OUTLINES.

The new United States Treasurer Nebecker, has filed his bond. ---Three negro murderers were hanged in different places in South Carolina yesterday. __The street car strike situation at Detroit, Mich., is unchanged. -A respectable widow woman and her two daughters living near Cokeville, Tenn., were brutally beaten and outraged by two masked men. -A unknown woman was murdered by a man in a lodging house in New York city. -New York markets: Money easy, closing offered at 8 per cent.; cotton quiet and steady; middling 8% cents; low middling 85 cents; good ordinary 7 9-16 cents; Southern flour quiet; wheat lower; No. 2 red $1 23% in store; corn firmer and less active; No. 2, 83@84 cents at elevator; rosin quiet and steady; strained, common ,to good, $1 65@1 70; spirits turpentine quiet and steady at 40@401/2 cents.

Some of the people of Mr. Blaine's town accuse him of being on too intimate terms with the brewers. They should restrain themselves. He is only brewing some trouble for the Harrison fellows.

- That Boston scientist who says it requires a microscope to detect the difference between butter and oleomargarine doubtless knows a good deal about some things, but he hasn't got a nose for butter.

In peace Russia has been 'preparing for war. She has now a number of railroads constructed by which she can mass troops at certain points in thirty days where before it would have taken six months to do it.

The Indians out on the frontier have discovered a new cure for the grip. They put the Indian attacked by it into a sweat box and then souse him into cold water. In most cases it proves an effective and speedy cure for the grip, but when it does it kills the Indian.

Washington, D. C., has a colored citizen who believes in keeping the police busy, and has been arrested thirty-three times in the past five months. The judge before whom he was arraigned last time to save time and trouble and give the police a rest sent him up for 364 days.

A report comes from Rome that Baron Fava is accused of mistranslating Italy's demands upon this Government, and with exaggerating the tone of Premier Rudini's protest. This looks as if Rudini was going to make a scape goat out of Baron Fava to get out of his awkward predicament without crawfishing.

The City of Mexico may be a pleasant place to live in but it is not a good town to die in, if a fellow expects to come home to take part in the funeral procession. A Leavenworth, Kansas, man died there a short while ago and it cost $1,081 to get his corpse home. The Government got $150 export duty and the sympathetic undertakers raked in Tall houses in cities where real estate is high-priced are becoming the order of the day. T. A. Havermeyer will soon begin the erection in New York, on Church street, of a fifteen-story building, 200 feet front, 60 feet deep, to cost $1,000,-000. The building which now stands on the spot is to be torn down. A beer saloon man, who had a lease of the lower floor, for which he paid $3,000 a year, and had still six years o run, received a bonus of $50,000 to relinquish his lease.

Pennsylvania has a law which imposes a fine of 63 cents per cuss on the man who too vehemently and too publicly indulges in the luxury of cuss words. Recently an exmayor of a Pennsylvania town who couldn't find dictionary talk enough to emphasize his remarks went for his stock of expletives whereupon a minion of the law went for him and a J. P. mulcted him $22 fine and costs, at the rate of a dollar a word for the outlawed words used which they scored up against him. That ex-mayor will probably henceforth make his extemporized orations in

FORT FISHER. A New Summer Resort-Project for a Railroad to Connect the Place with

Carolina Beach. Mr. L. D. Cherry, who has been making surveys along the coast from this city to Fort Fisher, for the "Fort Fisher Land and Improvement Company," exhibited at the STAR office yesterday a large map of the coast line from Carolina Beach to Fort Fisher, over which he has made surveys for a line of railroad between the two places named-a distance of four and a half miles-as straight as an arrow, and as level as a floor. He says the company has bought the right of way for the road between Carolina Beach and Fort Fisher, and has besides purchased a great deal of land along the line of this contemplated road and at Fort Fisher. The company propose to build a hotel at Fort Fisher, and to sell lots for residences for summer visitors. It is a good scheme, and will no doubt prove a successful venture to the projectors. There is no stretch of coast along the seaboard equal to that extending from Carolina Beach to Fort Fisher; that furnishes such excellent and safe surf-bathing, a firm hard beach for driving, fine fishing, and is, withal, free from those fierce gales and devastating tides that sweep the coast at other points.

Enforcing Quarantine Regulations a Southport. The Southport Leader reports a case of considerable importance tried before Justice Galloway at Southport, it being a case of violating the quarantine regulations at this port. The Leader says The schooner Florence, in tow of the tug E. Heipenhausen, from off Cuba. bound North, came into this harbor Thursday p. m., anchoring in the lower harbor instead of at the quarantine grounds. As an accommodation, the tug was inspected first Friday morning in order to get a supply of fresh water and coal so as to be able to proceed northward with her tow. On the first landing of the Heipenhausen, Capt. Gold of the schooner came ashore. Dr. Curtis, Quarantine Physician of the port, learning of this, notified the captain that he must remain on board his vessel until released, to which the captain replied in an insolent manner, coming ashore the second time, and was immediately arrested on a warrant issued by Dr. Curtis for violating quarantine regulations. At the trial Dr. Curtis stated the regulations familiar to all, that any vessel South of the Cape Fear must submit to inspection, and that no one was allowed to come ashore until inspection had been made. The law had been violated by Capt. Gold. In defence Capt. Gold claimed that he was on a vessel in distress bound from one American port to another, having a clean bill of health from Key West Quarantine Station, also that he was aboard the tug as much as the schooner, and wished to gain time by staying on the tug while in the harbor. and that he was not informed as to the regulations. Dr. Curtis then said that clearing the tug only permitted actual members of the tug to come on shore, and as a vessel captain, the law should have been known to Captain Gold, but that he would not press the case if Captain Gold went aboard of his vessel
