A drawback is allowed on the syrup or sugar used in manufactured tobacco when the latter is exported. The agents of the State of North Carolina examining into the direct tax, find a discrepancy of $30,000 in favor of the State. Peter Smith, a denizen of the town of Fisher, Arkansas, was effectually cured of a very foolish habit the other day. He had a fleet horse and was in the habit of getting on the track before the passenger train and running a race for half a mile with the engine, turning out at a crossing and then poking fun at the trainmen as the train passed. He succeeded so well with his horse that he concluded to try a mule. The mule wasn't quite as light-heeled as the horse, but got along pretty well till within a short distance of the usual turning out crossing, when the mule tumbled, but rolled off the track and escaped, while Peter was doubled up V shape under the wheels of the train and had his head and both legs cut off.

LOCAL DOTS.

Items of Interest Gathered Here and There and Briefly Noted.

The Clyde steamer Benefactor, from New York, arrived last evening. Strawberries selling at eight to ten cents per quart; dewberries twenty cents per quart. Plantagenet Commandery No. 1, Knights Templar, will hold its regular convocation this evening at 8 o'clock. "The STAR is a better paper than it ever was before," said a very intelligent Market-street merchant yesterday. "Newsboys who get orders Saturday for the Sunday STAR are allowed discount from the regular price. Call at the office before 10 p. m. Saturdays. Work on the new roof of the main building of the Industrial Manufacturing Company is in progress and will be completed during the present week. A colored man with a box of spoiled bacon hams, which he was selling at five cents apiece, was an object of great attraction to colored people on Water street yesterday. During the past thirty days Mr. Trabue Barksdale, general manager of the Industrial Manufacturing Company, has shipped nine car-loads of the products of the factory. Among these were two car-loads of barrels and boxes for bananas, which were ordered from Charleston, the manufacture of which is a new feature at the factory.

BRUNSWICK FERRY.

Improvements Made and Contemplated—A Naptha Launch for a Ferry Boat. Mr. Russell, the lessee of the Brunswick ferry, is making improvements across the river opposite Market dock, and in the course of a few weeks expects to replace the ferry-boat now in use with a naptha launch which will carry about twenty-five passengers and will also be used to tow the ferry-flat when occasion requires. It is not considered practicable to employ a steam ferry-boat, as but few, comparatively, of the country people coming to the city care to bring their vehicles across the river. The Brunswick Bridge and Ferry Company owns about two miles of causeway across Eagle Island, the bridge over Brunswick river, and has recently built a new bridge over Redmond creek.

Mr. H. I. McDuffie, formerly a member of the North Carolina "press gang," is in town.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS

Pertinent Paragraphs Pertaining Principally to People and Pointedly Printed. Mr. Geo. N. Harriss, of the A. C. L. Auditor's office, is on a business trip to Norfolk. Dr. W. H. J. Bellamy, heretofore reported quite sick, had sufficiently recovered to receive calls at his office yesterday. Rev. R. E. Peele, pastor of the Brooklyn Baptist Church, who has been very sick ever since last Sunday, was reported much better last night. Mr. Joe French, who commands the picket lines at Rocky Point and always keeps the field editor of the STAR posted on the partridge crop, is in town. Mr. Isaac Bear, of the firm of Morris Bear & Bros., left last evening for the North to purchase his Fall stock. His partner and brother, Mr. Sam Bear, Jr., who has been in Europe for the past twelve months, will meet him in New York. Rev. Dr. Patterson expresses the highest appreciation of the attentions shown him by his old friends and parishioners, and regrets that he is unable to return their visits. He will be glad to have them call at the residence of Mr. P. S. Bridgers, 808 South Third Street, whose guest he now is. Dr. E. Porter was in the city yesterday. Our strawberrry editor has to thank him for a kind invitation to his hospitable home at Rocky Point where, in addition to other inducements, he promises unlimited quantities of piney woods water and strawberry wine. We know how it is. We've "bin thar."

Mr. W. L. Smith, Cashier of the Bank of New Hanover, has returned from a visit to Baltimore where he left Mrs. Smith with her daughter, Mrs. Marburg. But he brought back the junior William, and the first question the little fellow asked when he reached here was this: "Is the Wilmington a nice boat?" The Fayetteville correspondent of the Scottish Chief made the following complimentary reference to Maj. Love a day or two before the delivery of his admirable address in Fayetteville: "The Memorial Association was fortunate indeed in securing the services of Maj. T. D. Love as orator on Memorial day. Those who are familiar with Maj. Love's inimitable style will know that they may expect historical accuracy and a happy faculty of expression; the contrasts of lights and shadow which hold the attention of an audience, joined to a genuine love of his subject and an admiration for the heroes whose day we celebrate."

The following were among the visitors to Wilmington yesterday: W. J. Wolf, Williamston; R. H. Pollard, Laurinburg; Z. H. Hales, Elizabethtown; J. S. Culpepper and wife, Norfolk; W. A. Lash, Walnut Cove; T. L. Vaughn, J. E. Gilmer, S. E. Allen, Winston; Miss Kate Council, Miss Mamie C. Vick, R. E. Vick, W. H. Wooten, B. C. Clark, Clarkton; D. L. Herring, Sampson; I. M. Bear, Jno. Robertson, W. R. Murray, I. J. Powers, J. F. Brinkley, T. H. Hales, Alex Campbell, Greensboro.

SEVERE STORM.

Wind, Hail and Rain in Duplin and Wayne—Crops Seriously Injured. Special reports to the STAR, giving accounts of a severe wind, rain and hail storm along the line of the Wilmington & Weldon Railroad yesterday evening, say that it extended from Duplin Roads to Dudley, a distance of about forty miles, going in a westwardly direction. The rainfall was very heavy and the storm was accompanied by hail and wind that came with great force, blowing down trees and fences and leveling at least twenty-five telegraph poles. At Mt. Olive, about seventy miles from Wilmington, the hail was especially severe, and it is thought that the truck farmers in that neighborhood sustained serious damage. If reports are correct Warsaw has our earnest sympathy, the young lady telegraph operator at that point stating that the hail was the most severe and largest she had ever seen—some of the hailstones being as large as eggs. Upon suggesting to her that she had reference to sparrow eggs in her comparison she most emphatically declared that it was not so, but that she meant goose eggs. At Magnolia there was considerable hail and wind and a heavy rainfall, which had not abated up to 10 p. m. At some of the stations panes of glass in windows were broken and some of the best crops, it is feared, were ruined. The storm extended in the direction of Charlotte, at which place a great fall of hail was reported last night. Telegraphic communication was interrupted to some extent, only one wire being in working order.

Mayor's Court. Jno. Boon, colored, disorderly, was fined $10 in the Mayor's Court yesterday. James Lee, colored, for attempting to rescue a prisoner from the police, was fined $30 and costs.

Weather Forecasts. The following are the weather forecasts for to-day: For Virginia, showers, stationary temperature except slightly cooler on Virginia coast. East winds. For North Carolina and South Carolina, showers, slightly cooler except stationary temperature in extreme North Carolina. Northeast winds.

SUDDEN DEATH.

Mr. Edward J. Moore Stricken Down by Heart Disease. The sudden death of Mr. Edward J. Moore, a well known citizen of Wilmington, which occurred last night about half-past nine o'clock, in the Odd Fellows' hall on North Third street, was a great shock to his family and friends. Mr. Moore was at the hall attending a meeting of his Lodge. He was seated in a chair, very composedly, when suddenly he threw his head back and gasped once or twice, as if for breath. Several of the members present went to his assistance and found him unconscious. He was placed on a lounge and Dr. Thomas F. Wood was hurriedly called, but in a few moments after the attack Mr. Moore expired. His death is supposed to have resulted from heart-disease, from which he had recently suffered. With gentle hands his body was removed to the home of his stricken family. Mr. Moore was a native of New Hanover county and was about 53 years of age; he spent most of his life in Wilmington. He graduated at Horner's School in 1858, and at the outbreak of the war volunteered as a member of Company I, Eighteenth N. C. Infantry, and was badly wounded at the battle of Fredericksburg. For years past he has been in the employ of Messrs. Holmes & Watters and was held in the highest esteem alike by his employers and the community. He leaves a wife and seven children who have the deepest sympathy of all who know them in their sad affliction.

A TERRIFIC EXPLOSION.

Caused by Ignition of Alcoholic Vapor in a Whiskey Barrel. About half-past three o'clock yesterday afternoon a terrific explosion occurred in the Acme saloon on the corner of Front and Dock streets. The report sounded like the discharge of a small cannon and the concussion was felt in several buildings on the block. A crowd quickly gathered around the saloon, and upon investigation it was found that the noise was caused by the explosion of a whiskey barrel, and that Mr. J. G. L. Gieschen, proprietor of the saloon, had been painfully injured. The accident was a singular one. The barrel, from which the liquor had been drawn off several days ago, was put outside the saloon on the sidewalk, where it had been exposed all the morning to the sun. In the afternoon Mr. Gieschen having occasion to use a rubber-tube with which liquor is drawn from the barrels in the place, found that a small strainer attached to one end of the tube was missing, and thinking it might have been left in the barrel outside rolled it in and knocked the bung out. He then lit a match and holding it close to the bung-hole, leaned over to see if he could find the strainer, when the alcoholic vapor in the barrel ignited and the explosion occurred, the flames flashing up through the bung-hole into Mr. Gieschen's face, burning him seriously. One end of the barrel was blown out and against a board partition with great force, the edge making a considerable indentation in the hard wood. The explosion occurred in the rear room of the saloon. It jarred the whole building, broke out one of the panes of glass in the window on Dock street, and knocked down a number of bottles of liquor on shelves behind the counter. Mr. Gieschen's eyebrows and moustache were burned off, but fortunately his eyes were not injured, and his physician says he will be all right in a few days.

A LIVELY MEAT MARKET.

Hams Selling for Five Cents Apiece, Including Trimmings. The meat market was lively yesterday. At least that portion of it contained in a box on a dray near the STAR office was strong, live hams—hams that could crawl across the street—were selling for five cents apiece. Not five cents a pound, mind you, but five cents for a whole ham. Two "devils" from the STAR office tried to sample them, but were met by such a storm of indignant protests from the inhabitants of the hams that they were forced to desist. Not so, however, with the sons of Ethiopia who crowded around the dray while the persuasive vender assured them that "them hams was sweet and extra fine," and that "them little critters which they saw crawl'n' aroun' never tackled anything but a frustrate ham." The "brothers in black" reached deep down into the recesses of their pants and drew forth their nickels with a celerity that boded no good to the lively skippers. They "went the whole hog," werrums and all. The menu of the colored brother to-day will consist mainly of bugged ham with skipper sauce.

RICE COMPETITION.

Heavy Movement of Rice in Japan. The annexed extract from an official report of the United States consul at one of the principal Japanese ports will prove interesting to many readers of the STAR who are engaged in the cultivation of rice: "The reports concur in estimating the yield of rice this season as unusually large; 178,701,500 bushels is a good average crop, but this year as much as 248,145,000 will probably be produced. If this estimate be realized, the quantity of rice available for export will not be far short of 74,445,500 bushels, which is believed to be more than America and Europe can possibly take, and is about ten times as much as the largest export hitherto made in any one year from Japan."

DR. MOSES D. HOGE.

Interesting Sketch of Rev. Moses D. Hoge, D. D., of Richmond. The following extract from the Richmond Dispatch on the eve of the celebration of the 45th anniversary of Dr. Hoge's pastorate, will interest our readers on the occasion of his visit to our city: The Rev. Dr. Moses D. Hoge will, on February 27th, have been pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church, in this city, forty-five years. The event will be celebrated on the evening of that day, and arrangements for it are being made by a committee of which Mr. C. R. Barksdale is chairman. Among those who will be invited to attend are the Rev. Dr. John Hall, the Rev. Richard J. Storrs and the Rev. Dr. Palmer. The Rev. Dr. Hoge has been a prominent figure in Richmond ever since 1844. In 1839, at the age of nineteen, he had graduated at Hampden-Sidney College, and after taking the course of the Union Theological Seminary, was called as assistant at the First Presbyterian Church in Richmond in 1844. Under his charge a colony was organized from the parent church and was organized as the Second Church in 1845. Here he has faithfully ministered for forty-five years, caring for a large and influential congregation, acquiring a reputation of a leader in thought and eloquence, not only in the Church in the South, but among Presbyterians in the United States, and denouncing the professors of other fields due to that reputation. He is full of the Scotch blood of his ancestors, and when he fearlessly ran the blockade during the civil war to England for the purpose of obtaining Bibles and other religious works for the Confederate army, his application to the British and Foreign Bible Society was strongly urged by the Earl of Shaftesbury, and the latter was largely responsible for his obtaining four thousand pound's worth of Bibles and testaments. Dr. Hoge made many friends there, and widened and strengthened his acquaintances when he later travelled throughout Europe and was a delegate to the Pan-Presbyterian council in Edinburgh in 1877 and in London in 1888. He was also a delegate to the Evangelical Alliance in Philadelphia in 1873, and is frequently called to make addresses before church, scientific and literary bodies in many parts of the country. At the recent meeting of the Christian Alliance in Boston he was a marked figure, and his address was highly commended by the press of that city. He made an address in 1875 at the unveiling of the Stonewall Jackson statue in Capital Park, which was presented to the Commonwealth by an English gentleman. Dr. Hoge belongs to a family of ministers. His grandfather, Moses Hoge, after serving for a short time in the continental army during the Revolution, entered the Presbyterian ministry and became President of Hampden-Sidney College, a position afterward tendered to his uncle, James Hoge, who was a clergyman, and was the pioneer of the temperance movement in Ohio. His father, Samuel Davies Hoge, besides being a clergyman, was for a time Vice President of Hampden-Sidney and afterwards acting president of the Ohio University. His brother, William James Hoge, was for some time pastor of the Presbyterian Church at Petersburg, where he died in 1864.

Dr. Hoge will preach at the First Presbyterian Church on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings at 8.15, and on Sunday at 11 a. m. and 8 p. m. We are requested to state that the seats in the church are absolutely free, and that special arrangements have been made for accommodating the congregations.

BY RIVER AND RAIL.

Col. Jno. W. Atkinson, agent for the insurance underwriters, went down to Southport yesterday to inquire into the condition of the steamer Le Monte which put in at that place Monday morning with her cargo of cotton on fire. Col. Atkinson returned to the city last evening. Capt. Quick, the master of the steamer, has succeeded in extinguishing the fire which was confined to the cotton in the forward compartment. About seventy-five bales had been taken out, and it was intended to remove all the damaged cotton, which will then be brought to Wilmington and sold for the benefit of all concerned. Capt. Quick expected that the Le Monte would sail from Southport this morning for her destination.

RIVER AND MARINE.

The schooner Morancy, 188 tons, of Boston, bound from New York to Wilmington, N. C., with general cargo, was towed into Norfolk Sunday by the tug E. Luckenbach, having picked her up at Thimble Light. The Morancy was in collision at 1.30 a. m. Saturday with the schooner Augustus Hunt, of Bath, Me., off Body Island, W. S. W. 15 miles. Capt. Wilson, of the Morancy, has protested with H. L. Cannon. He says that his schooner had her bowsprit, jibboom, outer jib, flying jib and everything forward carried away, and waist and forecastle deck broken. A survey was held on her and repairs ordered. No serious damage was done to the Hunt as far as known. Capt. Wilson says his lights were up and burning brightly, and that the Hunt was sailing free and no light visible. The U. S. lighthouse supply steamer America was at Southport Monday. The yacht Coronet, which put in at Southport last Monday to land the owner of the vessel, who left for the North by rail, put to sea again Monday night.

THE CONOLY MURDER.

Fuller Details of the Preliminary Trial at Mill Prong—A Missing Link in the Chain of Evidence Against McDougald. The STAR has already announced the honorable discharge, at Mill Prong, of the three men suspected of the murder of Mr. Simeon Conoly; but the following fuller details from the Red Springs Scottish Chief will be read with interest particularly the paragraph in reference to D. A. McDougald, who is mentioned as "the party who has fled": "The preliminary trial of Messrs. Millard Moore, Wm. Parnell and John Kelley for complicity in the murder of Simeon Conoly, was held yesterday before Justices Purcell and McMillan, at Mill Prong, in this county. The State was represented by John D. Shaw, Jr., of Laurinburg, Walter H. Neal, Esq., of Laurinburg, appeared for Kelley, and H. McMillan, of Red Springs, for Moore and Purcell. "About ninety witnesses were in attendance, and the trial, commencing at 10 a. m., lasted till dark, and resulted in the honorable discharge of the three defendants. The crowd during the day was estimated as high as five hundred, and though the excitement was intense there was no disturbance and the discharge of the prisoners gave perfect satisfaction to all present. "It is much to be regretted that innocent men were in jail for a week, charged with murder. "Circumstances point to another party as the murderer, and the evidence is exceedingly strong against him. One of the State's witnesses yesterday gave a bit of testimony which supplies a link in the chain of evidence against the party who has fled. "We trust that the real murderer may be apprehended and brought to justice. "Public sympathy is with the friends of the murdered man, who was a kind gentleman, a Confederate soldier, and held in high esteem."

A REAL ESTATE POINTER.

Evidence of a Healthy Advance—The Carolina Central Office. There is no "boom" in real estate in Wilmington, but the advance in that class of property has been steady, substantial and healthy. As an evidence of this it may be stated that an offer approximating $15,000 cash has recently been made for the property on Front street owned by the Carolina Central Railroad Company, and now occupied as offices. It was sold a few years since for $10,000. An advance of fifty per cent. since that sale shows that desirable real estate located anywhere in Wilmington is much more valuable than it was a few years ago. The offer was declined, and the property is not for sale. This would seem to set at rest all rumors that the Carolina Central people would remove their offices to some other point on the Seaboard Air Line. Wilmington and Norfolk are the only two seaports on the lines of the Seaboard system, and it does not seem that either could be ignored; but there has been some talk about the removal of the offices.

STEAMER LE MONTE.

The Fire All Out—The Vessel to Sail To-Day. Col. Jno. W. Atkinson, agent for the insurance underwriters, went down to Southport yesterday to inquire into the condition of the steamer Le Monte which put in at that place Monday morning with her cargo of cotton on fire. Col. Atkinson returned to the city last evening. Capt. Quick, the master of the steamer, has succeeded in extinguishing the fire which was confined to the cotton in the forward compartment.
