, and while resentatives, Senators and Presidents they neither worked so hard, lived who would obey the commands of so rapidly, nor gathered together as the people. On the whole, while it many dollars as the successful dollar hunters of this age do they lived | sas and for Ingalls, it was a good easier and were doubtless happier. speech to come from a Republican of Ingalls' standing in the party. He

This is especially true of the South. Under the old order of things, before the war brought its upheavels and revolutions there was no section of the globe where there was more real enjoyment of life, more comfort and more content and more solid happiness than in the ten Southern States. The South was then what might be called a purely agricultural section, the spirt of speculation had not crossed her borders, her people, generally speaking, were comfortably situated, with incomes more than sufficient to meet all their moderate wants. They believed in a rational enjoyment of life and were never happier than when sharing their abundance with those they liked or with the wayfaring stranger, to whom they were always hospitable and kind. With slaves to cultivate their fields and a sure demand and market for their staple crops they were sure of a competence and could afford to take life easy. Free spenders, and good livers, liberal and generous as a rule, they sought the sunny side of life and got all the enjoyment there was in it. Of course the revolution which overturned the old order of things | West in any movement of this kind. has changed this to a great extent, for with the new order came new methods and combinations of circumstances which put an end to the old custom of taking life easy. The nature of our people has not changed | Force bill before the Senate again but their conditions have, and they as "unfinished business." It was a can no longer indulge their tastes and inclinations with the same freedom as they did in the olden time. Who will not say that our people | ship in the Senate, was staved off then did not live to better purpose than they whose life is spent and souls jeopardized in the eager pursuit of coveted dollars? Money is a good | that it was not "drastic" enough | see that the poll-books are rightly thing to have, for without it one has and would fail to accomplish kept and the ballots properly rea pretty rough-and-tumble existence | the object in view. On last here below, but it should be sought | Monday he introduced a bill

When its pursuit becomes the chief object in life and hoarding it the chief pleasure, then there is a life perverted, wasted, and the money is not good. The steamboat stoker who earns his bread not only in 'the sweat of his face but of his whole body, is a happier man than such a man and lives to better purpose.

We believe in progress and we believe in wealth, the progress that makes the world better while it makes it richer, and the wealth which brings comfort and blessings to its possessor and benefits to others We want to see our Southland become progressive and rich in this way, but we do not wish to see the day when her people will forget the example of the men who lived in the days that are passed, and let the pursuit of riches become an engrossing passion and the Almighty dollar the God they worship. There is something better and nobler to live for than that.

MINOR MENTION.

Speeches for buncombe are no uncommon thing in Congress, but Senator Ingalls capped the climax for buncombe in his speech in support of free coinage of silver Wednesday. While ostensibly a speech on silver, intended for the Senate of the United State, it was a big bid for the vote of the Alliance men in the Kansas Legislature, for it comes as near being an out and out endorsedorsement of the Alliance as could be well crowded into a speech of that kind. In starting out he took a whack at "debased suffrage," making the somewhat remarkable statement for a Republican that within the past half century there had not been, in his opinion, a presidential election that expressed the will and judgment of the American people. However true this may be as going back a half a century, their it applies to the Republican presidents elected within thirty years of that period. This was said incidentally in reference to the Force bill, which he regarded only as a partial and imperfect measure to remedy the evil complained of. But he struck the milk in the cocoa nut, and also struck his own party a mighty one of the menacing dangers of the Republic was the concentration of the wealth of the country in the hands of the few and the impoverishment of the many as one of the results of the financial policy of his party, and gave warning that if the statesmen of his party did not take heed from the revolution last November the day would

The Direct Trade Convention which met at Atlanta, Ga., Wednesday, was a failure as to the number of States represented, there being only three. There will be a second meeting in the month of May, when it is hoped there will be a larger representation. As this is a movement in which the West as well as the South Is interested, an invitation should be extended to the Western States to send delegates. As the South needs more direct shipping facilities for the cotton, timber, and other products which she exports, and for the goods she imports, so the West needs more direct shipping facilities for her grain, meats and other products. Two or more conventions have been held on this question in the West, and doubtless if the matter were presented the South would find co-operation in the ing in smartness or sense. His speech, as a Alliance capturer, was somewhat belated.

Codfish Hoar succeeded Wednesday, by the casting vote of Vice President Morton, after the disposition of the Silver bill, in getting his close shave, but he got there. It will be remembered that the bill of which he has assumed the guardianlast session on motion of Senator Quay, who afterwards gave as a reason for his failure to support it and imprisonment of people who take too many liberties about the polls and authorizes the President in certain contingences to suspend the writ of habeas corpus and call out the army and navy to enforce the provisions of the bill when people kick too hard. When the Hoar bill comes to the front Mr. Quay will doubtless also endeavor to bring his bill to the front. In many respects it is the same as the other but has the merit of being less hypocritical, being a force bill pure and simple

The State Agricultural Department has in contemplation in conjunction with the respective portions of the State, the establishment of district experimental farms, nine in number. As we understand it these farms are not to cost the Department any sum worth considering, the gentlemen selected to superintend them being progressive farmers who will do the desired work as a labor of love. We are not familiar with the details of the plan, but the idea is a good one, and it would be still better if every county in the State took interest enough in the subject of agriculture to have an experimental farm of its own. If properly conducted these farms would become educators whose value could not be easily over estimated. Their cost would be trifling compared with the good that would result from them, and they could be easily made self-sustaining.

CURRENT COMMENT

--- The present administration is amous for the rapidity with which t has knocked the surplus into a cocked hat and furnished us with a ig deficit in its stead .- N. Y. Herald,

-- The degree of F. B. K. has been conferred by common consent upon Senators Stewart, Teller, et al. who voted against the Election bill. F. B. K. stands for Force Bill Killers .- Wash. Star, Ind.

-- Stanley thinks that the race problem might be solved by getting the negroes to go back to Africa. But finding Livingston were child's play to discovering the African who would be willing to make such an exchange. He's not that kind of a chicken .- Phil. Times, Ind.

—— Secretary Tracy says: "A United States officer does not ask of a foreign government permission to offer an asylum to any person on board an American vessel at sea who stands in need of a refuge." This sounds like old times, and is another proof of the fact that when a Repubican official enunciates a Democratic sentiment he talks remarkably well. N. Y. Star, Dem.

POLITICAL POINTS.

- A contemporary remarks that the Republican party is on its last legs. All the symptoms go to show, however, that the Republican party is on its head in a mud hole.-Atlanta Constitution.

- Mr. Edmunds' opinion that the majority should rule is one which we most heartily indorse. But we hold to the view that a majority of the people is a bigger thing than a majority composed of railroad and corporation attorneys .-Vashville American, Dem.

- All history does not furnish a single instance of a Republican campaign promise of higher wages and better times that has not been broken. These workmen may rely on the bosses not breaking that record, whatever else they may break.-Elmira Gazette, Dem. There is room for the belief that one purpose of the Force bill was to intrench the Republican party so firmly in control of the Government that it could snap its fingers at the popular demand for tariff revision as "immaterial." There was to be a bayonet behind every ballot, and a file of bayonets behind every section of the Tariff law. The Force bill has been tied up, but the purpose is still at large .- Phil. Record,

QUAY'S ELECTIONS BILL.

A Scheme to Give the President Almost

Unlimited Power. WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—The Elecions bill introduced by Senator Quay to-day is entitled "An act to prevent force and fraud in Federal elections and insure the lawful and peaceful conduct thereof." The bill differs in many respects from the bill on the Senate calendar. The first section directs the United States District or Circuit Judge, on petition of ten or more citizens of any city or county in his judicial district, to appoint three qualified voters a Board of Supervisors, not more than two to be of any party. This board is to be empowered to demand from the register a copy of his books, and after a posted notice they are at the polling place to purge the books of persons not qualified to vote. Other sections of the bill require the register in advance of election to register such persons only as the Board of Supervisors decides to be qualified to vote for the Representative in Congress. Provision is also made in event of the register's failure for the board to conduct the registration and to deliver the books to the judges of election. During the election supervisors are to ceived and that unauthorized persons are not admitted to the polling as a means, not an end, something which he doubtless considers drastic suspected ballots, verify the count to utilize and enjoy, not to hoard. enough as it provides for the arrest and canvass and supervise the make- phlets.

up of the returns, delivering one copy to the chief supervisor of the judicial district and the other to the clerk of the Board of Supervisors of the city or county appointed by the State.

They are also to attend the proceedings of the Board of City or County Canvassers, supervise the canvass, make up the returns and see that the latter are delivered, one copy to the Secretary of the Commonwealth and the other to the Clerk of the United States Court. Authority is confered upon the Board of Supervisors to arrest and commit for twenty-hours persons disturbing the peace at the polls or attempting to influence voters. The United States Circuit Judges are authorized to appoint for each judicial district a chief supervisor and register of elections, at a salary of $600 per annum, who is to receive and preserve the returns required to be made to the court.

The above described provisions replace fourteen sections of the original bill. The remainder of the bill is made up of all after section 13, of the committee bill, to which is added the following section:

"When it shall appear to the satisfaction of the President of the United States that (in any locality) the provisions of this law cannot otherwise be executed, it shall be his duty and he is hereby empowered to suspend there the writ of habeas corpus, and to employ the armed forces of the United States naval and military for its enforcement, and for the protection of the officers, whose duties are herein provided for."

HAD TO BE THERE.

The Wedding Couldn't Very Well Go On Without Him. Chicago Tribune.

A policeman at the Polk street station vesterday morning walked up to a voung man whom he had observed hurrying to and fro in a feverish way for an hour or so, and

"My friend, what is the trouble? Is there anything I can do for you?" "Do for me? Je-roos'lum! No! Not unless you can bring back that 8:25 train. I'll bet a thousand dollars it left ahead of time." "Can't you go on another train?"

"Certainly. That's what I'm waiting for. But it doesn't leave till 3.30 this afternoon and won't get to where I'm going till about midnight and that won't do at all.'

"If it's anything important can't you send a telegram?" "Send a telegram? I've sent half a dozen already. The fact is, I am on my way to a wedding to take place at 7 o'clock this evening. I've got some presents for the bride." "Well," said the policeman, "the case isn't so bad. You can deliver the presents the next morning, but-'

"Wedding over? Jumpin' Jupiter! It won't be over! That's the ronble.'

"Why not?" "Because it can't come off unless I'm on hand. I've got to be there. I'm the man that's going to be married. Policeman, you mean well, but you can't pour any of the oil of joy into this wounded bosom. I'll feel obliged if you'll go away somewhere and sit down.'

Mark Twain Listens to a Sermon Delivered 450 Miles Away. Phil. News.

ELMIRA, Jan. 12.—The Rev. Thos. K. Beecher, at the Park Church yes terday morning, preached a sermon on the life of the late Mrs. Olivia Langdon, mother of Mrs. Samuel L. Clemens, of Hartford, Conn.

It was impossible for Mr. and Mrs. Clemens to be present, but their house in Hartford was connected with the church here by longdistance telephone, the receiver being placed on the pulpit and hidden in a bank of flowers.

The line went by Syracnse, Albany and Springfield to Hartford, a distance of 450 miles, and worked very suscessfully, the entire service being very plainly heard in Mr. Clemens' residence in Hartford. Last evening a number of Mr. Beecher's friends in Buffalo heard his sermon in the same way.
