idly losing its interest and is no of the biggest lobbies gathered in longer regarded with the same concern that it once was for the reason that it is becoming more apparent every year that it is settling itself, slowly but surely and effectually. There is not a Southern State to-day seats on the Republican side of the where the negro is the same powerful factor in the destiny of the State that he was ten years ago, and consequently there is no State where his presence is viewed with apprehension. Emigration and indifference to the right of suffrage are doing for the people of the South what the more thoughtful feared a few years ago the y would be unable to do for tended to do it. This being so themselves.

Ever since the war the negroes of the more northern Southern States have been moving further South in greater or less numbers every year. The migratory inclination has extended reaching into South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Florida and even into Mississippi, the land of promise to so many negroes of the Southern border States.

The negroes are of a migratory disposition; they are never better satisfied than, when they are on the move, although they may know little or nothing of the objective point which they have in view, and but few could give a good reason why they move. In eight cases out of ten they do it on impulse and not on judgment, which figures very little in the premises.

Mr. McKinley solemnly declared in the House Wednesday that he did not believe that the popular verdict of last November, by which so many Republican statesmen were retired to private life, was based on the work of this Congress. It may be some comfort for Mr. McKinley to believe this, if he really does, but it is difficult to see how he can believe it when the main issue before the people was the tariff bill, for which he stood sponsor. "Oh, no; but you ought to hear him imitate a locomotive. "Dear me! How does he do it ?"

"He puffs out his little cheeks and says: 'Oo! Oo! " "Well, now, that is surprising what killed him when he was unsuspiciously gathering roots for supper. I only ate a little of him, for I was arrested two days after killing him. this was the last I killed.'

The police found a part of Basilio salted down and the cannibal eating the calves of the victim's legs with a good appetite.

"Does human flesh have an agreeable taste?

"No, it is rather sweetish. The best things I found in those I killed were the brains, tongue and marrow: suffered slightly from diarrhœa while I was eating people's flesh."

"How did you prepare the flesh for eating?" "We ate it roasted or boiled with good deal of pep: er." "Did not the remains of your victims inspire you with fear?'

"When I looked at them 1 felt a slight tremor"

By all means let us have the geological survey. The United States Government will toot half the bill, and it will be thoroughly done .- Raleigh News-Observer.

The Democratic party has a proud record, and its essential principles are easy of enunciation. Let us remember that the more planks there are in a platform the fewer people can stand on it, the more articles there are in a creed the fewer people will subscribe to it .- Newbern Journal.

There are two serious sides to the free coinage question, and the Southern people who are poor and needy, should mind what sort of a hand they deal. The west has abandoned the eastern idea of protection after having drained the south of millions. The south has been a kicker all the time, and now the west seizes

The English traveller stood on the slippery dock at New York, ready to board the steamer for home. His American friend shook him warmly by the hand and bade him farewell, says the Chicago Tribune.

"Be careful in going up the gangway," said the latter. "It is icy. For that matter, however," he added, "it will be 'igh sea all around you for The Englishman with a sad,
