OUTLINES.

A railroad bridge across the river Moenenen in Switzerland, gave way under the weight of an excursion train that was crossing it, and three cars and two engines were plunged into the stream; all the railroad employees and 100 passengers were drowned and 100 or more injured. — While the Inman Line steamer City of Richmond was at sea last Tuesday night bound from New York to Queenstown, fire was discovered among two thousand bales of cotton in the hold; the passengers were aroused and preparations made for abandoning the vessel; after fighting the flames four days the steamer arrived at Queenstown. — The grand jury at Hampton, Va., found a true bill for murder against young Haines, who killed Edward Hannegan. — The U. S. steamer Charleston, conveying the Chilean steamer Itata, has sailed from Liqueur for San Diego, Cal. — The yacht Amelia sunk in collision with a tug-boat on the Hudson river; two men were drowned. — Yesterday was the hottest day in June on record in New York and the New England States; at Providence, R. I., the mercury reached 107 degrees; in New York, 97½°. — Bismarck and Gladstone both are sick. — It is rumored that the Prince of Wales will soon figure in a divorce suit. — Rev. F. D. Lee, of Alexandria, Va., killed his nine-year old son and then committed suicide, in a fit of insanity. — New York markets: Money easy at 2½ per cent.; cotton quiet; middling uplands 8 15-16 cents; middling Orleans 8 15-16 cents; Southern flour dull and weak, common to fair extra $4.00 @ 4.60; wheat unsettled and moderately active, closing steady; No. 2 red $1.07½ @ 1.08½ in store and at elevator; corn firm, quiet and scarce; No. 2, 66½ cents at elevator; spirits turpentine steady and quiet at 38½ @ 39½ cents; rosin dull; strained, common to good, $1.45 @ 1.50.

We are not authorized to speak for Mr. Blaine, but we have no hesitation in saying that he will not accept a nomination—if he don't think he can be elected. A whip trust is the latest. The big whip manufacturers have got the rattan supply cornered, so the little whip fellows can't reach it, and have run up the price of whips. This is a literal illustration of whipping the buyers in. Brayer Shepard, of the New York Mail and Express, rises to remark that "the crop of lies will never be a failure." Well, hardly, while the earth continues to produce geniuses of the Shepard order, who show such remarkable talent and success in discovering things that ain't so. A debating society out in Missouri has decided the question, "why leaves fall to the ground." After an elaborate debate it was satisfactorily demonstrated that as the leaves had to fall some time and as they couldn't fall anywhere else they had to fall to the ground, and the decision was so rendered. Major McKinley says the "brave men who saved the Nation" waited long and patiently for their pensions. And so did the army of thirty odd thousand pension sharks that are scattered through this country, but they got in their work by degrees, and got it in solid at the last whack. And they haven't abandoned hope of getting in some more work in the sweet by and bye, if they ever succeed in getting another Republican Congress. The average French paper shows great tact in keeping up with American affairs. The latest illustration of how they cover the field has been given by a Paris journal which informs its readers that "one Crane, an American actor, has been elected to the United States Senate 500 times." Crane as "Senator" has a pretty dead sure thing, and will probably be elected several hundred times more.

Baron von Oldenell, hankering for the national beverage, meandered into a New York beer house and called for von lager. It came foaming like a thing of life. But the Baron who was after the solid and not the airy substance, gently remonstrated with the beer boss that "dere vas too mooch poobles on dose beer," and two minutes later he found himself standing on his head with the simple hint that "we don't allow somepody to make some remarks about dose poobles. Dose poobles is all right."

The horned bull, especially when excited or when his angry passions are aroused does not enjoy the reputation of showing discriminating judgment. One a few days ago in Maryland took umbrage at his owner's entering the pasture and without any previous intimation lit into the old man and doubled him up on the green sward. The old man became highly indignant at this unwarranted familiarity, and when his frisky assailant made a pass a second time he grabbed him by the horns and before the surprised bull knew what he was up to the enraged Marylander had the stuffing almost kicked out of him with his boots. When the bull was last heard from he had jumped four fences and was making a bee line for the State of Pennsylvania, and the old man was standing almost killing himself laughing.

Will Blaine accept a nomination for the Presidency? Will a duck swim?

Street Sprinkler. The street sprinkler ordered by the Committee on Streets and Wharves of the Board of Aldermen arrived yesterday and will be put in service as soon as possible. It is similar to the sprinklers used in Northern cities, and will hold 350 gallons of water. It requires a two-horse team to pull it. The Committee will have the thanks of the community if this machine will keep down the dust.

Where Were the Truck Horses? When the alarm of fire was turned in yesterday morning the Wilmington Hook and Ladder truck, it was found, was not available—the team being so far from the truck house, in the service of the street department, that the driver did not hear the alarm. This has happened one or twice before lately, and is a matter that should be remedied.

The fire broke out on the second floor of the house in a room occupied by San Lee, a Chinese laundryman. The bedding in the room was discovered to be in a blaze, and the fire communicated to the ceiling. It was put out with buckets of water by the firemen and others, and the damage was trifling. The property belongs to the Bettencourt estate—wooden frame buildings that have stood so long in the business centre of the city that they are considered proof against fire.
