WILMINGTON, N. C.

SUNDAY MORNING, March 8, 1891.

A DEFUNCT PARTY.

Unless the signs of the times are all at fault the 51st Congress, which expired last Wednesday, is the last Congress in which the Republican party will have a majority. The wild and reckless legislation which it did can be accounted for only on the ground that the leaders in that Congress believed this, and had come to the conclusion that the Republican party, as a national party was dead, unless it could be saved by some desperate measures, which would never have been attempted if they had not been inspired by the direst necessity.

For years the people have been growing tired of Republican rule, but by keeping up the sectional cry the leaders have managed to hold on to power. But the sectional cry lost its force and with it the sectional leaders lost their grip.

The McKinley bill was the pound too much that broke the camel's back. That bill was conceived, shaped and passed in such utter disregard of popular opinion, or of popular protest that the people saw they had nothing to expect from that party and then came the outburst of indignation and the unprecedented revolution of last November which swept so many Republican candidates from the field and left their party a wreck. The people rebuked not only the legislation itself but the arbitrary and disr eputable methods by which it was accomplished, methods as offensive to them as they were oppressive to the minority in Congress who were denied, in utter contempt of the fundamental principles on which representative government is based, the right of free speech and fair-debate, which was all they asked and what they had the right to demand.

When the gambler stakes his pile and loses he becomes desperate, and so these political gamblers became desperate.

back on the Force bill as the last resort and played that with all the skill and boldness of which they were possessed. Had they won in that to receive any messages from they might have saved their political him and denies his representatives fortunes, and with their partisan counting boards, partisan tools tools and judges, backed when needed by bayonets they might the State does not acknowledge as have recovered the power which they lost last November. No wonder they felt the ground give way under them when they were defeated in this, and no wonder that the dumbfounded Hoar of Massachusetts exclaimed "this means the death of the Republican party." It was to save the he is the Governor, so declared in party which they saw was in its death struggles that they sprang this infamous measure and pushed it with such devilish tenacity, even going to the extent of attempting to revolutionize the modes of procedure which had been recognized ever since the first Congress, as the conspirators in the House revolutionized the modes of procedure there, and substituted in their stead an arbitrary despotism. There were men in the party who saw that they were by their reckless, defiant and desperate measures hastening and making more complete the ruin which they were scheming and trying to avert, and they counselled and wared against them

The shrewdest and most far-seeing of these was James G. Blaine, who has been trying to undo some of the mischief which they did by advocating a reciprocity scheme with the Republics south of us, on the prestige of which he will endeavor to be elected President and lead the party out of the meshes in which it has wound itself But it will not take. A dozen James G. Blaines, and all the reciprocities that could be catalogued in an age cannot save the Republican party if the Democrats do hot commit some great blunder which will make victory possible for the Republicans. This the Republican leaders hope for and it is their only hope. If they can get the Democrats to contending over some new issue and thus beget dissensions the Republican party may survive another election and live awhile longer, otherwise it is as a national party as dead as Hector, aud they know it.

MINOR MENTION.

The Western papers have had a good deal to say about Jerry Simpson, the "sockless statesman," as they called him, who was elected to Congress in Kansas last fall. But he is neither sockless nor brainless. He has opinions and his liberality is broad enough to take in the country. As an illustration of his mode of thought and style of speech we quote the following extract from a speech belivered by him at a meeting of the Citizens' Alliance at Washington a few days ago:

"The Republicans,"he said, "had lived on sectional hate for a long time; the party was no longer the party of grand ideas. At the last election the Republicans had tried to save themselves in Kansas by bringing up dead issues. They had wrung the bloody shirt in the Kansas campaign until there was not another drop in it. They had appealed to the old soldiers to stand by the old party, but conditions had changed since the Alliance told the Kansas soldier that he would get to be as much a slave as the blacks he had fought to save if he did not guard his independence. The black slavery was but a primitive slavery; the very essence of slavery was that of toil without reward, when the results of their labor was taken from them without any

"We saw that this sectional strife was kept alive for political purposes. We came to see that the question of loyalty or disloyalty was a mere matter of where one was born. If I had been born in the South, I would probably have been a rebel and have felt it my patriotic duty to fight for the cause of the Contederacy. So it might have been with any of us. We determined to fill up the bloody chasm, and we started by throwing Ingalls into it. South Carolina followed with Wade Hampton, and we will fill the chasm if we have to throw in all the old leaders who strive to keep sectional

Mr. Simpsom is not altogether familiar with the record of Senator Hampton, nor with the reasons which caused his defeat for re-el-ction. There was no Senator in Congress who was less influenced by sectionalism; and he was defeated simply because he refused to comply with certain demands that the Alliance made upon him.

Gov. Hill, of New York, has brought down upon himself the sharp criticism of some of the New York papers which are opposed to him on account of his refusal to surrender on the requisition of the hold-over Governor of Connecticut an escaped horse thief. Gov. Hill refused to recognize the requisition on the ground that Bulekley, the hold-over Governor, was not the legal Governor of that State. He might have surrendered the horse thief if he had seen fit, but we don't see how with due respect to the office which he holds, he could have done otherwise Beaten at their own game they fell than he did. Mr. Bulekley is not the legally recognized Governor of Connecticut; one branch of the Legislature has refused the privileges of the floor. If Gov. Hill had recognized a requisition from a citizen of Connecticut whom Governor, might he not with equal justice and propriety recognize a requisition made upon him for fugitives from justice by any other private citizen of that State? Before he can officially recognize the Governor of another State he must know that Coloredo, whose manly independence did much to help the Democrats to choke off the gag rule and Force bill, seems to have been making a study of the Senate with the following result: "I have seen a good many aggregations and types of hnman nature, but this is the most interesting body of men I ever came in contact with. -Now, take those old fellows on the other side of the chamber, the Democrats from the South. They are old fogies, every one of them, sectional as hades, mean as the devil about appropriations and all that sort of thing, and yet so infernally honest and rotten poor that it makes one proud to take them by the hand. Now, on the other side of the chamber-but I must not forget the requirements of senatorial cour-

The efforts of the Republicans to hold possession of the Governorship of Connecticut have got that State into a nice muddle. The House is Republican, the Senate is Democratic. The House recognizes Morgan G. Bulkeley, the hold-over, as Governor, the Senate does not, refuses to receive any communicacions from him, and a resolution was introduced Wednesday instructing the doorkeeper to refuse admission to Austin Brainard "who," the resolution declares, "has repeatedly disturbed the proceedings of the Senate by appearing with communications from Morgan G. Bulkeley, who assumes to be Governor of Connecticut, and by trying to force a recognition of his claims by the Senate.' Final action on this resolution was postponed to await the return of some of the absent Senators. In refusing to receive a requisition from the hold-over, Hill is doing precisely what the Senate of Connecticut is doing, and they who denounce Hill for it should, to be consistent, also denounce the Senate.

STATE TOPICS.

That bill which was introduced in both Houses of State Legislature prohibiting any one under severe penalties from constructing a line of railway from the Virginia line to connect with the Wilmington and Weldon Railroad was a sort of a bull-dozer which didn't reflect much credit on the statesman who got it up. It was of course aimed at the W. & W. road and a plain declaration that it would be cut off from northern connection unless it came to time on the tax question. It was thought at the time this bill was introduced that a renewal of charter would be refused to the Petersburg and Weldon road, which, however, was granted for two years. This bulldozing bill, strange to say, passed the House, but was hung up in the Senate, which showed better judgment and more common sense than to pass it. It's never good to legislate in a spirit of spite.

POLITICAL POINTS.

- Now that Congress has adjourned President Harrison will be left to the tender mercies and magnetic machinations of Blaine Both of these gentlemen will bear watching, for their four glittering eyes are fixed on the year of our Lord 1892.-N. Y. Herald, Ind.

- Enemies appear to be falling ipon the wily and guileful Gov. Hill at every turn in the road. With Jones (who pays the freight) and Weed hot on his trail and no reliable truce established with Cleveland, tribulations begin to congregate and hum around his bald head .- Savannah News, Dem.

- Gov. Hill's views on the silver question are not explicit enough to satisly the free coinage men of the West, and they are demanding to know whether he is for or against the free coinage of the white metal. If the presidential bee is buzzing in Hill's bonnet he will have to write a letter, or see his chances for the nomination go glimmering in the direction of some other man .- New Orleans States, Dem.

A Well M rited Word. The value of baking powder consists in the fact that the proportion of alkali and acid is exact, and there is no danger of having yellow biscuits from an excess of soda, or heavy ones from an excess of acid. It is probable that many of the powders are adulterated, some with inurious substances, and others with harmless additions to increase the bulk and consequently the profits. In our own family we have excellent results from the use of the Royal Baking Powder. We have no reason to think that it contains any harmless ingredient. Those who object to the use of baking powder because of adulteration must needs be very sure of the purity of the soda and cream of tartar they use in place of the powder.-N. Y. Christian

-There is only one thing worth our living or worth our dying. It is the opportunity to render service to others. He who seeks this opportunity, who in the seeking of it, flings aside as unworthy of his consideration all offices, emoluments and honors, wins the real, true honor, and in the final and eternal adjustment, when the things that are now darkened become illuminated, the words now whispered in the ear are spoken on the house-top, the first becomes last and the last becomes first, these oftentimes unknown and unhonored servitors of their tellow men will be found to have won the only real honor, because they won the thorn-crown of self-sacrifice.-Lyman Abbott, D. CURRENT COMMENT.

- The animosities of the war are not entirely forgotten, even in the South. Georgia announces that she will commence her annual-onslaught upon the North this year with a larger watermelon crop than ever before in her history.—Chicago Mail, Dem.

— The theory of the reciprocity | York last August, and completed his clause in the McKinley law seems to studies at St. John's College, Fordham. be that the doctrine of protection is perfectly just when applied by the United States against other countries, but unreasonable and very much to be resented when applied by other countries to the United States .- N. Y. World, Dem.

— There is one difference between the Fiftieth Congress, in which the Democrats had control of appropriations, and the Fifty-first Congress, in which the Republicans had control, which the dullest man can comprehend. The Fifty ffrst Congress managed to spend $200, 000,000 more of the people's money than its predecessor. This is a dif ference worth thinking about-over half a million dollars a day !- Phil. OUR STATE CONTEMPORARIES

The Alliance of the South is Democratic and will remain so, and the Alliance of North Carolina is not to be caoled, or deceived, or bought into betraying either the nation or the State into the hands of the Republicans .- Raleigh

The labors of the Legislature are nearly at an end. They have enacted some good laws; if they go to their homes without making some mistakes, the State will be fortunate. To us, the failure to ac ept the compromise proposition from the W. & W. R. R. was a blunder, but to criticise will avail nothing .- Raleigh Visitor.

We have examined the platforms of the Democratic party in twenty-three States on the silver question, and find that in twelve States there is a demand only for free coinage of silver. while in eleven the demand is for unlimited and unrestricted free coinage. The Democratic sentiment in all these States is unmistakably in favor of free coinage.-Raleigh Intelligencer.

We are real glad that old man Blair, having been defeated for re-election to the Senate, has gotten another job. He is an awful crank, and all that, but he means well and there is no downright meanness in him.-Statesville Land-phosphites of Lime and Soda is almost as palatable as milk. Children enjoy it rather than PRODUCER It is indeed, and the little lads and lassles who take cold easily, may be fortified against a cough that might prove serious, by taking Scott's Emulsion after their meals during the winter season. Beware of substitutions and imitations.

from which the excess of oil has been removed.

Is Absolutely Pure and it is Soluble.

No Chemicals are used in its preparation. It has more than three times the strength of Cocoa mixed with Starch, Arrowroot or Sugar, and is therefore far more economical, costing less than one cent a cup. It is delicious, nourishing, strengthening, EASILY DIGESTED, and admirably adapted for invalids as well as for persons in health. Sold by Crocers everywhere. W. BAKER & CO., DORCHESTER, MASS.
