We are indebted to the Daily News of Chicago, for its almanac for 1891, a book of 376 pages, filled with valuable statistical and political information. As a book of ready reference it will be found very valuable.

Kentucky is a very peculiar State. It has not only four hundred square miles of water, a fact which may be doubted by some people, but five State officials who have resigned their offices within a few years.

Considering the small number of births in Massachusetts the infant industry seems to be on the wane there. Senator Hoar and Mr. Mc-Kinley should get together and see if something couldn't be done to stimulate it.

The Lawrence, Kansas, Journal says Senator-elect Peffer is not a "chump." Although "he is not a strong man in any sense of the word, he is a pure man and an honest one." Well, this is a good exchange for Ingalls, and then he don't part his hair in the middle.

Annual Report of Adjutant General Glenn-The Permanent Encampment,

The annual report of Adjutant General Glenn, with accompanying documents, comprising a book of 169 pages, has been issued. Besides reports of various officers it gives the official register of the N. C. State Guard for 1890, and much other information of great value.

Under the head of plans for 1891 it is stated that during the present twelve month, all the guard will be provided with blankets, while leggings and white or summer -helmets will also be issued to the entire force, and cleaning materials and tools for re-loading ammunition will also be issued to each com-

In relation to the permanent encampnext week. ment, Gen. F. A. Olds says: "The citizens of Wilmington having presented the encampment grounds to the State Guard through the Governor, and placed in bank at Wilmington $2,500 as a fund for the improvement of the property upon the Quartermaster General and Chief of ordinance devolved the duty of planning and carrying out these improvements. The rifle-range was built for three targets, and later was arranged for four. The bullet-stop, or embankment in rear of the targets, is ninety feet in length and twelve feet in height, is built of sand and is turfed. The range is up to 600 yards, and is the best in the South. The Sound face of the grounds was cleared of undergrowth the main parade also cleared, and a contract made for the grading. The contractor, Mr. A. P. Holland, of Goldsboro, did the work admirably and the once uneven ground is now nearly level the gentle roll not interfering with the equirements for the proper manouvring of troops. The contract price of the of work. He will remain in town for a grading was five hundred dollars. A contract was made with Parsley & Wfggins, of Wilmington, for the construction of four pavilions, each 50x100 feet in size. These will be used as mess halls and as places of assembly, and also for shelter, each accommodating a regiment. Contracts are also made for the planting or setting of grass on the forty acres of parade ground, and for a wire fence around all of Wrightsville inlet, and over thirty feet above high-water mark. The propriety and need of a special appropriation for the further improvement, as well as the preservation, of this valuable property is too plain to need more than a passing mention. The State should meet the public-spirited people of Wilmington half way in this matter. The camp is very near the railway station at Wrightsville, but it is promised that trains shall run to the grounds. The roadway for vehicles, now partially shelled, along the camp front, will be completed, A windmill and tank will also be put up in order to secure a full supply of water. The expense of the improvements, as compared with their character, will compare with those at any camp in the country.

Maude Granger, Friday Night, in "Inherited."

The new and powerful play, "Innerited," in which Maude Granger will be seen here is the combined effort of Richard Davey and Mrs. Lucy Hooper. Mr. Davey is a well known English playwright and critic. Mrs. Hooper is a Philadelphia woman, and no less a personage than the brilliant American newspaper correspondent at Paris. She is the wife of General Robert Hooper, for sixteen years the United States consul general at Paris. Mrs. Hooper is and pastors and private members of one of the foremost of brilliant Americhurches will come to study the relation | can women who have become famous, through her clever efforts with her pen. For years she has been recognized as the dean of American foreign correspondents. Like other people noted in the field of newspaper work she has a penchant for play writing. Her most pretentious effort is "Inherited," which she wrote in collaboration with Mr. Davey. Miss Granger regards the play as a singularly intense and dramatic one, and it has so been rated by M. Francesque Sarcey, of the Paris Temps, and other distinguished dramatic critics. Miss Granger's appearance in the play at the Opera House, Friday evening next is anticipated with pleasure. Seats for the occasion will be for sale at Yates' to-morrow morning.

LIBRARY ASSOCIATION. The Stereoptican Exhibition a Great

The aediances at the Library rooms are steadily growing in number. The pictures of London, last night, were instructive as well as interesting. They are of a nature to leave permanent, exact and correct impressions on the mind of the listener; something to think of and look back to with pleasure afterwards. The ideas of London, conveyed by the pictures and descriptions of last night, surpassed anything that could be gotten from mere books, and approached nearly to those of actual travel. One of the notable features of these lectures is that the taste and appetite for them grows upon the listener with each new lecture. The next lecture of the series will be "Up The Rhine," some night

Eli Perkins To-Night.

Those who fail to hear Eli Perkins to-night will doubtless regret their loss when it is too late. The lecturer has the happy faculty of presenting truths in such a way as not only to instruct but to be most emphatically enforced, by being supremely ludicrous. He is inimitable, and any effort to describe his manner or style can but minify his powers. He must be heard and seen to be appreciated. Every one who can enjoy a good laugh should improve the opportunity, and those who cannot enjoy one should go and learn how.
