"You have full control over your appetite and can let the drinking alone. Had you not pledged me the sincerity of your honor early last March that you would drink no more during the war, and kept that pledge during your recent campaign, you would not this day have stood first in the world's history as a successful militiary leader. "Your only salvation depends upon your strict adherence to the pledge. You cannot succeed in any other way. As I have before stated, I may be wrong in my suspicions, but if one sees that which leads him to suppose a sentinel is falling asleep at his post, it is his duty to arouse him, and in one sees that which leads him to fear the General commanding a great army is being reduced to that step which he knows will bring disgrace upon that General and defeat to his command, if he fails to sound the proper note of warning, the wives and children of those brave men whose lives he permits to remain thus in peril will accuse him, while he lives. and stand swift witnesses of wrath against him in the day when all shall be tried. "If my suspicions are unfounded let my friendship for you and my zeal for my country be my excuse for this letter; and if they are correctly founded, and you determine not to heed the admonition and prayers of this hasty note by ceasing to touch a single drop of any kind of liquor, no matter by whom asked or under what circumstances, let my immediate relief from duty in this department be the result. CONFLICTING ELEMENTS.

It is the expectation of those who are leading in the third party movement to form a combination of farmers with the followers of other industrial callings; but how long, if successful, would such an organization last? It would carry right in its own body the elements of destruction.

The ostensible inspiration to this movement is to benefit the farmer, who has been made the victim of discriminating legislation and of grasping combinations of monopolists. All its activities are directed towards accomplishing something to better the condition of the farmer | Humbert, who was "massacred" in and relieve him from the burdens that he finds so heavy. While there is a proposed plan of relief for the farmer there is no plan of relief for the workers in other callings, and some of the plans of relief for the farmer if carried out would add still more to the hardships of the men who earn their living by labor in other callings, and even to some of the farmers themselves.

Reference to some of the propositions suggested in the scheme of relief for the farmers will show how this is. They complain that transportation of farm products on the railroads is too high, and they therefore demand that the Government become the owner of the railroads and carry freight at the actual cost of transportation. The object of this is to cheapen transportation and carry the farmer's products, his meat, wheat, corn, oats, etc., for as near nothing as possible. What would the result be?

The products of the farm go East and South; never go North, save cotton and the early fruits and vegetables. The Western farmers would be enabled to fill the markets of the East and South with his meat, wheat, corn, etc., and absolutely ruin those industries in both of these sections Cheap transportation, or ownership of the railroads by the Governwould thus far be a ment, good thing for the Western farmer but a bad thing for the Eastern and Southern farmer. Even now with the high freights the Western farmer complains of he has been all the ages combined; Dr. Graham tion that is due her." In some respects this is a somewhat belated and he had heard that ridiculous fake about the Mafia avengers who were drilling somewhere in Western Vir ginia preparatory to marching upon and capturing Pittsburg and then waitzing down South and knocking the stuffing out of New Orleans, and therefore urged calmness. But some time before Mr. Rudini's dispatch arrived the stock of Mafia indignation on tap had quite exhausted itself so that heads that it would take a twothere wasn't enough on hand for use over that other subject of King it out.

Premier is rather rough on Baron Fava, when he expresses confidence that "in consequence of the Baron's departure" this country will give Italy all the satisfaction that is due to her. It may be inferred from this that Baron Fava has been the obstacle to a satisfactory adjustment of this affair, when the poor man exerted himself so hard and got so badly broke up by Secretary Blaine's refusal to tear his shirt and get into a perspiration that he got real sick over it, and had to postpone his departure. In the meantime it is well that Mr. Rudini has become calm, and that he is confident that this Government "will give Italy the satisfaction that is due her." He may rest assured of this. She will get all that is "due to her"-nothing more. She can't expect much for an escaped murderer and an outlawed brigand.

The Congress of Inventors, which met in Washington Wednesday to celebrate the beginning of the scond century of the American patent system, is one of the most notable bodies of men ever assembled in that city-notable not for the fuss or parade they have made, but for the work they have done and the brains they carry around with them. It is not often that one can look upon an assemblage containing such men as Thomas Edison, the mighty wizard, who has done more to harness and utilize electricity than all the men of against even license, but when it able to sell his meat, wheat, corn, Bell, who has taught the wire does so formulate itself it is well for

States "will give Italy the satisfac- to the acre. But this is where the land has been cultivated right, and where the value of manure is fully somewhat peculiar dispatch. Maybe understood. Notwithstanding the fact that that section is now-a reasonably fair wheat growing one, and might by thorough culture be made one of the best in the world, the Salem mills have never been able, at least in recent years, to command enough home grown wheat or corn to keep them running and supply the local demand for flour and meal. The farmers of that section have got tobacco so firmly rooted in their pound charge of dynamite to tear

CURRENT COMMENT.

----- Some of the most unpleasant scandals of Grant's Administration were along the line of the road which Gen. Harrison has upon more than one occasion manifested -a disposition to travel. We mean the broad, easy road that leads to confirmed and magnificent deadheadism.-N. Y. Sun, Dem.

---- Immigration laws that protect the Atlantic seaboard against pauper immigration while opening a convenient side-door to as much of it as may chance to trickle across the Canadian border simply build up Canadian transportation lines and make our legislation a farce. Inspection to be of value must be of an allaround sort .- Phil. Record, Dem.

- But above all experts, with whom the naval question is a serious business matter, confirm the opinion which we have often expressed in these columns, that the sub-marine torpedo has now reached a stage of perfection when a slight improvement will render it so absolute a protection for seaport towns that the ironclad as an invader will be heard of no longer in wars and rumors of war.-N. Y. Commercial Advertiser, Ind.

— The United States flag covers United States policy No other flag and no other policy can co-exist within the jurisdiction of the United States. The foreign flags and foreign policies as to government that have been flouted before Americans lately have no place in our system. This is a free country, but it is a country and not a chaos. The sooner the fact is recognized by certain people residing in the republic the better for all concerned. American sentiment is broad, just and tolerant; it is slow to formulate itself

"This is an exact copy of a letter given to the person to whom it is addressed, at its date, about four miles from our headquarters in the rear of Vicksburg. Its admonitions were heeded, and all went well."

POLITICAL POINTS.

- Mr. Harrison's administration is the most unpopular since poor Mr. Hayes', but the country would be none the less solid behind it in a war against foreign aggression. That is the only conceivable subject upon which it could ever obtain a majority .- N. Y. World, Dem.

- Senator Edmunds is true blue, a Bourbon of the deepest and most inəradicable dye. None of your new issues for him. They amount to nothing. He is for the Republican party fighting the campaign of 1892 "on the same ground
