Salvini in Don Cæsar de Bazan.

A refined and most appreciative audience, equalling in number any of the season, enjoyed a treat in witnessing Salvini's interpretation of the role of Don Caesar de Bazan, at the Opera House most delightful of De Ennery's many. With the free, open-hearted, good humored Don Cæsar we easily fall in love. Attracted at first to the man by rosin, 9 bbls. tar. the recklessness of his character we are disposed at first to condemn; but our admiration is soon awakened by the evidence of sterling worth beneath the rough exterior. Mr. Salvini's interpretation is masterly in many respects. That he pleased his audience the frequent applause and curtain calls he received sufficiently attest. The play depends entirely upon its action for its charm; the dialogue is too stilted, and at once attracts attention by its paucity of sentiment and the poor epxression of what little it does contain. That Mr. Salvini captivated his auditors with such a poor play is but an evidence of his ability. The supporting company was very good.

THE ELECTION GASES.

CONTINUATION OF THE TRIAL IN THE SUPERIOR COURT

Testimony of Witnesses for the Defence Concluded-The Issues Decided Upon by the Court-The Plea of Res Adjudicata.

The investigation-of the election case was resumed at 10 o'clock.

Joseph T. Kerr was introduced fo the defence. He swore substantially as follows, "I was appointed a poll-holder by Cowan during the first part of October. When I was nominated for Representative I resigned as poll-holder. Cowan then appointed McFadyen. carried the appointment to him sometime in the first part of October. I went to Cowan's house with Thomas. Cowan and myself went to dinner and we talked about the registration. Cowan decided to employ Thomas to assist him. I had mothing to do with the employing, nor did I say anything to Thomas about it when I came from dinner. I am one of the Justices of Cape Fear township. We did no official business at that meeting. The Board of Magistrates did not meet, and did not act at all in the matter. The conversation between Cowan aud Thomas was short. Cowan said: 'Harry, Mr. Kerr and myself have talked the matter over, and it is just a matter of spirits turpentine, 383 bbls. rosin, 20 dollars and cents with you. I will get you to assist me, and will allow you whatever the commissioners allow me. Thomas assented to this. Thomas never showed me the minute of Oct. 1st, nor did I ever see it before to-day. After the conversation, two men came in to register. Thomas started to register them, when Cowan went over to him and either did it himself or showed Thomas how. Cowan told Thomas that he would not need him the balance of the day, and Thomas and myself went off together. I had a conversation subsequently with Thomas. He said: 'There is some talk of throwing out

Cape Fear township; so you had better come up and fix up those papers. I told him that I did not intend to have anything more to do with it. It is not true that Thomas told me Cowan sent for me to fix up the papers. He told me of Cowan's sickness, and I told him that I would go and see him in a few days. The general reputation in the township was that Cowan was registrar, and I never heard of anything to the contrary until election day. Was not present at the opening of the polls on election day. Wilson was the only duly appointed poll-holder that held the election; the remainder being Thomas and his appointees. I registered before both Cowan and Thomas. I think Cowan administered the oath while Thomas did the writing. I stayed at the polls about three hours. I reckon Mr. Blossom was there when I left and looked after the counting. I had no understanding with him. I do not know whether Mr. Blossom was there all day.' Samuel Blossom was introduced and testified as follows: "I live in Cape Fear township. I heard the testimony of Jno. D. Bellamy, Jr., and remember the conversation he narrated as occuring between himself and Thomas at Cowan's house. Mr. Bellamy stated it exactly as it was. He asked Thomas what he was doing there; Thomas replied: 'Assisting Mr. Cowan.' On being informed by Mr. Bellamy that he had no right to register anyone he replied that such was his opinion, and requested Mr. Bellamy to ask Cowan to resign and have him appointed. Mr. Bellamy promised to do so, and they then looked over the registration books. We then went into Cowan's room, and after inquiring after his health Mr. Bellamy spoke of the illegality in allowing Thomas to register. Cowan replied that he could not help it; Thomas was the best man he could get, and he had to have help as he was sick and unable to give his entire attention to the matter. On being informed by

Mr. Bellamy of Thomas' request, Cowan replied: 'John, you must think I am a fool. Why if I should do anything like that the people of the township would kick me out of the county. On informing Thomas of Cowan's refusal to resign, he said that he was going to see Mr. Cowan about it, and that thing wouldn't do. Thomas told me before that day, that he was Cowan's clerk. I was present in Mr. Cowan's room on revision day, when Thomas came in with a book in his hand from the place where the revision had taken place. Cowan told Thomas to put the book on the bureau. Thomas said 'I want to take this book with me. There are some things I want to look over and get straight. I will bring it back on Monday.' I was at the polls election day, but did not hear Cowan demand the books. Thomas was not sworn; but he swore the other poll-holders. I asked Cowan

It is not true that Thomas did not go to Cowan's house before he went to revise the books. I saw him at Cowan's and asked him where Cowan was. He told me that he was sick and for me to go on to Castle Hayne and he would bring the books up there, Thomas did not have the books when I was talking with him. I was at the pollingplace on election day. The regular appointed poll-holders did not hold the election. Cowan demanded the books, but Thomas refused to deliver them. I refused to serve as poll-holder because Thomas was acting as registrar and I had no appointment from him. Thomas

J. J. Jackson testified: "I met Thomas on the Friday before election. He was drinking, I have seen him drunk on several occasions. He told me that he expected to have some trouble on election day, but that he had the books and would die before he would give them up. I refused to serve as poll-holder on election day, because I did not recognize Thomas as registrar. Heard Cowan's demand for the books, and Thomas' refusal. Cowan's character is good. B. A. Carter's character is bad.

was not sworn as registrar on revision

James Baker swore that he was at the polls on election day. "Thomas and Grady came into the store where I was. TEN SHARES STOCK IN THE WILMING! I heard Thomas say, 'If Cowan wants to | ton Investment Company. Apply to shoot I can shoot as good as he can.' Grady told him to hush up and hold on to the books."

William Cromwell stated that he was a magistrate in Cape Fear township. "Thomas never came to my house on the 1st of October, but he came on the 13th Thomas did not show me any entry in any minute book nor was anything said about it. Thomas swore me in Wilmington and put my name on the registration book at Castle Hayne. I went to Castle Hayne to see if Thomas had registered me. He seemed annoyed at my coming, and told me that he had told Cowan about it, and that he had told him to register me. Cowan was reported to be the Registrar in Cape Fear township. His character is good;

never heard it questioned." M. G. Chadwick testified as to Cowan's demand of Thomas and his refusal Also, that the counting of ballots began before the polls were closed. He further swore to the good character of Mr.

Messrs. P. B. Manning and Allan B. Brown testified as to the proceedings of the Canvassing Board. Mr. Brown testified: "Thomas was not sworn as a member of the Canvassing Board. After the organization of the Board the vote of Federal Point township was canvassed. Then Cape Fear was called up. Cowan offered a report which was read and unanimously adopted. Then Thomas arose and gesticulating excitedly, called 'Mr. Chairman.' Judge Russell took a paper from Thomas' hand and said 'you refuse to receive the paper then?' The chairman made no reply as there was a great deal of confusion caused by insulting and threatening language that Thomas had used to J. M. McGowan, one of the Board, and which drowned the voice of the speaker. There was never any designation of any paper as a return from Cape Fear township." The defence closed here. The plaintiff in rebuttal introduced J. H. Dorset and C. P. Lockey. Their testimony shed no light upon the controversy.

His Honor, Judge McIver, announced that as the respective counsel had been unable to agree upon issues in accordance with the law, he would settle the issues himself and submitted one issue: "Was the plaintiff's relator duly elected to the office of Superior Court Clerk?" Judge Russell contended for additional issues, but His Honor decided to submit the one given above. His Honor stated that his present opinion was against the plea of res adjudicata and that he wished that disposed of at this stage. Mr. Rountree addressed the Court in a strong, legal argumant in support of the plea, citing many authorities in support, and recalling as evidence of the intention of the Legislature to make the adjudication of the Canvassing Board conclusive and final, the various acts relating to their powers successively passed after the Supreme Court had decided against the final jurisdiction of the Board because of the non-conferring of
